RAWDON

Interesting Talk Of Western Trip Heard by W.I.

Rawdon—Mrs. Harry Vandervoort entertained River Valley Women's Institute for the September meeting with about thirty-five in attendance which included several visitors.

The president, Mrs. Don Donohoe presided and the meeting opened with the usual devotional and business.

A delightful letter was read from one of the members, Mrs. Clarence Chard, who is holidaying in England. It gave a vivid picture of a day spent at Bristol, when she attended their institute meeting that afternoon and was thrilled to be in attendance when the box of sugar from River Valley W.I. was opened at that meeting and distributed. Mrs. Chard is having a very enjoyable holiday in the old land.

A message from Mrs. Kent re "The Blue Cross" was read. Several snaps of the fiftieth anniversary in June were on display. Plans were made to attend the special meeting Wednesday evening at Mrs. Clarence Holmes.

The afternoon tea to be held in October at the home of Mrs. Percy Utman will be from 3 to 5 p.m. with invitations to all branches in West Hastings district. Everyone is welcome to attend. There will be home cooking and a "hidden bargain" table.

The October meeting will be Thursday, Oct. 5th at home of Mrs. Ed. Kent, based on "Home Economics and Health."

Gives Talk on Trip

Mrs. Ralph Utman introduced the guest speaker Mrs. Carl Clancy, Wellman's, who gave a graphic picture of her trip to the west.

Mrs. Clancy introduced her friends from Wellman's, Mrs. Chumbley, Mrs. Pollock, Mrs. Jackman and Mrs. Doug Clancy also Mrs. Caskey from Murray.

By means of various maps and a large array of scenic postcards and snapshots, also various samples of wheat, holly and cotton all cellophane covered, the trip was unfolded and the ladies thoroughly enjoyed her graphic description and almost travelled along themselves.

Mr. and Mrs. Clancy left by motor in early June and spent several months en route. They slept in their car the greater part of the time and enjoyed many side trips off the beaten track.

They travelled via Sarnia, Wisconsin, Michigan, viewed the Iron River and artesian wells. She described the city of Duluth which is built on a terrace. They drove to the source of the Mississippi River where it was only a small stream like Rawdon Creek and then later they viewed the same river where it was sixty-five miles wide.

From here they spent two days driving to Emerson, Manitoba, where there were lots of elevators.

The streets of Winnipeg have an island in the centre as they are very wide. The motorist leaves one side when the red light signals and then travels to the island, here he waits for the signal again. They visited the experimental farms at Brandon, Manitoba, and Indian Head. Then they visited cousins at North Battleford with no trees anywhere. Then on to Lloydminster and Edmonton. They got a special permit to go through all the parks at Jasper and visited the Sulphur Spring where one side is hot and the other cold.

The speaker visited Mount Edith Cavell, the Columbia ice fields, and beautiful Lake Louise. Mrs. Clancy described Kicking Horse Pass where trains make a complete 'S' also Radium Springs where there are no mosquitoes. Then on to Banff and Mount Eisenhower. All the streets in Banff are named after animals and Mrs. Clancy probably enjoyed this part of her trip the best.

Saw Calgary Stampede

She graphically pictured the Calgary stampede, the coal fields at Lethbridge, the Mormon temple at Cardston, also the Waterton Lakes where in 1932 a special dedication of peace for one hundred years between the two countries was observed. Here a flag of each country flies side by side at all times.

The trip continued to Montana, the famous Logan Pass, a drive above the clouds at noonday, and on to Spokane in the state of Washington. Here she saw the first arbutus tree, which sheds its bark three times yearly.

On to Vancouver with its famous Stanley Park, band shell, rose gardens and Totem poles. From here they travelled by boat to Victoria and came back by plane.

This is just a brief sketch of the 8,500-mile trip by car, bus ferry and plane and gave the members some idea of what they might see on a trip going west.

The trip home was by Yellowstone and time did not permit to tell of all the wonderful things to be seen there.

The convener graciously thanked Mrs. Clancy for her splendid travelogue which all thoroughly enjoyed and later they spent a half hour looking over the various exhibits of the trip.

Mrs. D. Donohoe gave a splendid reading entitled "My Neighbor Across the Road." Mrs. R. Utman gave a special demonstration "a fancy plate for afternoon tea" with ideas and recipes for sandwiches and cookies. Later one brand of cookies was sampled by all.

The lunch committee served refreshments and the usual ten cent fee was collected.

At the close the president voiced thanks for hospitality, program and lunch and all enjoyed a half hour social chat.

Greece Told Aid Will be Cut Off

Athens, Sept. 16 (AP) — The United States notified the Greek government today it will cut Marshall-Plan aid, because of dissatisfaction with Greek efforts to help themselves.

The American decision was made known at a conference between Paul Porter, chief of the economic co-operative administration, and leading argency officials with Premier Sophocles Venizelos and his coalition government leaders.

A spokesman for Porter said the Americans felt that Greece had not "done as much as it could to help itself, and therefore there was going to be a reduction in the amount of aid."

Greece originally was allocated $220,000,000 in Marshall-Plan funds for the current fiscal year. Amount of the cut was not disclosed.

Blood on the Stars

By Brett Halliday

Shayne straightened up and withdrew his hand from the glove compartment. "Sorry," he said nervously. "Wasn't anybody around and I didn't think it'd hurt any to sit in here a minute and pretend I was a big-shot like the guy that owns this heap."

The bulky man stopped beside the car and opened the right door with his left hand. He said, "Get out." He reached inside and slammed the glove compartment shut. "So you didn't think it'd hurt any if you snooped huh "

Shayne slid out from behind the wheel and closed the door on his side. The younger man came around the front of the car and looked at him intently. He said excitedly to his companion. "Listen, Blackie. Ain't this the dick that had his pitcher in the paper last week?"

Shayne started to turn away but Blackie caught him by the arm, needed suspiciously at his face. He snarled, "you're right kid. It's Mike Shayne. That tough Shamus from across the bay. I heard he was back in town lookin' for trouble." His right hand was in his coat pocket. He let go of Shayne's arm and took a backward step. "Shake 'im down kid."

Shayne lifted his arms to let the kid shake him down. He said mildly, "I don't care what you do just so you don't tell the cops I'm in here getting a busted fender fixed."

The kid felt over him carefully and said, "It's okay, Blackie. Do you think. . . ."

'I think he's too curious Blackie said angrily.

"You can see for yourself." Shayne nodded toward his sedan. "I can't go out on the street till that's fixed."

"Had an accident?"

"Little bust-up on Collins Avenue. You know I don't stand in with the Beach police and I'd just as leave not have Painter ask me any questions about that fender and headlight."

Blackie's eyes were narrowed end suspicious. I'll just check on that, Shamus. Watch him, kid." He turned aside to a pay telephone against the wall put in a nickel and called police headquarters.

He got the traffic bureau and said, "I'm checking on an accident this evening. Anything reported in the last couple of hours?"

He listened a moment, hung up came back with an ugly scowl on his heavy features and both hands planted deep in his coat pockets.

"You're lying, Shayne. What's the big idea?"

Shayne shrugged and said, "it could have something to do with a ruby bracelet."

The kid's eyes widened with anxiety. Blackie's scowl grew deeper yet. He muttered, "Wise guy, huh "

"I'm just trying to tell you that I'm back in business and I've got the same with the insurance people that I always had. If you know anybody that's got a ruby bracelet for sale, I'm ready to make an offer. Just pass the word around. That Mike Shayne is in the market and can be reached at the same old place."

"Jeez, Blackie," said the kid uneasily. "I don't think. . ."

Blackie said, "Keep your trap shut and watch him."

Blackie went back to the telephone and dialed another number. This time he put his mouth close to the mouthpiece and talked in a low mumble which Shayne could not hear.

He hung up after a time and came back to the detective with a pleased smile on his dark features, pushing his Panama hat up on his forehead.

Shayne said, "No hard feeling. I don't blame you. . ."

Blackie's left hand came out of his pocket in a swinging arc. Light was momentarily reflected from a pair of brass knuckles before they connected solidly with the side of Shayne's chin. He went down and out under the smashing impact.

A heavy hand on Shayne's shoulder shook him back to consciousness. He was slumped over the steering wheel of his own car and moonlight was shining in the window. There was a heavy stench of cheap whiskey inside the car.

The side of his jaw felt as though it had been kicked by a mule, and his ribs were sore. He straightened up groggily and turned to look into the broad face of a uniformed policeman leaning in through the open window.

"H'lo, officer," he muttered. "Where am I? What. . .?"

"Mike Shayne!" the cop said with incredulity. 'Passed out like a high school kid. You feel all right?"

"I feel terrible," Shayne lifted his hand to tentatively waggle his jaw. "Did a house fall on me?

"You must have got that lick on the jaw when you ran off the road and hit this culvert." The policeman turned on a flashlight and sent the beam forward to show Shayne the front end of his sedan crashed against the concrete abutment of a culvert. "Probably would of broke your neck if you hadn't been boozed when it happened."

Shayne shook his aching head and groaned and moved cautiously from behind the wheel to step out. The uniformed man supported him with a hand under his elbow as he swayed dizzily. The night air was cool and it drove the fumes of the whiskey away. The front of his clothing was still damp where the liquor had been poured over him. He turned slowly, staring around him and again asked, "where am I? You're Jim Rawson, aren't you?"

"Yeh. I'm Rawson. You're on Delaware Road close to the Bay. Do you remember crashing into the culvert?"

Shayne shook his red head slowly from side to side. He reached in his shirt pocket for a cigaret, but his pack was soggy with whiskey. Rawson offered his pack, and struck a light when Shayne put a cigaret between his lips.

"Lucky I happened to drive this way," Rawson said. "I didn't know there was enough liquor in the world to pass you out cold like that."

Shayne laughed shortly and blew his breath in the officer's face. Rawson put his hand on his shoulder and said, "Man, you haven't been drinking. What the devil. . .?"

"I get myself slugged . . .but good." Shayne made a savage gesture with his big right hand. "Somebody planted me there in my car while I was out, and poured whiskey all over me."

"Where'd it happen? Who did it?"

Shayne's brain was clearing. Slowly he began remembering everything. He decided the boys had taken turns kicking him while he was knocked out on the concrete floor of the garage. He said. "I've always buried my own dead Rawson. Do you have to make a report on this?"

"Well, I guess I don't have to" the policeman answered uncertainly. "If you don't want to sign a complaint. . ."

"We'll skip the whole thing." Shayne stood erect and drew in a deep breath, wincing with pain as his bruised body muscles protested. "Let's see how bad the damage to the car is."

Officer Rawson switched on his flashlight again and they went to inspect the condition of the car. It looked about the same as it had back in Mickey's garage. "Axle may be knocked out of line, but I don't believe the steering rods are bent." Rawson said after a cursory examination. "Look like it'd drive okay."

"What time is it?"

"Little past midnight."

"Know any all-night garage where I might get it fixed?"

"There's one down on Soutn Beach stays open at night. Mickey's Garage. Only one I know of on the beach. It's at. . ."

"I know where it is," Shayne growled. "In fact I've got a cash deposit up there I might as well use." He turned and stalked back to the open door of the car.

The patrolman followed him shaking his head dubiously. "You sure you can drive?"

Shayne said "No." He set his teeth together hard against the pain as he folded his long legs behind the wheel. His key was in the ignition. He turned it on and started the motor. The officer closed the door and stepped back. "Back it out easy and take it slow," he advised. "I'll follow along to see it goes all right."

Shayne said "thanks. You're a pal. I won't forget this, Rawson." He backed away from the concrete abutment, drove forward and took the first turn to the left toward South Beach.

The neon sign in front of Mickey's Garage was dark when he reached it. He parked in front of the entrance, clambered out

PICTON

Events at Fair Cancelled Due To Heavy Rain

Picton — Practically all events at Picton Fair had to be cancelled yesterday due to rain which fell almost steadily all day. Hopeful of better weather for Saturday's closing day, the Fair Board planned to hold three horse races today, along with a horse show, vaudeville, rodeo and others attractions.

The bad weather has been a great disappointment to Fair officials, who had planned one of the best in many years.

Thursday, opening day, saw clear but dull weather, with 3,000 adults and 2,500 children in attendance. Warden C. Rollins, of Hastings, and Warden N. Whitney of Prince Edward, officially opened the fair. The bugle band of 6 R.D., Trenton RCAF, and the Lions Club Band of Trenton, led a parade of school children, carrying decorated banners and wearing colorful regalia. The afternoon events included a vaudeville show, calf club competition, tractor rodeo.

Havelock Band Present

Yesterday, the Havelock Pipe Band was in attendance and entertained about a thousand people who crowded in the main exhibit building. The vaudeville artists also performed indoors.

The rodeo attracted a crowd the first night, but was cancelled last night.

Visitors from a distance and officials have labelled Picton Fair as the best in any Ontario town. The huge tent with about 500 entries including 70 baskets, is a flower show in itself. There are 120 entries in the cattle classes which will be judged today. A large entry of light horses will also be judged this afternoon.

Sheep and swine classes were judged yesterday by Duncan Creighton.

Hundreds of Exhibits

The display of fruits and vegetables, includes many hundreds of exhibits, making one of the most colorful displays in many years. Judges state the quality to be exceptionally high.

The exhibit of poultry and bantams is outstanding with 436 entries. W. P. Marvin, Wellington, has a special display of pheasants and fancy breed ducks.

The first day was a notable one for the children. The Elks lodge in co-operation with the midway and the Fair Board, gave out 3,000 free rides.

Merchants' displays feature television, which attracts crowds. On the grounds is a large display of machinery.

Except for the weather, Picton Fair is the best in the memory of many of the oldest inhabitants.

Prime Minister Guest of Honor At RMC Kingston

Ottawa, Sept. 16. (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent has accepted an invitation to be guest of honor at the annual dinner of the Royal Military College Ex-cadet Club of Canada at Kingston, Sept. 30.

The opening program for the cadets will include a ceremonial parade in the morning and the annual yachting regatta in the afternoon. On Sunday there will be a ceremonial service at the college's memorial arch.

300,000 Persons Many of Them Natives, Pay Last Tribute To Beloved Field Marshal

(By HARRY O'CONNOR)

Pretoria, South Africa, Sept. 16—(Reuters)— Tears welled into hundreds of thousands of South African eyes Friday as the nation bid final farewell to "Oubass"—South African for old master—Field Marshal Jan Christiaan Smuts.

At the funeral in the Groote Kerk, Transvaal mother church of the Dutch Reformed Faith, the coffin lay in front of the pulpit before a massed congregation of country's dignitaries.

Outside the church thousands of bareheaded men and weeping women thronged the streets.

The congregation included Prime Minister Daniel Malan, and top government ministers, foreign envoys, and military chiefs.

All the general's children and six of his 25 grandchildren attended.

Mrs. Smuts, who is 79, followed the ceremony at home over the radio.

As the church organ swelled out in "Lead Kindly Light"—the general's favorite hymn—the military pall bearers raised the coffin.

To the sober strains of Handel's "Dead March", they moved slowly out into the sunlight, where thousands of silent mourners saw the coffin laid across a gun carriage.

Resting on the coffin were the general's sword, cap and Sam Brown belt of a field marshal along with a single wreath of heather from Mrs. Smuts.

A two-mile long procession led by armed vehicles and followed by 2,000 army navy and air force men then moved through Pretoria's main street to the railroad station.

At the station a 19-gun salute cracked the afternoon silence and a bugler's "Last Post" sounded as the coffin was put aboard the train.

An estimated 300,000 persons, many of them natives dressed in tribal costume, watched silently along the 45-mile line as the train passed on its way to Johannesburg where the body will be cremated.

CONSUMPTION INCREASES

Niagara Falls, Ont., Sept. 15—(CP) — Power consumption in Niagara Falls has increased eight per cent over 1949 figures, the local Hydro Electric Commission advised Thursday.

HIGH PRESSURE

The pressure in insect spray "bomb" comes from a gas which is sealed into the can as a liquid at low temperatures; at room temperature, the gas attempts to expand to about 260 times its volume as a liquid.

Two Are Killed, Shipping Damaged In British Storm

Worst Gales to Lash Britain In 25 Years, More Coming

London, Sept. 18—(Reuters)—The worst gales to lash Britain in 25 years blew themselves out early today, but were expected to get their second wind tonight or tomorrow.

The gales, reaching 82 miles an hour, were the tail-end of a cyclone that battered shipping in the Atlantic a week ago.

The storm resulted in the death of two men, smashed small craft, hammered sea walls, sank a pleasure steamer and damaged resort installations.

The 27,000-ton liner Georgic, homeward bound from the United States, was delayed 24 hours on arrival at Liverpool.

The storm ripped steel plates off a towed liner, the 9,000-ton Biscoe Nine. She was being towed from Lisbon to the Clyde when she was ripped from her tug and dashed on rocks near Campbeltown, Scotland. Eight crew members were rescued by Breeches Buoy.

A pleasure steamer, The Lady of the Lake, sank at her moorings at Lake Windermere in the northwest lake district.

Peter Hailey, 63-year-old watchman at Aberdeen Harbor, was killed when a 100-foot pole fell on his hut.

The body of Arthur Edward Winter, 78-year-old night watchman on a dredger, was recovered from the water at Southampton. He was believed to have been blown overboard.

Gales sweeping Ireland reached 70 miles an hour on the south coast.

Two Are Killed, Five Injured Near Pembroke

Pembroke, Sept. 18. (CP) — Two persons were killed and five others injured, two of them critically, in a highway accident east of here Friday.

Dead are: Mrs. R. A. Elliott, 58, of Copper Cliff, and Lawrence Lacroix, 2, of Pembroke, who died in hospital shortly after the accident.

R. A. Elliott, 61, husband of the dead woman, is in hospital with multiple injuries and his condition is described as "very serious." In similar condition is Elmer Kidd, 15, of Pembroke, with two broken legs, concussion and severe shock.

Also in hospital are Mervin Condie 22, of Pembroke, suffering shock, concussion, lacerations, fractured ribs and a possible fractured leg. Miss Doreen Sheer and Mrs. Renaud Lacroix, also of Pembroke, are in hospital, but their condition is not described as serious.

It was reported the car driven by Condie crashed into a car driven by Mr. Elliott.

Tells California Police He Knows Who Slew Oakes

Oakland, Cal., Sept. 18 — (CP) —A machinist, arrested on a drunk charge, told Oakland police yesterday he knows who murdered Sir Harry Oakes, Canadian mining millionaire, at his home in the Bahamas seven years ago.

Police identified the man as Edward Majava, 31. They said he told them the name of the man who bludgeoned the baronet but police declined to make the name public.

The Oakes slaying remains one of the most sensational unsolved cases in years. Count Alfred de Marigny, Oakes' son-in-law, was acquitted in November, 1943, of charges that he clubbed the millionaire to death and set fire to the bedclothes. De Marigny and Nancy Oakes, have since been divorced.

The Finnish-born machinist was picked up by police yesterday on the drunk charge. They described him as "very sober and very frightened" today.

Police quoted Majava as saying he received two threatening telephone calls after he had learned the identity of the Oakes slayer from an American society woman in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., two years ago.

"Both times a man told me to keep my mouth shut and get out of town — or else," Inspector James J. Mangini quoted Majava as saying. The police officer also withheld the society woman's name.

Two Are Fined $150 Each For Obstructing Road

Hamilton, Sept. 18. (CP)—In a sequel to the strike of civic workers which ended today, Oliver Hodges, Union organizer, and William Patterson, president of Local 5, Civic Workers' Union, today were fined $150 each on charges of obstrutcion. The obstruction consisted of lying down on the roadway in front of vehicles bring garbage into an east-end dump during the strike.

Churchill Plan European Army Will be Debated

Paris, Sept. 18—(CP)—Winston Churchill's European army proposal will be placed before the parliaments of 15 western countries, it was disclosed here today.

A spokesman for the European consultative assembly said the individual national parliaments will be asked to debate Churchill's idea and decide whether to demand action by their governments.

The year old 125-member Consultative Assembly, which can only recommend, approved Churchill's proposal last month by a vote of 89 to five, with 17 abstentions.

Suggested as a reply to Russian threats of aggression, the proposal called for creation of a unified western European army serving under a unified command and directed by a European defence ministry. Western German contingents would be included.

TRAPPED ON BRIDGE

Renton, Wash., Sept. 18 — (AP) —A seven-year-old boy trapped on a railway bridge east of here was killed yesterday by the Milwaukee Railroad's crack streamliner, the Olympian. Dean Harrington died under the wheels of the train as he tried to run 200 feet across the ties to safety.

Phone Lineman Climbs Pole, Cuts in to Get Help For Injured

Owen Sound, Sept. 18—(CP)—A quick-thinking telephone lineman speeded medical aid to a mother and son, victims of a car-truck collision today, when early arrivals at the accident scene were unable to get a call through on a farm party line.

Donald Capel, Bell Telephone employee, climbed a pole and cut in on the Owen Sound circuit to summon a doctor, ambulance and Provincial Police.

The accident occurred six miles south of here when a car carrying Mrs. A. J. Storey and her son, Roger, both of Owen Sound, collided with a truck which, police said, was driven by Chief Constable James McIntosh of Chatsworth.

Both Mrs. Storey and her son were severely injured and were rushed by ambulance to hospital here. Full extent of their injuries has not yet been determined. The driver of the truck was not hurt.

CRUCIAL MEETING GENERAL COUNCIL OPENS TUESDAY

Diplomats of 59 U.N. Countries to Assemble

Lake Success, N.Y., Sept. 18 — (AP) — Diplomats of the 56 United Nations converged on New York today for the crucial Fifth General Assembly opening tomorrow at Flushing Meadow.

Headed by foreign ministers of the Big Three and the North Atlantic Council who have been studying for a week how to rearm Germany, assembly delegates gathered for the meeting as news of the U. N. collective security action in Korea continued bright.

The Atlantic Council ministers meet today in New York expecting to announce before nightfall full agreement on the creation of an international army to defend Western Europe.

There were no indications last night, however, that they had found any compromise formula for including Gerdos in this.

While State Secretary Acheson of the United States has asked agreement in principle of German participation, Foreign Minister Schuman of France, so far has been unwilling to agree. Allied diplomats remained hopeful that the problem would be worked out within a few weeks.

The Big Three — Britain, the United States and France — will meet again after the Atlantic Council winds up to complete discussions on ending a state of war with Germany. The meeting may be tonight or tomorrow morning.

Tuesday's assembly is scheduled to be called to order by Carlos P. Romulo, Philippines foreign minister and retiring president.

Late arrivals will include Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky, and most of the rest of his Russian delegation, arriving in the Queen Elizabeth, due at noon tomorrow.

A minute of silent prayer or meditation follows the fall of Romulo's gavel. Then the Chinese communuist representation issue is expected to explode immediately with a demand from Vishinsky that the Chinese Nationalists be thrown out of the assembly and the communists seated.

Plugged in Vain

Red China's foreign minister, Cou En-Lai, sent another telegram to Secretary-General Trygve Lie yesterday demanding that the Assembly admit his representative.

Russia has plugged in vain in committees and in the Security Council for nearly a year to get Red China seated.

Vishinsky's move is expected before the Assembly can vote on a new president. Leading candidates to succeed Romulo are Sir Mohammed Zafrullah Khan, Pakistan foreign minister, and Nasrollah Entezam, Iran's chief delegate who was chairman of the important special political committee last year.

The two have agreed to match pledges before the meeting begins. The low man then will deliver his votes to the other to insure that another Asian will head the Assembly during a session that will deal with many Asian problems.

These include Nationalist China's year-old charges that Russia is guilty of aggression in the Far East, the future of Formosa, technical assistance for under-developed Asian areas, and expanded child care for Asia and Latin America.

Growing Belief Labor Govt. Wants Autumn Election Say Three London Writers

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Sept. 18—(CP)—Political correspondents of London's three evening newspapers said today there is a growing belief that the Labor government wants an autumn election.

All agreed that signs now are that Prime Minister Attlee's administration may precipitate a new election soon whether it wins or loses in tomorrow's vital parliamentary division on iron and steel nationalization.

The Evening Standard, which opposes the government, said in a front-page story the belief grew during the weekend that the Socialists want an early election. The Conservative Evening News and the Liberal Star published stories in much the same vein.

Some informed sources said a threatened Labor party revolt forced Attlee to risk defeat by putting the touchy nationalization issue to a Commons vote.

These sources said Attlee fully realized that placing the appointment of a government steel board before Commons in the midst of the defence crisis would expose his regime to an attempted knock-out blow by the Conservatives.

The House debates tomorrow a motion of censure against the government by Winston Churchill. Most observers believe Attlee's government will squeeze through the vote, but perhaps by the narrowest possible margin. But should Labor lose the vote, a general election would follow.

Risked Party Revolt

The Independent Sunday Observer had this explanation of Attlee's action in announcing the government plan to take over the steel industry by next January:

"If Mr. Attlee had proceded to announce postponement of steel nationalization, he would have risked a serious party revolt. The Labor M.P.'s who are uneasy about rearmament are mostly leftwingers, for whom the nationalization of key industries is a fervent article of faith.

"A postponement at the present jucture would have given them a double reason for mistrusting the government. They would have felt that the prime minister, having led them in a dubious direction with his foreign policy, was now showing himself to be not even a good Socialist in domestic affairs."

The controversial iron and steel act becomes effective Oct. 1 but the government could have postponed its operation. Instead the cabinet last week announced appointment of a seven-man board to run the industry and said it would take over about Jan. 1, earliest possible date under the law.

Food and Shelter Schedules For Unemployable in Ontario To be Raised - - Goodfellow

Toronto, Sept. 18. (CP)—Food and shelter schedules for unemployable persons in Ontario will be boosted in keeping with the higher cost of living, Public Welfare Minister W. A. Goodfellow announced today.

This follows a general review of regulations covering provincial grants to municipalities which provide for relief recipients on a 50 per cent basis.

Mr. Goodfellow also announced a new policy in the granting of an incapacitation allowance upward to $40 monthly shareable by the municipalities for persons who are physically or mentally disabled. At the same time provincial funds will be available to assist such civilians who require rehabilitation measures.

The major features of the new relief regulations, which will cost the province an estimated additional expenditure of $400,000 a year, are:

10 P.C. in Food Schedules

1. A 10-per cent increase in food schedules for all age groups plus a 25- per cent basic increase for single persons and adult members of families of two.

2. A 20-per cent increase in shelter allowances for single persons with a relative increase for families who require additional shelter payments.

3. An incapacitation allowance upward of $40 a month for individuals who qualify as physically or mentally disabled.

4. Rehabilitation measures in the form of occupational therapy or prosthetic appliances for incapacitated persons.

Plots to Murder and Kidnap Mentioned at Czech Trials

Prague, Sept. 18. (Reuters)—Plots to murder Defence Minister Alexei Cepicka of Czechoslovakia and kidnap Vice-premier Ludvick Svoboda were mentioned at a mass trial today when an alleged spy leader was sentenced to death.

The trial of an estimated 27 persons for espionage and crimes against the state was held at Gottwaldov.

Three of the accused were sentenced to hard labor for life and about 20 others, including six women, to up to 22 years in jail.

Evidence heard during the trial, which began last Tuesday, indicated the spy group was based on the three towns in Central Moravia.

The highlight of the proceedings was the description of a midnight plot to kidnap Svoboda, former Minister of National Defence and now a deputy premier.

The court was told that in preparation for the kidnapping a 23-year-old woman defendant, Milada Palova (alias "M-7"), employed as a telephone switchboard operator, tapped the telephone lines to security police headquarters.

A 31-year-old electro-mechanic threw a switch, plunging the town in darkness. A car was waiting to carry off the general. But the plot failed (for reasons which do not appear to have been in court), and many of the group fled to pre-arranged hideouts.

The death sentence was given to Jaromir Vrba, 30-year-old wartime partisan fighter, convicted of the murder of a security policeman and of being head of the spy group.

100 TERRORISTS ARRESTED, POLICE SMASH RED PLOT

'Volunteers of Death' Admit Part in Plot

Saigon, Indo-China, Sept. 18 (AP)—More than 100 terrorists were under arrest today after French and Vietnam police smashed what they called a communist plot to make a general attack within the city.

The outbreak was timed to start last night, authorities said. Informed of the plan, they blocked it yesterday.

Authoritative sources were quoted as saying the plot was cooked up by Ho Chi Minh, Moscow-trained leader of the rebel Viet Minh.

Police said the captured terrorists, described as "volunteers of death", admitted the plot. They said they were hired to infiltrate the city and begin a grenade and small-arms attack. Some terrorists still were at large today.

Only one grenade was thrown—by a terrorist who was caught trying to hide 30 grenades in a water cart to smuggle them into the city.

Sixty other grenades were found in vehicles checked yesterday, a French police spokesman said.

Not All-Out Effort

The planned attack was not regarded as an all-out effort to seize the city, which is heavily garrisoned. Even regular Viet Minh units are not strong enough to do that.

The terrorists said they had been directed to operate in teams of five to make their way to public places, under protection of armed associates, and toss their grenades and open up with the small arms.

Police said they learned of the plot three days ago when they arrested a terrorist captain. They said he admitted he was ordered to reorganize the Viet Minh underground terrorist and propaganda cells.

The captain said reorganization became necessary after successful police action against the organization weakened it considerably.

Police said other red terrorists may try to make a second attempt next Thursday through Sunday, anniversary of the Viet Minh uprising in Cochin-China, the southern province of the French-sponsored Viet Nam state.

Breaks in on Montreal Station CHLP With Fake News Soviet Leader Dead

Montreal, Sept. 18 (CP) — Radio producer Jean Bradley — the man who likes to shock the public —did it again last night.

Mr. Bradley produces a French-language show at local station CHLP called "C'Est Arrive Demain" (It Happened Tomorrow") Last night's broadcast dealt with the life of Joseph Stalin — and in the middle, an announcer broke in with a fake news bulletin saying that the Soviet leader was dead. The bulletin was credited —without any justification — to The Associated Press.

Radio listeners started telephoning newspapers and broadcasting stations asking about the death. To confuse things even more, another local station, CFCF, carried in its regular news report an item about radio actor Fernand Picora dying of a heart attack. Picora was widely known here for his portrayals of Stalin on the air.

Mr. Bradley's previous productions have featured such sensational hoaxes as the dropping of an atom bomb on New York City. The slaughter of United Nations troops in Korea and the capture of Montreal by Soviet paratroops.

A CHLP official said listeners are warned before the program starts that it is fiction, but the production is so realistic that many listeners feel that it is factual.

Maurice Goudrault, CBC district supervisor, said today he will study the text of the show and if complaints are lodged by listeners to the CBC, he may take some action.

Goudrault said he had already warned station CHLP not to produce shows that "might create a panic or an element of panic," among Montreal citizens.

American Forces 15 Miles Inland From Beachhead

Kimpo Airfield Captured And Held After Stiff Fight

By LEIF ERICKSON

Tokyo, Sept. 18 (AP)—American forces drove today to within three miles of Seoul, the north Korean-held capital of south Korea.

The U.N. spearhead was less than one mile west of Yongdong, a suburb of Seoul. The main striking force was on its heels.

A crushing weight of infantry, tanks, heavy artillery and bridging equipment rolled out of the Inchon beachhead 22 miles west of Seoul toward the front. They were massing for the assault across the Han River, Seoul's natural defence barrier.

U.S. marines held Kimpo airfield 15 miles northwest of Seoul against five red Korean attacks. Then they stabbed north to the banks of the Han. The airfield is in operation and several allied planes already landed there.

Without Artillery Support

The north Koreans defending Seoul were without artillery support but had some mortars, U.S. officers said. The reds were rushing reinforcements into Seoul.

The U.S. eighth army communique reported "all United Nations made general advances today (Monday) in all sectors against light enemy resistance. Only in a few small areas did the enemy offer stiff opposition.

On the southeast "defence box" battlefront, U.S. infantry crossed the Nakong River in captured communist boats and set up a solid beachhead on the west bank. Communists were reported nearby "digging in light hell in strength —at least a full battalion."

The jaws of the giant nutcracker were closing on 140,000 or more North Korean troops. Some already were reported in flight. Others fought stubbornly.

Allied planes showered 3,000,000 leaflets on the reds with the message: "Surrender or die!"

At Inchon, U. S. 7th Division troops rolled ashore from the 262-ship Allied task force which opened the second front last weekend.

U. S. Army combat engineers rolled heavy equipment over the Inchon sea walls and through shell-pocked streets to the main inland artery.

They raced against time to span the Han, a natural barrier before the surprised red Koreans could organize a defence wall on their main line of communication to the south.

Visits Front Lines

All through Sunday North Korean reinforcements from the north and south poured into the Seoul area. Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said Navy and Marine planes attacked them continuously.

MacArthur himself visited front lines. The United Nations commander calmly questioned officers on communist strength, chatted with the men, posed for pictures, distributed awards and compliments, inspected captured Russian-made weapons and ordered red Korean prisoners worked hard.

MacArthur insisted on visiting forward areas despite chance sniper fire.

The Marines drove out of their Inchon beachhead Sunday morning. They fanned out in two directions, east toward Seoul and northeast toward Kimpo, Seoul's main airport.

Eyewitness Report

Associated Press correspondent Don Whitehead reported from the front:

The reds sent two tank-led columns down the main road from Seoul to Inchon. The Marines and reds collided near Taejong town, eight miles east of Inchon.

Marines let the red tanks rumble through their lines in the morning mists. Then Marine tanks "behind cover and looking down their throats", blazed into action.

They knocked out six red tanks along the main artery and five on another road, bringing their two-day bag to 16.

Columns of Marines marched eastward around the burned hulks. Enemy dead littered the road.

"The reds were running so fast we couldn't keep up with them," one Marine outside Seoul said.

Nearly 1,000 reds were taken prisoner.

Action Taken Against Owners Of Crashed Liner

Blind People Enjoy Holiday At Summer Camp

"Blind people like everybody else" said Mrs. H. Rollins, First Vice Chairman of the Hastings County Advisory Board to The Canadian National Institute for the Blind, "enjoy going away for a summer vacation This summer the third season of the C. N. I. B. camp, made this holiday possible for almost 150 blind people."

Although this camp, which is situated near Hamilton, belongs to the Lions Club, it is organized and supervised by the Institute for the whole period the blind are present.

"This year, four registrants from this district attended the camp", said Mrs. Rollins, "and enjoyed the experience immensely."

Busy Day

A day at camp follows a rigid program just as it does at a camp for the sighted. It begins at seven in the morning with rising, through a day of group games, swimming, sports and entertainment. Handicrafts are taught at the camp by qualified Institute home teachers.

Games such as bingo and cards have been adapted especially for the blind by a department at head office, whose job is research in transferring sighted equipment to the use of the sightless. Song sheets have even been put into braille, for the use of blind campers, and lawn bowling has been set up in a special way for them.

It all takes careful planning but it does a great deal for the blind person. It is not just a holiday. It develops talents, restores confidence, and proves to the blind camper that he can really lead an active life without sight.

"Money donated to the C. N. I. B. during the campaign this month will make it possible for more campers to obtain this development, and for the research department to transfer more and more equipment from visual to tactual operations for blind people," Mrs. Rollins concluded.

Boy Fatally Shot, Second Wounded When .22 Rifle Is Accidentally Discharged

A nine-year-old lad was fatally shot and a second boy suffered a .22 bullet wound in his leg Sunday afternoon when the rifle was taken out on a Thurlow township farm Sunday afternoon to shoot pigeons.

Killed was Lenard McGrath, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McGrath, R. R. 6 Belleville, while Bruce Thompson, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Thompson, received a bullet wound in his leg. The McGrath boy died in the emergency room at Belleville General Hospital. The Thompson boy is resting comfortably today after having the bullet removed from below his right knee.

The accident happened just outside the Thompson back door. Eugene McGrath, an older brother, had been carrying the rifle when it accidentally discharged, the bullet entering the boy's back about hip level and after passing through the boy's body entered the leg of the Thompson boy.

Although the gun was owned by the Thompson family neither Mr. nor Mrs. Thompson were at home at the time of the accident. The Thompson boy and several of the McGrath children had been playing together when the gun was taken out of the house to shoot pigeons at the Thompson barn. Unknown to the boys, the gun apparently had been left loaded.

The McGrath boy is the second oldest of a family of nine children. An inquest has been ordered and will be held before Coroner Dr. G. S. Cronk.

Recall 'Battle of Britain' In Impressive Memorial At Trenton Air Station

Ten years ago a gallant band of Royal Air Force pilots in one of the most heroic episodes since man warred with man, sent their fighter hurtling into the Nazi-ridden skies over Britain, and administered a crushing defeat to the proud German Luftwaffe.

With heroism born of desperation, the fate of their beloved "tight little island" in their hands they surged to victory and death, clearing the battle-scarred skies of the Nazi invaders.

It is estimated that in that desperate battle against overwhelming odds, their numerical inferiority offset by their morale and training and the technical excellence of their Spitfires and radiolocation, the Royal Air Force had 733 pilots shot down, but many returned to fight and fly again.

Their spouting guns however, destroyed 2471 Nazi aircraft and 6,000 pilots of Goering's air force over the period of fighting in August and September, 1940.

Memorial Ceremony

Yesterday in impressive memorial ceremony and parade, the personnel of the Royal Canadian Air Force at Trenton paid tribute to the memory of those who "went west" in their flaming Spits" and those who lived to see the proud Luftwaffe finally shot out of British skies.

Under brilliant September skies, the trim-uniformed airmen stood in reverent silence at the memorial service held on the parade square, and later marched proudly past a reviewing stand where Air Vice Marshal C. R. Slemon, CB, CBE, with his staff, took the salute.

The Municipal Band of Belleville, immaculate in scarlet, blue and gold uniforms, provided the music for the service and for the march-past. The haunting notes of the "Last Post" rang out from its trumpets. The sparkling "Reveille" noted the end of two minutes' silence. The band was under the direction of Bandmaster Ted Robbins.

Impressive Address

"None who fought in the Battle of Britain counted the cost of the call of duty. Surely the hand of God was apparent, not only in victory but in the triumph of right over evil," Squadron Leader F. W. MacLean, command chaplain said in a brief but impressive address.

"We think with new gratitude and understanding of the gallant few of 1940 whose virtures are underlined. We recall their matchless valor and dogged courage. We remember them not in terms of mercenaries who fought for the pay alone, nor as conscripts who are pressed into service, but as men who preferred liberty and chose to defend that liberty no matter the cost."

"We take the roll of honor as a salute to their memory and remember that God used them to spit his purpose ten years ago."

'What God Did With the Few'

"We must remember what God did with the few" Squadron Leader MacLean concluded. He will do the same for you and your generation if need be in the defence of liberty."

The Lord's Prayer was led by Flight Lieut. W. K. R. Batty, senior chaplain of the station, who was recently posted from Aylmer. The scripture lesson was read by Air Vice Marshal Slemon while prayers of intercession were said by Flight Lieut. G. Heldey-Smith.

Lines of Commmoration ("We Will Remember Them") were read by Station Warrant Officer J. A. Silver. The benediction was pronounced by Flight Lieut. Batty.

Campaign medals and decorations gleamed in the afternoon sunshine as the ranks of airmen, the majority veterans of the Second World War swung smartly past the saluting base. In the marching parade was a squadron of RCAF Cadets from the Trenton High School. Overhead an aircraft formation roared in salute.

Following the service and march past, a large number of guests, civilian and armed services were entertained at tea in the new Lower Lounge room of the station by Air Vice Marshal Slemon and his officers.

Among those noted were Mayor Jack Allin, and Mrs. Allin and party of Belleville; Mayor Kenneth Couch and Mrs. Couch, Trenton; Alderman McLean Haig and Mrs. Haig, Alderman Angus Duffy and Mrs. Duffy, Belleville; Lieut.-Col. G. W. McGregor, commanding officer of the 9th Anti Tank Regiment, RCA, and Mrs. McGregor, of Napanee, Major Everett Fairman and Mrs. Fairman, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Franklin, Inspector A. McDougall, Ontario Provincial Police, Mr. and Mrs. Len Fozard, all of Belleville and others.

Shaw Says M.D.'s Should All Read His Prefaces

Luton, England, Sept. 18 (Reuters)—George Bernard Shaw today gave his doctors in hospital a lecture on Joan of Arc, Aristotle and George Bernard Shaw.

The 94-year-old playwright, a week after his operation for a broken thigh, was in a chatty mood despite some kidney trouble.

A bulletin said there was a slight improvement in his condition.

Told that one of his plays Saint Joan, was being broadcast tonight he said it was a good play—but really he didn't write it Joan of Arc said all the things in it herself.

Then he spoke of the famous prefaces of his plays.

"All doctors should read these," he said pontifically.

The aged dramatist went on to discuss Aristotle's observation on the unsatisfactoriness of man as a political animal.

Shaw broke his thigh bone a week ago yesterday when he fell in the garden at his home in Ayott St. Lawrence.

Veteran Hardware Man

Too Busy to Think of Getting Old Says A.E. Bottum, 90, of Bobcaygeon

Captain W. H. Bottum, 29 Catherine Street, who is 85 himself, has a celebrated brother, who observed his 90th birthday recently. The brother, Alfred Edward Bottum, lives at Bobcaygeon in the Kawartha Lakes district, and is still a hale and hearty businessman in that community.

The sage of Bobcaygeon is reported to be one of the oldest men in hardware business in Canada. He has been associated with the A. E. Bottum & Sons hardware store for the past 75 years. In an interview with a reporter on his 90th birthday, Mr. Bottum said that he got his name because the Prince of Wales visited Peterborough on September 6, 1860, the day he was born. The Prince's Christian names were Alfred Edward, and Mr. Bottum's parents named him after the Prince.

Operated Steamboats

Captain Elijah Bottum, father of the Belleville man and the Bobcaygeon resident, came to the Kawartha district, to operate the inland lakes steamboats. One of his boats was among the first propellor boats built.

The local man, W. H. Bottum, has long been an enthusiastic fisherman and hunter in this district, but failing vision has curbed his hobbies in the last year or so. He is well known in Belleville and the surrounding district. He and the Bobcaygeon man are the last of a family of five, two boys and three girls.

A. E. Bottum has had experiences that few men can claim. He grew up with his country, leaving Bobcaygeon Public School at the age of 16 to work in a lumber camp in Algonquin Park. Mr. Bottum said that the standard camp black strap molasses and fat black striap molasses and fat pork.

Became Store Owner

While still attending school, Mr. Bottum began his career in the hardware trade by working after four and on Saturdays in the George Stetham store. When he completed his schooling and had been a lumberman for some time, he came back to the hardware to become manager of the store, and finally its owner.

Bobcaygeon is now principally a resort town, but in the 1860's, Mr. Bottum said, it was "a real lumberman's town." He can remember when there were five hotels in Bobcaygeon, and recalls when lumbering ceased to be the backbone of the community in 1904.

Mr. Bottum's name will always be connected with the tourist business in the district, for he and Charles Stewart, the editor of the "Bobcaygeon Independent", went to the Indian reserve at Chemong Lake to find a name for the district. The Indians gave them the name "Kawatha", but due to an error, an extra "r" was added, and the area took the name "Kawartha."

Keen Sportsman

Like his Belleville brother, Mr Bottum has always been a fisherman and a hunter. He has gone to a hunting camp every year but one for the past 27 years, and two years ago nailed a buck. He has a summer cottage on Pigeon Lake, and a second one on Chemong, where he spends his summers. He still operates an outboard and an inboard, and still paddles a canoe.

An ardent curler for years, Mr. Bottum was a member of the two rinks that won the Dominion tankard in 1884. Since that time, he has been made on honorary member of the Ontario Curling Association.

In addition to his varied and full life, as a sportsman and business head, Mr. Bottum has been a driving force in municipal affairs in the Bobcaygeon area. Three generations of his family have been wardens of Victoria County and reeves of Bobcaygeon — his father, himself and one son, Roy.

In Many Activities.

Mr. Bottum is a past district master of the Masonic Lodge, honary president of the Verulam (Township) Agriculture Society, honary president of the Bobcaygeon Curling Society and honorary president of the Verulum Cemetery committee. He has been a member of Christ Church (Anglican) ever since it was built and has held the post of church warden.

Such varied activities have not prevented Mr. Bottum from travelling. He has been to the west coast, has been as far south as Mexico, and has seen New York.

Mr. Bottum married in 1886, and his wife, the former Emily Armstrong, died in 1934. He has two sons, Roy and Claude, one daughter, Mrs. B. E. Kelly, all of whom live in Bobcaygeon, seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. On his 90th birthday, more than 100 relatives were present to celebrate with him, some of whom came from Montreal, Belleville Toronto, Lindsay, and Peterborough.

Typical of Mr. Bottum's industry and presence of mind was his remark to the reporter who interviewed him. "Me 90?", he said. "I stopped counting birthdays years ago. Besides, I've been too busy all my life to think about getting old."

C.N.R. Brakeman From This City Loses Right Leg

Brakeman on a through freight passing through Oshawa, Carl Lathangue, 32, of 27 Jones Street, Belleville, had his right leg severed yesterday when he slipped off a gondola car and fell between two cars.

The injury was so high on his leg that it was impossible to apply a tourniquet, it was stated.

Ambulance driver Alex Boyd of Oshawa, said that Lathangue was conscious all the time and smoked a cigaret on his way to Oshawa General Hospital. Although suffering from shock and heavy loss of blood, doctors said Lathangue was progressing as well as could be expected.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Sept. 18. (CP)—Industrials continued last week's advances into new high price ground on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. A wide list of market leaders climbed steadily on gains ranging from fractions to more than a point as the average price level of the industrial board advanced to a new peak. Volume for the first three hours was 1,454,000 shares.

Papers paced the industrial advance. Utilities, agricultures, steels and liquors were also well ahead. Interlisted issues like Massey-Harris, International Paper and Hiram Walker's were leading gainers.

Several low-priced gold stocks were in strong demand. Keybocon, Porcupine Reef, Paymaster and Mylamaque traded briskly. Base Metals brightened quietly. A few leaders added small amounts in early dealings but profit-taking on last week's advances reduced the gains as the session progressed.

MARMORA

Four Projects Are Discussed By C. of C. Speaker at Banquet

Marmora—Members of Marmora District Chamber of Commerce ,with visitors in attendance, listened to a stirring address by Charles Bontock, field secretary of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce at the monthly dinner meeting held in the Royal Hotel on Thursday evening. President Alex Fraser introduced the speaker, who in his preliminary remarks, congratulated the Chamber upon its progress since the inception and referred to the growth of the movement which now had 675 branches across the Dominion.

Takes up Four Projects

Because in Canada we are facing an imminent growth and development, embracing the next twenty-five years, the speaker felt that in his remarks he should express some thoughts picked up in his travels across the province and confine his observations to four projects, the civic, agricultural, commercial and industrial. "It is fatal," he said, "to neglect any one of these four in a community even such as Marmora. Taking industry first, he mentioned that it is pouring in mainly because Canada is a stronghold of free enterprise.. Chambers everywhere need a strong industrial committee. A water and sewage system is being found to be a No. 1 requisite in every community. Every community is wise to bring the same into a concrete reality. Every member should be given a sense of its importance. Every community should know what it has to offer, should take steps to correct outstanding faults and every member should be working for it.

Build Good Relations

With regard to agriculture, the committee assigned to it, should be possessed of the importance of personalities. People living on the outskirts of town must be regarded as just as important as those living on front streets. Therefore good urban-rural relations should be built up.

Coming to Commerce, the speaker drew attention to the fact that in the past two years, there had been the change from the seller's market to the buyer's market. A retail survey had disclosed that in merchandising and retailing, there has been a little carelessness. The committee dealing with commerce, should be interested as to whether or not there was a sufficient range of stores and a sufficient range of goods in the particular community. It had come to the speaker's knowledge that because of price or range of goods, persons of one community travelled ten miles to another to make their main purchases.

Community Planning Essential

Under the Civic heading, Mr. Bontock stressed Town and Community planning as a vital concern to insure progress. Because of the lack of foresight and vision, many communities now were faced with the problems of parking, industries were mixed up with homes and other drawbacks were to be met with. This country, it is reliably estimated, will double its population before many years. For that reason, there should be a strong committee on "Town Planning" within each Chamber.

As his last thought, the speaker mentioned that we should raise our sights from the community level to the national level, avoiding the danger of apathy and indifference. Our country stands for the maintenance of free enterprise and the democratic form of government. Chambers should make representations to their member of parliament from time to time of what they, as a Chamber, are thinking of, with regard to legislation about to be enacted.

H. W. Sabine voiced the thanks of all present for the fine address.

Floyd Loveless as treasurer presented financial statements. The first was that of the regatta which showed a slight deficit. That of the general funds showed one hundred and twelve dollars on hand.

Ladies' Night

Initial plans were then discussed for Ladies' Night in October.

For the Membership Committee James Shannon reported the present number of members to be 62.

The meeting supported the suggestion of Rev. G. D. Young that the November meeting be assigned to "Agriculture."

Parking on the main business street Forsythe—came up for discussion. Reeve Lynch mentioned that this was receiving consideration by the village council.

Cocerning the Volunteer Fire Brigade, the Reeve also stated that it was hoped to have the Provincial Fire Marshal back for two days this fall for instructional purposes. The president suggested the holding of occasional fire practices as an additional benefit to the brigade.

In discussing the advisability of continuing the Hallowe'en shellout, Vice President Irwin McCoy's suggestion that last year's plan be followed was accepted. James Walker was appointed chairman of the committee with power to name other members.

Reeve Lynch called for an opinion on the reverting to Standard Time and those present unanimously favored September 24 as the date.

Some suggestions regarding safety on the highways were given an airing towards the close of a meeting interesting and helpful to all present.

Master Clayton Burke and Miss Fay uBrke has returned from a week's visit with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Shepherd in Toronto.

Winners of the weekly euchre party on Thursday evening sponsored by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion were Mrs. Robert Gawley (playing as gentleman) and Mrs. P. Brawley.

SECOND STAGE IN KOREA

The Korean campaign which has been building up since the opening of fighting bears striking resemblance to the landings in Normandy just a little over six years ago which heralded the collapse of the German effort in the West. Steady increase of the United Nations strength in Korea has brough the time when amphibious landings can be made and forces thrown with such might that strategic and marked gains have been reported. The second step of the campaign against the Northern Korean aggressors has come with resultant blows and gains of momentous import.

General Douglas MacArthur who was the great figure of the war in the East during the second world struggle has been fighting a holding campaign, securing his position and building up the power to strike blows which the Northern Koreans cannot withstand.

That is the pattern which was so familiar in the years 1944 and 1945 in the wars with Germany and Japan. In due time the opportunity has come to deliver the blows against the invading Northern Koreans.

The tenacity which the United Nations forces have battled the Northern Koreans, who were superior in numbers, and the steady strengthening of the U.N. forces which was to result in the United Nations taking the offensive, must have a powerful influence upon the nations of the world.

The stand of the United Nations to defend the rights of the South Koreans against their enemy has been a tower of strength to the influence of the United Nations.

General MacArthur is defender of the rights of the free people against whom the transgressing Northern Koreans hurled their defiance and has increased his reputation as one of the great military commanders of the age.

Events which will follow these first blows of the second stage of the first struggle of the United Nations to protect the weaker powers will be of the greatest importance.

The United Nations Organization is showing the world its courage and determination to safeguard the rights of nations and the authority and ability to protect. This is the first great opportunity to show how earnestly and with what determination the United Powers will carry on their obligations. The prestige of the U.N. is high.

STRANGE CAUSES OF FIRES

Causes of fires in the bush are numerous. Birds can be blamed by picking up lighted cigarette butts and taking them away to their nests, with the result that the nest and tree and its neighbors are set afire. A broken bottle has been seen to set a fire in grass, the glass acted as a magnifying glass and set the grass nearby ablaze. This instance was noticed and the fire stamped out before it could spread. Rangers have probed a fire to find that a tree, which had been freshly cut by a beaver, had fallen across a power line with the result of a short circuit when the fire ignited the trees. An unusual instance has been brought to light — lightning had struck a deer along the flank, the spark ricocheting into the bush which was like tinder.

Incendiary bullets used on a rifle range are said to have missed the target and set the woods beyond or the fields afire.

The Department of Lands and Forests investigators have learned much in their probe of the causes of fires which break out in the woods and sometimes cause deplorable loss.

DEEP WATER COURTESY

A "deep water" sailorman who has been properly indoctrinated with the ethics of his profession is at all times courteous and helpful to fellow-sailormen who are in difficulty or distress in the water. Such a man is the master of the "Texaco Chief," an Imperial Oil tanker, who took immediate steps to rescue three local sailboat enthusiasts who capsized in a strong wind in the St. Lawrence last week, says Brockville Recorder and Times.

In order to attract attention to the accident, the tanker blew her whistle, circled the trio to the windward to provide lee and would have lowered her lifeboat had not local help arrived on the scene and relieved the big ship of her responsibility.

The spirit of consideration and helpfulness which prevails on the deep water might well be emulated to advantage on the highway. The sailor can teach the motorist a lesson.

HOSPITAL FOR BIRDS

Delhi's Hospital for Birds — the only one of its kind in Northern India — is soon to have a three-storied building of its own to accommodate the growing number of sick and injured "patients."

Established 20 years ago by a philanthropic Jain family of Delhi, the hospital at present consists of a dispensary which stocks unani, aurvedic, and allopathic medicines, a general ward and a number of boxes which serve as special wards for cases which need segregation.

A full time bird doctor and dispenser look after patients of whom over 1,000 — pigeons, parrots, crows, sparrows and even kites — are admitted as indoor patients every month. For any patient admitted, sick or injured, tame or wild, no fees are charged. But after recovery the birds are not given back to their owners. They are set at liberty.

NAP-TIME

With the noon-time sun o'er head,
World wide over this is said
By some roguish little chap:
"I don't want to take a nap!"

Daily this has grown to be
Childhood's universal plea
Uttered at the mother's lap:
"I don't want to take a nap!"

Little girls of three and four,
As their mothers, long before,
And their fathers said, will say:
"I don't want a nap today!"

Days are short, and time for play
Oh, so swiftly runs away.
Children dread that two-hour gap
Known as "time to take your nap."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BANISH ALL FEAR

If the Christian religion stood for nothing else but the banishment of all fear, it would be well to embrace it for that alone. Jesus was forever teaching it, and admonishing all to "fear not". He was forever telling his disciples and followers that the Heavenly Father took car of all who put their trust in Him.

The happiest and healthiest people I know are those who live peaceful lives, divorced from all fear. The moment that fear is dismissed there comes a quietness of mind and heart that changes the whole world for us! How comforting is that line: "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is staid on Thee". Repeat this every night before you fall asleep and note how all worries drop away, as though by magic!

We only half live with a train of fears following at our heels all day long, and often far into the night. Over the grave of that inspiring author of "The Roadmender", Michael Fairless, are these words: "Lo! How I loved thee".

The child has no fears with the mother and father near. Neither should we have them, with our Heavenly Father always at our elbow's touch. Banish all fears. Most of our wild animals are easily tamed when they become convinced that no harm is meant them. They not only become friendly, but seek you out. It is a quick process, too.

Trust in your fellow being translates him into a new individual. You gain his trust, his faith. All fears that he may have had of you take flight! A wonderful kinship is at once made evident. In your Bible you will read that "perfect love casteth out fear." We are not alone when we are at peace, with all fears dismissed. A multitude of loved ones, in fact and in memory, cluster about us.

To live adequately is to live fearlessly. To do so is to own a heroic trait that, like a compass, will guide us safely through storm and stress—safely into our destined port.

Tie Gems to Legs Of Carrier Pigeons For Smuggling

Dublin, Sept. 18 — (CP)—Gem smugglers in the Republic of Ireland are reported to be reaping a small fortune by recourse to a new technique in transporting their wares.

Police say that homing pigeons are being used as carriers. The birds, with the gems tied to their legs, are being released from some Irish hideout. They find their way to a loft in Britain, operated by a gang of accomplices.

As there is no purchase tax in the Republic on jewelry, smuggled gems fetch a high price in tax-bound Britain.

Customs officials are keeping a close watch on shipments of pigeons to the Republic.

QUITE A SHOCK

Weston-Super-Mare, England—(CP)—F. Parsons, a retired tax inspector, played the football pools for years without luck. He died recently—four days after winning £11,000 ($34,100) in a pool.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By Billy Rose

READIN', RITIN' AND REDUNDANT

At 1 o'clock this morning, after 16 hours of making like Joe Executive, I finally climbed into bed, but instead of getting the sleep which refreshes, I whomped me up one heck of a nightmare . . .

I was seated at my desk trying to figure out some new capers for my cabaret when the switchboard operator called down to say that a Miss McNeill wanted to see me.

"Tell her the chorus call is Friday," I said.

"This one has gray hair," said the phone girl, "and says you were one of her pupils in P.S. 44 back in 1910."

"Oh, that Miss McNeill. Why didn't you say so? Send her right down."

When the old schoolmarm walked in carrying her umbrella before her like a bayonet, I was standing behind my desk, shifting from one foot to the other.

"You may be seated, Billy," she said.

"It's a pleasure to see you again, Miss McNeill," I said. "Is there any little thing I can do for you—like getting a pair of tickets for 'South Pacific'?"

"You haven't changed much," said my old teacher. "You still talk too fast and don't know what to do with your hands. What's more, you look as guilty as ever."

"Yes ma'am," I said, turning a neon pink. "I mean, no ma'am. I mean I'm not looking guilty. All my relatives use their eyes sideways like this, it runs in the family. Anyhow, this is certainly an unexpected surprise."

"Redundant as usual," said Miss McNeill reproachfully. "If a thing is a surprise, it can't be expected. But let me explain why I'm here. Several years ago I finally gave up teaching, and ever since it's been a hobby of mine to call on my old pupils and see whether they remember any of the things I taught them."

"I'm sure I remember most of what I learned," I said.

"Splendid," said the schoolmarm. "Suppose, for a start, you tell me the capital of Oregon.'

"Portland," I said.

"Wrong," said Miss McNeill. "It's Salem. Let's try again. Can you tell me what happened in 1501?"

"You mean 1501 Broadway?" I bad-joked. "That's the Paramount building where Bob Hope grossed a hundred grand in a week."

"Smart-alecky as ever," said Miss McNeill. "How's your arithmetic? If you were to divide a hundred dollars by six and seven-eighths, what would you get?"

"Search me," I said, "but it certainly wouldn't be enough for that pair of tickets to 'South Pacific.'"

My old teacher sighed. "How do you keep track of your accounts?" she asked.

"I don't," I said, "I've got a bookkeeper."

"And I suppose your secretary does your spelling for you."

"Pretty much," I said. "In my book, a spelling bee is an educated insect."

"Will-iam Rose," said the old schoolmarm, "it's evident that you've forgotten everything I ever taught you. Especially your grammar. I read your column occasionally, and you consistently use 'that' when you mean 'which' and vice versa."

"I wish you would straighten me out on that," I said, "so I could tip off the other columnists who use 'that' every which-way."

The old girl shook her head sadly. "I guess I'd better be going," she said. "Anyhow, it was nice seeing you again."

"Likewise," I fibbed. "I'll have the receptionist show you out."

"Gracious!" said Miss McNeill. "Can't you even find your way out of your own office?"

As we waited for the elevator, the old lady patted me on the head. "Be kind to those around you," she said. "Lord knows what you'd do without them."

I went back to my office and picked up a phone which was ringing like crazy. Before I could answer it, however, someone began to shake me, and when I blinked my eyes open, I saw it was Eleanor.

"You've been sleeping like a zombie," said my wife. "The alarm's been going for at least a minute."

"I thought it was the phone," I said. "I've been having a nightmare."

"Do you want me to fix you some orange juice?" asked Eleanor.

"Thanks, darling," I said, "but this morning I'd kind of like to squeeze the oranges myself."

Mackenzie's Column:

Plans Inaugurated To Start Program For Jap Treaty

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

Washington's move to inaugurate preliminary negotiations for a long-delayed Japanese peace treaty will be received with relief both by the west — especially powers having eastern interests— ann by Asia itself.

It's five years since the Japanese surrendered, and this long military occupation of Nippon has been seized on by some Oriental countries as a basis for repeating the cry of "imperialism" against the west. That is one of the major issues in Asia, and it has been the cause of numerous political upheavals that have followed the World War.

Many Far Eastern countries of course have a real fear of "imperialism", and in some cases with good reason. There has been exploitation of colonial peoples.

Moreover, there has been an amazing awakening of the Orient during the last few years. This has been accompanied by a surge of nationalism which has resulted in the independence of many dependencies from the "mother" countries.

Yankee Doodle

Naturally communism has been reaping advantages from this year and hatred of "imperialism." Moscow has seized on the American occupation of Japan as an example of United States imperialism.

There is no successful way of countering this situation as long as the occupation of Japan continues. The answer, of course, must be the framing of a peace treaty.

Plans for the pact already have been under discussion at the current meeting of the Big Three Foreign Ministers (Britain, France and the U. S.) in New York. The United States takes the position that the treaty should be framed by the 13 wartime Pacific allies, including Russia. However, Moscow has been insisting that the pact be drafted by the Big Four Pacific powers — the U. C., Britain, Russia and communist China.

A Poser

The question therefore arises whether, if Russia persists in this stand, the other powers shall go ahead without her. Washington has declined to cross that bridge until it is reached, but there have been strong indications that the non - communist countries will proceed without the Soviet Union if necessary, even though it produces fresh bitterness.

Such a separate treaty would create the curious position of Japan being in the western fold and technically in a state of war with Russia. However, that apparently doesn't worry Japan, since her leaders favor pursuing this course.

Gen. MacArthur, Supreme Commander in Japan during the five years, has stated that the occupation has achieved its aims. Responsible officials in Washington have made it known that the United States is prepared to urge a soft peace for Nippon. This would be without reparations or indemnity, and would have no restrictions on trade.

Moreover, Japan would be permitted to rearm gradually, and she would be brought into the United Nations system of global peace and security. However, American forces would be kept in the country by consent, and she would lose Formosa and Okinawa.

In short, Japan would be getting off lightly, compared with many other peace settlements. Still, five years of military occupation is considerable punishment.

GOD BLESS THE PSYCHIATRISTS

I often think the newspaper and magazine cartoonists have made life tougher for the psychiatrist than for the general physician or surgeon. The psychiatrist's office is always depicted as containing a couch upon which a very confused individual lies while the psychiatrist asks silly questions. The psychiatrist is pictured as a sort of Svengali —a mysterious and somewhat menacing person—usually appearing as confused as the patient.

At any rate, some persons resist their physician's advice to consult a psychiatrist—with the apparent feeling that in so doing they are admitting that they are mentally deranged. As a matter of fact, there are many personality disorders of temporary and slight degree, which have nothing to do with mental derangement, which a trained psychiatrist can manage much more efficiently than the general physician.

A visit to a psychiatrist does not mean that the patient is "wacky". And many psychiatrists have no couches in their offices.

The cartoonists have had a field day with the "truth serum" theme. They play up the ludicrous notion that a "shot in the arm" of "truth serum" compels the sweet young thing to admit that although she is engaged to the banker, she secretly yearns for the plumber.

It is all very funny, but I suspect that more than one person's opinion of the didoes going on in a psychiatrist's office has been conditioned by cartoons.

"Truth serum" is not serum at all Rather it is a name given by newspaper men to a common drug which reduces a person's caution in speaking. This drug has been used largely in the past and to a lesser extent today, as a preliminary measure to general anesthesia. It is rarely, if ever, used today by psychiatrists for diagnostic purposes.

One of the barbiturate group of drugs is currently employed by psychiatrists in an effort to release the strong disinclination to talk which many depressed patients exhibit. A small amount of this drug injected into a blood vessel may produce a somewhat dreamy state in which the patient loses some of his overpowering reticence. He may thus reveal an incident or experience which he would otherwise never speak of. This procedure merely acts as a short cut or time-saver. Incidentally, it is a hospital and not an office procedure.

The drug as such is of no value in restoring normal conditions, but is used merely as a means to an end.

Shock treatment is used in certain types of mental disorder with distinct benefit. It is not applicable to every mental disorder. The "shock" consists in producing convulsions and may be induced by the injection of drugs such as metrazol or insulin — in large doses—or by the passage of an electrical current through the head. This procedure invariably "tones down" an excited, restless and incoherent patient, even if complete cure does not result. Shock treatment, as given with modern technique, is a very simple and safe procedure.

Prolonged sleep—for days on end—induced by sedative drugs, has been used in certain cases of mental disorder. As is the case in any instance, the treatment is given only for specific reasons.

Considerable interest has attached recently to an operation known as "lobotomy." This is accomplished by cutting a small hole in the skull through which certain nervous pathways are severed. The operation has been successful in relieving many old, long-standing cases of mental disorder—at least to the extent that the patients operated upon have been enabled to care for themselves, thus ending difficult nursing problems. Recently, the scope of this operation has been extended with very good results.

All of these special procedures are reserved for cases indicating a specific need of them. A psychiatrist spends a great deal of his time "straightening out" minor disorders which call for none of these treatments. Personality disorders, fears, anxiety, apprehension and the like are all successfully treated by much less involved means. Many a person who has "shopped around" for years trying to find a cure for a mysterious ailment, has been promptly and permanently relieved by skillful psychiatric treatment.

In any case it is well to remember that one's mistakes, weaknesses, sins or crimes remain absolutely secret if they become known or are confessed to the psychiatrist in the course of a consultation or an interview. For that matter, the same secrecy binds the general physician not to divulge anything of the kind learned in his professional capacity. In this respect the confessional and the consulting room are alike.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In any sport, you can try too hard. Golf is full of duffers because they believe that concentration on certain basic principles of stance and holding will result in good performance. The fact is, those basic principles are supposed to be learned and then relegated into the background while, by easy and consistent practice, you become better, and then good. By trying too hard, you reduce sport to the vulgar status of work. In work, you can't try too hard.

For years, I tried to become a good wing shot. Some of the best gunners in the land cheerily coached me. But I invariably shot either where the ducks had been or where they were going to be: never where they were. I have eaten far fewer ducks than any man who tried half so hard.

But last Fall, I had a crack at southern quail shooting. I used a borrowed gun that did not fit me. The climate tired me. I was as slow as molasses in getting the gun up and onto the flying game. Result: I ate a lot of quail on toast.

For years, I had been trying too hard. There isn't a doubt in the world that most of my shots in years past, had been away ahead of the flying ducks. The easier I took it, the more quail I got. One of the gunners with me was an ardent tennis player.

"For about ten years," he said, "I played tennis as hard as I knew how; had the best coaches; worked like a beaver at it. By the time I was thirty, I knew I was a second-rater, and I lost interest in it. I even dropped my membership in the tennis club I had been so ardent a member of. Then I went to the war. When I got home, I needed a little exercise amidst the unaccustomed comforts of peace, so I played a few games. I didn't try hard. I let the hard shots go, and concentrated on the easy ones. In a few months I rejoined my tennis club as one of the best players of my age group. You've got to slow down to be any good."

RESERVOIRS OF POWER

What do we accomplish in prayer?

Well, we can be sure of one thing—we do not change God's will. We can be pretty sure that what we do is, first, that we make it possible for God to change our will, and then that we release certain spiritual powers without which the miraculous occurrences which make the life of a Christian believer resplendent can never occur.

Some people stress only the first of these—the fact that prayer enables God to change our wills. If we stop here, then prayer is little more than a helping psychological exercise. We must press on to something vastly more significant. Prayer not only makes a difference in us; it makes a difference in the whole situation in which we find ourselves. It enables us to lift up mountains and cast them into the sea. It rolls away the stone from the door of the tomb in which our despairing spirits have been confined. It literally raises us from the dead—from the death of hopelessness and from the death which comes from the power of sins over which we ourselves have no sufficient control.

In prayer we do not persuade God to change his mind; we give Him the opportunity to carry out his mind in our behalf and to turn into the sluices of our lives that power which flows from the reservoir of his infinite power.

Abroad With Me

By Dorothy E. Futcher

I left us eating breakfast in my last letter—let us get on with the day. By 10.30 we are all together once more in a sight-seeing bus, many of our Norwegian sisters with us in costume, on our way to visit a Norwegian Handicraft Shop.

You know the Norwegian work—the embroidery and the weaving. We see looms working on all kinds of threads, linen, wool and cotton. They have on display here the native costumes peculiar to certain districts, about eight in all and if you know Norway you know at a glance from what part of Norway the wearer comes. Some are embroidered just around the hem and the edge of the bodice—others have an all-over pattern of flowers, some are beaded in pearls, but all have the tight little cap embroidered to match. I learn too, that the large brooch worn at the neck is just as distinctive of certain districts as the costume.

We have a few minutes to shop, they have many lovely things to buy and the price is not excessive. I was able to buy a pair of woolen mitts, embroidered, for a little more than a Canadian dollar. We do have a time, managing the coinage of the different countries. I've found it easier to show them your money and ask how much of it they need for that purchase. We've been warned by Norwegians themselves, not to have any Norwegian money left when we leave the country, as it is not accepted elsewhere, and we would be stuck with it.

Then we visit Frogner Park where the famed Vigeland sculptures are. This park is unique—there isn't anything like it anywhere else in the world—it is a dream of the great Norwegian sculpture, Vigeland, becoming a reality. The plan is stupendous and is nearing completion. It covers acres of ground and the whole theme is the life-struggle of man. The gardens keep ascending—at each level playing fountains and statuary, and at the uppermost level, the gigantic plan of the whole is seen. The statues are larger than life size—and they are here by the dozens — depicting youth, adolescence and old age—and are truly amazing in expressing strength and emotion.

Many are critical, others praise, but it is truly the work of a genius and a Norwegian patriot.

For the next hour we have a delightful change. We are taken to a modern kindergarten that the Housewives of Oslo sponsor. Back in 1922 they started this project—a place where young children could play, be nourished and cared for. They financed the project themselves in its infancy, but the need was so apparent and the interest so intense that the government now pays 50 per cent of the operating costs. The Housewives raise the rest by a sale of their handiwork each spring. Building concerns and industries are generous also and co-operate in erecting the buildings. They have now 21 operating in Oslo.

The rooms where the children were working were delightful, a large stone fire-place across one end, easels here and there supporting small blackboards—even part of the room given over to a kitchen where little girls can pretend to cook and wash—and in another corner a bedroom with small beds, where they can put their dolls to bed. I thought at first I had never seen anything like it and then I remembered a modern school I had seen at Port Arthur and I realized we have something equally new and interesting to show.

We have about an hour at the Folks Museum and see beautiful and rare old tapestries, depicting the growth of the art of weaving in Norway. In another large buildings similar to our hangars we see three Viking ships, that have been dug up and restored, proof of the Viking era, 800-1000 A.D. You know the design—serpent's head high at the prow of the boat and the coiled tail high at the stern.

One in particular is in a remarkable state of preservation. It was dug up in 1904 and thousands of pieces had to be carefully handled to reconstruct it. They buried these ships by building mounds of blue clay all over them and then sodding it over to make it airtight. They were used as burial tombs for important people. Pets, such as dogs, and horses, were buried with them and also household effects. For you see they believed in Valhalla—the land beyond the seas, where the person lived again and would need his earthly possessions again.

In the ship discovered in 1904 was the body of a Queen of these early days. Her sewing chest was there and when they opened it the threads and materials in it were quite intact, after 1100 years.

This is more than a full day—at two o'clock we are guests at a reception at the Canadian Consulate in Oslo and our consul Mr. John Garland, formerly of Alberta, and Mrs. Garland, welcome us. It is a thrill to talk and visit with Canadians again and the consul and his wife are kindness itself. The Embassy is ideally situated — standing on several acres of garden and looking out across the sea.

And what a feast Mr. and Mrs. Garland had prepared for us. I wished that you all were with us table. The dining-room is very atto enjoy that beautifully appointed tractive, running along one side of the house. The table was easily 30 feet in length, covered with a lace cloth, centred with literally a huge armful of sweet peas and absolutely groaning with good things—Canadian at that. Mrs. Garland is unable to teach her Norwegian cook Canadian cuisine and had prepared many of the delicacies herself. We were almost ashamed—the way we enjoyed it all, for we were really hungry. You see we had breakfast at eight o'clock and now it was three.

Mr. Garland welcomed us warmly in his friendly way and told us something of how the future of Canada and Norway are bound together and hoped that the conference at Copenhagen would accomplish something worthwhile and enduring.

We went on to a reception at the Oslo City Hall tendered us by the Oslo University. This building is new, rushed to completion for the celebration of Oslo's 900th birthday. Oslo has two things of which it can boast they are not surpassed anywhere. That is the Vigeland Gardens and their Administrative Building. We were absolutely overwhelmed by its magnificence. It was started in 1926, taken over by the Germans and now finally completed in this year.

I took copious notes to describe its beautiful plan and murals but it would take pages to tell you. The entrance hall is all of white marble—a huge auditorium with pipe organ, and capable of accomodating thousands of people. Its walls are covered with murals—painted by Norwegian artists and depicting the growth of the country, the growth of the city, its industries, etc. The mural at one end of this huge assembly hall is the largest in Europe, 30 metres by 30 metres. Municipal rooms and reception rooms open off the gallery. The walls of the council chamber are of woven straw, a new industry the Norwegians are developing, and are in striking colors. All the curtains drapes and upholstry are hand woven, and women have been working for years at a single piece.

We were pleased to learn that of the 84 members in the municipal body, 21 of them were women. One of them welcomed us and I liked these sentences especially: "As women, we have a great responsibility, not only because we outnumber the men, but because of the great influence we wield in every walk of life. A single home may save the country by sending forth the rescuer of that country."

In one of the upper rooms are murals by the famous Norwegian artist Per Krohg whose work has been likened to that of Michael Angelo. He is the man who has asked to do similar work in the United Nations building at Lake Success.

Then after a tour of inspection which was altogether too hurried, for such an unusual and superb building, we were again feted with afternoon tea and delightful Norwegian pastries.

We have only an hour to freshen and dress, as we are the guests of the Housewives of Oslo and community at dinner at 7.30. The evening had been carefully planned for our pleasure. Between every course they had prepared entertainment. Nine Norwegian couples danced the old country dances Norway is determined to preserve and sang the songs that accompany the dances. All of them in a variety of colorful native costume. The women's choral class of the University marched in and sang several Norwegian songs in four-part harmony unaccompanied. Their caps are soft and have long tassels that hang as low as their waist, but they wear them resting across the shoulder.

Our Norwegian friends sing their songs and we sing ours—then we find songs we can all sing. Each provincial president has three minutes to tell of the Institute work in her province—we learn more of their effort, and the evening closes with Auld Lang Syne.

This is a long letter and it has been a long day. We learn with horror that our train for Stockholm leaves at 7.30 not 10.30 as had been scheduled.

Nurse Shortage May Be Relieved by New Training

Toronto, (CP)—A new kind of nursing course, combining two years' study with one year of on-the-job training, has started at Toronto Western Hospital. Seventy-seven young women are attending classes.

The course is a major departure from the traditional three-year unpaid apprenticeship, which requires a combination of regular hospital service and studies throughout. The Western students will receive all their academic instruction in the first two years and their third year will be devoted to full-time hospital work for which a salary will be paid.

The revised course, being tried out for the first time, is supported by the Atkinson Charitable Foundation through grants of $20,000 annually for five years. The ultimate purpose is to make the nursing porfession more attractive to Canadian girls, without sacrificing quality and scope of training.

Gladys Sharpe, Western's director of Nursing, has high hopes for the course.

"It's the only way to solve the nursing shortage," she said in an interview. "I'm hopeful that the fall of 1952 will see us with an increased nursing staff of well-prepared young women."

Members of the initial class have varied racial backgrounds. Austra Evele came here from Latvia. Esther Saisko is a Vancouver-born Japanese-Canadian. Barbara Lane is a Chinese-Canadian from Toronto. Maire Mattila was born in Finland. Harriette Trawin is a Canadian of Ukrainian descent.

Others in the class are: Mary Robertson, Shelburne, N.S.; Patricia Hale, Edmonton; Eleanor Croxall, Orillia, Ont.; Verla Casselman, Englehart, Ont.; Carole Gomoll, Levack, Ont.; Millicent Hunter, Huntsville, Ont.; Doris O'Grady, Timmins, Ont.; Lois Carlisle and June Scott, Owen Sound, Ont.

Still others are from such Ontario centres as Port Colborne, Alliston, Milton, Waterloo, Guelph and Palmerston.

Bank Employee Accidentally Shot In Left Hip

Bancroft— Accidently shot in the left hip when he stepped in the line of fire as his companion was aiming a shotgun, a 19-year-old bank employee at Bancroft was seriously injured last Thursday evening. The injured youth's last name was Vardy, his first name not being obtained.

The two youths, both employees of the same bank, had either gone hunting or practising with the shotgun about two miles from the village. As the one was aiming the gun Vardy is said to have stepped into line of fire.

The injured youth was taken to Bancroft Red Cross Hospital and later was taken to Kingston.

Longer Hair Will be Vogue In Winter Season

By DOROTHY WADDINGTON

Paris (Reuters) — Women who have followed short hair-styles during the summer now are resigning themselves to the troublesome business of letting it grow in again for the winter season.

Christian Dior's answer to this problem is to draw the hair back into a neat little bun at the nape of the neck. For evening, he adds a coil of hair or tulle which is swirled round into a small cone and posed just over the forehead.

Other couturiers have more flattering suggestions. Jacques Fath, for example, advises hair swept back without a parting, but curling flatteringly over the ears. Carven shows hair caught into a clip and falling over the neck.

Many other interpretations of the 1950 hair-do are seen at the smart French holiday resorts. But all have the one point in common — straight hair with the only curl, if any, at the end.

In jewellery, rhinestones are predominant, but turquoise, rubies, sapphires and emeralds are also used. Dior uses these colored stones for choker necklaces, as well for numerous pins which have a third dimensional effect. He places his pins on shoulders and cufs. They always match either earrings, necklaces or bracelets.

Few Pearls

Jacques Fath uses rich rhinestones all through his collection. At Lanvin's, large diamond leaves entirely cover the ears while the stems wind into the neck.

For the first time in many years, pearls play a very small part in the accessory picture. When used, they are combined with grey or colored pearls.

"Panta-Judos" Balmain's name for his pedal pushers for town, home and ski wear, are trimmed with a wide band of white mink, which shows below the skirt. Mink trimmings are often found in other houses.

Newest coats are in heavy woollen materials. They are most often fur-banded down the diagonal closing to the hem. For smarter models, at least a partial fur lining is a "must."

Large pillow muffs are purposed this winter. Smartest are carried with cloth coats with matching fur collar and pill box hat.

Dog lovers got a kick out of Jacques Griffe's forest-green wool coat with two huge pockets. From one of them, the mannequin produced a toy doberman pincher as she swirled in the salons.

Women's Extra Fat Not Evenly Spread

London, (Reuters)—Fat women are not the shape they are supposed to be, a clothing manufacturer said after measuring 800 outsize women at a vacation camp.

He measured women with hips from 42 to 66 inches.

"The accepted methods, handed down from grandma's day, have been to add an inch or two all round as the sizes get bigger," he said. "No-one seems to have realized that women do not all spread in the same direction, nor do they get larger all over proportionately."

Most women, he found, average 16 inches from neck to waist, with little variation. He said women's shoulders do not necessarily get wider as their hips get broader.

The manufacturer said he would use his data to prove the outside woman is not the shape the government says she is in its restrictions on the use of material in utility-style dresses.

BODIES FOUND

Anchorage, Alaska, Sept. 18—(AP)—Bodies of two crew members aboard a crashed C-47 United States air force transport that struck an Alaskan peak last Monday night were found yesterday near the wreckage by rescuers. A rescue squadron said they would continue the search for the other three members of the C-47's crew.

Flattering Black Velvet

By PRUNELLA WOOD

SOPHIE calls this silhouette one of her pets, and right she is that a neat waist, softly molded bodice and full shortish skirt, all make for flattery.

Add, as in the case of this model, luxuriant sooty black silk Lyons velvet for the silhouette's medium, and you have a high in feminine possibilities.

That individual, Sophie touch is in the wreath of cut-out leaf motifs which finishes the low neckline.

The skirt will keep its sweep above pretty ankles by means of a deep black taffeta hem facing, rustling and crisp.

Molyneux Closes London Premises on Doctor's Say

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London (CP) —Captain Edward Molyneux, British-born dress designer of Paris and London fame, is closing his London salon.

Molyneux, who made his name in Paris after the First World War —holding his own among such names as Dior, Fath, Paquin and Balmain—has shops in Paris, Biarritz, Cannes and Monte Carlo. The London premises were opened in 1932.

After 18 years in Grosvenor Street, the Molyneux doors will finally close in mid-November. No further orders are being taken but the workshop is completing all outstanding commitments.

The designer, who lost an eye in the 1914-18 war, has recently been experiencing trouble with the remaining eye. He finally accepted his doctors' advice against the strain of maintaining premises in both countries. For many years he has travelled monthly between Paris and London giving seasonal fashion shows in both cities.

First Break

His first break with London came this July when he found himself unable to contribute to the fall shows presented by London's big ten fashion designers.

His first trip to England since May was made for the sole purpose of personally conveying the bad news to his London staff of 350, many of whom have been with him for the full 18 years.

"He was terribly upset and returned to Paris immediately," said his sister, who has been his assistant from the start.

His departure will make it difficult for British clients to continue as patrons. The British travel allowance is £50 ($155). A day dress by Molyneux costs £50-60, an embroidered crinoline evening dress would cost around £160.

Among his London clients, 2 of the most famous are the Duchess of Kent and Princess Margaret. The Duchess has been a firm patron for many years in both Paris and London. Her wedding dress and trousseau were designed by Molyneux.

Women's Institute

PLAINFIELD W.I.

The Plainfield Women's Institute met in the evening at the home of Mrs. Claude Pryor for their September meeting with an attendance of twenty.

The president, Mrs. Clayton Hall, was in the chair and the meeting opened with the Ode and The Lord's Prayer said in unison.

Rall call was well answered with a "Current Event". Mrs. Bertrand gave her report from the booth held at the ball games which totalled $20.20 receipts. Mrs. Elliott reported on girls work and their parts taken at the Fall fairs. It was decided the Women's Institute get each girl who has completed her project a coffee spoon to match the silver teaspoon, the department had already given them.

The motto "The Only Way to Have a Friend is to be One", was given by Mrs. Prindle. Miss Mary Bertrand rendered a very fitting solo.

Mrs. Frank Hodgen, who had recently returned from the Teacher's Tour of 9,000 miles in fifty-two days, then in her very capable manner told and explained with snaps and photos of the many wonderful cities, towns and places she had been through. Her address was very interesting and well worth hearing.

A vote of thanks by Mrs. Elliott was tendered Mrs. Hodgen, Mrs. Prindle, Mrs. Pryor and all those helping to make the evening enjoyable.

"God Save The King" was sung after which refreshments were served by the hostess and her helpers.

Women's Activities

ST. PAUL'S LADIES' GUILD

Marmora.—The monthly meeting of St. Paul's Ladies' Guild was held on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Percy Eamer with a fair attendance of members. The president, Mrs. D. Robertson was in the chair.

Discussion took place on ways and means of raising money. It is hoped to have a series of euchre parties in various homes of members. It was decided to hold the annual fowl supper in October, in the Town Hall. In that connection a bazaar, candy table and fish pond will also be undertaken. The next meeting will be October 5, at the home of Mrs. E. Hewitt. The committee in charge served refreshments.

SOME BENEFIT FROM STORM

St. Petersburg, Fla., Sept. 18—(AP)—The Gulf hurricane which damaged nearby beaches last week did a few people good. Some property has as much as 15 feet of land added onto it. The New land came at the expense of less-fortunate owners who had great hunks of their property chewed away by the hurricane's high tides. Several valuable waterfront lots 80 feet in depth were shrunk to 50 feet.

BEAUTY

Factors essential to good grooming

Admiring glances come the way of women who is well set up, neatly put together, spic and span, fresh of complexion. You can't beat that type. She heads the list of good-lookers. Her features may not be of the best, but that lack is of no consequence. She knows how to take splendid care of herself; avoids fatigue that brings shadows under her eyes; is on her toes, r'aring to go.

Don't fancy that she attains this charming effect by wearing expensive drygoods and laying on the make-up with a restrained hand. There is more to the job than that.

There are physical factors that contribute to an attractive appearance. They involve proper food, a diet that contributes the elements necessary for vitality, with a limited amount of elements that build adipose tissue. Exercise and rest, in proper proportions, are essential. If you are to cut a fine figure, you must not let your muscles lose tone and resiliency; hence the need of exercise. If you are going to keep your nervous system from sizzling you must have a certain amount of rest.

Appearance depends upon correct posture. Keep that in mind. No folds or kinks in your back bone. Chest high, tummy flat.

The daily bath is not only necessary for self-respect, but is of splendid cosmetic value. The skin is an organ of elimination; a brisk scrubbing with a well-soaped brush, followed by a shower, keeps it in a state of normal activitiy. A rubdown stimulates circulation, puts ginger in one's heels. If you use a fragrant bath lotion, you can cut down on the perfume overhead.

To be well-groomed, the hair must be kept beautifully clean. It should be shampooed once every two weeks, oftener if the growth is inclined to be oily. Vigorous brushing puts on the high lights and, of course, the chic hairdo is essential these days. Look around you when next you go to the theatre. You will come to the conclusion that many feminine heads could do with some modern improvements.

Don't let your muscles lose tone.

To be smart of appearance, the complexion must be without a blemish. It is not enough to toy with the make-up box; you must do everything that is necessary to keep the skin in a healthy condition. Cosmetic batik will not take the place of a good texture and fine coloring.

Plenty of milk, fruit and vegetables—good nutrition; moderation in consuming fats, starches and rich foods that may create blemishes. This contributes to good health, which is essential in the development and maintenance of a beautiful complexion.

Dunoon, Argyllshire, Scotland, Sept. (CP) —At Cowal Highland gathering here, a lassie must not wear lingerie under kilt in competing in the Highland dancing events.

Do You Know How to Relax

Leave some time in your day for relaxation, cautions pretty Movie Star Joan Leslie. Whether you're a career girl or housewife, you'll do a better job if you're rested.

By HELEN FOLLETT

ARE you a "self-exhauster?" Do you drive yourself to the limit, never relax? Then don't be surprised if you have shadows under your eyes, lack of light step, find a multitude of good looks griefs descending upon you. The human motors can stand just so much wear and tear and no more. How many women moan "If I could only rest." They have forgotten how to relax.

Tenseness of the mind reflects itself in rigidity of body muscles, and in order to permit the body to go limp, one must chase worrisome thoughts from the mind. Thoughts that race can be harnessed under control.

Eyes Closed

Repose is a quality of loveliness. Try sitting perfectly still in a comfortable chair with the eyes closed. Better still lie down and go limp. Lift your hands and drop them. Lift your toes and let them down. Take long, deep slow breaths. Nothing like it for putting yourself all together again. What matters if there is dust under the bed? Better that than a poor tired mama atop it, waiting for the doctor to come.

Movie stars who work like dray horses when making pictures understand the need of rest. Some of them stay in bed one day a week, don't lift a finger. Others find relaxation in golf, or driving along country roads. Riding in a car can be quieting to the nerves if one keeps away from highways, seeks country roads.

Many of the "self-exhausters" never get to bed at a reasonable hour. Some of them are tired because they do not eat properly.

If you feel jittery in the evening, take a warm bath. Lie in the water for ten or fifteen minutes. Give your self a rub down with a fragrant bath tonic. Spend five minutes creaming your complexion; that is one time when you should be able to relax.

RCAF W.A. Proud Of Opportunity Shop

If you have a disused sea anchor or an outmoded mousetrap don't throw them away.

The ladies of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Royal Canadian Air Force at Trenton and 6 Repair Depot, will take them off your hands.

In fact the ladies will take anything saleable off your conscience outside of a bull-dozer, an obsolete tank or a reasonable fascimile of a Lancaster bomber. And they would take these if they had the space.

Last April, the ladies of the RCAF under the presidency of Mrs. C. R. Slemon, wife of Air Vice Marshal C. R. Slemon, C.B., C.B.E., air officer commanding, and Mrs. G. P. Dunlop, wife of Group Captain G. P. Dunlop, station commanding officer, organized themselves and started an "Opportunity Shop" in Trenton.

Set Objective

Their objective was set at $6,000 with which they will equip the children's nursery in the new Trenton Memorial Hospital.

The idea caught on quickly and the project prospered. In fact, its success was a little short of phenomenal since during the few months of operation the "Opportunity Shop" has garnered over $5,000, almost its objective.

But business is going on very nicely, thank you. Thanks to the efforts of the some 200 members of the auxiliary and co-operation of "outside" people, the Opportunity Shop is flourishing. It is open every afternoon except Wednesday from one o'clock until five.

The ladies of the auxiliary are proud of their project and are in high hopes of attaining their objective in the near future.

They will accept clothing, furniture and other saleable articles. They have actually got rid of an anchor and a mouse trap. As was mentioned before anything with a saleable appeal will be accepted by this hard-working group.

And they have the whole-hearted moral and other support of the "Gentlemen of the Air Force".

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

You can't be responsible for another's conduct

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I broke up with the boy I was going with because he was very jealous and had a violent temper. At the end of two months he asked me for a date and I went out with him again.

I now feel, though, that I don't want to go steady with him any more. In fact, I have always felt this way, and really went steady against my own wishes. The reason I don't want to tell him was because he said if we ever broke up, he wouldn't know what he'd do. He told me he wouldn't go to school any more and if he didn't finish, I would feel it was my fault because I broke his heart.

What do you think I should do about this? I don't want to go steady and I want him to be sensible about it.

E. G. E.

Dear E. G. E.:

If this boy is going to act childishly over a disappointment, you're not going to be able to make him sensible. You can't put into anyone something that isn't there already.

You should stop feeling that anything he does if you break up with him is in any way your fault. It would be very foolish for you to keep on going with him when you don't want to, just because he is not mature enough to take it as he should.

What you should do is to tell him in as friendly a manner as possible that you're sorry, but you don't feel you want to be tied down to any one friendship and let it go at that.

A boy who has a lot to learn

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have received a letter from a girl who thinks she is in love with me. She invited me to go to a beach party next Saturday.

I was introduced to this girl at a church club by two characters who consider themselves my friends. She thinks we had a joyous evening, but I did nothing but sit in the back pew playing cards. The girl bribed two of my friends to give her my address.

I would appreciate an immediate reply, as I am bashful, and don't know what to do at a beach party.

P.

Dear P.:

I am sorry I was unable to give you the immediate reply you requested, but it is not possible for me to answer letters in this column before several weeks after I receive them. You will probably not understand why that should be, but I shall have to ask you just to take my word for it.

I hope you went to the beach party and enjoyed yourself, although I was rather surprised that you were inclined to accept the invitation when the rest of your letter seemed to indicate you were not particularly pleased about the girl who invited you. I suspect you were secretly rather flattered that you had created such a favorable impression that she would bribe your friends to give her your address.

As for your bashfulness, the best way to get over that is to keep accepting invitations and going places where you will meet people and make more friends. The more you go out and the more people you meet, the easier it will be for you to feel natural and enjoy yourself. Keep your eyes open and see how other people do things, and be smart enough to inform yourself on as many subjects as possible, so that you will never be at a loss to hold up your end in a conversation. Follow this advice, and you won't have to worry about bashfulness either at a beach party or any other kind of party.

P.S.—I don't think much of a boy who sits in a church pew, playing cards. It looks as though he didn't have much idea of suiting his behavior to the place in which he finds himself, one of the first things everyone should learn.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking?

Scientists like housewives, worry about what to serve for dinner.

Scientists, however, are not concerned about tonight's menu so much as the dinner four or five generations away. Most studies tell them that the world's available food supply is not keeping up with its population growth. In time, it is feared, there will be more hungry mouths than the earth can provide for.

In the search for new food supplies an intensive study will soon be made of plankton—the small organisms that drift with the ocean currents and that provide food for all ocean life from snapper blue fish to whales. The study is being sponsored by the University of Miami and the National Geographic Society.

Unfortunately your family cannot be satisfied with a platter of plankton for Friday's dinner.

A pound of fish filets which are a skimpy four portions can serve 5 or 6 generously if made into a baked fish loaf. Almost any boneless fish, fresh or frozen, can be used in this recipe. A one pound can of salmon, drained and broken into flakes, may be substituted for flounder if desired.

Baked Fish Loaf. Serves 4 to 6.

Order 1 pound filet of flounder. Place in a greased saucepan. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and the juice of a half lemon. Cover with water. Bring the water to a boil. Simmer 8 to 10 minutes.

Remove fish from water, draining well. Break into small flakes with a fork.

In a mixing bowl combine, the fish, 3-4 cup of bread crumbs, 1-4 cup milk. One well beaten egg. 2 tablespoons melted butter, 1-4 cup finely chopped green peppers, 2 tablespoons grated onion and 3 tablespoons chopped parsley.

Mix all ingredients thoroughly and turn into a small greased loaf pan. Bake in a moderate oven 350 degrees 30 to 40 minutes or until brown.

Serve with tomato cheese sauce. Grate 1-3 cup Swiss or American cheese; combine with 1 can undiluted tomato soup, 1-3 cup water and 1-2 teaspoon worcestershire sauce. Heat gently untill cheese melts.

Cut fish loaf into slices about 1-2 inch thick. Pour sauce over slices on serving plates.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Flowers at memorial service for her friend's son

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm so terribly disturbed and worried, and I would be so grateful for your opinion on something I did. Some time ago, when a friend of mine had her son's body brought back from overseas, I made up a large basket of flowers from my garden, really beautiful flowers. I tried very hard to make an artistic arrangement, and when I took it to the funeral home I really thought it was nicer than most of the baskets there made up by florists. My plan for making the basket of flowers from my garden was not at all a question of money, but because I thought my own flowers were so lovely and I wanted to make my own arrangement. I never dreamed that my friend could or would take offence at it, but evidently she did, and told me about it just the other day, told me how terribly I had hurt her by sending a home-made basket of flowers from my own garden rather than buying a basket of flowers from the florist. I told her how terribly sorry I was, how very sad it made me feel that I had hurt her. Since then I have been wondering if I really did do the wrong thing. What is your opinion? If you think I did, please tell me how I can make things right with her?

M. L.

I truly believe that your friend's heart and thoughts were so tragically full of sorrow that day of the memorial service for her son that certain details may have unfortunately gotten out of focus, and her memory of these details may still not be in true perspective. So I beg you not to try to explain, but just to accept her words, and with the fine human point of view you show in your letter, don't look back but just forward, to see how you can re-instate the bonds of friendship.

Please let me reassure you most sincerely that your so-personal so-kind, so-thoughtful plan for fashioning your own arrangement of flowers from your own garden was indeed entirely proper, entirely right. Your memorial bow was made of real goodness. But now I suggest you don't talk this occasion over with your friend. . . but instead write her a note, worded somewhat like this:

Dear, dear Grace,

Please let me say, from my heart to yours, how terribly sorry I am about the flowers that were my tribute on that appealing day of the memorial service to your beloved Philip. I was, as you know, deeply devoted to Phil, and I wanted so much to show my devotion in the most personal way, by making my own arrangement of my own garden flowers. I regret that it was not more beautiful, more worthy. Please, dear friend, accept my profound apologies, and do let us resume again the pathway of our friendship, so dear and precious. Let's banish the shadows, and let's have only sunshine. May we?

Will you please come to luncheon with me here next Tuesday, at one o'clock, and then we could talk "of old days and new"? Please say "yes."

My dearest love to you, and Bill joins me,

Devotedly,

Small reception correct

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be married in church. Is it correct to have quite a few guests at the church ceremony, and only the members of the two families at the reception?

C. S.

Yes. . . the bride-to-be and her family may correctly plan to have any type of reception they wish; large or small, formal or informal, at the bride's home or at any other convenient place. Or there need be no reception following the church ceremony.

Bride's 14-year-old sister as maiden of honor

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My only sister is 14 years old. I want very much to have her stand up with me at my wedding in December, but she thinks she is too young. She is big for her age, and looks several years older than she is. What do you advise?

Bride-to-be

At 14 your sister could be your "maiden of honor". . .and it would be proper and very charming to have her have this important part in your bridal party.

Part Two in the

the real-life story of a cancer victim

If you had been told by your doctor that you had but a few months to live, how would you prepare for death? Have you led a good life? How would you face up to the shock of having to part with all you hold dear? In The Standard this week, Mr. C.T. Russell, doomed to die of cancer, continues his deeply-moving story of how he is prepared to meet death with calmness and dignity. This week he tells of his trip to Vancouver in a last desperate effort to seek out a "diet" cure; of the agonies of mind and body he went through; and, finally, the realization that he must accept the inevitable.

The Standard is privileged to print Mr. Russell's story, "In the Face of Death", in the hope that not only cancer sufferers, but others, too, will gain from it both strength and understanding.

U.S. Proposes to Include American, German Troops In Unified Battle Force

New York, Sept. 18—AP)—An historic American proposal to include United States and German troops in a unified battle force for the defence of Western Europe today confronted the North Atlantic Council.

The plan demanded one of the gravest decisions from the Atlantic Alliance since it came into being.

The plan was outlined late yesterday by Dean Acheson, United States Secretary of State, who presented it as a one-package deal.

He told the representatives of the other 11 Atlantic powers that the United States is ready to take the revolutionary step in its own foreign policy and assign troops to a European force, provided the other nations take other steps necessary to assure an adequate defence.

Among these other steps, Acheson explained, the United States considers it essential to include provision for the formation and arming of German units with, however, the limitation that they should not constitute a German national army and should be entirely subject to the control of the proposed allied command.

Today is the second and, according to schedule, the last day of the 12-nation council's session here. American diplomats were hopeful that the proposals which Acheson laid down would win acceptance by tonight.

Yesterday's closed-door meetings were authoritatively described as having produced no evidence of basic disagreement, although since Acheson was the last of the ministers to speak, their reaction to his presentation could not be judged fully.

Salient Points of Plan

Here are the salient points of the American plan, reported by fully-informed diplomatic sources:

1. Creation of a central, integrated western European defence force under the command staff headed by a supreme commander.
2. Assignment to this force of national contingents of all the different Atlantic Treaty Nations, specifically including a substantially reinforced American army in Europe.
3. Employment of all the available manpower which can be mustered, including troops from Western Germany.
4. Reorganization of the Atlantic Treaty machinery to provide for supervision of production of arms and equipment, according to a system of priorities.
5. Establishment of financial co-operation machinery, with the United States prepared to help step up the arms output of any country which already is making a maximum effort with its own resources.

Rearmament Question

By far the most controversial of the points is that dealing with limited German rearmament. Acheson said the principle should be accepted now, but that it would be many months before German units could be raised, trained, and brought to the point of readiness to receive combat equipment. Therefore, he argued, the Atlantic Treaty Allies whose armament programs already are well advanced have an automatic priority over whatever units may be formed in Western Germany.

That was his reply to French objections that there are not now enough arms to go around, and that the Germans should not be rearmed yet.

Civic Employees Of Hamilton End Dispute

Hamilton, Sept. 18—(CP)—The strike of Hamilton civic employees has ended and today—for the first time since the strike began 5½ weeks ago—garbage trucks made their rounds, collecting an accumulation of refuse.

Members of Local 5, Hamilton Civic Employees Union, yesterday accepted a settlement offer by a vote of 410 to 73. Ten votes were spoiled.

Maintenance men last night began servicing trucks to prepare them for their morning collections. All civic workers were instructed by the Union to return to work today unless otherwise directed by civic officials.

Involved in the strike were the city's outdoor employees, including garbage men, sewer maintenance men, grave diggers and similar workers.

City's Offer

The city's offer accepted by the Union provides for a 42-hour, five-day week with the same take-home pay, effective immediately.

A 40-hour, five-day week with no cut in pay is to be instituted Jan. 1, 1952, providing the contract is extended to at least Jan. 31, 1952.

The city will pay a cost-of-living bonus, effective next Jan. 1, and a 50-cent weekly bonus for each 1½ per cent rise in the cost-of-living index over the June level of 168.5. The 50-cent bonus goes into effect Oct. 1 and remains in effect until the index reaches 180.

Garbage men and sewer maintenance men receive a 2½-cent-an-hour increase immediately. Employees will receive a flat payment of $40 overtime wages for the job of restoring the city to normal. A seven-cent-an-hour shift differential will be paid employees who work between 3 and 11 p.m. and nine cents an hour between 11 p.m. and 7 a. m.

Week to Clean Up

Civic officials estimated during the strike that it would take at least a week to clean up the tons of garbage that has accumulated in streets and lanes.

More than 30 persons have been arrested in sporadic outbursts of violence on the picket lines. Most of the cases are still pending before the courts.

The union had asked a 40-hour week with no reduction in pay, plus a general increase of two cents an hour. Union members had a 44-hour week at the basic rate of $1 an hour.

Traffic Mishaps, Accidents Kill 17 in East Canada

(By The Canadian Press)

Weekend mishaps and accidents took 17 lives in eastern Canada, with a Canadian Press count Saturday and Sunday showing seven killed in Quebec—all by traffic accidents—and 10 in Ontario.

Five of the Ontario deaths were caused by traffic accidents and three by drowning. There was also an accidental shooting and a death from asphyxiation.

Jocelyne Landry, 27, a passenger in a truck, was killed when the truck went out of control Sunday near St. Donat. Arthur Campeau, 40, was killed in Montreal when his motorcycle hit a street car and 69-year-old Gideon Chartrand died in hospital in Pembroke, Ont., after being hit by a car in Chapeau, Que., across the Ottawa river.

Traffic Victims

The Ontario traffic victims were —Mrs. Kate Spink, 77, of Leeds, England, struck by a streetcar in Toronto Mrs. Herman Sylvester, a young Indian woman hit by a car while walking along the Queen Elizabeth Way near Toronto Saturday; (Miss) Hilary Tozer, 19, and Carmen Peace, 28, both of Hamilton, killed in a collision near Hamilton Saturday, and Fred Kiewan, 34, killed when he lost control of his car near Welland Sunday.

The boys were reported drowned in Lake Simcoe, 20 miles north of Whitby, Ont., Sunday. One body, identified as that of 16-year-old Ed Walker of Toronto, was recovered. The body of Hugh Ross, 68, a night watchman, was found in the Niagara river near Niagara-on-the-Lake.

John Buchan, 48, was found dead in his garage in Toronto from asphyxiation Saturday. Police said he apparently fell asleep after returning home Friday night.

Near Belleville, Lenard McGrath, 9, was shot and killed, apparently by a hunter, while walking with a playmate Sunday.

VOTE TO END STRIKE

Montevideo, Urguay, Sept. 18 (AP)—Seven thousand striking foundry and metal workers voted to end their 68-day walkout and return to their jobs today. Union leaders and management agreed to make wage increases recently granted retroactive to last October and to pay the workers for 13 days of the strike. The Uruguayan supreme court recently ruled that retroactive wage increases are constitutional.

Marmora.—A rather unusual accident occurred on Wednesday morning when Bob Sweet was driving the Sweet Bros.' store truck on the old Deloro Road, when going up over a knoll, he saw a skunk on the road with its head stuck in a tin can. Other damage was done to the fenders, springs, and steering gear. Fortunately the driver ecaped without injury except he was badly shaken up.

London, Sept. 18 — (Reuters)—Plans for a big drive to block communist "indoctrination" of school children in Britain were discussed behind locked doors today.

London's education chief, Sir Graham Savage, called for a series of top-secret talks with high school principals after reports that teen-age pupils had been circulating the communist-sponsored "world peace petition."

The first talk, described as "exploratory," was being held today. Another is due tomorrow. About 350 principals will discuss ways to keep politics out of classrooms.

Barber Claims Virgin Appeared To Him Thrice

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 18 — (AP) — A 68-year-old barber says a painting of a young- dark-haired woman in modern dress represents "fairly well" the Virgin Mary as she appeared to him three times.

In a small, brick enclosure he built as a shrine next to his shop, Joseph Battaglia unveiled the full-length picture yesterday.

Police said about 1,000 persons looked on. Battaglia, a native of Sicily, blessed them over a public address system and a friend read a 23-page account of the visitations. Religious and patriotic records were played.

The Buffalo Roman Catholic Diocese said the church did not send an observer and had no comment.

The barber said his long conversations with the Virgin took place in hospitals during 1948 and 1949. He said she greeted him with the words 'I am the patrona' and instructed him to build the shrine.

Bernard Shaw 'Comfortable And Cheerful'

Luton, England, Sept. 18 (Reuters)—George Bernard Shaw, in hospital with a broken thigh, was reported to be "comfortable and cheerful".

A bulletin issued from the hospital said there had been no deterioration in the 94-year-old playwright's condition since yesterday.

Now doctors are issuing "toned down" bulletins on Shaw's condition because he insists on listening to news broadcasts.

The playwright broke a thigh bone in a fall last Sunday while pottering in the garden of his home. He was "less well" yesterday after a recurrence of a kidney ailment.

One Man Dead, Two are Injured In Collision

Hamilton, Sept. 18 (CP)—In a pre-dawn accident on a condemned highway curve one person was killed and two others critically injured today in a head-on collision between a tiny British automobile and a 10-ton tractor-trailer.

Dead is Carman J. Peace, 28, of Hamilton.

In poor condition in hospital, when they underwent an emergency operation are Hilary Tozer, 19, and Glenn Coombes, 22, both of Hamilton.

The accident occurred on the Mausoleum Curve on the Toronto-Hamilton highway. A new section of highway replacing this dangerous curve is under construction and is expected to be completed soon.

The force of the impact left the small car twisted, torn, flattened and lying on one side. Provincial Police and bystanders worked feverishly with crowbars to rip the top off and release the injured passengers.

The driver of the Shoreline Transport Company truck, William G. Bowers, 36, of London, Ont., slightly injured one arm as he jammed on the brakes and jack-knifed the huge tractor-trailer in an attempt to avoid striking the car.

The car was believed to have been returning from Burlington and Peace had been given a lift. He was riding in the back seat and Miss Tozer and Coombes, the driver, were in the front.

Miss Canada May Have Competition For Speed Record

Windsor, Sept. 18 — (CP) — The American Powerboat Association said today that the Detroit boat, "Miss Pepsi", may try for a world waterspeed record, along with Miss Canada IV, at Picton, Ont., during latter part of September.

Carl Johnson, A. P. B. A. secretary, said no official date has been set for the attempt by Harold Wilson of Ingersoll to break the world waterspeed record with Miss Canada IV.

Wilson now is filing his application for sanction with A.P.B.A. officials in Toronto, and those papers will be forwarded to the head office in Detroit, Johnson said.

Wilson will attempt to upset the record of 160.3235 M. P. H., now held by Stanley S. Sayres' Seattle, Washington boat Slo-Mo-Shun IV.

Miss Pepsi is owned by Walter and Roy Dossin.

Transport Leader Asks U.K. Govt. To Ban Reds

London, Sept. 18—(Reuters)—One of Britain's most powerful trade union leaders today asked the government to ban the communist party.

The call came from Arthur Deakin, general secretary of the 1,300,000-strong Transport and General Workers' Union.

Deakins body encompasses the drivers of London's buses, half of which were off the streets today in an unofficial strike.

Labor Minister George Isaacs described it yesterday as communist-led and part of a huge plot to disrupt the nation's industries.

About 16,500 drivers and conductors were on strike, with 3,000 vehicles idle. But at 24 of the city's 52 bus depots the men voted to stay on the job.

Deakin was to meet workers' delegates today to seek a solution of the stoppage.

The walkout began last Wednesday as a protest against the policy of hiring women conductors.

VENEZULIAN PARK

Caracas, Venezuela. (CP)—The government has ordered the purchase of 125 acres of land on the outskirts of the city for a National Park. To cost about $1,800,000, the park will contain an open-air theatre, gardens, playgrounds and a network of paths, but no roads for traffic.

Prisoner Flees Penitentiary At Portsmouth

Kingston, Ont., Sept. 18 (CP)—Provincial Police and Penitentiary guards manned road blocks along the north shore of the St. Lawrence River today in a hunt for 45-year-old Boynton St. John who broke out of Portsmouth Penitentiary last night.

Police scanned highways from here to Brockville, 60 miles up the river, after St. John fled from the penitentiary in a taxi he had summoned from the home of the prison's chief keeper.

St. John, serving a five-year sentence for uttering and theft, was convicted at Burks Falls, Sept. 29, 1947.

He slugged Jimmy Atkins, 10-year-old grandson of Chief Keeper A. J. Atkins, while working as a trusty in the basement of the prison warden's house. Then he walked into Mr. Atkins' house, phoned for a cab and escaped with a stolen coat, hat and possibly a loaded revolver.

Hibok Volcano Erupts Killing 84 Persons

Manila, Sept. 18 (AP)—Mighty Hibok Hibok volcano today sent villagers scurrying for cover from red-hot ashes after killing an estimated 84 persons in its latest eruption.

The southern hillippines volcano injured 35 others.

Residents of three nearby villages were evacuated to other parts of Camigiun Island as the big volcano continued to erupt.

The estimate of 84 dead came from the Manila Bulletin's correspondent on the scene. The Red Cross estimated 60 to 70 dead.

Three small naval craft were standing by to take off villagers if necessary.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

ON THE WAY UP . . .

Saw youthful Gary Schreider the other day. The big little 'un who in the opinion of this corner is destined for the topflight ranks in sportdom has already made himself known in pigskin circles up around St. Michaels College where he is adding knowledge to that gained in his three "R" activities in this neck of the woods.

The husky youngster, 16 years of age and tipping the scales at 170 pounds, flashed his speed afoot (he can do the 100 in slightly over 10) to the football coach of St. Mikes senior Catholic Conference squad, added to it some fancy broken field running and ball-carrying and right away made good. The first thing young Schreider knew he was tabbed for the tail-back position on the senior eleven.

Not bad, for a youngster who hails from "the sticks", as the late Lou Marsh tabbed this village, (and we did have a jail here at that time). Gary, a modest young cuss, who keeps more to himself and his brilliant (sports, that is) dad, and Eddie isn't so dumb in other phases of activity, loosened up his young tonsils and gave us a part of the football picture up around thataway.

St. Michael's College, Toronto, which always reserves for itself a headline spot in sports activities, doesn't food when it comes to development of its young athletes. Take Gary Schreider's word for it. Ahead, for this promising youngster, lies the golden pathway of athletics. That is our opinion, not parroted by us from the Schreider family. Eddie, too well versed in athletics, is naturally proud of the potentialities of his offspring, but wants him to grab the laurels on his own ability.

And in this department's opinion Gary will do just that. He is standing on the threshold of what might well be a brilliant athletic future. A born athlete, and he comes by it naturally, Gary with topflight coaching at his disposal, should develop into one of Canada's outstanding athletes. That might appear to be a broad statement, but remember the wise guys laid their money on Goliath just before he stepped into the ring to take on David in a slug-throwing contest.

Yup, we've watched this youngster come up the sports stairs from the day he yelled for his first "choclit bar". We5ve seen him play hockey, football, track and field and other athletic endeavors, and we predict for him a brilliant future. More so now, since as we said before he has expert coaching at his fingertips.

Gary made a name for himself in the junior track and field events staged at Pantry Park, Toronto a short time back. So much so, that Lloyd Percival, head coach of the well-known Sports College tabbed him for future reference and coaching. This winter Gary will be trained by this famous track mentor, with the 1952 Olympics beckoning. And he hit the dirt in second place behind the top-flight sprinter of the province. He won for himself one or two races and his efforts were such that Percival personally invited him to undergo special track training this winter.

Hockey fans hereabouts know young Schreider's ability between the pipes. He is going out for "hockey" at St. Mikes, and will likely make a bid for the Majors, the junior "A" squad, and the "Buzzers". Whether he makes it this year or not, he will receive valuable training and coaching — and anyway he has four years of junior athletics ahead of him.

Back to football, as we said before, Schreider made the senior high school squad that is the St. Michael's team of the Catholic Conference. Training is tough. The St. Mikes coach took the double blue through stiff practice grinds last week in rain and shine. He doesn't pull any punches according to Gary and you either make good, give your best —or else. This coach doesn't fool, nor put up with any player skylarks. According to outside info, young Schreider is developing into a fleet backfielder. Football addicts of this village will remember his sparkling broken - field performances when teamed up with Bobby Green on the local St. Mike's squad under Jack Doran.

In any event, we feel that Gary Schreider will be heard from in the not too distent future. This modest youngster, and getting information out of him is like trying to pry third world war secrets from the Kremlin, in this corner's opinion, is one of the best prospects ever developed in this city. And if he doesn't make good it will not be his fault nor that of his amiable "old man". Of course the attractive Mrs. Schreider who mothered this fine youngster had something to do with it. She is proud of this up-and-coming youngster as is all sportdom of this city.

Kenny Reardon Will Get Back His $1,000 Fine

(By The Canadian Press)

Kenny Reardon, Bustling, bushy-browed hockey basher, has retired from the game—and will get back his $1,000.

Recurrent and serious back injuries have forced the move of the rugged Montreal Canadiens' defenceman, one of the few really colorful players in present-day hockey.

The $1,000 is the all-time-record fine—made returnable with certain provisions—slapped on him last season by President Campbell of the National Hockey League.

The roaring 29-year-old Reardon now becomes a good-will ambassador for Canadiens with a roving assignment.

The 1,000 fine episode was the outgrowth of a feud Reardon carried on with Cal Gardner, now of Toronto Maple Leafs.

With New York Rangers in 1947, Gardner laid into Reardon in a great inter-club rhubarb. The feud went on, and in Montreal early last season Reardon checked or smashed into Gardner and Cal came out of it with a broken jaw.

"Couldn't happen to a better guy," was Reardon's later quip.

Then came a magazine article which quoted Reardon as saying if it was the last thing he did in hockey he would "get" Gardner. President Campbell, last March, nailed down the $1,000 fine in a hurry. It was returnable on Reardon's retirement from the N.H.L.—provided the rambunctious Mr. Reardon behaved himself reasonably well meanwhile, he did, reasonably well.

Everyone thought St. Catharines Athletics won the Minto Cup and the Canadian Junior Lacrosse Championship when they knocked off the Vancouver Burrard Juniors last week.

This week it appears that they'll have to win the cup all over again—even though a Canadian Lacrosse Association vice-president formally presented it to them after they whipped the Burrards in three straight games.

Winnipeg All-Stars suddenly claimed a shot at the title, charging that the Garden City entry hadn't kept a date in Winnipeg on their way west. Confused officials, most of whom thought the Winnipeg-St. Catharines meeting was to have been an exhibition only, finally upheld the Manitoban's claim.

Unperturbed the Athletics went to Winnipeg and knocked off the All-Stars 21-16 in the opener of the new cup finals.

Chilean anglers won the tuna fishing chown of the world near Wedgeport, N.C., Saturday in a strong closing bid.

The Chileans—making their first try in the seventh international tuna cup matches — coasted to victory by virtue of their score tallied in the first two days of the three-day event.

In a tourney that found the fishing spoiled by a recent hurricane, the Chileans amassed 1,962 points. The British Empire squad had 1.614, Brazil 640, Cuba 63, Argentina 393, and Scandinavia 195. The United States, defending champion and two-time winner of the annual event, didn't take a fish.

Ed (Porky) Oliver of Seattle, Wash, and Cary Middlecoff of Ormond Beach, Fla., tied for low at 270 in the final round of the $15,000 St. Louis open golf tournament. They will go into an 18-hole playoff tomorrow.

A 21-year-old amateur broke the P.G.A.'s 18-hole record with a 61 (30-31), nine under par. He is Dow Finsterwald of Athens, O., a University of Ohio senior.

St. Louis Browns Wreaking Havoc on Top Pennant Contenders in American Loop

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

There's a move reported underfoot in the American League to move the St. Louis Browns to Timbuktu.

For years rumors have persisted that the Browns would be shifted to Baltimore, Montreal. Los Angeles and other points but now those cities are considered too close — at least for the comfort of some identified as Cleveland, Boston and New York.

The Browns, used as a doormat for the greater part of the season, have suddenly grown ferocious, playing like champs instead of chumps.

Cleveland was the first to meet disaster at the hands of the "new Browns." The St. Louis club knocked the Indians out of pennant contention with four straight victories in Cleveland.

The Red Sox and Yankees were next on the list. The Browns took two out of three from Boston's third - place Sox and followed by splitting a doubleheader with the league-leading Yankees yesterday.

They knocked the Yanks off 6-5 in the first game and battled the Bombers tooth and nail until the last inning of the second before capitulating 6-1. At that, it took a grand-slam pinch-hit homer by 34-year-old Johnny Hopp to beat them.

Despite the split the Yanks moved a game ahead of the second - place Tigers who lost a 3-2 squeaker to the Red Sox in Detroit.

The Browns' biggest crowd of the season, 21,082, showed up at Sportsman's Park to witness two thrilling games.

Lefty Stubby Overmire went all the way in the opener for the Browns while the Yanks employed three pitchers — Ed Lopat, Tom Ferrick and Joe Page. Page was the loser, failing to retire any of the three batters he faced.

The nightcap was a nip-and-tuck mound duel between Allie Reynolds of the Yanks and Al Widmar. The Yanks loaded the bases in the ninth on a hit, a bunt which Widmar threw to second too late and an error. Hopp then batted for Reynolds and socked the pitch off the right-field roof. It was Hopp's first American League homer and his second in the majors with the bases loaded.

Tigers Make it Close

The Red Sox and Tigers also put on a spine-tingler before 53,167 fans in Detroit. The Sox jumped off to a 3-0 lead in the first four innings.

Lefty Mel Parnell nursed this margin until the ninth when the Tigers caught up with him. Pinch hitter Joe Ginsberg walked and pinch-hitter Charley Keller followed with a booming triple. Johnny Lipon kept it alive with a single. Then Ellis Kinder was called in. Gerry Priddy sacrificed Lipou to second but he died as George Kell grounded out and Vic Wertz struck out. The victory was Parnell's 17th and his ninth straight.

In remaining American League games, Philadelphia Athletics edged Cleveland 10-9 in 11 innings and Washington Senators and Chicago White Sox split a doubleheader. The White Sox won the opener 4-0 behind Bill Wight and the Senators the nightcap 3-2 on Irv Noren's ninth-inning homer.

Philadelphia Phils continued to move along in the National League, beating Pittsburgh Pirates 5-3. The league leaders scored all of their runs in the fifth inning, three on a homer by Gran Hamner.

Boston took over second place from Brooklyn Dodgers by sweeping a doubleheaetaoin-9 ing a doubleheader from Cincinnati Reds, 6-2 and 3-1, while the Dodgers lost a 3-2 decision to Chicago Cubs. Warren Spahn became the National's first 20-game winner by stopping the Reds on six hits in the opener.

New York Giants scored three runs in the last of the ninth inning to shade St. Louis Cardinals, 7-6.

Stewart-Warner Takes Plumbers To Even Series

Stewart Warner came up with a neat performance of fielding behind the fine seven-hit hurling of Marty Halloran on Saturday night and as a result the planters are again all even-Stephen in their Commercial Softball League semi-finals series with the Howe and Hagerman squad.

The plant boys banged out eight clouts off the offerings of Hunter for the "Hags" and won going away by a 6-1 score.

Halloran was master of the Plumbers all through the game getting himself out of hot water in the first and second innings. The only Howe and Hagerman tally came in the fourth when Fitzgibbon who walked, crossed the plate on successive hits by Amo and Hunter.

The winners banged out a couple of clouts in the first to draw first blood of the game with a pair of tallies. Bateman and Moon who both walked raced home on hits by Carr and Lundburg.

They chalked up another in the third innings after a scoreless second chukker, Rowbotham crossing the plate after Moon's blast to centre field. Two more runs were tallied for the planters in the fifth Robertson and Bertram scoring after slashing out hits. Rey Reid's clout in the sixth paved the way for the Stewart Warner sixth and final run.

Bob Hunter went the route for the Plumbers striking out five and issuing two walks. Hunter whiffed two and walked three.

Donovan and Spafford got two hits each for the losers with Rollins, D. Adams and Doyle accounting for the remaining three. Rowbotham led the winners attack with a pair of blows.

GARY SCHREIDER

Promising young athlete of this city, and now of Galt and Toronto, Gary Schreider, 16 made the St. Michael's College senior high school team in his first try-out. Gary will do a ball-carrying job in the backfield with the Irish. An up-and-coming hockey star, the youngster will "go" for a spot on the St. Mikes Majors, or the "Buzzers." Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Schreider, Gary's parents are taking up residence in Galt, Ont., sometime during the first week in October.

Ottawa Takes 3-1 Lead Over Kingston Ponies

Kingston, Sept. 18 — (CP) — Ottawa Nationals took a 3-1 lead in their best-of-seven border baseball league semi-final series with Kingston Ponies Saturday night. The Ottawa Club defeated Ponies 2-1.

More than 2,000 fans watched a brilliant pitching duel between Ottawa's Don Bryant and Kingston's Roger Higgins. Both hurlers gave up only five hits, including a home run and a double for each. Higgins struck out six, walked one, while Bryant struck out three and walked three.

Nats scored single runs in the second and fourth but were unable to touch Higgins for more than one hit for the rest of the game. The story lay in the number of men left on bases—two for Ottawa and eight for Kingston.

In the second frame, Willard Brown and Johnny Russian singled, Brown going to third and scoring on Jack Stehlin's grounder to third. In the fourth, Moose Shetler homered far over the right field fence.

Ponies score came when Bob McLean hit a 375-foot homer over left centre field fence in the sixth.

Fifth game of the series will be played here Monday night.

$100,000 in Sweepstake Tickets Seized

Ottawa, Sept. 18. (CP)—Police Friday night raided a home in the nearby Dow's Lake district and seized more than $100,000 in sweepstake tickets.

Included in the truck load of tickets and stationery carted away by police were 10,000 mailing a reproduction from an Ottawa newspaper story, with the heading "Canadians get $272,500 from Irish Sweepstakes."

Dog Taught to Smoke Instead of Chewing

Venice, Calif., Sept. 18. (AP)—Smoking does not stunt the growth of dogs.

Butch, a Dalmation terrier, will be a year old next month and owner Bill Hill said Saturday that he weighs a hulking 45 pounds.

That's a good weight even for Dalmations that don't smoke. Butch has been smoking since he was four months old.

Hill said he had to teach Butch to smoke in order to break him of another vice—chewing tobacco.

A police sergeant said that Aird also refused to be examined by a police doctor.

His comment was said to have been: "I am not going to answer a doctor who keeps saying 'ah, ah'."

Brantford Sox, Waterloo Tigers In Final Series

(By The Canadian Press)

Brantford Red Sox and Waterloo Tigers take off tonight in a best-of-seven series for the championship of the Intercounty Baseball League.

Oshawa Merchants, on the other hand, can sit back on their laurels as champions of the Canadian Sandlot Baseball Congress. They won the title by beating London Majors 9-1 in Oshawa Saturday in the final game of the long title tournament.

Southpaw Jerry Creasy, shaky at times, spread seven hits over the nine innings while his mates drove Duane Cottchell from the mound and made life just as unpleasant for his successor, Ted Alexander.

Majors got their sole run in the fifth while Oshawa scored twice in the first, three times in the fifth and collected four more in their final three times at bat. George Ticconey blasted a triple and a double in two official times at bat, driving in two runs.

Waterloo, who are at home in the first game of their series with Brantford, qualified for the finals by defeating St. Thomas Legion 6-4 in Waterloo Saturday.

Catcher Johnny Fornari of Waterloo smashed a three-run double in the sixth inning while St. Thomas was leading 4-0 on the strength of six hitless innings pitched by Dick Long. Pitcher Joe Yosurak, who gave up five hits for Waterloo, singled home an extra run in the seventh.

WANTED: A SHIPLOAD

Wellington, N.Z., (CP)—T. L. Hayman, a New Zealand M.P., recently asked the government to investigate the properties of Durian, a native fruit of Borneo, that "makes hair grow on shining pates and makes old men skip like goats." Opposition members immediately urged that a shipload be imported—for the Cabinet.

Clair Seeley was the Memos' big hitter with two home runs.

Hollywood—(AP) — "They'd better get the Loew's Pusan ready, because here I come."

Some players may taunt you with being a rule bidder. A tinge of scoff may be in their smile when they mention it. As if this was too elementary for persons of their maneuvring ability.

What they point to as proof is their clever handling of the unusual situations. As if rules were not adapted to such conditions. As if only brilliant deductions can answer the purpose in such spots.

This belief of theirs comes from failing to carry the rules far enough. What they have not yet accepted are the expediency rules. All advanced players extend their rules to fit advisable occasions.

♠Q 3
♥A K 10 9 8 3

WEST
♠K 10 7 6 4
♥7 6 2
♣7 5 4

EAST
♠A J 9 8 5 2
♥Q
♦Q 8 6
♣J 10 8

SOUTH
♠None
♥J 4 3
♦K J 4 3
♣A K Q 9 6 2

My partner sat north and the bidding started off like this:

North	East	South	West
1 H	1 S	3 C	Pass
3 H	Pass

My hand now contains heart support. Normal rule says my clubs should be rebid first, my diamond suit should be shown next, and my heart support should be admitted last in the order of preference.

But I know by now that we have a slam in hearts. It would be futile to keep plugging clubs. By the time I mentioned them again and then bid diamonds, partner may not learn of my heart support.

For all I know, we may have a grand slam in hearts. Bidding the grand slam may depend on how many and which aces are held by partner. And his decision may depend on knowing my heart support.

Without two aces and a king I must not bid four no-trump as the ace and king asker. If I bid four hearts to show support, partner may pass if he has not yet discovered enough for a slam.

Advanced play finds means of handling such a situation. Here is where an expediency rule is employed. Do you know it?

By BOB THOMAS

With that crack, Al Jolson announced he was scheduled to leave today for the fighting front in Korea. The first star to entertain U. S. soldiers overseas in the Second World War, he will also be the first in the present conflict.

"Oh, well, I can't get a job on radio or television," he laughed. "I've got to make ends meet. And the price is right."

The price, he revealed, was something like $3 a day.

"People keep telling me I'm crazy to go face the tough life over there," he said. "Heck, it's no tougher than working for the Shuberts or Columbia." He referred to his former stage and screen producers.

Front-line Singing

The Mammy singer said he would shout "Toot, Toot, Tootsie" and "April Showers" in the front lines "if they want me too."

"The day after this war started," he related, "I wired President Truman. I told him I was the first to entertain in World War II and I wanted to be the first this time . . . now I'm on my way."

Old Warfront Hand

Jolson started entertaining troops in 1941 when he visited the Aleutians. After that he toured the Caribbean, England, Ireland, North Africa, Sicily and Italy. That was before his film biographies made him the sensation of the current generation. He also made hospital tours and it was on one of them that he met his present wife, then a nurse.

"I'm ready to go," Jolson said. "I've got my bag packed and I'm taking four St. Christopher medals with me."

Quinte II Ousts Point Anne In Semi-Finals

In a stunning upset the Quinte II tennis club defeated the Point Anne club 3 matches to 2 in the Corby Cup semi-final played at Point Anne on Saturday afternoon. This was the third and deciding game. The Point Anne club who have won the Bay of Quinte League championship three years in a row went down in a fighting display as they lost the first two matches, rallied and won the next two but lost the fifth and deciding event. The Quinte II netters played a brilliant brand of tennis and were full value for their win and now advance into the finals against Trenton.

The results:

1st Men's Doubles: Doug Bennett and Perry Everett, Point Anne, Con Moolenburg and Alf. Wilkes; Quinte II 6-2, 6-2.

2nd Men's Doubles: Jack MacDonald and Lawrence Horwood, Point Anne; Bob Lucy and Alec Cunningham; Quinte II 6-3, 6-2.

Ladies' Doubles: Gwyneth Bennett and Iona MacDonald, Point Anne; Barbara Ketcheson and Pat Quigley, Point Anne 6-2, 6-1.

1st Mixed Doubles: Hilda Finlan and Harold Horwood, Point Anne; Madge Cowley and Ron Cass, Point Anne 6-4, 5-7, 6-4.

2nd Mixed Doubles: Donalda Everett and Jack Hart, Point Anne; Elizabeth Pitney and Ed. Littlejohn, Quinte II 6-1, 9-7.

Camp Borden Edges Flyers In Soccer Game

Camp Borden Army of the Simcoe County League beat Trenton Flyers of the Bay of Quinte Football Association at the RCAF Station on Saturday afternoon by three goals to two in the second leg of their semi-final of the Ontario Intermediate Championships. Camp Borden thus won the round by five goals to four as the first leg ended in a two-all tie and have won the right to meet either Kingston United or Peterborough United Electrical Workers in the final on Sept. 30 and Oct. 1st in a home and away series. The result was somewhat of a surprise as the army boys had difficulty in raising a team to travel to Trenton and came down with the idea only of fulfilling their obligation to play.

Camp Borden won the toss and elected to play the first half against the sun, but with the wind slightly in their favor. Flyers opened the scoring after about fifteen minutes of play on a goal by Heron. This was equalized shortly afterwards when Smith put the ball in the Flyers' net. Flyers had the chance to take the lead again when an indirect free kick was awarded against the Army goalkeeper for carrying the ball more than the regulation four paces. Unfortunately Heron who took the kick put the ball in the net without it touching another player and the goal was disallowed. With about ten minutes to go in the first half J. Harris put the soldiers ahead when he manageo get the ball from a scramble in front of the Flyers goal mouth. The teams changed over with the score at Camp Borden two, Flyers one.

The second half play was very even with neither goalkeeper being greatly troubled. Midway through this period Silver put the Flyers on even terms, and with obtu ten minutes of play remaining Smith scored the winning counter. This match by no means had the appearance of a cup tie and on the day's play neither Kingston or Peterborough should have too much trouble in taking the trophy in the final round. Flyers who have lost quite a few of their star players lately seemed but a shadow of their former selves. Their half back line did not seem to have a grip on the game and tended to hang too far back rather than staying up to help the forwards. Both sides indulged in to much aimless kicking and passes seldom found the man they were intended for. Certainly both teams have played much better football than they produced on Saturday. On the play there was little to choose between the teams and the result could very easily have gone either way.

Teams:—

Flyers — Seed, Kendall, Whyte, Jarvis, Silver, Hughes, Grignon, Boyer, Heron, Vaudray, Wall. Subs., Mitchener, Esdale, Kiernon.

Camp Borden — Mackay, Dick, Gore, May, Squires, Gilmartin, D. Harris, J. Harris, Jones, Reid Smith.

Referee: Les Digby.

AT THE BELLE

Movie Scales Epic Heights

Displays of grandeur and pageantry that dwarf anything of its kind the screen has recorded in the past, a lusty romantic adventure story that takes a bowman and a scholar to far-off lands in the service of a conquerer, and the breathtaking color and beauty of far-away places, these ingredients brew the essence of "The Black Rose", the magnificent Twentieth Century-Fox picture that had its Belleville premiere Saturday at the Belle Theatre.

The epic film is a form well known to moviegoers, and great screen spectacles have highlighted motion picture entertainment from the time the first flickering became fact. But what you may have seen before pales in the presence of "The Black Rose". Spanning three continents, "The Black Rose" take Tyrone Power and Jack Hawkins from a world of English Castles across the world in pursuit of adventure. Through Africa and Asia, Power and Hawkins challenge and by their courage impress the great General Bayan, played by Orson Welles, and serve the beautiful lady known as "The Black Rose", who crosses the path of their pursuits. The role is exactingly and excitingly filled by lovely newcomer, Cecile Aubry.

There is a glamour to high adventure in distant lands that couldn't be duplicated on the screen unless the events depicted were photographed in the actual locations where they are supposed to have taken place. It is a great virture of "The Black Rose", a virtue that sets it apart from all competition, that Twentieth Century-Fox traversed the world to film it.

It is another rare virtue of this film that it is imbued with a taste and a spirit for the kind of high-voltage action it depicts. There is fire to the performance of Power, Welles and Hawkins, beauty and mystery about Miss Aubry, great sweep to the Louid D. Lighton production and coverage of the Technicolor cameras, and the stamp of daring and imagination in the superior direction of Henry Hathaway. The spectator shares the tumult, the emotion, the sense of history unfolding before his eyes throughout the two hours that "The Black Rose" fills the screen.

AT THE CAPITOL — Lovely but naive, Jean Peters learns some of the facts of life from Joan Davis, a gal who's been around, in this scene from the 20th. Century-Fox comedy, "Love That Brute," now at the Capitol Theatre, for its first showing. Paul Douglas is the lovable mug referred to by the title. On the same program, Shirley Temple in "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm."

Little Benny's Note Book

I saw pop getting off the buss and I walked home with him to keep him company, and Glasses Magee's granfather went passed and I waved at him and he waved back, and I said, Did you see him, pop? That's what I call a grate man, I said.

I thawt he had a remarkable face, I'm glad to hear I'm sutch a keen judge of caracter, pop said, and I said, I bet you cant guess what he can do that's so grate.

At least I can make an attempt, pop said. Can he fill out his frends' income tax forms for them better than a certified public accountant? he said, and I said, No sir, he dont even believe in income taxes, I heard him say so.

Well can he invaribly make a woman admit she was mistaken? pop said. That would be remarkable, he said, and I said, That's not it either, guess again.

Which he did, saying, Can he recite Shakesbeer's Hamlet backwerds from memory? and I said, I dont think so, I never heard him.

Then I give up, who is he and why is he grate? pop said, and I said, His name is Mr. Swift, and he's Glasses Magee's granfather and he comes to visit them sometimes and stays till he gets tired seeing them. And now here comes the grate part. He used to be a magician on the stage just for fun and charity, and everybody called him Egg Swift because he could make eggs drop out of his mouth like a hen laying them by the duzzen, and he's 80 years old now and he can still do it, because I saw him, and if that's not grate what is? How long do you think it would of took you to guess that, pop? I said.

Oh, the best part of a lifetime, pop said.

Being the end of the subject.

STIRLING

Finest Exhibits and Program Ever Staged by Fair Board Delight Assembly of 2,000

(By Staff Reporter)

Stirling — After a protracted period during which time the weatherman did everything possible to make things miserable for district agricultural societies, the sun came out in full force Saturday afternoon to bring smiles to the faces of Stirling fair board members.

For their annual fair the weather was "fair but cool" and well over two thousand — a near record crowd — turned out for the show.

Long before noon the sun broke finally through the clouds and the crowd began to pour into the Stirling fair grounds to see one of the finest exhibits staged by the fair board in recent years. The fair had everything which a good rural fair should have. There was the horse and cattle show, the exhibits in the agricultural building, horse racing and novelty events galore, topped off by an honest-to-goodness beauty show which saw the gals parade before the eyes of critical judges.

Fun for Kiddies

There was fun for the kiddies as well. School children from Wellman's Corners public school paraded to the grounds, while there was an enthusiastic entry in the pet show which saw scads of novelty turnouts, that must have caused their progenitors some overtime thinking.

Then there were the events for the Junior-Farmers of the county including the first tractor driving competition ever to be staged in Hastings county. In addition there was the customary showing of calves by the Stirling Calf Club and grain exhibits by the South Hastings Grain Club. Assistant Agricultural Representative Frank Stone said that grain exhibits shown by the juniors was really "tops" and a distinct credit to the juniors.

Floor Show, Dance Held

And true to the record for Stirling Fair, the excitement did not end with the pulling up of exhibits and with the last heat of the horse races. In the evening the community hall rang with the merriment of the younger folk as a floor show and dance was staged.

Much credit is due to Fair President, Clarence Fitchett, and his board of directors, for the quality of their fair which not only satisfied patrons but did much to build for the future.

Competition was keen in the tractor driving competition staged for county junior farmers. Fifteen juniors entered the competition and did almost everything but make their iron steeds sit up and talk.

Winner of the event was Carl Reid, of Stirling, with 343 points. Carl was top junior in judging events at Belleville fair and went on at his own rural fair to prove that was not all a big mistake. As winner of the event Carl is eligible to go to Toronto to enter in the provincial competition.

Other Winners

Other boys in the competition placed as follows: Charles Bates, 314; Earl Badgley and Don Martin, 305 each; Keith Clancy, 284; Harvey Homan, 275; William English, 272; Robt. Bush, 265 Ralph Swan, 251; Glen Wilson, 235; Don Montgomery, 224; Allan Wallace, 221; George Cook, 199, and Burton Hubble, 188.

Calf club winners who showed all Holsteins were: Glen Reid, Doug Morton, Merle Moore, George Cook, Gerald Bailey; Ralph Parks, Glen Wilson, Glen Brooks, Bobby Donnan, Harold Holden, Basil Moore, Allan Wallace, Murray Marton, Geo. Wilson and Glen Clark.

Grain club winners were Harold Cole, Bob Mallory, Harvey Homan, John McComb, Merle Moore, Owen Whitmore, Bob Bush, Doug Morton, Bob Philp, Griffin Ketcheson, Allan Wallace, Glen Wilson and Geo. and Gerald Cook.

Pet Collie Wins

Grant Reid with his pet collie "pushing" a wagon came in for first prize in the pet show. There were three other cash prizes of varying amount, while the next 11 kiddies each came in for $1 prizes.

There was but a small entry in the baby show with the cool weather possibly having something to do with only a small number of mothers entering their babies. The two classes were judged by Dr. Lily B. Mathieson of Belleville.

Winners in the one to six months class were the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brooks, Stirling; son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Walker, Harold and Brenda Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Forgers of Belleville. In the seven to twelve months class the little daughter of Mr and Mrs. James Putnam of Wooler was first; the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Tucker, Stirling, second and the child of Mr. and Mrs. Andy Visser of Stirling, third.

Beauty Queen Crowned

The beauty contest came in for its customary share of interest by fair spectators who crowded the stage to watch the judges as they pondered over the problem of selecting the "fairest" of the entrants. Winner of the contest was a home town girl, dainty Miss Marilyn Eggleton of Stirling who came in for top money of $20 cash. Second prize went to Miss Donna McColl of Wooler while Miss Sharon Wilkinson, Halloway, was third.

With the beauty contest over the platform show was also over with emcee Barton Haggerty's best efforts proving to no avail in getting the crowd interested in the hog calling contest and other events scheduled to follow.

But prior to the beauty show there was the ladies' nail driving won by Mrs. George Ross, second money went to Miss Lola Hinds while Mrs. Amy Woodcock was just a trifle behind for third.

Singing Contest

The singing contest was won by Donnie Armstrong with Sandra Meiklejohn placing second. Grace Clark, Linda Sine and Marian Broadworth were all so closely matched that the judges paid them all for placing third.

The honor of being the oldest man on the grounds went to Mr. Gardner Mitts of Halloway, who has seen 94 summers and almost as many times, the Stirling Fair. The oldest lady was Mrs. G. F Spencer of Rawdon township who is 86 years of age. In winning the prize Mrs. Spencer showed a nice gesture and asked that the cash award be turned over to the Stirling Rotary Club to assist in their welfare work.

The pony race saw S. Bedford, Carman Downey and Marilyn Bedford come in in that order, while in the bike race S. Woodcock, Doug. Ferguson and Allan Bird were the winners.

Awards Presented

One of the features of the grandstand show was the presentation of three long service diplomas given by the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies of which Mr. Ben Bleecker of Halloway is this year's president. There are 15 districts in the province and Mr. Bleecker is the first president from this district in the past 13 years. Mr. Bleecker presented the awards to William Fitchett, William Patterson and Ed. Pyear, all of Stirling. The award to Mr. Fitchett was for 1948, for Mr. Patterson, 1949 and for Mr. Pyear this year.

Stirling Municipal Band was on hand to render martial airs and popular music throughout the afternoon, while the kiddies had a glorious afternoon on the merry go round, on the ferris wheel and riding the ponies.

The Department of Lands and Forests was on hand in the agricultural building with their wild life exhibit consisting of a deer, a fawn, beaver and bear cub. The exhibit was the centre of attraction throughout the afternoon.

Fine Exhibit by Scouts

Stirling Cub Scouts had a fine exhibit of collections of various kinds, including bugs, leaves and plaster paris models, while the Stirling High School students had fine exhibits of their summer projects including canning, garden products, shop models with the girls demonstrating what they have learned in home economics. The district public schools also had an exhibit of school work.

There were also some fine exhibits in the regular garden vegetable classes and in the domestic science and ladies' work classes.

Stirling Fair always has a good cheese show and this year was no exception. In the Hastings county special for white cheese Roy Huffman, Gerald Fluke, Murray Heath, Al McAllister and Archie Pitt were winners. In the special for best white cheese given by Harold, Evergreen and Central factories the winners were Huffman, Fluke, McAllister, Heath and Pitt.

Fine Cheese Exhibit

Huffman, Heath and McAllister had the best finished cheese, while the best white class by the fair society was won by Huffman, Ivan Sine, Heath, Fluke and Pitt. Sweepstake prizes for the highest aggregate score was won by Huffman.

Bill Scott, Campbellford, Verney Heath, Norm McConnell and Cecil Bateman were heavy winners in the horse exhibit classes; swine winners were Don Heath and Wes Finch. Sheep winners were Ervine McGuire, Don Heath and Fred McDonnell.

Howard Finch and Son, Campbellford, were the only herd showmen in the Holstein classes; Elmer Wood of Ivanhoe and Cummings, showed Ayrshires. Jerseys were shown by Garnet Kerr of Campbellford, and Herefords by Norm Whytock, of Madoc.

Horce Racing

With only three teams entered the horse drawing contest was run off in rapid style. Winner of this event was the big team of Denzil Andrews of Bonarlaw. Second place winners was Norm McConnell of Stirling and Mr. Venness of Enterprise came in for third money.

Harry Inglis made a clean sweep of the harness racing classes, coming in for three firsts in the free-for-all and also in the 2,25 class.

Blood on the Stars

By Brett Halliday

Returning to the car, he got in and drove north until he reached an all-night bar. He went in and slid onto a leather cushioned stool and asked, "Have you got any decent cognac?" when the bar-tender approached.

The man looked curiously at the ugly cut and lump on the side of Shayne's jaw, but the expression on the detective's face didn't invite comment, so the man looked discreetly away and said they had Monnet.

Shayne said, "Three fingers... in a water glass."

The bartender brought him a water glass a third full of cognac. Shayne drank it down in three avid gulps and immediately felt better. He laid a five-dollar bill on the counter, then went back to look in the classified telephone book and found a number for Mickey's garage. He dialed the number and listened to the garage telephone ring ten times before hanging up.

He went back to the stool and found a dollar bill beside his glass. He pushed the bill aside, rested both elbows on the bar while his thoughts went around in circles and always came back to the one wholly inexplicable event of the evening.

Why had Blackie slugged him? After talking on the phone, presumably to his boss. It was to be inferred, of course, that he had received orders to slug him. But why?

Shayne scowled and sipped and always came right back to that baffling question. If he wasn't on the right track, if the limousine hadn't been the one used in the jewel robbery, why should they bother to slug him and get him out of the garage?

No, Shayne didn't believe he had been mistaken about the limousine. That far, his hunch had been right. Then why had Blackie received orders to put him out of the way. Shayne was the contact they needed. Their only chance to make a decent profit from the stolen bracelet.. if Voorland was right in stating that the star rubies would be almost worthless if cut into smaller stones so they could be safely disposed of.

In the retrospect, he went over and over the brief dialogue in the garage, seeking a clue to the irrational denouement. He had certainly made his own position clear enough. Blackie couldn't possibly have misconstrued his words sufficiently to get the impression that Shayne was threatening the safety of the mob. There was a definite way in which such matters were always handled, and Shayne's reputation certainly assured them that they need have no fear of a double-cross from him.

Michael Shayne hadn't, of course, expected a definite and outright offer over the telephone. Such delicate negotiations were never carried on baldly and openly. The go-between didn't expect nor wish to know the identity of the person with whom arrangements were made. That way, there was never any proof of collusion. A device that Shayne had used in the past was to park his car, unlocked, at a pre-arranged spot and time with an envelope thrust down behind the seat containing the agreed upon sum in large bills. After conscientiously leaving it unwatched for fifteen minutes, one expected to return and find the envelope gone, mysteriously replaced by the stolen gems. A particularly wise precaution to observe in a case like that was to have a witness present when the jewels were found in the car, thus defeating any suggestion of pre-arrangement. Once, Shayne recalled, he had had the pleasure of using Peter Painter himself as the witness to prove that Shayne had been inside a bar a block away when the stolen property was being returned.

It was because of this very definitely understood proceedure that Shayne was now so puzzled by Blackie's reaction to his telephone call tonight. Even if the mob planned to use some other intermediary for collecting an insurance reward there was no good reason to get sore at a man merely because he offered his services. The more he puzzled over it, the angrier he became. It could only be construed as a clear warning for him to keep his nose out of the affair. The second such waring he had received in the course of a few hours. he reminded himself sourly. First, Painter. Then the man whom Blackie had designated as the Boss.

Shayne didn't like warnings. He didn't react to them very well. He drained his glass and set it down, carefully touched the livid swelling on his jaw with rough finger-tips, then got up and left the bar.

He drove across the Country Causeway swiftly, turned south on Biscayne Boulevard, and parked his damaged sedan a few minutes later in the hotel garage.

Only the night clerk was on duty when Shayne crossed to the elevator. The man blinked sleepily at the uninjured side of the detective's face and muttered, "G'night, Mr. Shayne," and settled back in his chair.

The elevator boy widened his eyes and rolled them sideways until only the whites showed when he saw the lump on Shayne's jaw, but swallowed his questions and took him up to the third floor.

The door was unlatched, and Shayne was surprised to find his living room light on when he went in. He had forgotten Lucy's promise to wait there for him no matter how late he was, but he remembered it when he saw a pair of pink mules on the living room floor.

Closing the door quietly, he stood tugging at his earlobe for a soundless whistle, went quietly across to the bedroom door and bent his head to listen attentively. He could hear no sound from the closed room. She had probably grown sleepy and weary of waiting, and had decided to take a nap.

He turned away and removed his hat and coat, went into the bathroom and grimaced at the reflection that looked back at him from the mirror.

Cold water took all the blood away, but didn't help the puffed bruise much. Then went into the kitchen and filled a tall glass with ice and water, carried it into the living room with a smaller empty glass. After filling the smaller glass with Monnet, he lit a cigarette on which he puffed slowly between alternate sips of ice water and cognac.

Except for his throbbing chin he had never felt better and more at peace with the world. His gaze kept straying to the pair of pink mules on the floor. Lucy had probably became discouraged over the little game she had been playing all evening, and he thought of her curled up on the big double bed, asleep.

STEVEDORES BACK TO WORK

Sydney, Australia, Sept. 18.—(Reuters) — Sydney's four-day dock strike broke up today when stevedores and longshoremen decided to resume work tomorrow.

The walkout started Thursday when 7,000 waterfront workers refused to work after the suspension of men engaged on one ship.

The suspended men had demanded full pay for eight hours, though their ship was unloaded in five. The workers said employers had taken on extra help for the job.

The stoppage involved more than 70 ships and at one stage threatened to spread to other ports.

Allies Take Waegwan On Main Seoul Road

Troops Crossing Naktong Run Into Bloody Ambush

2,000 Reds Taken Prisoner Since Second Front Opened

By LEIF ERICKSON

Tokyo, Sept. 19. (AP)—American forces today captured Waegwan, North Korean strongpoint in southeast Korea on the main road leading back to Seoul. The reds appeared to be withdrawing all along the perimetre of the old Allied beachhead defence box.

Red columns pulling out of the long-besieged Taegu-Waegwan area may be racing northward to defend Seoul.

U.S. Marines were battering there at the gates of the 500-year old Korean capital on the Allied second front 140 miles north of Waegwan.

U.S Marines leading a 40,000-man Allied liberation force from Inchon Port still had to cross the half-mile-wide Han river to enter Seoul.

They were in Seoul's southwest suburb, Yongdungpo, with engineers moving up river-crossing equipment to the Han.

A spokesman said U.S. 1st Cavalry troops rolled through the highway town of Waegwan without opposition and moved 1 1-2 miles farther on the road to Kumchon, 18 miles northwest.

He said the Korean reds were fleeing toward Kunchon.

Waegwan, 14 miles northwest of Taegu, had been the strongest point of red resistance as Allied forces fought to crack out of the old South Korean beachhead in the centre of the perimeter.

Two other red Korean divisions were reported retreating from the Mason front far to the south U.S. 25th Division troops drove ahead there as much as four miles.

Credit Controls May be Operating Before Oct. Ends

Ottawa, Sept. 19—(CP)—Credit controls on instalment buying may be brought into operation before the end of October, informed quarters disclosed Monday.

It was indicated that the government now is taking over possible credit curbs with various industries, department stores and other retailers with the view to preparing credit-control regulations during the next few weeks.

At the same time a prices board official has been dispatched to Montreal and Toronto to feel out finance corporations on the idea of tightening up on the extension of loans to finance purchasing of new passenger cars.

Finance Minister Abbott's officials are expected to present him with a complete report through which the regulations can be drafted within the next two weeks.

Regulations, outlining the government's steps to curb instalment buying, then are expected to be prepared "without delay."

Authority to effect consumer credit controls was given the government during the last session of parliament.

Fight Inflation

Designed to fight inflation by discouraging people from buying, the credit regulations are expected to be drafted on "a general pattern" of those in effect during the Second World War. However, there will be several changes, including the maximum amount of goods which can be purchased under the instalment plan.

During the Second World War, the regulations specified:

1. A maximum of six-months credit for wearing apparel, including footwear and headgear, but excluding furs and fur-trimmed clothes.
2. A 10-month credit period for other goods, valued at less than $500.
3. A 15-month credit period for goods valued at more than $500.

The controls may be on such goods as clothes and household equipment and passenger cars, but will exclude food and fuel, and all capital and producer goods such as farm machinery and trucks.

Firemen Succeed Where Doctors Fail

London, Sept. 19 — (CP) Firemen called to St. Olive's Hospital succeeded where doctors and surgeons had failed.

The firemen received an emergency call and arrived with full fire-fighting equipment to find that they were required to remove a ring from four-year-old Cheryl Eyles' finger.

The doctors had tried almost everything — hacksaws, files and grease but the ring proved too tough for them.

Put on their mettle, the firemen screwed a grindstone to an operating table, and while Cheryl was under anaesthetic, ground away at the metal ring.

An hour later Cheryl was restored to her worried parents none the worse for her experience.

U.S. Jets Abandon Attempt to Fly Across Atlantic

Washington, Sept. 19 — (AP)—Two U. S. Air Force jet fighters abandoned an attempt to fly from London to New York non-stop today after one of the planes damaged its equipment for refuelling in flight over Prestwick, Scotland.

The air force announced failure of the flight. Another attempt will be made later, officials indicated.

The fliers are Col. David Schilling, 31, wartime ace, and Lt.-Col. W. D. Ritchie.

Despite Drinker's Craving For Alcohol It's Really Salt He Wants Say Doctors

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 19—(AP)—Take a drink of salt water when you reach the stage of really craving alcohol, say two New York doctors who have made a study of the problem.

Because, it is explained, your body is really craving salt, even though your palate says alcohol. There's nothing imaginary behind this sensation, the study indicates. It's a purely physical reaction which fools your senses.

The study is reported by doctors W. D. Silkworth and M Texon of the Knickerbocker hospital, New York, in the quarterly journal of alcohol. They analyzed the blood of persons who had been drinking heavily enough to be sent to hospital. In all cases they found the salt (chloride) reduced.

"The alcohalic," they report, "in the early stages of a drinking bout, drinks as a result of psychological or environmental factors. At this voluntary stage the blood chlorides are not significantly altered.

"When the drinking continues to the point of a lowered blood chloride, the sensation of thirst evokes an abnormal response. Instead of salt and water, the alcoholic continues to take liquor. The stage of uncontrolled drinking has been reached.

"He takes more whisky and water to replace the loss of water and salt. Thus, he does not replace his salt, but perhaps satisfies his pharyngeal thirst sensation. (The pharynx is the part of the throat where the thirst sensation is felt.) This further exaggerates his net salt loss and perpetuates his craving."

The recommended salt drink, says the report, is two grams of salt in 30 cubic centimetres of water, followed by a 200 cubic centimetre of water. Or a small teaspoonful of salt in a little more than an ordinary glass of water.

ONE-CENT RISE IN MILK PRICE SPLIT THREE WAYS

New Price in Toronto Effective Wednesday

Toronto, Sept. 19 — (CP) — A one-cent increase in the price of milk in Toronto, effective tomorrow, will be split among dairy workers, dairy owners and farmers, the secretary of the Toronto Milk Distributors' Association said today

Jack Houck said the increase, raising the cost of a quart from 19 to 20 cents, was decided on after a stalemate in two weeks of meetings with producers.

Distributors hoped the increase would satisfy both labor and producers and "if it doesn't, the matter probably will have to go to concilliation."

Dairy workers will get a $3-a-week wage increase and farmers will be paid 12½ cents more for each 100 pounds of milk, raising their return to $4.20 a hundredweight.

Leaders of national women's groups criticized the increase, which boosts milk to the highest in Toronto's history. The price compares with 12 cents a quart in 1939; 11 cents in 1941; when the government paid a two-cent subsidy, and 16 cents after controls were removed in 1946.

The new price of pasteurized milk will be 20 cents a quart and prices of other grades of milk and cream will be increased proportionately. The higher price is reported to be designed to cover increased costs of supplies, trucks and labor. Dairy employees will get a $3-a-week wage increase and improvements in working conditions.

Four UK Labor Members Escape Serious Injury

London, Sept. 19 (Reuters) — An automobile accident that might have caused a national election in Britain occurred in London late last night.

Four Labor members of parliament, whose votes will be desperately needed in parliament tonight if the Labor Government is to survive the Conservative censure vote, were involved in an accident while driving home from a late House session.

Their car crashed through an iron railing and teetered over a sunken basement entrance.

All four escaped injury.

ARMED, BUT DID NOT RESIST ARREST

Boynton St. John, who made the easiest prison escape in Kingston penitentiary history, is led from Brockville jail escorted by guards S. Maxwell and S. J. Baker en route to Kingston. St. John, allowed to work in prison officials' houses, escaped Friday after hitting the grandson of the chief keeper with a hatchet. Recognized in a Brockville hotel lobby, police quickly took him into custody. He was armed with a loaded pistol, but did not struggle. — Central Press Canadian.

Three Homes, Service Station At Plevna Destroyed by Fire

Plevna — (Special) — Fire starting at 5.30 a.m. in the garage of Jack Cards at Plevna, 80 miles northeast of here, early this morning completely destroyed three homes, together with the garage and service station.

All members of the four families escaped from the blaze which raged for three hours before it was brought under control, but two families lost their entire household effects.

Mr. F. Pooley, living with his family in part of one of the homes destroyed, was first to discover the fire. It was already raging in the Cards' garage and service station and he roused the Cards' family who made their escape.

Other families who lost their homes in the blaze were Mr. and Mrs. Mansen Kellar, owner of the double house in which Mr. Pooley resided, and Rev. and Mrs. A. Brandon, English church minister. Mr. and Mrs. Brandon were away from home at the time of the blaze.

The Cards family and the Kellar family lost their entire household belongings as they just managed to escape ahead of the flames. The Pooley family were able to save some of their effects, while those of the Brandons were also saved.

The local forestry department under Allan Bronson fought the fire with their pumps and hose. Water was pumped from nearby Buckshot Creek. No estimate was given as to the total amount of the loss.

Churchill Accuses Govt. Of Plunging Country Into Bitter Political Strife

London, Sept. 19 (AP)—Winston Churchill accused Britain's Labor Government today of plunging the country into bitter political strife at a time when it should be seeking unity against communst enemies at home and abroad.

That, he said, was the result of Prime Minister Attlee's decision last week to go ahead with state ownership of the steel industry.

Churchill opened a one-day debate on a motion of censure which might topple the government and force Britain's second general election within a year.

Attlee's cabinet looked upon the vote as one of confidence in the government. They believed enough ailing Labor supporters would rally tonight to save them from defeat by five or six votes.

Churchill said the government's action "took all of us and our friends abroad by surprise."

"There was no need for the prime minister to take this hazardous course at the present tme," he said.

The oppostion leader noted that the government has "a majority of two, three or four seats, or whatever it is" and added:

"One half of the nation ought not in such circumstances to claim the right, on so slender a margin, to knock the other half about and ride roughshod over them."

The steel industry above all others in Britain, Churchill said, "deserves the prize for its efficiency and its smooth working expansion."

"The rearmament effort cannot possibly proceed except with the smooth, efficient working of the steel industry at its highest," Churchill asserted.

Conservative Tufton Beamish alleged there was an "active communist agent" on the new corporation which is to control the industry.

Another Conservative accused Attlee of submitting the industry to the control of "Marxist riff raff."

They were referring to the appointment of William Stokes, a trade union official, as a member of the corporation.

Loud Labor protests greeted these remarks.

Attlee said he knew that Stokes was at one time a member of the communist party, but he was now a "very active anti-communist." Stokes' services were also highly thought of by ministers in the war coalition government, he added.

QUESTION WOMAN IF SHE KNEW NAME OF OAKES' SLAYER

She States Mechanic Told Her Man's Name

Miami, Fla., Sept. 19 (AP) — Police of two countries questioned a Fort Lauderdale, Fla., woman last night to see if she had any knowledge of who murdered Sir Harry Oakes seven years ago at Nassau.

Augustus Roberts, assistant Bahamas police superintendnet, and Chief Roland Kelly of Fort Lauderdale visited the woman's home. Her name was a guarded secret.

"We didn't get much," Kelly commented.

Edward Majava, 31-year-old mechanic who formerly lived in Fort Lauderdale, told Oakland, Calif., police yesterday the name of a man he said slew the Canadian mining millionaire in his Nassau home in July, 1943.

James J. Mangini, Oakland police inspector, said Majava, a native of Finland, stated he learned the name of the slayer from a woman at Fort Lauderdale two years ago.

The woman interviewed at Fort Lauderdale, however, said Majava told her the slayer's name and said he had learned it from a Miami woman.

The Fort Lauderdale woman, an artist, was highly nervous while being interviewed.

Roberts arrived from Nassau yesterday and interrupted his trip to California to interview the woman. He continued on to California today.

New Information Received

G. H. Ranoe, Nassau police commissioner, acknowledged that new information had been received but refused comment.

(A reliable source in Nassau said the alleged slayer was a Bahamian.)

Edward Majava, 31-year-old mechanic, told Oakland, Calif., police yesterday that he knows who bludgeoned the Canadian mining millionaire to death in his Nassau home in 1943.

Police inspector James J. Managini said in Oakland that Majava's story had been checked and he is awaiting further word from Bahamas colonial police.

Managini said Majava, a native of Finland, related that an American society woman had told him the name of the slayer at Fort Lauderdale,, Fla., two years ago.

Police Commissioner G. H. Ranoe of Nassau acknowledged that new information had been received in the case but refused comment.

He also declined to reveal the Fort Lauderdale woman's name. "She may be innocent," he explained.

(In Nassau, a reliable source said the alleged murderer is a Bahamanian.)

English Youth Will Try to Make Good And Become Heir to Western Farm

Quebec, Sept. 19—(CP)—If Joe McDonald, 19-year-old British youth, makes good in Bad Heart, Alta., he'll fall heir one day to a 40-acre farm.

That was the prospect that faced him today when he arrived here from Bolton, Eng., bound for Alberta's Peace River district and the farm of Richard Wolstencroft at Bad Heart.

Some time ago, Wolstencroft, 60-year-old former newsboy and now a successful farmer, wrote to his home-town of Bolton offering opportunity to the "right lad."

The farmer said he was getting on in years and he had no heir but was prepared to make a place on his farm at Bad Heart for a promising boy from Bolton. If the Bolton youth settled down properly, the farm would be left to him.

Joe McDonald seized the chance and arrived today aboard the Empress of Scotland.

Move Warns Reds To Keep Hands off Western Germany

Many Restrictions Eased On Steel, Ship Production

By DONALD DOANE

Frankfurt, Germany, Sept. 19 — (AP) — Britain, the United States and France joined today in a warning to Russia to keep hands off Western Germany.

The three powers moved to end their state of war with Germany and to strengthen her industrially and defensively, but announced that there is no call for recreating a national army in the Western zones.

Any attack upon Berlin or upon Western Germany will be regarded as an attack upon the occupying countries themselves.

This was made clear in a communique issued by Secretaries Acheson, Bevin and Schuman after their New York conferences. The text was made public here tonight.

Agreement Outlined

The ministers, in their New York session, also decided to:

1. "Permit the establishment of mobile police formations organized on a land (state) basis but with provisions which would enable the federal (West German) government to make effective use of all or part of this force in order fully to meet the exigencies of the present situation."
2. Review present prohibitions and limitations on German industries.
3. Remove immediately all restrictions on the size, speed and number of commercial cargo ships built for export.
4. Permit steel to be produced beyond the present limits laid down by the Allies wherever such increased production would "facilitate the defence effort of the west."
5. Permit West Germans to set up a Ministry of Foreign Affairs to handle its own foreign relations, now handled by the Allies.

No Decision on Defence

The Foreign Ministers said they had given serious consideration to the problem of Germany's military security and to sentiments favoring German participation in the defence of Western Europe. But no decision was reached on this question. "Study and exchange of views" will continue on it.

However, the ministers ruled out any idea of rebuilding the German army outside the framework of common European defence.

They said:

"The ministers are fully agreed that the recreation of a German national army would not serve the best interest of Germany or Europe. They also believe this is the view of the great majority of the German people."

More Independence

Without saying just what control powers they would give up, the Allies promised to broaden the West German government's authority for action independent of Allied vetoes.

"These decisions mark an important stage in the normalization of the relations and should contribute towards the creation of an atmosphere of mutual confidence and understanding," the communique said.

"They represent a major advance toward the progressive return of Germany to partnership in Western Europe and the consolidation of the western nations in their efforts to establish a firm basis for the future peace of Europe and the world."

The foreign ministers made it plain that by ending the state of war with Germany they do not intend to end the military occupation of the country.

"This action will not affect the rights and status of the three powers in Germany, which rest upon other bases," the communique said.

Firmer Foundation

"It will, however, create a firmer foundation for the developing structure of peaceful and friendly relationships and will remove disabilities to which German nations are subject."

"It is hoped that other nations will find it possible to take similar action," the foreign ministers suggested.

Despite Germany's surrender in 1945, the state of war has been maintained ever since, waiting for the signing of a peace treaty.

The foreign ministers indicated they had little hope of any early agreement with Russia on a peace treaty.

Psychiatrists Say Former OPP Keays "Sane"

Ottawa, Sept. 19 — (CP) — Ernest Keays, former Ontario Provincial Police constable arrested last week after brandishing an automatic pistol in county court, has been adjudged "sane" by psychiatrists and will face trial next week on two charges.

He appeared in Magistrate's Court today and was formally charged with unlawful possession of a weapon capable of being concealed and with unlawfully wearing a police officer's uniform.

Keays, whose charges — late found unsubstantiated — sparked a Royal Commission investigation into provincial police activities last year, pleaded "not guilty" and elected trial by magistrate. The case was adjourned for a week at the request of Crown Attorney Raoul Mercier. Bail was set at $50 on each count.

Keays was arrested last week after he entered Carleton county court in the uniform of a police officer, called to the presiding judge that he was "subject to arrest," whipped out a .32 - calibre automatic and struggled when police sought to overpower him.

Varying effects of weekend frost were reported today by farmers on the city market. One stated that nine acres of tomatoes were "finished" in the Cherry Valley district, while another 4-acre patch across the bay was damaged.

Another source revealed that 15 acres of tomatoes was plowed under in the Brighton area because of blight.

Some corn acreage in the Albury district was reported affected by the frost.

Youths Seriously Injured When Car Leaves Road

Marmora—Crashing into a pile of rocks left at the side of the highway during road repair, two young motorists suffered serious injury west of Marmora early this morning and were taken to St. Joseph's hospital at Peterborough.

The two men were Frederick J. Einarson, 18, of Rosso, and Herbert Quigley, 19 of Bracebridge. Both men suffered fractured hips and shock.

Their car was travelling west on No. 7 highway when three miles from Marmora it went off the right shoulder, travelled 200 feet along the ditch and then crashed into the pile of stones.

The crash of the car striking the rock pile was heard by Almond and Harry Boyd who lived near the scene. They called Dr. H. G. Parkin of Marmora who rendered first aid and sent the injured men to hospital.

Provincial Consable T. Lummiss of Madoc, with Constable Percy Embury of Marmora, investigated. The car was badly wrecked.

34th Battery, RCA Holds Reunion In Gananoque

Headed by past-president Douglas Stork and Secretary James (Snipe) Matthews, a large contingent of ex-members of the 34th Battery, RCA from this city attended the second annual reunion of the unit in Gananoque over the weekend. Upwards of 200 ex-members of the unit were present.

Brigadier D. R. Agnew, commandant of the Royal Military College, Kingston was the guest speaker at the Saturday night banquet.

Recalls Record

Recalling the 34th's proud war record, Brigadier Agnew said that the qualities which made Canada's servicemen among the world's best were just as important today as during the war. These qualities, which helped the democracies win final victory over the forces of evil, were integrity, trustworthiness, loyalty, self-discipline, faith in God, good manners and a sense of humor.

"Canada doesn't need to worry about the future if these qualities continue to be inherent in her sons and daughters," he said.

Brigadier Agnew, first CO of the 14th Field Regiment, to which the 34th was attached overseas, emphasized that "we don't want wars with anybody." He added, however, that we must be fully prepared to meet aggression and threats to peace whenever and wherever they arise.

The famous 34th's reunion festivities were attended by former members from Kingston, Napanee, Belleville and Gananoque troops. Close to 200 were present, many of them accompanied by their wives.

An unexpected guest was Major John Forth, the unit's overseas padre at one time. He arrived unscheduled with Brigadier Agnew from Kingston, and received a tumultuous welcome.

Many Guests

Others at the head table were Major Eric Warwick, OC of the 3rd Anti-Tank Battery, Canon N. R. Stout, BSM W. J. Nalon, who acted as master of ceremonies, James 'Snipe' Matthews of Belleville, Major Kenneth Dowsley, Harold Hawkins, president of the local branch of the Canadian Legion, and Mayor J. D. Carmichael.

The mayor extended a civic welcome to the celebrants, saying "the freedom of the town is yours. Knock it apart if you like, we'll put it together again next week."

Other speakers included Major Forth, Major Dowsley and Canon Stout. Frequent reference was made to the 34th's heroic exploits on D day, its part in the capture of the Channel ports and in the bitter Scheldte Estuary fighting, and its many deeds of valor in actions through France, Belgium, Holland and Germany.

Inter-Communication System Most Modern in Any School

With installation of the equipment now completed, the Prince Charles public school can boast of one of the most modern inter-communication systems of possibly any school in Ontario.

The equipment was purchased from the Northern Electric Company here with installation being made by Mr. F. Beeby, one of the company engineers who lives near and has taken a keen interest in the new school.

The inter-communication system is complete with radio with speakers in each of the classrooms, in the auditorium and in the principal's office. Also there is a record player combination, this particular piece of the equipment being purchased by the home and school club.

Each speaker in the school can be used individually or programs can be head simultaneously in all the rooms. And all can be controlled from the principal's office. Also programs can be heard throughout the school when staged in any of the classrooms.

School Principal J. E. Bateman says the "inter-com" system will be of great benefit to the school children in that they will be able to take advantage of the many educational programs prepared for radio use.

Car Runs Off Ramp, Lands Atop Another Auto Parked Nearby

Any member of the city police department or of the traffic committee will agree that parking space is at premium in Belleville, but space to park the family jalopy is not so much at a premium as was suggested last evening at the Glen Roy Creamery, North Pinnacle Street.

Passersby saw the crowd gathered, blinked, then rubbed their eyes and finally realized that what they were seeing was real. In the creamery parking space one auto was standing by a wall, while a second auto was standing on its nose — on top of the first car.

It all happened just as creamery manager Don McNevin was getting ready to go home shortly before seven o'clock. He had his car parked at the ground floor office door beneath a ramp leading to a second-storey delivery door.

Car Went Off Ramp

William Faulkner, R.R. 1, Carrying Place, was driving his car over the ramp when at the corner of the building the car went off the ramp and dropped 15 feet onto a gasoline pump which was pushed onto the McNevin car.

The Faulkner car remained suspended in perpendicular fashion atop the McNevin car and the driver gingerly climbed out through the door to make a safe landing on the ground.

Two wrecking trucks were called. One pulled the Faulkner car up so the car underneath could be moved. Then the car was let down to the pavement on its four wheels. Neither car suffered a great deal of damage. But the gasoline pump was wrecked.

Explaining the accident Faulkner told investigating police officer Charles Lockwood that "something" went wrong with the steering.

Sergeant Morris is well known in this district. He joined the OPP in Belleville in 1927 after serving five years with the city police department. His various stations include Madoc, Picton, Bowmanville and Bancroft.

Four in Car Escape Serious Injury in Crash

Four Belleville district young people escaped serious injury early Sunday morning when the car in which they were riding on the second concession of Thurlow township missed a turn west of the coal chutes and turned over after crashing a telephone pole.

Pinned in the car for half an hour until the wrecker arrived was Arnold Bowers, Foxboro, who escaped with minor injuries. Two girls in the car, Miss Sally Douglas, R.R. 6 Belleville, and Miss Arlene Bradshaw, city, suffered bruises and minor cuts. The fourth occupant of the car was Ronald E. Hopkin of Foxboro.

It was stated the westbound car missed the turn west of the crossover and went into the ditch. Provincial Constable I. E. Tinkess investigated.

Poison Ivy Now Removed From School Grounds

Pupils attending Prince Charles public school can romp and play in the full extent of their school grounds this week without danger of contact with poison ivy which up to Saturday had proven troublesome.

After half a dozen children had gotten into the ivy the patch was cleaned up over the weekend when the school janitor got out his scythe, cut the troublesome ivy and disposed of it.

Earlier the board of education and school principal had thought the ivy was on a road allowance and not on school property. City hall officials said there was no road allowance but the engineering department claims no mention was made of poison ivy.

"If the poison ivy had been mentioned we would have cleaned it up whether it was on city property or not," stated one of the engineering staff.

Produce Heavy On Market, Prices Steady

Heavy offerings and sluggish early morning business featured the city market activities today.

Overall prices showed little change from weekend quotations but movements were slow.

Several varieties of apples were offered with McIntosh Reds quoted at 65 cents the basket. Wealthies brought 50 cents as did St. Lawrence. Wolf Rivers were quoted at 35 cents the half-peck.

Flemish Beauty pears were 90 cents and 1.00 the basket according to quality. Blue plums and prune plums were 25 cents the box. Canteloupe and watermelon were plentiful. The former brought from ten cents up while the watermelon prices ranged from ten cents to a dollar each.

Tomatoes and corn were plentiful selling at thirty cents the dozen ears and 30 cents the basket respectively. Brussels sprouts sold at 30 cents the basket with cabbage and cauliflower quoted from ten cents up. Potato prices were firm at weekend quotations.

Need of Funds Urgent For Sightless People

"The Canadian National Institute for the Blind is unique as a welfare organization," stated Field Secretary P. I. Timmins in speaking of the need for funds. "Its policy is to train its registrants for independence, or for that degree of independence of which they are capable.

"The Institute then sets out to find employment for them," said Mr. Timmins, "either in its own factories, its occupational shops, in industry generally, or in the home.

"The blind who have learned from the Home Teachers to do such handicrafts as leather work, carving, knitting, etc., can then purchase their materials at cost or less from the Institute, and sell their finished articles to the Institute for re-sale — or they can build up a business with private customers.

"In some cases the Institute has loaned a blind person the money to set him up in a business suited to his capabilities. This loan is paid back as the business progresses.

"Those who have experienced blindness, best know its disadvantages," the Field Secretary stated. "That is why prevention of blindness is an important part of the Institute program.

"It is to carry on these and other such services in Belleville, Trenton, and Hastings County that the Institute is in need of funds. The Canadian National Institute for the Blind asks all to give as generously as they can during the Campaign which will be held in September.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Sept. 19 — (CP) — Industrials and base metals led prices steadily lower as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Opening trends pointed upwards but sudden appearance of selling wiped out the early gains. Volume for the first three hours was 1,054,000 shares.

Industrials climbed strongly yesterday and advanced into new high average price grounds. Papers, leaders in the advance, paced today's declines. Utilities, agricultures, liquors and refining oils were also lower while steels held firm. Most losses were held to small fractions.

Almost all base metal stocks trading dipped into minus ground. Heavy buying last week pulled the list to the highest average price levels in 13 years. Leaders on the upturn like Consolidated Smelters, International Nickel and Hudson Bay were hardest hit by the selling.

Western oils also sagged but at a slow rate. The low-priced gold stocks that traded heavily yesterday moved sluggishly.

MARMORA

Jury Attaches No Blame on Car Driver

Marmora — At the inquest on Michael Coules held in Marmora Town Hall on Monday with Coroner Dr. S. R. Beatty presiding and Assistant Crown Attorney S. G. Robertson examining witnesses, the following verdict was rendered: "We the jury empanelled to enquire into the circumstances of the death of Michael Coules, return this verdict: That the deceased came to his death on Main Street, Marmora at 12.15 a. m. September 9th, 1950 as a result of being struck by a car driven by Leo Wellman, and attach no blame to the driver of the car."

John Anderson of Cordova, called first to the witness stand repeated evidence of identification as given at the preliminary hearing.

Just Heard Crash

Thomas Revoy, pedestrian on the road at the time of the fatality gave evidence of witnessing the deceased being struck down by the Wellman car as it was southbound but could give no evidence on the collision between the Wellman car and that driven by Gerald Caverley which ensued beyond admitting that he heard the crash.

Leo Wellman testified that as he descended a small knoll. Coules walked into the path of his car although he was only travelling at about ten miles an hour He also stated that his car was stopped as the other car collided with it after his swerved.

Dr. H. G. Parkin described the injuries which were the cause of death and said that Coules was dead upon his arrival.

Gerald Caverley described the collision and corroborated evidence of the position the deceased lay in after being struck and said he did not see any pedestrians on the road near the scene of the fatality. Provincial Constable Hector Gould gave the results of his investigations. Called to the witness stand as the last two witnesses, Mrs. Leo Wellman and Miss Eileen McPherson (injured) passenger in the Caverley car, gave corroborative evidence of that already given.

News of Trenton

Man Injured By Hit-and-Run Truck Driver

Trenton — Trenton police are searching for a hit-and-run driver who Saturday evening struck Stephen Harrington, 74 Murray St., West, as he was walking on Murray Street and drove away without stopping.

Harrington was walking west on Murray Street when the green half ton truck driving without lights came from in front of the Queensway Hotel and struck the pedestrian who is believed to have suffered a broken right leg and cut on the forehead.

It was stated the driver of the hit-and-run truck did not turn on his lights until he reached the C.N.R. underpass. The accident occurred about 10.30.

Harrington was attended at the scene by Dr. A. E. McQuade. He was admitted to Belleville Hospital.

Fire Damages Warehouse Loss is $5,000

Trenton. —Damage of approximately $5,000 resulted at the warehouse of the B. W. Powers coal yard here Thursday night, when the storage shed was gutted by fire of undetermined origin.

Destroyed in the blaze was an English model car valued at $1,500 and owned by Leonard Taylor, night watchman.

Taylor said he had checked the property and found everything in order and then 15 minutes later discovered the flames. He ran to the building to save his car but an explosion forced him back.

Firemen were called at 11:20 and left at 3 a.m. They were called back to the scene at 5 o'clock when the blaze again broke out and stayed until 7:30.

Ontario Harvests Largest Fall Wheat Crop in History

Toronto, Sept. 19 — (CP) — Ontario farmers this year harvested the largest fall wheat crop in history.

The Provincial Agriculture Department, in its monthly crop report, today estimated the crop at 29,789,000 bushels, an increase of more than 5,000,000 from 1949 and almost 10,000,000 above the 1940-49 average.

Production of all grains in Southern Ontario was one of the largest on record the department said. Northern grain crops are well developed but slow in ripening.

Total yield of all crops was estimated at 208,000,000 bushels, 48,000,000 more than in 1949 and 56,000,000 more than the 1940-49 average.

94,900,000 Bushels Oats

Of this figure, oats production accounted for 94,900,000 bushels and mixed grains totalled 52,738,000 bushels.

Haying was unusually prolonged this year, the department reported. It estimated the total hay and clover crop at 4,254,000 tons, compared with 3,689,000 last year and the 1940-49 average of 5,146,000. Alfalfa output was estimated at 1,747,000 tons, an increase of 300,000 from 1940 but below the 1940-49 average of 1,815,000 tons.

Heavy rains have generally resulted in a lower yield of fruits and vegetables, but many fruits are of larger size than usual.

In Western Ontario, the apple crop is smaller than normal. Pear production was down, and hail and wind caused widespread damage to Niagara peach crops. The grape crop is expected to be "very heavy."

The Eastern Ontario apple crop is well developed. The plum crop is poor, but pears showed some improvement. Tomatoes now are being harvested in volume, and the potato crop looks good.

Sugar beet production also is up. Estimated yield was 350,000 tons, an increase of 15,000 tons from last year. Good progress has been made in harvesting tobacco, despite late maturing. Inroads of blight are expected to cut production of high-quality potatoes.

Lady Bowlers Hold Tourney At Local Greens

The ladies of the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club held their last tournament of the season last Tuesday at the local greens. Though the weather was threatening, the rain held off and they had a successful tournament. Rinks came from Kingston, Cobourg, Stirling, and the home club. The high three game was won by a Cobourg rink, skipped by Mrs. H. Naylor. The second three win was won by a Belleville rink of Mrs. J. Shaw, Mrs. E. Robson and skipped by Mrs. G. Watkin. The two high went to a Kingston rink skipped by Mrs. J. Scott. One high went to another Belleville rink of Mrs. W. Price, Mrs. D. Row and skipped by Mrs. C. Argue. No game high was won by Mrs. Smart's rink of Kingston.

One incident happened that caused quite a bit of amusement. Due to illness one of the ladies couldn't play and they talked the greens keeper Jack Smith into playing the first game, until a substitute could come. So now Jack's name is "Nellie". The ladies served coffee in the morning and between games in the afternoon.

The ladies have been successful in outside tournaments too. In Kingston, Mrs. C. Mott, Mrs C. Argue, and Mrs. H. Cross, won the high three game. In Oshawa, a week ago a rink of Mrs. G. Vince, Mrs. C. Mott, Mrs. C. Argue and Mrs. H. Cross, won the two game high. In Campbellford a rink of Mrs. J. Shaw, Mrs. N. Kyle and skipped by Mrs L. Gerow won the one game high.

Toronto Man and Wife Injured as Car Is Ticked By Passing Car at Marysville

Mrs. John Thompson, 516 Riverside Drive, Toronto, was critically injured, and her husband suffered a lacerated knee cap and chest injuries, when their car went out of control after being ticked by another vehicle and crashed into a tree. The accident occurred on Highway No. 2 near Marysville Church.

At the Belleville General Hospital the condition of Mrs. Thompson was described by Dr. Austin Walters as being critical. She suffered a compound fracture of the hip, severe scalp wounds, a broken wrist and chest injuries.

It was stated that the Thompson vehicle was proceeding west when an American car in attempting to pass struck the bumper of the Thompson car. It then went out of control, proceeding 250 feet down the ditch and crashed into a tree on the north side of the highway. The Thompson car was badly damaged but the other car escaped with but a few scratches.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson were taken to hospital by Bush's ambulance.

W.R. Givens, Former Publisher In Kingston, Dies

Kingston, Sept. 19. (AP)—A "fighting newsman" whose editorials and writings enlivened the North American scene a generation ago, William Robert Givens, died in hospital, Monday. He was 82.

An individualistic follower of the old-time journeyman newspaper tradition, he worked on various papers in New York State, including the New York Times. But though he burst into international prominence on the latter newspaper with a rare interview with financier J. P. Morgan, it was in Kingston that many of his solid accomplishments were achieved.

Here, in his home town, he worked in law and the press, his twin loves. For 20 years he published the Kingston Daily Standard and for five years was president of the Whig-Standard after the two papers combined.

In 1948 he told an interviewer he had retired 20 years before. But, as the Toronto Daily Star said in an editorial at that time: "A fighting newsman like Billy Givens never retires. In that 20 years his writings in papers all over North America have been frequent and forceful, though perhaps lacking some of the bite and thunder of the page one double-measure editorials with which he belabored opponents in his Kingston Standard 25 years ago . . . .

Fought Ill Health

"He is one of the last of the great exemplars of personal journalism in Canada."

For most of his 82 years Billy Givens fought ill health. He survived that long battle, along with business and political jousts because of his courage and honesty and perhaps most of all because he possessed the saving grace of being able to laugh at himself.

This faculty was well-demonstrated in the 1948 interview, given a full-page spread in the Whig-Standard.

Of his early education (he entered Queen's University here at 15) he said: "If my relatives expected me to set the world on fire they were woefully disappointed, for I took not even a mediocre stand in my classes."

He also recalled the personal advice of the president of the New York Times, the late Adolph S. Ochs:

"When you go down the Street, don't bother with the underlings, go right to the fountain heads, J. P. Morgan and the rest.'"

That advice he followed fully a little later. Ill health forced his retirement from the Times, as it was later to force him from the Standard. But as he said in the interview, the Standard became "powerful, prosperous and widely-quoted, thanks to hard work and a loyal and fine staff."

Born in Kingston

Born in Kingston, he was educated in the Kingston public schools and Kingston collegiate institute. He entered Queen's University and received his degree of Bachelor of Arts when 19, being one of the University's youngest graduates.

Surviving are three stepchildren, S. T., and Henry Hill, Kingston, and Mrs. Dorothy Elliott, Windward Island, B.W.I. One niece, Mrs. P. C. Makaroff, of Saskatoon, and two nephews, Stanley Neilson, of Westmount, Que., and Harold Marshall, of Moose Jaw, Sask,

STUDENTS SNARL TRAFFIC

Saskatoon, Sept. 19 (CP) Two University of Saskatchewan freshmen were taken into custody last night by police after more than 500 snake-dancing students snarled up downtown traffic for a half hour. The long line of students twisted between parked cars, through a theatre lobby and slightly damaged a trolley bus."

It took at least five policemen, led by Police Chief Albert Milne, to break up the demonstration. The police chief said the two students were being "interviewed." The parade grew out of a weiner roast, held as part of a welcoming week for university freshmen.

1940 - 1950

"The gratitude of every home in our Island, in our Empire, and indeed throughout the world, except in the abodes of the guilty, goes out to the British airmen, who undaunted by odds, unwearied in their constant challenge and mortal danger, are turning the tide of world war by their prowess and by their devotion. Never in the field of human conflict was so much owed by so many to so few."

Those were the winged words spoken by the then Prime Minister of Britain, Winston Churchill, at the time of one of the greatest feats in all the history of human struggle for the preservation and freedom and the overthrow of aggression. They were spoken on August 20, 1940, of the deeds of British airmen.

That anniversary is being celebrated at this time with new emphasis in the light of the United Nations stand for freedom against the aggression of the North Koreans against South Korea.

The deeds of those days stand as indestructible memorials of a time in history when all that was good and beautiful and true seemed to be the butt of the forces of evil. Yet out of that came the great victory. Of this the deeds of airmen in the Battle of Britain were a symbol. Today they are still an inspiration and decades hence their memory will be a light that guides the free peoples of the world towards the full possession of liberty and peace.

GROWTH

In the signs of the expansion which has been observed in many urban communities, two evidences of growth are not omitted. One is the fact that new schools are being erected across the land and the other is that new churches are rising to serve growing of new communities. These two aspects of the life of the people rightly occupy a major place in planning. People everywhere are looking to satisfy these needs of the present and the future. It is a healthy sign.

Windsor Star referring to the recent conference of the United Church notes that this communion as well as other churches is facing the problem of new churches to serve new sections. It adds that with building costs at their present high level the problem is accentuated.

Across the country is seen this sign of expansion. The United Church it says requires from 135 to 140 new churches, some of them in the Windsor area. It is not simply the task of erecting new buildings. It is also of forming new congregations. And some existing churches are in need of either enlargement or new buildings.

New buildings in this era as in other eras take the form of homes, schools, churches, and industrial establishments.

They are all signs of progress.

PARKING PROBLEMS

In Britain people are considering the car parking problem which is a headache in the heavily populated centres. Where space is scarce there is a tendency to go underground, but underground car parks are said to bring with them new problems, the chief among them being the danger of fire and explosion.

Here are some of the problems involved as shown by the recommendations of Britain's Building Research Board. A ban is recommended on the filling of tanks from gas cans in the car park, but the recent abolition of gasoline rationing has greatly reduced this practice anyway.

And the car with a leaky gas tank receives attention as a possible cause of disaster.

There is a body of opinion that with proper safeguards multi-storey car parks may prove the cure for the headaches in Britain's parking problems.

The motor car has been one of the marks of development in the present century. Great benefits and expansion have derived from this development across the face of the globe. Yet is has brought up many problems for solution, some of which have been met and some of which remain for solution. One of these is that mentioned above, how to fit into the cramped conditions of many older cities and towns, built not with the thought of the car in mind but in another age when no one could have foreseen the progress to come from this vehicle nor the task of making it fit into the present layout.

Like the latest of inventions, the plane, the motor car is revolutionizing many of the ways of life and is here to stay and to continue the way of development which the motor car has brought about.

Faithful among the faithless, his loyalty he kept, his love, his zeal, nor number, nor example, with him wrought to swerve from truth or change his constant mind. — Milton.

O Heaven were man but constant, he were perfect; that one error fills him with faults. — Shakespeare.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST
(Copyright, 1950, Edgar A. Guest)

THE SELF-PITIER

He fell to pitying himself, and all the time felt pain increasing,
The sting of hurt continued on and seemed to give no sign of ceasing.
He even turned away from God; said prayer for aid was never heeded,
That always he had been denied the happiness for which he'd pleaded.

A blind man stopped him on the street and asked for aid to cross the highway.
"Of course," said he, and took his arm. "It's possible you're going my way."
To what of hurt he had to bear
he found himself a more resigned man.
His did not seem the sort of woes to grumble over to a blind man.

And as they walked along,
it seemed that suddenly his skies were clearing.
The pity for himself he'd had he found was strangely disappearing.
He thought: "This blind man still can smile; has never let affliction fell him.
That I had lost my faith in God I'd really be ashamed to tell him."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THEY'LL TALK ANYWAY!

During the life of the late Elbert Hubbard I used to love periodic visits to his East Aurora Roycroft Inn. There was an atmosphere of peace and culture about it. I loved to talk with the interesting guests and handle the books he produced, so beautifully bound, as well as printed.

Hanging from the beams of the Inn were mottos, some of a unique character. One said: "They will talk anyway!" I did a great deal of thinking over that one. I interpreted it as meaning that no matter what we do there will always be those who will criticize, or find fault with what we do or say, and so to pay no attention, but go about one's work as though no one had said anything. A wise motto to keep in mind.

Did you ever take note of a big dog going his way along a street, but with little dogs following and barking at his heels, as though to impress their importance on the big dog? And have you noted that the big dog paid no attention, just went his way, regardless of the snaps? They will talk anyway, said the motto, so why worry?

Each of us has a life to live. Each of us has a program and an objective in life, or should have. To pursue them happily and with satisfaction, we must bear our own responsibilities, keep faith with ourselves, be considerate of others, but waver not at all because of adverse criticism or evil gossip. They will talk anyway, but they will talk less if we pay no attention to them.

The conduct of each one of us is a personal matter. Who are we to judge another? And by what authority does anyone else judge any of us? We pay most to ourselves for and deviation from the natural rules of our own lives. We are always accountable first of all to ourselves. This fact should screen from our notice all outside talk meant to disturb the even tenor of our lives.

They will talk anyway. Let them talk! "To thine own self be true," said the wise Shakespeare, "and it must follow as the night the day, thous canst not then be false to any man."

Letter to the Editor

Corrects Statement On Mary Baker Eddy

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

In your issue of September 11th, there appeared a news item headed "Convinced" in which a grossly erroneous statement was made regarding the Discoverer and Founder of the Christian Science movement, Mary Baker Eddy, and I would respectfully solicit space for an official correction.

This item asserts that Mrs. Eddy "regarded herself as the incarnation of the feminine principle of diet" (Deity). Nothing could be further from the truth, and whoever made the statement is hereby challenged to provide proof as to where, in any of the writings of Mrs. Eddy, such a claim, or even a hint of such a claim has been made.

On the contrary, however, I would like to quote, for the benefit of your readers who may have seen this false declaration, from a letter written by Mrs. Eddy to the Editor of the New York Herald in February, 1895, in which she dealt with a similar falsity directed at her through this channel.

"A despatch is given me," she writes, "calling for an interview to answer for myself, "Am I the second Christ?' Even the question shocks me. What I am is for God to declare in His infinite mercy. As it is, I claim nothing more than what I am, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, and the blessing it has been to mankind which eternity enfolds. —There was, is, and never can be but one God, one Christ, one Jesus of Nazareth. Whoever in any age expresses most of the spirit of Truth and Love, the Principle of God's idea, has most of the spirit of Christ, of that Mind which was in Christ Jesus. If Christian Scientists find in my writings, teachings, and example a greater degree of this spirit than in others, they can justly declare it. But to think or speak of me in any manner as a Christ, is sacrilegious. Such a statement would not only be false, but the absolute antipode of Christian Science, and would savor more of heathenism than of my doctrines." (Signed) Mary Baker Eddy. OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

GLANCE BELOW

Quebec City — In most towns the dividing line between the haves and have-nots is a street or a row of factories or, traditionally, the railway tracks.

In Quebec it is a cliff of rock. The top of the cliff, dominated by the heavy tourtourelles of the Chateau Frontenac, is Upper Town. Here live the haves. The bottom of the cliff, on a shelf between the rock and the St. Lawrence, is Lower Town. Here live the have-nots. No other town has such a neat geographic cleavage between suburb and slum.

In Lower Town is the industrial parish of St. Sauveur which, at one point, may be reached from above by a curving roadway. Today I went down that hill in a shiny new Pontiac with Roger Lemelin, a somewhat sensational case of a man who bridged the two.

As we rumbled down the cobblestones, looking out over the crowded rooftops and chimney pots of the basse ville, Lemelin said, mournfully, "The hill is gentle, but the people cannot climb it."

Lemelin is 30, looks like a matinee idol, talks like Charles Boyer, has a city apartment and a country home, a wife and four children (whom he refers to as Pierre "le magnifique," Jacques "le fantastique" and the three-months'-old twins, Dianna and Andre, "the unexpected.")

He also has a good chance of being Canada's best novelist with one of his books already acclaimed (by B. K. Sandwell, among others) as near greatness.

Roger was born in St. Sauveur, lived in its genteel poverty most of his life. Unlike his neighbors, among them Albert Guay, who tried too hard. Lemelin climbed the steep hill and all that it represents. Today, when he went back, it was for a visit alone.

As a Prison

Lemelin and I met for lunch and I heard something of his story.

His first novel, "Au Pied de la Pente Douce" (which means "at the foot of the gentle slope") was a highly controversial success in French-Canada, promptly set him up as the enfant terrible of Quebec literature. Published in English as "The Town Below" it excites interest here and in the United States. His second novel, "Les Plouffes," will be out soon in English.

Both are stories of Lower Town and so I suggested we pay a visit to the scene. As we drove in his car through the city Lemelin, who speaks English with something of an effort, rambled on about his ambitions.

"I think I know where I am going," he said. "I want to write good books. This is my reason of living. Without that you cannot be happy. I don't want to teach or preach. Just to say what I see. For a time I thought we were French living away from France, but when I went to Paris I realized we are Canadian. I came home to write of my own people because I understand them."

When we had reached the driveway down the hill Roger slowed the car and looked soberly at the cluttered district below us.

"I feel like the prisoner who goes back to visit the prison," he said. "sometimes I go back to St. Sauveur to play poker with my old friends, but when I return up the hill it is like being free again.

"I ask myself why I have escaped when others do not. It is, I think, pride and ambition. I wanted to break away from here. But the others — they accept their life, their $35 a week in the shoe factory or the glue factory. It becomes a state of mind. They have no wish to be free of their parochialism."

He pointed to a clearing on the side of the steep hill. "I remember fights we had there. Our gangs against the guys from above. They called us 'the bums.' We called them "the English.' Yes, we fought that way, but so few of those friends dreamed of fighting for a place atop the hill. In St. Sauveur they look up at the towers above and see only another world."

With Laughter

As we drove through the narrow streets of the district I commented on the impeccable appearance of even the oldest houses and the evidence of high spirits and gaiety, rarely, if ever, seen in the poorer districts outside Quebec. It reminded me of Mexico where the gayest songs are heard in the worst squalor.

"'It is not really a city district at all," Lemelin said. "The outlook is that of the village. It is a village happiness of people who don't know about the outside world. At night they sit on the sidewalks and play cards. They are the proof that ignorance is bliss. Myself I prefer to be less blissful.

"Ah," he said hastily, "but do not think of these Quebecois as simpletons. They are the extreme in individualists, each dramatizing his life.

"The atom bomb may drop up there on the hill, but here in St. Sauveur the people will be too busy making love or being angry or gossiping or occupying themselves with themselves to notice the bang. They always bewilder the outsider who tries to understand them. Which, of course, makes them interesting to write about."

We made a complete circle of the district, pausing to look at the small shop of M. Guay, who is now under the death sentence for blowing up that airplane, and then swung back up the hill again.

"Now," said Roger Lemelin, "we go back to where life is less happy, but full of challenge. It is surprising how easy the grade appears from a nice new car."

UN Invasion Into N. Korea Could Produce Upheaval

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

Continued success of the powerful United Nations offensive in South Korea will mean that ultimately the peace organization will have to have the dangerous question of whether its forces shall cross the 38th parallel and occupy Northern Korea.

One uses the expression "dangerous question" advisedly. Invasion of northern Korea could produce an Asiatic upheaval. And with the major powers preoccupied in the far east, there might easily be an explosion in Europe.

The U.N. goal, of course, is not only to smash the red invasion of South Korea and restore peace, but to unite north and south Korea under one government, chosen by the people. As far as one can see now, that must call for temporary military occupation of north Korea.

Gen. MacArthur's chief of staff, Maj.-Gen. E. M. Almond, yesterday explained that if the enemy is destroyed in South Korea the 38th parallel becomes a political question.

Serious Consequences

It strikes me that this immediately poses a fresh problem of how long it could remain a political question.

Occupation of northern Korea by U.N. troops might bring neighboring Chinese communist forces in great strength to the rescue of the Korean reds.

Apropos of this, two big Chinese armies are sitting on the border of north Korea watching developments. Other Chinese and Manchurian troops are available, and Russia has been feeding much military equipment to the north Koreans.

As for Russia, just as she has avoided becoming directly involved in the present Korean war, so she might be expected to pursue that policy if U.N. troops occupied northern Korea. However, should red China go to the rescue of the Korean communists, with Moscow's blessings, it could produce a major upheaval in Asia.

Europe Foremost

And why should Russia steer clear of entanglement? Well, for the good reason that the European theatre is of much greater importance now than is the Far East. Moscow certainly would hesitate to commit vast strength to an Asiatic campaign while Europe is rapily becoming an armed camp.

Moreover, that's an argument that cuts two ways. The western allies certainly have no desire to get heavily involved in Asia at this juncture. They are in process of building their defences in Europe against any upheaval there, and can't afford to weaken that effort.

P D FROM CALCIUM DEFICIENCY

P D means physical degeneration, the manifestations of which go unrecognized in most instances, I believe, under the disarming label of chronic rheumatiz.

Among the specific nutritional deficiencies accountable for P D (or rheumatiz to you, stupid) the lack of sufficient iodine in food and/or water is probably the most prevalent in America, and calcium deficiency and vitamin B complex deficiency are nearly if not quite as prevalent.

Reason for the almost universal iodine deficiency is simply lack of iodine in soil and water.

Reason for the calcium deficiency, which manifests itself as hay fever, asthma, hives, sick headache, "nervous" headache, allergy, crumbling teeth, excessive tooth decay, recurring or chronic eczema (salt rheum, tetter), fatigue posture, "weak ankles," spinal curvative, "growing pains," adult tetany (cramps in legs or arms at night), recurring chilblains, watery drip-drip from the nose with fits of sneezing which many Yankee Wiseacres ascribe to imaginary "sinusitis"—which they think sounds better than "catarrah."

After twenty or thirty years of calcium stortage the manifestations of P D become more and more insistent—and unfortunately most victims choose to have the rheumatiz and "try" all the ancient and modern treatments the charlatans and nostrum mongers offer.

In the booklet The Ils Called Rheumatism (for which send twenty-five cents and stamped self-addressed envelope) I outline in detail what I'd do if I had anything that behaved like joint disease not obviously the result of injury—but I warn you to save your two bits if you think you know more than I do about the effects of "exposure" to cold, dampness, weather, climate and all that old almanac hokum.

In the pamphlet Calcium and Rheumatiz (available on written request if you provide stamped self-addressed envelope and no clipping, please) I tell how to correct the calcium deficiency which is second only to iodine deficiency as a cause of the P D you poor misguided geeks call rheumatiz.

The daily mail—right now we are behind schedule—is more or less cluttered the year around with anxious queries from cautious readers who have Ben Told calcium hardens the arteries, stiffens the joints, causes cataracts, makes the bones brittle or produces gallstones, stone in kidney or bladder, gravel or solidification of liver and lights.

If it seems bumptious, no matter, I defer to no other physician or "authority" on the effects of calcium feeding. Furthermore I am fairly conversant with the newer knowledge of nutrition, and I am not sticking my neck out when I assure you that the daily intake of the amount of calcium I recommended as a supplement to the ordinary diet of child, youth, adult or elderly person can do no harm. Nor can the amount along with it—and I hope any physician or nutrition authority who does not agree will dispute this statement either publicly or, if he or she prefers, by confidential communication.

In regard to this practice of supplementing the everyday diet with a suitable ration of calcium, it is well to remember the view expressed by Sherman (Chemistry of Food and nutrition, Macmillan):

The ordinary mixed diet of Americans and Europeans, at least among dwellers in cities and towns, is probably more often deficient in calcium than in any other chemical element.

Why dwellers in cities and towns? Because they generally consume less of the calcium-rich foods that do dwellers in villages and the country — milk, cheese, eggs, green leafy or salad vegetables, beans, peas, peanuts, nuts.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Pressure Cooking

Does pressure cooking destroy vitamins? (Mrs. E. P.)

Answer—Properly used it preserves vitamins and minerals at least as well as any other cooking method. Always hold to shortest possible heating and always use the cooking water for soup or gravy. Use the least possible quantity of water in cooking in steam pressure cooker. Undercooking is better than overcooking.

Grapefruit Juice

Husband drinks about a quart of grapefruit juice twice a day. Have been told it will make him thin, and some say it will thin his blood. (Mrs. M. F. A.)

Answer—Each quart of grapefruit juice yields nearly 1000 calories, so your husband won't grow thin on that, not if he eats his meat, potatoe, bread and milk. Mrs. Sumsey's notion about thinning the blood is ridiculous.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

People generally either love onions or hate them. There is nothing half-way about onions, as there is about pumpkins, turnips and even apples.

Certain people claim that they are poisoned by onions. As an onion lover, it is my suspicion that these are the people who eat a little bit of onion; and then, when their astonished and delighted insides clamor for more, suppose themselves to have been upset by the onion. The truth of the matter may well be that their stomach, on receiving this beautiful taste, and finding no more despatched, put on a sulking match, raised a rumpus, created a scene. It was not yelling for less. It wanted more.

The way to eat onions is wholesale. You should eat onions the way you eat the first strawberries. Who would think of eating half a strawberry? Or corn on the cob? Who would take a bit out of a cob of corn and let it go at that?

There are onions now available, beautiful tender snow white globes, that you can eat like apples. Some onion lovers would not go that far. They prefer a little onion in their salads, or a whisper of onion in a sauce. Boiled onions with cream sauce, or baked onions in their own juice with butter, come nearer to heaven. But by long odds the best way to eat onions is just before you go to bed, in a magnificent sandwich of fresh bread, heavily spread with cold butter, the thick-sliced onion sprinkled with salt, pepper, a dribble of basil vinegar or a smear of mayonnaise.

Such a light collation, at bedtime, may give you the wildest dreams. You may wake up in the morning wondering what hit you. If you are the type that is poisoned by onions, you will doubtless die in your sleep.

But it is still the finest way of all to eat onions.

TRUTH AND HALF-TRUTHS

Our generation is afflicted with a terrific rash of half-truths. Communism wins its converts by feeding them half-truths. There is social injustice in the world; everybody can see this; all men are creating free and equal. Therefore be a Communist and live in a world ruled by the people.

Well, it is only a short time, of course, until we see the foul dishonestry of this whole reasoning. A few men are using a multitude of gullible people for their own ends. They are persuading them to give up themselves and their possessions, and their persuasion is the persuasion of half-truths.

Some preachers mar their ministry by preaching half-truths, when the proclamation of the full gospel of Jesus Christ is their solemn privilege. There are many reformers today striving for good causes, but their whole enterprises are cluttered up with a lot of half-truths. Medical quacks often have remedies with some virtue in them, but the danger of the quack arises from his association with a lot of medical half-truths.

Demand the whole truth. "Ye shall know the truth," declared Jesus, "and the truth shall make you free." But it must be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. Half-truths will not do.

Abroad With Me

By Dorothy E. Futcher

We are up at six Monday morning for our train leaves for Oslo at 7.40. It is still raining and our one regret is that we haven't one good picture of this beautiful city. The Norwegian trains are comfortable, similar to the first class trains in Britain, and we are thankful for we have a day's trip ahead of us right over the "hump" of Norway. We learn that the railroad is a great feat of engineering and this statement is proved as the day wears on.

Although it is mountainous terrain all the way, habitation is visible practically everywhere, except right up at the highest point 4,330 feet above sea level. Where the mountains level off, farm homes and small fields are always visible. We learn these people are very poor, probably keep a cow or two and a few chickens, depending on lumbering in the winter months to eke out a livelihood. It seems to me they vie with one another in building their homes on the highest or most inaccessible spot. They make rough fences out of poles stuck in the ground joined by a few strands of wires and on these they dry their hay. They seem to follow the same plan for ripening or curing their meagre grain crop, just a pole stuck in the ground around the field and the grain draped on it until the pole is filled. It is marvellous scenery. Mrs. East, our delegate from British Columbia says it is very similar to the Rockies in her province.

We disappear into darkness dozens of times for the railroad takes us through mountains and around them, as it is an uphill climb all the way until we reach the top. You can see snow on the mountain tops, lakes are everywhere cradled among the mountain peaks, and very often a noisy, rushing mountain stream races along beside us, we hear filled with trout and salmon. Sometimes the peaks divide and in the valley between are fertile farms with quite pretentious buildings. The cattle we see resemble our Herefords but the white streak is wider on the back and spreads out on the rump.

The Germans stripped Norway of cattle and since the war 370,000 cattle have been imported to restock the farms. The breed I have described is native to Norway and is called Telemarken. The Norwegians laughingly say the legs of their cattle are shorter on one side than the other because of their mountain pastures. We travel long distances through snow sheds something new to us. They are roofs over the tracks to prevent snow drifting in the winter months, for they try to keep this road open. Snow fences are all along the tracks and are much higher but not nearly so sturdy as ours.

We stop at Finse for 20 minutes right at the top of Norway's mountain ridge. Here is the only glacier in Norway and right near the station platform is a monument to the explorer Scott. It was at Finse he trained his dogs for his dash to the North Pole. The valleys widen as we come down the mountain. We notice many lumber mills with huge sawdust piles near. It is a beautiful country, clean and lovely. No wonder the Norwegians have always been a hardy, clean-living race. They live very close to heaven—one can almost hear the rustle of wings.

We reach Oslo at eight o'clock and the Housewives of Oslo are at the station to greet us, dressed in their lovely native costume and carrying fresh corsages to pin on their Canadian guests. Do you wonder that tears come in the eyes and a lump in the throat at this sincere and gracious welcome.

I have a hotel reservation, but they insist on playing hostess all the way through and I'm practically kidnapped by one and carried off to her home. Oslo is celebrating her 900th anniversary this year and my first glimpse of the city outside the station is a huge ferris wheel moving slowly around with great boats of brilliant flowers swinging as it turns. Lighted fountains seem to be playing everywhere, and the city has certainly gone all out in bedecking herself for her celebration. I hope it will look as inviting in daylight. We are to be here nearly two full days so I will have the opportunity to find out.

Over a welcome cup of tea and Norwegian sandwiches and before a friendly fire my hostess and I get acquainted. When she shows me their schedule for tomorrow, starting at 10.30 and carrying on into the night without a minute to spare, I stay up til one to get this message off to you.

Mothers' Auxiliary 2nd Scout Group Holds Joint Meeting

In spite of unfavorable weather, a successful and enjoyable joint meeting of the Mothers' Auxiliaries of the various Scout and Cub group in the city was held Friday evening, Sept. 15th., in Christ Church Parish Hall. The mothers of the Second group were hostesses for the evening. About 50 mothers and leaders were present.

Mrs. Button president, opened the meeting and conducted the business session. Two ways of making money for Auxiliary work were suggested, talent boxes and a travelling grocery basket, both of which are to be tried out between now and Christmas.

Mr. Angus Duffy, District Commissioner, was guest speaker and gave an informative and inspiring talk no "Your Boy" outlining the aims of the Scout movement and the need of competent leaders for the groups in the city.

Mr. Nicholson, chairman of the local Association, said that Scouting in Canada was a growing concern and that when the Jamboureo is held here in the near future it is hoped that the Canadian boys will make a fine showing. Both Mr. Duffy and Mr. Nicholson urged the mothers to give their boys and leaders all the encouragement possible.

A question period followed the two addresses.

Mrs T. A. Tucker delighted her audience with two readings "Simon's Wife's Mother" and "There are Fairies at the Bottom of my Garden".

The leaders present then took over and provided an entertaining program under the leadership of Mrs. Ashley of the 8th, who led the singing around the campfire and the vesper hymn. A contest was provided by Mrs. Tice and her assistants from the 5th group, games by Cubmaster P. Allcorn of the 1st Group, and an outline of the Scout Camp by Ken Moore of the 2nd Group.

Mrs. O'Connor gave an account of Parents' Day at Camp and then presented Mr. A. Young who is leaving for Toronto, with a gift from friends of the Auxiliary.

Refreshments were then served by the hostesses.

HAS HELPFUL HUSBAND

"Not everyone's husband is a chemist, so I pass on what Ed told me when my wash looked dingy and yellow. 'Blue is one of the seven colours that combine to make white,' he said. 'Without blue there is no pure white.' Now I just swish Reckitt's Blue in the final rinse for a wash that's snowy white every time. Out of the blue comes the whitest wash. And with Reckitt's Blue I avoid any danger from chemicals that may damage fabrics."

A-4-R

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking?

Bisque of lobster soup with sherry sounds like an overly rich puree, long and elaborate.

Actually it is an inexpensive soup requiring a small 1 pound lobster for 6 portions. Although the cooking takes longer than some hurry-up concoctions turned out of cans, it is one of the hearty dinner soups which make a complete meal with salad and dessert.

A bisque soup is simply a creamed soup made with a shellfish base. Thus you would make a cream of tomato soup, but bisque of shrimp soup.

Whether the bisque is rich or heavy is a matter of personal taste. If you pour heavy cream, egg yolks, brandy and sherry into the soup pot, it will be not only rich but revolting.

On the other hand if you simmer the soup slowly with the pounded shell of the lobster to extract its sweep deep-sea flavor, the bisque will be no more pretentious than a fine clam chowder.

If you want to add a fillip of dry sherry right before serving the soup, it will accent the lobster flavor. But even sherry can be omitted, and the bisque will be delighted.

To get the best flavor out of the cooked lobster, the shell should be pounded in a mortar. Since most homes are not mortar equipped, an ordinary carving board will do.

Bisque of Lobster Soup
6 Servings

Plunge a live 1 pound lobster into 3 quarts boiling water to which 1 teaspoon salt has been added. Bring water to a boil again, and simmer 15 minutes.

Remove lobster. Save cooking liquid. Cut or twist off claws.

Cut lobster in half lengthwise through back. Remove sac in back of head. Remove meat from body. Remove intestinal vein running along back of lobster. Crack claws and remove meat. Cut all lobster meat into 1-4 inch cubes. Set aside.

Crack lobster shell as much as possible with a mallet or a cleaver. Return shell to cooking liquid and boil liquid until about 6 cups of liquid are left—half the original amount.

In a large saucepan melt 2 tablespoon fat. Add 1-2 cup chopped onion and 1-2 cup chopped celery. Simmer slowly 5 minutes. Add 3 tablespoons flour mixing. Add the lobster broth. Add an 8-ounce can of tomato sauce and 3 bouillon cubs. Simmer soup slowly 1 hour. Strain. Add cooked lobster meat.

When soup is removed from fire, and is not boiling, add 1-2 cup hot milk. Add 1-4 cup dry sherry wine and salt and pepper to taste.

Enemy Blunder and Six Little Ships Figure in Capture of Beachhead

By RELMAN MORIN

Aboard the Flagship of Joint Task Force Seven, of Inchon, Korea, Sept. 18 (AP) — The landing at Inchon in a large part is the story of six brave little ships and a wonderful blunder.

The North Koreans made the blunder. The little ships, the big ones, the planes and finally a marine assault force capitalized on it.

A chain of events started by those six ships led directly to the victory of Inchon.

(Three Canadian destroyers were reported among forces which played an important part in operations prior to the attack on Inchon. But this dispatch did not identify the nationality of the "six brave little ships.)"

In the entrance to Inchon harbor, and commanding approaches to it, is the Island of Wolmi. From Wolmi's beaches, the ground rises 300 feet to a rounded top. A stone causeway connects the island to the Inchon waterfront.

Key to Operation

Wolmi was the key to the entire operation. Before the main attack on Inchon could begin, Wolmi had to be taken.

A big question loomed — what did the North Koreans have on Wolmi to defend it? How many guns? How big? Where?

Six brave little ships — six destroyers — were sent to find out.

On the morning of September 13, "D Day Minus Two", the six ships moving in column, and slowly, sailed into the narrowing channel leading past Wolmi to Inchon.

None was more than a mile from the beaches and some were 1,000 yards — two-thirds of a mile.

They were, "sitting ducks." That's what they were meant to be, juicy targets for the conealed guns on the shore.

From all over the elbow of the channel farther down, thousands of binoculars were trained on them from the American and British cruisers and the other ships. The silence was likea blanket.

Suddenly theer was a single sharp white flash. Seconds later the muffled crack of the gun came back. "The 730 reports she spotted a battery moving on shore," a report to the bridge of the flagship said.

A few more tense, breathless, incredible seconds of waiting passed.

Then the North Koreans made the fateful and wonderful bunder.

Suddenly a necklace of gun flashes sparkled around the waist of the island.

The destroyers were quick to answer.

Gun Duel

Lightning flashes leaped from their guns. They hit back, shell for shell.

The Reds were hitting the destroyers now. They could hardly miss at that range.

Then a report came down to the bridge. "It looks as though the 733 is dead in the water, sir." Admiral Struble's answer was quiet and the words were taut. "Make sure, and then see what we have to do to get her out of there."

The duel went on for an hour.

Three of the six were hit and one seriously, but not so seriously she could not come out under her own steam. An officer died. There were other casualties.

The mission was accomplished, successfully the navy will say. Gloriously is a better word.

FAILS TO BREAK RECORD

Toronto, Sept. 18—(CP)—The R.C.A.F.'s new F-86 Sabre jet fighter flew from nearby Malton airport to Montreal at an average speed of 635 miles an hour Saturday but failed by 10 seconds to break the record between the two cities.

Test pilot Al Lilly of Canadair, Ltd., which is manufacturing 100 of the fighters for R.C.A.F. covered the distance in 30 minutes and 14 seconds.

The record is held by the CF-100 Canuck fighter which made the flight in 30 minutes and four seconds.

EXTERIOR DECORATING

Second War Vets Make up 45 P.C. Of Special Force

Ottawa, Sept. 19 — (CP) — Veterans of the Second World War make up about 45 percent of the Canadian Army Special Force, being trained for service in Korea or elsewhere, Defence Minister Claxton said Monday in a statement.

Mr. Claxton said enlistments in the special force now have passed the 9,000 mark. The figure does not include the 1,000 active force personnel already assigned or to be assigned to the Special Force.

At the end of August, the force's strength totalled 8,372, including 3,813 veterans of the Second World War. These included 768 men who served as non-commissioned officers in the last war.

The force included 2,630 married men, or about 30 per cent of the total strength.

Officer strength now is 235 and more applications are being studied. There still is a requirement for more junior officers, said Mr. Claxton.

The force is expected to leave Canada about mid-November to complete training, possibly on Okinawa Island in the Pacific.

Mr. Claxton also reported a steady increase in the strength of the army's active force with more than 1,800 new enlistments since the recruiting drive was launched July 20.

Navy and air force figures tabulated to Sept. 9 showed that since July 20 the navy attested 542 new recruits and the RCAF 698, 327 for air crew and 371 for ground crew.

Humble Woman's Body Bears Marks Known as 'Stigmata'

Toronto, Sept. 19 (CP) — A humble farmer's wife in a small Ontario village is reported to have borne for 10 years in comparative secrecy wounds similar to those suffered by Jesus on calvary.

Mrs. Donald McIsaac of Uutergrove, 86 miles north of here, has what are known as the stigma, Maclean's magazine says in its Sept. 15 issue. Webster's dictionary defines stigma as "marks resembling the wounds of the crucified body of Christ, believed to have been supernaturally impressed.

The story says that scores of doctors, theologians and laymen who have studied the strange marks on the body of the 48-year-old Roman Catholic woman do not agree that they are of supernatural origin. But all agree that the wounds exist.

Here is the gist of the story:

Mrs. McIsaac, part-Indian mother of eight children, has wounds in her hands, feet, left side, head, back and right shoulder. Six days a week the marks are visible but dry and there is no pain. On Friday, between 6 and 9 p.m., the wounds bleed and she suffers agonies.

Look For Natural Explanation

Doctors of many faiths have examined the wounds. One was reported to have refused to eliminate the possibility that they may be self-inflicted. The others are convinced there is no deception but all believe there is a natural explanation.

The Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Toronto investigated the phenomenon and arranged long examinations of Mrs. McIsaac at St. Michael's hospital here and Bresica Hall, a Catholic Women's College affiliated with the University of Western Ontario in London.

Though vitally interested in the case, which has been compared with that of teh world-famous Bavarian stigmatist, Therese Neumann, officially the church takes no notice of the happenings in the McIsaac home.

Church Disapproves

This was made known in a statement by James Cardinal McGuigan who said the authority of the diocese "disapproves of the visits of priests and people not connected with the family."

Although the church has shielded Mrs. McIsaac from the public limelight, her fame has quietly spread by word of mouth to many corners of the world. She has been visited by several thousand pilgrims, including cardinals, bishops and priests from Canada, the United States, South America and Europe, many of whom have said mass for her in her room.

During one of many tests carried out while Mrs. McIsaac was in hospital, here, the time was surreptitiously advanced 4½ hours. Mrs. McIsaac had no clock or watch in her room and her daily schedule and meals were altered to give the impression it was later than it actually was. The agonies still began at 6 p.m. and ended at 9.

BREED TWICE A YEAR

Chicago, Sept. 18. (AP)—A hormone injection which enables sheep to breed twice a year was revealed Sunday by researchrs of Armour and Company. Normally, sheep bread once a year.

In use, the injection would enable a herder with 100 sheep to increase profits up to $1,500 a year and raise from 65 to 85 more sheep than normal, the researchers estimate.

Socialized Legal Plan Allows Poorest Briton to Fight Case Through Most Expensive Court

By ASTLEY HAWKINS

London, Sept. 19 (Reuters) — The poorest Briton soon will be able to take a case into the most expensive court in the land, and let the government pay all costs.

Under a socialized legal plan, which started Oct. 2, the state will foot the bill for carrying a civil case to the High Court and the Court of Appeal. But the new law — known as "The poor man's law charter" — stipulates that in actions for libel, slander seduction and breach of promise, the citizen is strictly on his own.

The scheme, which marks the latest development in the country's widespread social services, is expected to benefit Britain's poorest 12,000,000 persons—about one-quarter of the country's population.

When the plan is in full operation, the government will be prepared to back both sides financially — plaintiff and defendant — in a genuine civil case. Facilities will be available for a suit to be carried all the way to the judicial committee of the Privy Council.

For the time being, a litigant must continue to pay his own way through the lower and less-costly courts.

On an appeal to the higher courts, litigants will be entitled to counsel free or a reduced rates on a sliding scale, depending on the individual's income. Later, when Britain's financial position eases, this will also apply to suits in the lower courts and to criminal cases. A system of state-run legal-advise centres will also be established.

Means More Business

The British Law Society, which has been co-operating with the government in drawing up the scheme, believes introduction of the act will mean more business for the legal profession. But they have warned the public that getting legal help will not be as simple as going to a doctor and getting free medicine under the health insurance scheme.

Critics of the scheme believe the new act, when fully applied, will start an avalanche of litigation throughout the country. Framers of the legislation disagree, saying the system provides for plenty of checks to balance any rush.

An increased number of genuine divorce or domestic cases may be ventilated under the full act, it is believed, but impartial advice from state legal advisers may at the same time divert many people from the courts.

In large towns and cities it is planned to have legal - advice bureaux open every day, and in the evenings as well for the convenience of working people Small towns and villages will have bureaux open on certain days or by appointment. Servicemen overseas will have their own advice bureaux. Bed-ridden citizens can have advice brought to their bedside.

Merchants Drop 10-4 Decision To Meaford

Frankford Merchants suffered a 10-4 setback in the OASA Intermediate C quarter finals at Frankford Saturday night, as a strong Meaford team staged a big ninth-inning rally. Freeman pitched good ball for Meaford, scattering seven hits, while striking out a like number of Frankford batsmen. Rosenplot pitched seven-hit ball for Frankford, but four of these were round - trippers.

Meaford scored first in the second frame on a Frankford error, two passed balls and an infield cut. Frankford knotted the count in the third as Vansickler dropped a called third strike on Darke. Darke stole second and raced to third as a throw to second went wild, and scored on a dropped fly in right field.

Smith walked to open the Meaford fifth, and scored ahead of Davies' home run far over centre field.

In the Frankford sixth, Murphy singled to right-centre. Morglan was safe as the Meaford right fielder muffed his second consecutive fly ball. Consaul drove a long single to centre, scoring both base runners, who were away with the crack of the bat.

Douglas, Meaford third sacker banged a home run to centre field in the 8th, and Miller, centre fielder for the visitors duplicated the feat to give Meaford a two-run margin again. Frankford came back with a run on singles by Boyle and Consaul.

The roof fell in on Frankford in the ninth inning, as Meaford scored five more runs. Freeman walked to open the inning, and advanced as Darke muffed Davies' grounder. Both scored on Wheeler's home run. Douglas walked, advanced on Miller's single, and scored as Rankin mishandled the ball in the outfield.

Frankford failed to score in their half of the ninth, although Darke got on base to start the inning. A double play promptly erased him, and Frankford's last chance.

Meaford: Smithson ss, Davies 1b, Wheeler lf, Douglas 3b, Miller cf, Chapman 2b, Vansickler c, Smith rf, Freeman p.

Rhubarb Gives Bakelite Victory Over Jewellers

Last evening at the Alemite Field, Bakelite took a one game lead in the best-of-five semi-final series for the Commerical League "B" section championship as they downed Avon Jewellers by a score of 15-8.

This game, scheduled for nine innings was called by umpire Harold Bawden after seven innings had been played. This cancellation came about as the result of a mild rhubarb in the venth inning when with two on and one out, Art Peever for Bakelite hit a ground ball to third base. Reid,, the Avon third sacker elected to throw to home plate in an effort to retire the runner coming in from third. Umpire Cy Young called the runner safe. Upon hearing the decision, Ernie Cowan the catcher-manager for the Jewellers, threw the ball to the ground and pushed the arbiter. Immediately umpire Young gave Cowan the old heave-ho and ordered that the game continue. The seventh inning finally was completed and the Avon team came in to the bench to hit in the top of the eighth. As the first hitter stepped in the batter's box, Cowan who had been banished from the game by the officials, took his position in the third base coacher's box. This time umpire Bawden asked Cowan to leave the field; but Cowan refused. So Mr. Bawden promptly called proceedings to a halt and awarded the game to Bakelite.

As for the game itself, Bakelite scored nine runs in the first three innings and were never headed as Stewart, the Bakelite hurler effectively scattered ten Avon safeties to claim the win. Jack McBride went the distance for the Avon nine and gave up fifteen safeties. He would have had a better fate had not his mates kicked the ball around behind him.

Ed Littlejohn, bespectacled third baseman for Bakelite, led all hitters with three singles in four trips, while Arnott claimed a home run and a single, Cook also hit for the circuit and added a single. Lawn and Peever each claimed a pair of safeties.

For Avon, John Connell smacked a double and a single, while Jack McBride hit two singles. Ford, Cowan, McTaggart, B., Miller, Bellis and Ethier also hit safely.

The second game of this series will be played at Alemite Field on Wednesday evening starting at 5.30. Lineups:

Avon Jewellers: Ford lf; Cowan c, replaced by Caull in 7th; Connell cf, replaced by W. McTaggart in 7th; McBride p; B. McTaggart 2b; Reid 3b; Miller rf; Bellis 1b Ethier ss.

Waterloo Tigers Win First Game From Brantford

(By The Canadian Press)

Waterloo Tigers started the best-of-seven intercountry senior baseball finals last night by shading Brantford Red Sox 4-3 in a home game.

A double error by Brantford pitcher Alf Gavey and second baseman Ron Hodara in the ninth cost the Sox the game when Red Kane scored after getting on base on a walk.

Joe Yosurak who relieved Cy Bricker in the 8th was winning pitcher—his 15th victory of the season. Sox were one ahead in the top of the first and went ahead 2-0 in the third. Waterloo took a 3-2 lead in the fifth on three hits and two Brantford errors.

Brantford tied it up in the top of the seventh.

In the ninth, Red Kane walked, Yosurak fanned, Muldoon was safe at first on Gaver's error. Ron Hodara covered the throw to first but then threw low to third trying to catch Kane. Kane scored as the ball bounced past third basman Stan Lipka.

In Oshawa the Merchants eked out an 8-7 win over Toronto Mahers in the first game for the Toronto Baseball Association Senior title. Manager Rowland took a cut at a wide pitch in the ninth as Mahers tried to fan him and knocked in the double that won the game.

At Welland St. Catharines Stags took Welland Stokes-Thermoid 4-1 for a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven series for the Niagara Senior League Championship. Sonny Hicks helped overcome the Welland one-run lead in the seventh by slamming a hommer that brought in two runs.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

New York Rangers and Detroit Red Wings will pry the lid off the 1950-51 National Hockey League season at Detroit on Wednesday, October 11. These same two clubs closed the 1949-50 season at Detroit on April 23, with Detroit winning the Stanley Cup.

The opening on October 11 is the earliest in history, beating by one day the opener in Detroit a year ago. The curtain will come down on the 1950-51 championship schedule on Sunday, March 25. Each team will play 70 games this season, the same as they did last year.

Hockey will make its 1950-51 debut at Montreal on Thursday, October 12, with Canadiens playing hosts to Chicago Black Hawks. On Saturday, October 14, the new season will be ushered into the Toronto Maple Leaf Gardens when the Leafs meet Chicago. The Black Hawks open the new season in both Canadian cities this year.

On Sunday, October 15, two American clubs play their initial game of 1950-51, with Boston fans getting a preview of the Bruins against Montreal Canadiens and Chicago fans getting their first peek at the reorganized Black Hawks against the New York Rangers.

New York Rangers, last team to open their season at home, will play their first game this season before home town fans on Wednesday, October 25. Their opposition will be the Boston Bruins.

Wednesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday nights appear the most popular playing dates by the six N. H. L. clubs. Montreal plays all their games on Thursdays and Saturdays. Canadiens have 13 Thursday and 22 Saturday contests.

Toronto Maple Leafs play 11 games on Wednesday and 24 on Saturdays. New York Rangers play 17 times on Wednesday and 18 times on Sunday. Chicago Black Hawks play 17 of their home games on Sunday and 15 on Thursday.

Boston Bruins and Detroit Red Wings have the most diversified schedule at home. Bruins play two games on Monday, nine on Wednesday, eight on Saturday and 16 on Sunday, while Detroit plays games on every night of the week except Friday. The Wings play three times on Monday, twice on Tuesday, twice on Wednesday, nine times on Thursday, six times on Saturday and 13 times on Sunday.

Toronto Maple Leafs play 23 doubleheaders. This means that on 23 occasions they play on successive nights. Rangers and Boston play 22 twin bills, Canadiens 21, Detroit 19 and Chicago 18.

Three times during the 210-game National Hockey League season, Toronto and Detroit play four games in five days. Canadiens and Rangers do this twice, while Boston and Chicago only do it once each.

WITH THE MINORS . . .

The Belleville Hockey Association will take twelve teams under its administration and coaching wing during the forthcoming hockey season, according to Jack (Sports Centre) McNab, demon public relations bloke of the organization. This is an increase of two over the squads that played under the aegis of the BHA last season.

This year six bantam teams cavort along the ice lanes instead of four that comprised this group in 1940-50. The two extra squads will play with the Red Wings, Canadiens, Maple Leafs and Black Hawks in the group which was won by Dan Cowley's Kiwanis Red Wings last year.

And puleeze, won't some kindhearted citizen or organization adopt one of these squads as his or its hockey "baby". All that is necessary is the money to purchase sweaters and socks for the fifteen kidlets and you have yourself a hockey team. The cost is not as much as one would think, and not to be measured by any stretch of the imagination to the value in enjoyment and healthy exercise it will bring to boyish hearts. If there is any person or organization willing to undertake such a sponsorship please contact Dick Beare, association secretary at 114.

The Belleville midgets will again operate under the tutelage of "Toots" Holway while Fred Elgie will take over the juveniles again. Last year Fred and Eddie Schreider did a fine job with the juves, and the squad should be hard to beat with its 1949 experience under its belt. Manager Bill Cook will guide the destinies of the Junior "B" Rockets again.

Last year, 570 youngsters — count 'em, 570 — turned out for the minor teams of the association. Of these 128 were "pee wees"; 242 Bantams; 85 Midgets; 67 Juveniles and 48 junior Bees. That's a lot of hockey ivory on the hoof, but of course a lot of the lads could not make the teams. This year the competition for spots will be tougher than ever. But every position on all teams is open and the players will "make" the squads strictly on their own merits.

WATCH THE FIREWORKS

Beauty and the Bulldozers of the wrestling fraternity will clash in Memorial Arena come Friday night. Dashing Whipper Willie Watson, and handsome Timothy Geohagen will match their beauty and brawn against the roughhouse tactics of the ring ruffians, Australian Fred Atkins and Lee (The Leer) Henning in a four-man team match. It should be a conk - bashing bout since Messrs. Atkins and Henning have as much use for Timmy and Billy as a Red Commissar for a bank director. Watson and Timmy whipped the bejabers out of the toughies last week in Toronto, and you can bet your grandpapple's store teeth, they'll be looking for gory revenge. There'll be fun, fury and fireworks come fish-day evening. Appetizers to this main dish will see Pat O'Shocker, the amiable villain meet Ray Gunkel, and Abe Zvonkin of like ilk tangling with Joe Devalteau.

Ellis Kinder's Sound Relief Pitching Sends Boston Red Sox Into Second Place

By MURRAY ROSE
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The talk was all of Ellis Kinder as the fired-up Boston Red Sox steamed into Cleveland today for a two-game series with the Indians.

After Cleveland comes the vital two-day set with the Yankees in New York Saturday and Sunday. But the hustlers from Boston aren't looking that far ahead

"Win 'em today and worry about tomorrow tomorrow," was the motto of every man from Manager Steve O'Neill down as they looked fondly in the direction of Kinder.

And well they might. For it was Kinder again who saved the "big one" against Detroit in the ninth yesterday just as he did the day before. On the strength of those great rescues the Red Sox won them both, 3-2, and now are in second place, a game behind the pace-setting Yanks and a half length in front of Detroit.

It was the fifth time in the last five days that O'Neill waved in the 36-year-old Kinder to "come on in and stop 'em."

Yesterday's call was a lucky one. Maybe Dame Fortune will go all the way with the Red Sox this time.

"I wanted to give him the day off," said Steve. "I knew he was tired and I told him he could have the day off."

The Kinder of pre-O'Neill days would have scooted off post-haste. But not the current eager beaver.

" 'No,' he says to me, 'you might need me, Steve. I think I can work an inning for you.' "

He did — and what an inning! The Sox had roared from behind a 2-1 count to score twice in the ninth for a 3-2 lead.

Taken Out Quick

Rookie Willard Nixon, who had pitched fine six-hit ball in a duel with Detroit's Hal Newhouser, pitched three straight balls to lead-off man Joe Ginsberg. That was all for Nixon.

"Bring in Kinder," called O'Neill.

Kinder pumped in two strikes but finally walked Ginsberg. Pinch-hitter Pat Mullin sacrificed but another sub swinger, Charley Keller, popped out and then Gerry Priddy grounded out.

Billy Goodman, Boston's league-leading hitter, started off the winning rally in the ninth, with a single. Ted Williams' chopper gave him an infield hit and when Newhouser threw wild past first, Goodman went to third. Obviously disturbed, Newhouser took a full wind-up on Vern Stephens and Williams stole second.

Out came Newhouser and in stepped Hal White. White intentionally passed Stephens to load the bases. Walt Dropo singled to score Goodman with the tying run. Bobby Doerr filed deep to centre to bring home Williams with the winning run.

Today Boston will call on young Chuck Stobbs (11-6) to go against Cleveland's ace, Bob Lemon, (20-11).

Only Game in American

Boston - Detroit was the only game in the American League yesterday.

In the National, Chicago beat Brooklyn 9-7 and New York routed St. Louis 13-0.

Ron Northey's pinch - homer with the bases loaded in the 7th ruined Brooklyn and overshadowed a three-homer performance by the Dodgers' Tom Brown.

Larry Jansen's two-hit pitching was backed by a 13-hit New York barrage against St. Louis hurling. It was Jansen's fifth whitewash job and his 17th victory against 12 defeats. The victory moved the fourth place Giants within half a game of third-place Brooklyn.

Uearned Run In First Frame Wins For Ottawa

Kingston, Sept. 19 — (CP) — Ottawa Nationals blanked Kingston Ponies 1-0 with an unearned run in the first inning, to win their best-of-seven semi-final border league series 4-1.

The game was one of the top flight pitching duels of the campaign with Ed Flanagan getting the verdict over Harry Pilarski when he stretched his play-off string of runless innings to eighteen.

The lone run scored by the visitors was a gift. Clinging tenaciously to it, Flanagan hurled one-hit ball through the last seven innings after he had allowed one in the opening frame and two in the next.

Each pitcher struck out five batsmen and both exhibited stellar control with Pilarski issuing three walks and Flanagan only two. Two double plays helped Pilarski in the sixth and eighth innings while Ottawa came up with one in the seventh to retire the side.

Owing to the absence of Joe Delock, who has returned to school in Detroit, manager Barney Hearn assigned outfielder Len Riley to second base and it was an error by the former National outfielder that enabled manager Bill Metzig to score the lone marker.

Ezinicki Late In Reporting To Leafs' Camp

(By The Canadian Press)

The future of rightwinger Bill Ezinicki in the plans of the Toronto Maple Leafs popped out into the open Monday when he failed to show up for the opening of the National Hockey League Club's training grind at St. Catharines.

General manager Conn Smythe didn't hide his wrath over the player's absence and said it "looks like Ezinicki has bodychecked himself back to the fourth or fifth line." Smythe adned he doesn't think the team will miss Ezinicki if he doesn't show up.

Observers at the training camp suggest that it is possible that the rightwinger doesn't want to play hockey this winter or that he would like to get himself traded.

During the summer Ezinicki acted as a golf pro at a club in New York State.

Australian champion Frank Sedgman defeated the veteran American star, Ted Schroeder, in the finals of the 24th annual Pacific southwest tennis tournament at Los Angeles Monday 9-7, 6-3, 6-2.

Cary Middlecoff of Ormond Beach, Fla., won the $15,000 St. Louis open golf championship Monday in a "sudden death" play-off with Ed (Porky) Oliver of Seattle, Wash. The victory pays $2,600. Oliver gets $1,900.

Vancouver Canucks are negotiating with Chicago Black Hawks —so far unsuccessfully—for goalie Frankie Brimsek.

This was reported in Vancouver Monday by Coley Hall, owner of the Pacific Coast Hockey League Canucks, who are scheduled to open training sessions Friday.

Brimsek, who played for several seasons with Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League, was purchased last year by the Hawks.

"I know Frankie wouldn't come for a dollar and a promise," said Hall, "but I am prepared to pay him a salary which shouldn't be hard to take."

Arise, from the Addison Stable of Toronto, pulled away from the pack to win the $25,050 fall high-weight handicap Monday by two lengths as Belmont Park opened its fall season before a crowd of 21,409 customers.

A record in daily double payoffs in the five-year history of the Atlantic City Race Course was established Monday when the "11-10" combination of Hand in Glove and Justalike returned $2,135.60 for $2 tickets.

One $10 and 19 $2 tickets were sold to the lucky ones in the gathering of 8,500. The previous high of $1,379.80 was set Aug. 12, 1948, when Pam Light and Track Talk accounted for the first and second races.

Ulysses Curtis, Toronto Argo Leading Scorer

Toronto, Sept. 19 — (CP) — One newcomer to Canadian football has nudged another out of first place in the Big Four Union scoring lists.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show that Ulysses Curtis of Toronto Argonauts has displaced Edgar (Special Delivery) Jones of Hamilton Tiger - Cats as individual leader.

Curtis, Negro halfback from Florida A. & M., got two touchdowns Saturday to bring his total to six majors for 30 points, three points more than Jones, formerly with the professional Cleveland Barons.

A Canadian, Bill Larochelle of Ottawa Rough Riders, ranks 3rd. Larochelle, native of Chatham and former Olympic runner, got two touchdowns Saturday to bring his season's figure to five for 25 points.

Johnny Chorostecki still tops the Ontario Rugby Football Union although he and his fellow Sarnia Imperials have to share the scoring lists with two Windsor Rockets for the first time. The Rockets got six points against Sarnia Saturday, first O. R. F. U. scoring this season by any other team than Imperials.

Chorostecki added 5 points for a three-game total of 51. Eric McKeever of Sarnia ranks second with 15.

Rochester Wings In Final Round Of Loop Playoffs

(By The Associated Press)

For the first time in 11 years Rochester is in the final round of the International League play-offs.

The pennant - winning Red Wings eliminated Jersey City 7-3 last night to clinch their best-of-seven semi-final series 4-2.

Montreal Royals, behind Turk Lown's three-hit hurling, downed Baltimore 8-1 to take a 3-2 lead in their semi-final set. The teams will clash again tonight in Montreal with Bill Kennedy or Karl Drews scheduled to pitch for Baltimore and Clyde King for the Royals.

Rochester opened fast, scoring four runs in the first inning and routing Jersey City's starting pitcher, Andy Tomasic. Eddie Yuhas was the winner, although he needed help from Bill Reeder in the eighth.

Don Pollweg paced Rochester's nine-hit attack with a three-run homer, in the first inning, and a triple.

A six-run splurge in the fifth inning gave Montreal its big edge over Baltimore. Tommy Fine was the loser.

Latta Defeats Cannifton 19-15 To Even South Hastings Finals

If you happen to be in or around Latta between now and tomorrow night and wish to become popular with the home folks, forget about the war and the weather. Just start talking South Hastings League baseball—and you're in.

For last night at the Exhibition Grounds before nearly 800 howling cheering fans, the Latta squad evened the league finals series at three-all when they defeated their feudal enemies from Cannifton by a 19-15 score.

The deciding game for the loop championship will be played at Exhibition Park tomorrow night (Wednesday) with the game getting under way at eight o'clock.

Wild and Woolly

It was a wild woolly and wide open game with practically every thing on the baseball calendar dished up for the fans. Thirty-four runs crossed the plate. Thirty-two hits rattled off the bats of the players of both teams and a dozen errors added spice to a game that had the spectators in an uproar until the last man was out.

And tomorrow night's deciding tilt between these squads will likely see the grandstand and bleachers packed to the rafters. For the good people of Latta and Cannifton take their baseball seriously and with the score at three games each and anything liable to happen, every man and his dog not to mention the ladies and the old folks will be on hand to watch the "fireworks."

Orville Glass started for Latta and lasted until the fifth when with one out he was relieved by Garth Hall. Glass gave up ten hits for nine runs and was yanked after two runs had crossed plate from three hits and one out in teh fifth. Hall who toiled the rest of the way was nicked for five runs off as many hits.

Gord. Oliver went the distance for the losers and was touched for eighteen hits over the nine innings route. He was hit in every innings but the second and eighth his worst innings being the second when the Latta bats connected for five safeties for six runs.

This gave Latta an 8-1 lead which they never relinquished. Cannifton however, whittled away at the score sending runners across the plate in every innings.

Latta added four in the fifth, three in the sixth, one in the seventh and three in the ninth. Cannifton retaliated with singles in the first, third and seventh, three in the fourth and sixth and four in the ninth.

Stage Rally in 9th

Cannifton supporters were on their feet in the last half of the last innings. With the score 19-11 against them the Cannifton team started a spirited rally. They smashed out three hits for four runs that had their supporters in a near frenzy. But Oliver settled down and retired the side with a four-run margin in his favor.

Every player, with the exception of Richardson, hit safely for the winners. Big Mase Rigby led the parade with a grand-slam triple, a double and two singles. Hazard connected for three as did Glass. Doc Empson and Flindall each got a pair. Sullivan slashed out a triple and Marsh, McCreary and McWilliams each got singles.

Sheffield's powerful bludgeon drove out two triples, one that cleaned the sacks and a single for Cannifton. Jarrell hit a triple and two singles. Harder got a double and a single with Cook also getting a pair. Oliver helped himself to a pair of singles and Bleekman got a lone hit.

The teams:- Cannifton—Harder cf; Cook, ss; Sheffield, 2b; Laurenson, 1b; Jarrell, 3b; Waite, c; White, lf; Bleeckman, rf; Oliver p.

Latta—Hazard, c, 2b; Richardson ss; Glass, p, c; Sullivan, lf; Rigby rf; Empson, 1b; Marsh, 3b; McCreary, cf; Flindall 2b; Hall, p; McWilliams, 1b.

Napanee Ousts 6.R.D. Behind Hooper No-Hitter

No. 6 Repair Depot RCAF bats waved futilely at the plate-splitting slants of big Ed. Hooper yesterday and the big righthander fashioned a neat no-hit, no-run effort to give his Napanee Athletics the first round of the Intermediate "B" playdowns. The score was 2-0.

Napanee meets Cobourg in the second round for what is said to be the Eastern Ontario championship in the grouping. The first game will likely be played in Napanee on Wednesday.

Hooper, backed up by superb fielding was master of the situation throughout on the Sixardee diamond. Only 31 airmen faced him and he walked but three while committing the only error of the game. This came when he let a ball go through his legs from the bat of C. Ellis. He struck out three.

Allowed Five Hits

Maloney, Sixardee hurler went the route and pitched a five-hitter, good enough to win any ball game. But his mates couldn't get the ball past the Napanee gloves and therein lies the story of defeat. Maloney whiffed three and walked the same number while scattering five Napanee hits.

Sixardee's only error of the game was a costly one. In the six innings when Napanee scored both their runs, Jocko smashed out a double to right centre field. Bud Green got a life when C. Ellis heaved the ball over first baseman's head and Jocko romped home. Green went to third on a passed ball and came home on a close, squeeze play.

Jocko and Markle hit doubles for the winners with Gerow, Murphy and Munroe getting singles.

The teams:

Napanee: V. Green, 2b; Murphy rf; Hayes, c; Gerow, 1b; Jocko, 3b; B. Green, ss; Markle, lf; Munro, cf; Hooper, c.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Stub R. Knox knows all the rules of bridge. But he also likes guessing games. So, when an unusual situation arises he resorts to fancy methods. A good way to commit partnercide.

Odd situations can be handled with knowing methods. There need be no doubt between partners as to the meanings of bids that veer from the normal. The logic of the situation asserts itself.

We are still on this deal:

♠Q 3
♥A K 10 9 8 5

WEST
♠K 10 7 6 4
♥7 6 2
♣7 5 4

EAST
♠A J 9 8 5 2
♥Q
♦Q 8 6
♣J 10 8

SOUTH
♠None.
♥J 4 3
♦K J 4 3
♣A K Q 9 6 2

The bidding started out like this:

North	East	South	West
1 H	1 S	3 C	Pass
3 H	Pass

By now my south hand knew we had a slam in hearts. Therefore, it would be futile to show my rebiddable clubs and my biddable suit in diamonds. More important information was necessary.

In Horse Sense, four no-trump is the convention bid for asking partner how many aces and kings he holds. But this signal is not used by a partner who lacks at least two aces and a king.

On the other hand if I bid four hearts, partner may not have enough tricks to invite a slam. So, an expediency rule takes care of this situation. It is an assist beyond game.

Instead of four hearts my next bid was five hearts. This beyond-game bid is an expediency signal that says: "Partner, we may have a healt slam. But I lack two aces for the four no-trump signal."

It further advises: "If you have two aces you should go to six in this suit. But if you lack two aces you will know we have only two aces between us. In such case, pass five hearts."

In answer to five hearts north bid six hearts. But it did not stop there. Something happened. I must tell you what.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Sept. 19 — (AP) — An actor's best friend is his make-up man, says Jeff Corey, who asks for an Oscar to reward the craftsmen of the grease paint.

"Sometimes the make-up man contributes 50 per cent of an actor's performance," says Corey, who is perhaps the busiest character actor in town. "He is just about the only creator in motion pictures who is not given an Academy Award. I think it's time he received some recognition.

"Make-up men are creators in every sense of the word. Many of them are fine sculptors and painters. They study the script carefully and devise the right make-ups for the historical period and the dramatic effect."

Career Insurance

Make-up men are career insurance for character actors, Corey says. During 1950 alone, he has portrayed a sun-baked Indian, a grizzled frontiersman, a working man, a New York cop, and has just started a role as a bearded Moslem.

"In some roles, I have so much make-up on that you can't recognize my real face," he said. "In that way the public doesn't get too tired of my face and I can play as many roles as I want."

The actor said that movie make-up men have reached the height of a craft that began in the sixth century B.C. In the days of Thespis, presumed originator of drama, Greek actors sought ways to project themselves to the balcony seats.

They wore raised shoes to make themselves taller (as some actors do today). They raised their belt lines to the their chests for the same reason. And they wore masks — different colors and expressions to denote different moods.

Slap It On

Movie men have revolutionized make-up in recent years, he added. "When I was first on the stage, it took 20 to 30 minutes to put on simple make-up. Nowadays, it all comes in one tube and you just slap it on.

"The studio men have also made great strides in the use of plastic and rubber products for facial features."

He illustrated with some of the great make-up jobs of past and recent Hollywood history: Boris Karloff as Frankenstein; Irene Dunne as Queen Victoria; Jose Ferrer as Cyrano; Lon Chaney as the wolf man; Ann Blyth as a mermaid.

"Achievements like these are certainly worthy of Academy Awards," Corey said.

SECURITY CHECK

Somewhere in Korea, a South Korean M.P. is shown checking the belongings of a Korean refugee for weapons on a south-bound road. Armed North Koreans are continually attempting to cross U.N. lines disguised as war refugees, making this security check of civilians a necessity. —Central Press Canadian.

Little Benny's Note Book

We were eating dinner, being [illegible] stew without dumplings, and ma said to pop, William, dont you think it's narrow minded of peeple to refuse to eat in old established Russian resterants just because they dont happen to see ideology to ideology with Russia?

If a Russian resterant is a place where you eat by the lite of one dripping candle, I dont eat there for any reason, pop said. The last time I ate in one, I found myself chewing on my own nuckles, he said, and ma said, Now William candle lite gives caracter to a resterant.

Little barred windows give caracter to a prison, pop said, and ma said, Oh be serious. Maud Hews tells me that she and Yewstace ate at the Moscow Inn, and they never had sutch service in their lives.

Good or bad? pop said, and ma said, Good, naturelly. The Hewses were practically the only ones in the place because of the generel anty Russian feeling amung eaters, so you can imagine the massed attention that was showered on them, she said.

I heard of a chap that ate in one of those places, and in the dark he bit into a hunk of the iron curtain that had got into his dish of bubble-squeaksky, and by gollies they charged him exter for it, pop said. Of course he's suing them for his dentist bill, he said, and ma said, Now William, do you want me to think you are narrow minded?

No, and I'll prove it, pop said. And he quick got up and terned out the lites, claiming he wanted to eat in the dark to practice for candles, and ma quick terned them on, saying, Now William, if you dont want to eat in a Russian resterant, why dont you speek up and say so?

It never occurred to me, pop said.

Being the end of the subject.

TROOPS

Punched North of Stream

On the Naktong river front between Mason and Yacdong, the U.S. Second and 24th Divisions punched four battalions—4,000 men north of the stream.

Engineers threw up a bridge over the Naktong behind which Allied forces had retired Aug. 4 for their final defence.

A massive break-through all along the old front appeared to be in progress.

On the Inchon-Seoul second front, 22 armed transport planes away from the Seoul front, Am- troops at Kimpo airfield, 12 miles northwest of Seoul.

The landings were made in the first hour of a continuing air life to reinforce the liberation assault on Seoul.

The bag of red Korean prisoners reached nearly 2,000 since the second front opened Friday at Inchon port, now 20 odd miles behind the forward Marines.

In Industrial Suburb

One Marine force paced by powerful Patton tanks smashed into Yongdungpo, an industrial suburb of Seoul on the southwest bank of the Han.

The second drove along the Han toward the capital after seizing Kimpo airfield Sunday night, 12 miles northwest of Seoul. At last report, this Marine force was seven miles from the city.

Marine planes flew support missions from Kimpo.

To the southeast, 140 miles landed 215 tons of cargo and erican troops were fighting bitterly-resisting communists for toe-holds on the west bank of the Naktong river.

Units of the trail-blazing U.S. 24th Division which were pulled back from the Pohang port front in a surprise move crossed the Naktong 10 miles west of Taegu, Monday but ran into a bloody ambush.

No Retreat For 24th

Associated Press Correspondent Bem Price said there was no retreat for the 24th which, as the First U.S. Division in Korea, had fought for long delaying action down the highway from Osan to Taejon into the old southeastern Allied beachhead.

"This time", said Price, "the 24th "went to stay—and it did". Dug-in red Koreans laced machine-gun fire at the river-crossing Americans clearly outlined against a white sand beach.

After bitter fighting the Americans gained high ground on the west bank.

Earlier, a U.S. 2nd Division battalion had crossed the Naktong west of Changnyong, to the south. The reds hurled repeated attacks against the battalion throughout Monday night but a division spokesman said the crossing was secure.

Reds Resisting

All around the Waegwan area on the northwest corner of the old beachhead the reds were resisting fiercely. They fought desperately to prevent a break through by American, British and South Korean forces to the main artery leading north to Seoul.

Allied forces had smashed the weight of their south-bound offensive in this area.

On the southwestern front near Mason, the reds were making wholesale withdrawals.

Air observers spotted columns of retreating reds. A spokesman said the red Korean 7th Division seemed to have disappeared during the night. The red 6th Division had withdrawn earlier.

They left much war booty.

Allied 10th corps troops and supplies, still streaming ashore at Inchon, on the Yellow Sea 22 miles west of Seoul were building the power of the liberation force at the capital's gates.

The red Koreans were rushing reinforcements to the area.

MECHANIC CLAIMS

Assistant Police Superintendent Augustus Roberts flew to Miami from Nassau late yesterday en route to California, but upon arrival here cancelled plane reservations to the west and went to Fort Lauderdale instead. Roberts was accompanied by Walter Foskett, West Palm Beach lawyer for the Oakes family.

Name Has Been Given

"The name of the alleged murderer has been given and we must proceed carefully," said Patrick O'Regan, British Vice-Consul in San Francisco.

Oakland police and British Consular officials said Roberts probably could find out all he needed from that end by telephone.

The body of Sir Harry, who made part of his fortune from northern Ontario gold mines, was found in his bedroom at Westbourne, one of his several Nassau homes. He had been struck on the head three times, apparently with a piece of iron railing.

Some poorly-inflammable substance, probably an insecticide, was tossed around and the room set on fire. But the flames failed to hide the crime.

The Duke of Windsor, then Governor of the Bahamas, called in Capt. Eddie Melchen, in charge of the Miami Homicide Department, and Capt. James O. Barker, Miami identification expert.

Ordered Arrest

They ordered the arrest of Alfred de Marginy, Sir Harry's son-in-law. The trial that followed became an emotional storm. Nancy Oakes stook by her husband. Heiress to millions, she spent all the money available to her at the time—about $50,000—to prove that fingerprint evidence offered by Barker was legally false.

Lady Oakes, Nancy's mother, widowed by the tragedy, testified against de Marigny.

De Marigny was freed, but the jury which acquitted him recommended that he be deported from the island. He and Nancy sailed to Cuba in a small fishing boat. Since then de Marigny has wandered from place to place, living in Montreal for a few years, and is reported at present in San Francisco.

Blood on the Stars

By Brett Halliday

The cognac glass was half empty and he was working on his second cigarette when a rap sounded on the outer door.

Shayne sat very still. The knock was repeated. It wasn't loud, yet it didn't have a furtive sound. It was a light, casual rap yet persistent, indicating that his caller knew he was at home and expected him to answer the summons.

He got up quietly and picked up the bedroom slippers and tiptoed into the kitchen where he slipped them into a drawer. There were two more raps on the door as he finished taking this precaution .He went to the door and opened it, blocking the entrance with his body for a moment, then took a backward step when he recognized his visitor.

Timothy Rourke strolled over the threshold with a quizzled look at Shayne's bruised and cut jaw. "I saw the light under your door and knew you must be home. Painter hang that one on you?" He crossed to the centre table and nodded approvingly at the cognac bottle went to a wall cupboard and got out a tall thin-stemmed glass without waiting for an invitation.

The reporter was tall and loosely put together. He had regained some weight and a great deal of his former buoyancy since his long period of hospitalization though his face was still thin and his eyes were deeply sunken in his face.

Shayne closed the door and came back to resume his seat while Rourke poured himself a drink of cognac. He said "make yourself right at home, Tim. I can only think of a few thousand people in Miami I'd rather see right now thank you."

Rourke took a sip of cognac and studied Shayne's face over the rim of his glass. "Expecting someone else?"

Shayne said. "No I was thinking about bed."

"You've still got a half drink left in your glass. I had an interview with Painter after he left the Sunlux tonight."

"And "

Rouke shrugged his thin shoulders and slumped deeper in his chair. "He doesn't outright accuse you of fixing the ruby snatch. Just lays it on the line that you're the only guy with motive and opportunity."

"Did you come here to get a statement from me?"

Rourke grinned and waved a thin tobacco-stained hand in the air. "I thought I'd follow up some angles. Thus far," he complained "I haven't got anything. Dustin is back from the hospital but he isn't seeing reporters. I've called Walter Voorland's house half a dozen times, but he isn't in. Earl Randolph's telephone doesn't answer at all. What's dong?"

Shayne shook his head wearily. "I don't know, Tim."

Rourke's eyes studied the lump on his jaw again bright and probing. "Painter says you've been warned to stay out of it. He says that if you try to collect a reward he'll throw the book at you. He says for once he's got you where he wants you and you won't dare make a deal with Randolph."

Shayne grinned amiably and said, "What are you doing here if Painter says all that?" He leaned back comfortably and looked across at the bedroom door. It as decidedly pleasant to think of Lucy sleeping in there.

"Because I know nothing on God's earth will keep you out of it now," Rourke explained. "And it looks like you've been leading with your chin as usual."

Shayne hesitated then said "I've been out of circulation too long Tim. Who could have pulled that job on Dustin?"

"I haven't the ins I once had, either," Rourke confessed. "You know how it's always been here. They drift in and out from the north. Earl Randolph should know more about it than anyone else."

"Ever hear of a couple of local boys called Blackie and the Kid?" Shayne described the two men he had encountered in Mickey's Garage.

"I don't think so. They the ones that worked you over?"

Shayne nodded, his eyes bleak. "I left myself wide open," he confessed. "I figured all I had to do was to make contact and sit back and wait for the approach. Things have changed since the old days. What goes on? Both Voorland and Randolph say the rubies can't possibly be cut and fenced. How-come I get slugged when I suggest a deal?" His tone was morose and aggrieved.

"Things must be getting tough," said the newspaper man. "Those lads you propositioned... how'd you get a line on them."

"I followed a hunch," Shayne replied.

"Sure it was a right hunch? Maybe they didn't savvy the sort of fix you offered."

"They understood, all right. There's something screwy going on, Tim. Something I can't put my finger on."

Rourke sat up straighter but masked his eagerness with a casual tone, though his eyes glowed brightly in their sockets and his nostrils twitched like a bloodhound's on the scent. "Something phony about the heist itself? Inside angles?"

"I don't know. I'd take Walter Voorland's word any time and any place on the value of the stuff. And Earl Randolph issued a policy on the full purchase price." Shayne frowned deeply and drew on his cigarette.

"Dustin's the only unknown factor," Rourke pointed out. "From the west, isn't he.

"The west sticks out all over him. But he did get smashed up in the heist, and there's no angle in it for him," Shayne exploded. "He can't recover more than he paid for the bracelet."

"Sometimes a guy figures it's nice to have the stones and the insurance money too."

"Only if the cursed things will bring a fair sum under the counter," Shayne reminded him. "That's what make this thing so crazy. Star rubies can't be fenced like other stuff. And if there's anything wrong about Dustin, he must know it'll come out in the investigation that's certain to be made. No insurance company is going to pay out a wad of dough like that without checking back on him closely. no matter where he lives. No, as near as I can see, Dustin is out."

"Who does that leave?"

"No one."

Rourke emptied his glass and got up. He went across to the bathroom and inside, leaving the door ajar. From beyond the door he said, "I can ask around about the two boys who worked on you. Might pick up a line on them some way."

"I've got a lead of my own," Shayne said, "but I can't start on it until tomorrow."

Rourke came out of the bathroom and watching him from beneath lowered lids, Shayne said, "Well, guess I'll turn in." He started to yawn but his sore chin stopped it.

"I can take a hint," said Rourke with a grin. He went out and closed the door.

Shayne stood for a long moment before the bedroom door before going in to get his pajamas. When he finally opened it he stood with his hand on the knob staring at the bed. Moonlight came through the window and lay softly upon the form of the girl curled up under the sheet.

Lucy Hamilton lay on her side. Her dark hair was fluffed out on the pillow and her right arm was outside the covering, her fingers semingly clutching the edge of the mattress. Lucy did not stir, and her breathing was so even and faint he could not hear a sound as he lowered ihs head to listen.

His left hand touched her brown hair gently. He looked at his fingers in the bright moonlight. Something thick and stick clung to them. He dropped his other hand on her shoulder and called to her urgently. Her body was like the body of a jointless rag doll.

Shayne switched on the light caught Lucy's limp wrist to feel for her pulse. He first thought there wasn't any, and his blunt fingertip moved frenziedly around the spot where it had to be. He cursed himself for sitting outside talking with Rourke while Lucy lay on the bed, possibly with the life ebbing out of her.

Then he felt a faint beat, regular and reassuring but scarcely discernible uder his touch.

Racing to telephone he called the switchboard and asked for the house physician's apartment. It seemed hours before the doctor in four-eighty-two answered.

"Mike Shayne...in three-o-six," he said rapidly. "I need you fast. Don't bother to dress. An accident...emergency."

"I'm already dressed," said Dr. Price peevishly. "I'll be right down."

Shayne had the door open befofe the doctor reached it, caught him urgently by the arm and pulled him toward the bedroom, explaining swiftly:

"I'ts my secretary. Back of her head is smashed, but I felt a pulse." He held up his bloody finger that had touched Lucy hair. "I don't know how long ago. I've been out all evening. She was here alone."

Dr. Price was a bald-headed dried-up little man with gentle blue eyes and a white goatee. He was fully dressed except for coat and tie.

Shayne tepped back and stood near the door, his gaunt face bleak his grey eyes morose.

"Hot water," Dr. Price said. "A large container. Be sure it boils."

John Young of Minesing, Ont., recently celebrated his 100th birthday by sawing kindling wood for the household, a task which he performs daily. FEAR OF FROST LIFTED

Toronto, Sept. 18. (CP)—A forecast of warm weather in Southern Ontario for today and tomorrow has temporarily lifted the fear of frosts in the Niagara Peninsula fruit-growing district.

The harvest is more than a week behind normal, Ontario Agriculture Department spokesmen said today. Part of the crop already has suffered damage from wet, cool weather and, in some sections, from hail.

Some frost damage to grain has been reported in Northern Ontario. Oats had to be cut green and will be useful only as fodder.

They discovered Aluminum!

AN "INSIDE STORY"

1900—It wasn't only Grandma's cooking that drew the crowds. She had the first aluminum saucepan in town! In many other Canadian homes, too, this was the beginning of a bright, new era of better cooking utensils.

1925—When mother got married, she already knew how to enjoy life with aluminum. She brewed Dad's coffee in an aluminum pot...cooked those big family meals more easily in quick, even-heating aluminum.

1950—Today, daughter's kitchen belongs to the "aluminum age". She enjoys a larger selection of aluminum utensils. This "food-friendly" metal also protects the flavour, quality and purity of the foods she buys.

HINTS TO THE HOUSEWIFE

Whenever you see aluminum on the outside of a food or a drink, there's an "inside story" of cleanliness and purity.

U.S. MARINES SURGE ACROSS HAN IN FORCE

SEES HIS PLAN CARRIED OUT

On hand to see his plan implemented, Gen. Douglas MacArthur watched the marines swarm ashore at Inchon, then followed them in to inspect installations. — Central Press Canadian.

Fire-Protection Devices Installed on Cruise Ship Chief Draughtsman Tells Board

Quebec, Sept. 20. (CP)—A court of inquiry into the Aug. 14 fire on the cruise ship Quebec today continued to hear evidence about fire-alarm and fire-fighting equipment aboard the 7,000-ton Canada Steamship Lines vessel. Seven lives were lost.

Henry McIntosh, chief draughtsman for a Montreal firm of naval architects—Milne, Gilmore and German—whose testimony occupied court sittings yesterday, went on with his description of fire-protection methods.

He was in charge of work last Spring on the S.S. Quebec and her sister ship, the S.S. Tadoussac, when new fire-protection devices were installed.

McIntosh said the new devices included an automatic governor on an engine-room pump capable of driving 1,000 gallons of water a minute to sprinkler and fire-hose systems.

A fire-detection system was arranged to sound alarm bells in the ship's wheel house and engine room if a blaze broke out. Other alarm bells were intended to sound if the sprinkler system went into action after any local rise in temperature to 165 degrees set off a sprinkler valve.

McIntosh said new installations last spring included port and starboard fire bulkheads on "D" deck. The port bulkhead had been insulated with asbestos and cement. The starboard bulkhead had not been insulated though the cork lining of a cold room there would have served as insulation against heat.

"There wasn't time to finish the insulation of that bulkhead," he said in answer to a question by Judge Fernand Choquette, presiding over the inquiry.

Risky For Expert To Clear Wreck Of Blown Safe

Toronto, Sept. 20 — (CP) — Cleaning up wreckage left by the modern safecracker is risky even for an expert, Prof. Joslyn Rogers, Ontario medico-legal expert, warned today.

He urged business men whose safes and strong - boxes are "blown" to leave the wreckage alone because some safecrackers now are using an especially dangerous type of home-made nitro-gylcerine.

"Three men who were called to make repairs have been hurt by traces of explosive left behind after safes were blown," he said. "One man had his arm broken."

He said he hoped police would find the source of the home-made explosive before a "tragedy takes the lives of unsuspecting persons."

A police official said a safe door taken from the scene of a $23,000 bank robbery at Binbrooke, near Hamilton, exploded in Dr. Rogers' laboratory.

The home-made explosive was used also to blow the vault of a bank at Keswick, Ont., Sept. 17, when thieves escaped with $23,000 in cash and $200,000 in bonds, mainly non-negotiable.

Inspector W. J. Franks, provincial police officer in charge of the Keswick robbery, said he doesn't think "the men are very expert at it — that's what makes it all the more dangerous." He was sure the safecracking gang originated in either Hamilton or Toronto.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Sept. 20. (CP)—Synopsis: Skies will be sunny and temperatures a little warmer in Ontario during most of today. Two disturbances threaten Thursday's weather however. A cold air mass moving south-eastward from Manitoba will drop temperatures tonight and Thursday in Northern Ontario, but is not expected to reach the Georgian Bay and Haliburton regions. A weak storm presently centred in the mid-western states and drifting north-eastward will bring some rain to all regions Thursday.

Hyenas, Wolves Terrorize Lucknow

New Delhi, India, Sept. 20—(AP)—The Hindustan Times reports today that child-eating hyenas and wolves are terrorizing the thickly-populated city of Lucknow in far northern India. Yesterday a wolf carried away a seven-year-old girl. Her bones were found a few miles from the city later, the paper says. On Sunday a year-old baby was snatched from her mother by a hyena.

STRESS CANDIANISM

Winnipeg, Sept. 20 — (CP) — Canadians catering to tourist trade should stress their "Canadianism and not disguise it," H. Napier Moore, editorial director of the Maclean - Hunter Publishing Company, said Tuesday.

He deplored the use of American flags and names to attract tourists. Americans came to Canada expecting something different.

"Why Miami beaches? Why Broadway cafes? Why southern style fried chicken in Canada?"

He was addressing 300 delegates to the 31st Annual Convention here of the Canadian Good Roads Association.

CANADA MAY GET BIG DOLLAR CORK FOR CHRISTMAS

Will Plug Flow Of Gold Reserves

Ottawa, Sept. 20—(CP)—Canada is within a short distance of getting a shiny, new Christmas present this year— a big dollar cork with which to plug the flow of her gold reserves.

The experts say that though the cork this year may not be big enough to plug the hole completely, it appears now that it will be the biggest ever achieved in Canada's trading history.

Its size will be measured by Canada's ability to reduce her traditionally big and irksome trade deficit with the United States and boost her dollar and gold reserves even beyond the present $1,255,000,000.

How irksome this deficit—the surplus of imports over exports—can be was proved to Canada in 1947 when the deficit touched almost $1,000,000,000 and started such a heavy drain on dollar and gold reserves that they soon dwindled to below $500,000,00.

Recently, however, with Canada's dollar devalued, exports have been pouring into the United States at an unprecedented rate. Record after record has been shattered and the deficit was cut to $400,000,000 in 1949.

Can Do Even Better

The experts believe this country can do even better. For example, last year Canada sold about $1,500,000,000 worth of goods to the United States and imported about $1,900,000,000.

This year, current trade figures indicate, the export total may be in the vicinity of $2,000,000,000—biggest ever. The imports, too, are expected to reach an all-time high—probably a little more than $2,000,000,000.

It thus is indicated the trade deficit may be cut to an unparallelled $200,000,000—half the 1949 total.

Use For Other Fields

In the last session of parliament Trade Minister Howe said: "It appears now that in 1950 our trade deficit with the United States may be reduced to considerably less than half of the 1949 level."

This sharp reduction, if it comes about, will allow greater and more flexible employment of the reserves in other fields and will have tremendous inluence in Canada's general trade polly.

It will lead to a faster elimination of the remaining controls on United States imports and generally add strength to international confidence in the Canadian dollar. It could even lead to a revaluation of the Canadian dollar to bring it up to par with American currency. That, of course, is a step which only government policy can decide.

INJURIES PROVE FATAL

Jet Rockets Used in Starting Mercy Flight to Eureka Sound

Toronto, Sept. 20. (CP)—A weather observer for whom the R.C.A.F. today is making a mercy flight from Edmonton to the Arctic weather station at Eureka Sound is an American member of the joint Canadian-American staff at the station, officials at headquarters of the Canadian Meteorological Services said today.

He is Charles Leroy Havens, reported suffering from a hand infection that has not responded to treatment.

P. D. McTaggart-Cowan, Canada's assistant controller of Meteorological Services, said records here do not show Havens' hometown.

The Eureka Sound station, one of the farthest north in Canada, is 680 miles south of the North Pole.

An R.C.A.F. Dakota aircraft is scheduled to fly to Eureka Sound from Edmonton with an R.C.A.F. doctor and two para-rescue men from Northwest Air Command Headquarters at Edmonton.

At Ottawa, department of Transport and R.C.A.F. spokesmen said the ski-equipped Dakota will take off with the assistance of jet rockets.

Details of rescue plans were not known but it was expected that if no landing can be made at Eureka, the para-rescue men and the doctor probably will be dropped along with new medical supplies.

If the man is picked up he will be brought back to Edmonton.

Labor Govt. Takes Renewed Grip on Political Reins After Beating Opposition 306-300

London, Sept. 20 (AP) — The Labor Government took a renewed grip on Britain's political reins today after beating down an almost-successful opposition to force a new election.

The vote was too close for comfort, however. The government mustered a margin of only six—306 to 300—in thwarting a Conservative bid to unseat it on the issue of steel nationalization.

The crucial ballot was taken in the House of Commons last night on a motion by Conservative leader Winston Churchill. In effect it asked the commons to go on record as opposing the government's taking over of Britain's steel industry next Jan. 1.

Parliament passed the nationalization bill last year over bitter Conservative opposition. But in the new parliament elected last February Labor's majority was cut to the bone.

Political observers predict that Prime Minister Attlee's regime will do its best to retain power at least until spring, despite its slim voting margin over the combined Conservative-Liberal opposition.

Election Next Year

Several informed sources indicated the Labor chieftain is planning a new election early next year, after steel nationalization and Britain's big rearmament program get under way.

Conservative and independent newspapers today called for Labor's resignation and a new election to try to end political strife during the Korean War and east-west tension.

The Times commented editorially:

"An early general election, which last week would have seemed bound to introduce a score of irrelevant issues at this time of pressing national anxiety, is now the only way of ending the confusion caused by what Mr Churchill termed the government's decision 'to aggravate and inflame political and parts strife.'"

"Only those Socialists who fear defeat at the polls can make a case against an election," said Lord Beaverbrook's anti - Labor Evening Standard.

The Manchester Guardian, independent Liberal said nationalization would cause "acute difficulty" in Britain's rearmament program.

Neither the Daily Herald, Labor, nor the Daily Mirror, pro-Labor, commented on the vote.

Urging his motion, Churchill challenged the government's right, on "so slender a margin," to complete its steel program, "knock the other half" of the country about "and ride roughshod over them."

The Conservative leader said Attlee, by his decision to go ahead with the nationalization, "has not only fomented national discord for party purposes but is placing an obstacle in the whole steel organization which may be very serious in the swift requirement of our defence services."

Emphasizing that parliament approved the nationalization act a year ago, Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison retorted that Churchill had "formed a conspiracy to stop constitutional procedure.

"This is the new power of veto," he declared.

Last night was the 9th time that the Labor Government won a commons vote since the February elections trimmed its majority to a few seats. It was defeated only once, on March 29, when an opposition move condemning the government's handling of the coal and oil situation was carried 283 to 27, but Attlee did not accept this as a censure vote.

In Prison For Nude Parading, Offenders Will 'Co-operate' Release 395 Doukhobors

Ottawa, Sept. 20—(CP— Justice Minister Garson today announced that 395 men and women Doukhobors, serving sentences up to three years for parading in the nude, will be released from prison.

The sentences on 278 men and 117 women of the Doukhobors' radical Sons of Freedom sect were imposed last spring as a result of law infractions by the nude - parading torch - bearing group in the British Columbia counties of Yale and Kootenay. The accused, have served from four to six months of the sentence imposed.

Action to release them said Mr. Garson in a statement, was taken as the result of the recommendation of a Doukhobor research committee appointed by the British Columbia government and came after the offenders had indicated "a desire to co-operate."

The committee's recommendations were endorsed by the attorney general Gordon Wismer of British Columbia. The committee, made up of prominent western educationists and others, pointed out:

1. The exhibitions of nudism by the Sons of Freedom group had taken place in areas remote from public places, had been "impelled by beliefs peculiar to the Doukhobors."

2. Many of those stripping and later sentenced were not motivated by thoughts of criminal intent, as normally accompanied an infraction of the criminal code.

3. A two-day conference of all interested parties had shown that the offenders wanted to co-operate.

The committee, hoping to achieve a solution to the Doukhobor problem, therefore recommended the remission of sentences, subject to probationary conditions which may be imposed by the province and the federal government.

Mr. Garson said his remissions branch had felt the remission of sentence "on this scale" was "extremely unusual." Yet it felt it "wise to comply" with the request of the provincial attorney general and of the "strong and representative" committee which had been appointed to analyze the Doukhobor problem.

The 23-man committee of scientists, penitentiary experts, educationists and government officials was set up last spring to study means of ridding the country of Doukhobor terrorism in a "just, Christian and orderly" manner.

Quakers who had interceded with the Canadian government 50 years ago to allow the former Russian residents to migrate to Canada volunteered to help bring the violence to an end.

The special committee was established, it was announced last April, because "an adequate solution of the Doukhobor problem must go deeper than merely the just punishment of these offenders."

The Sons of Freedom are a group of about 2,000. Two other groups of Doukhobors, about 10,000 in all, are considered good citizens and have been described as "shocked" by what the Sons of Freedom fanatics have done.

They have raided homes, burned schools and blown up railway lines over a period of years, all in a proclaimed war against materialism.

He was scheduled to leave today for Ottawa, where he will remain for a short time in the office of Maj.-Gen. F. F. Worthington, federal civil defence co-ordinator, to study plans for defence in the event of enemy air attack.

PORTRAIT PAINTER GIVES POLICE NAME ALLEGED SLAYER

Repeated Story Told By Oakland Mechanic

Miami, Fla., Sept. 20. (AP)—A Nassau detective left by plane Tuesday for Oakland, Calif., armed with the name of a person given him as the murderer of wealthy Sir Harry Oakes seven years ago in his Bahamas mansion.

Name of the alleged slayer of the Canadian millionaire miner was supplied by Mrs. Hildegarde Hamilton, prominent Fort Lauderdale, Fla., portrait artist. Later she told reporters she did not want to become too involved in the investigation "because it may not be safe for me to visit" in Nassau again.

Mrs. Hamilton said she repeated a story told her two years ago by Edward Majava, 31-year-old Oakland mechanic. She told the story Monday night to Asst. Supt. Augustus Roberts of the Nassau police and Police Chief Roland, of Fort Lauderdale.

Majava had told Oakland police Monday that he knew "the inside story" of the bizarre Oakes murder case and identity of the killer. Oakes, who discovered the rich gold vien at Kirkland Lake, Ont., was bludgeoned to death in 1943.

Asked by a reporter why she didn't want to become involved in an Oakes murder investigation, she replied:

"Do you remember the murder of an American woman last year in Nassau, whose body was found at the bottom of a well?"

Believed Woman Knew

"It is generally believed that the woman knew something about the Oakes murder," Mrs. Hamilton said.

Miss Betty Renner, 37-year-old Washington, D.C., lawyer, was found dead in a well last winter. The mystery of her death was still unsolved.

Oil Well Owned By H. McFarland Now Producing

Picton.—A good oil well on land owned principally by Harvey J. McFarland of Picton, has been drilled and is producing, according to word received here this week. This well is located 200 miles from Edmonton.

Mr. McFarland received a telegram reading "Good well. Come in Friday." Later, in a telephone call to Edmonton, he was advised that the well had been successfully capped and is rated as having a capacity of 600 to 1,000 barrels a day.

Mr. McFarland's interests are wide—he owns the big construction company which bears his name, owns Far Land Farms and famous Holsteins and Percherons—operates a cheese box manufacturing plant and is interested in other ventures.

Bride-to-be is Terror-Stricken By Dirge-Whistling Prowler

New Oreleans, Sept. 20 (AP)—A terror-stricken 18-year-old bride-to-be is under police protection because a skulking night prowler whistling a funeral dirge has threatened her life.

But pretty Jacquelyn Cadow says she will wed, even if she has to have a policeman escort her down the aisle.

Jacquelyn and her mother, Mrs. Clifford Cadow, came here from their Paradis, La., home after many sleepless nights during which the prowler whistled his mournful funeral march beneath the girl's window.

Jasquelyn, engaged to marry State Trooper Herbert Belsom, Oct. 1, told reporters this story:

Last February the mystery man began skulking around her home at night, whistling tunes and wolf calls. Police were called but the whistler always escaped.

When Jacquelyn's engagement was announced Aug. 1 the whistled tunes changed to a funeral march. Then came telephoned threats.

"Your daughter will never marry Herbert," the caller told Mrs. Cadow one night. "I'm going to kill her, and if I don't get her, I'll get your little boy, Mickey."

Mickey is Jacquelyn's five-year-old brother.

"I'm so scared I don't know what to do," Jacquelyn said. "I've lost 18 pounds already because of this thing.

"How can I get ready for my wedding when I'm so scared I can't sleep or eat? I'll have to have a policeman usher me up the aisle."

Jacquelyn said she hopes the whistler won't be at the wedding but she recalled that in one of his threatening phone calls he told her mother:

"Don't forget, I'll be at that wedding."

North Koreans Fleeing in Terror Before Allied Drive

Vanguards of Liberation Corps Near Heart of Seoul

By LEIF ERICKSON

Tokyo, Sept. 21 — (Thursday) — (AP) — Thousands of U. S. Marines hurdled the Han River Wednesday under furious enemy fire and today were reported hammering at the gates of Seoul.

Gen. MacArthur's post - midnight communique said two armored columns were converging on Seoul against stiffening resistance. Enemy casualties were reported heavy.

The Marines on their first lunges from the river bank drove ahead four miles, half way to the Korean capital, field dispatches said. The communique did not say how close the marines are to Seoul now.

Five hours after the first waves hit the far bank, powerful U. S. tanks were ferried across. They churned up sand banks, plowed over rice fields and moved into the van of the march on Seoul.

Another Marine column was massing on the southwest bank of the Han only one mile from Seoul. It was in the cross-river suburbs of Yanghwa and Hongdungpo.

The leathernecks swarmed across the water barrier eight miles northwest of Seoul in amphibious tractors at dawn after being repulsed once in darkness.

They quickly hacked out a 400-yard-wide beachhead under a hail of red machine-gun, small-arms fire and light artillery bursts.

Tanks Ferried in

While Marines fanned out into nearby, low-lying hills to knock out communist strongpoints, assault craft ferried heavy tanks into the bridgehead.

The tanks churned the tidal Han's mud flats and rumbled down roads leading to Seoul.

(The U.S. army announced in Washington that south Korean marines had landed at Samchok on Korea's east coast directly opposite Seoul. Samchok is the terminus of a railway that crosses the peninsula to Seoul.

(A spokesman said the landing occurred several days ago. There was no information on the size of the landing force.)

B-29s and Fighter planes plastered communication lines within a 150-mile radius of Seoul, seeking to isolate the city.

Its liberation after nearly three months of communist occupation appeared a hand, possibly only a matter of hours.

But the reds apparently were not going to yield the city without a fight.

Speeding truck columns of red Koreans were pushing north from the old southeast Korea beachhead to join in the defence of Seoul.

The reds occupied the city of 1,000,000 normal population June 28, three days after they invaded the United Nations-sponsored republic.

Reds Streaming In

The northbound reds were cutting through a hail of Allied air bombs and machine-gun fire. Aid observers said communists already were streaming into the city along a side road running southeast of Seoul.

Other communist troops were reported fleeing northward from the city, toward the Parallel-38 boundry between red and Republican Korea.

Giant Muskeg Fire Shrouds District In Smoke Fall

Newbrook, Alta., Sept. 20. (CP)—The rising sun was almost obliterated over this northern Alberta village today as a giant muskeg fire on three sides shrouded the community with a pall of blinding, choking smoke.

While some of the 200 villagers lay down to a restless sleep last night, patrols maintained a constant vigil as the fire glowed angry red within 50 yards of the village, silhouetting the gaunt charred bones of what used to be spruce groves.

The fire, burning in dozens of square miles of muskeg, has destroyed 2,000 acres of surrounding farm land. It is under control as long as the wind continues blowing away from the village.

The people of Newbrook have taken the threat calmly—but there is panic in the country's wild life. Hundreds of rabbits, prairie chicken and partridge have sought refuge within the village limits.

McAuliffe Will Not Appeal Death Sentence

Simcoe, Ont., Sept. 20 (CP)—Joseph Herbert McAuliffe, sentenced to be hanged Dec. 19 for the machine-gun slaying of two men, will not appeal, W. E. Ross, his counsel, said today.

Mr. Ross said a pauper's appeal is open to the 32-year-old Windsor man but he could "see no possible grounds," since such a matter depended on either misdirection or non-direction of the jury by the trial judge.

McAuliffe, formerly of North Bay, Ont., was convicted last week of the murder of Arthur Lierman, 31, following the $23,000 holdup of a bank at nearby Langton last June 21. Killed with Lierman was William Goddyn, 24.

Tomato Crop May be Damaged By Heavy Frost

Farmers in the Bay of Quinte district with large acreage of tomatoes still unpicked scanned weather reports with alarm last night as the lowest temperature of the season was predicted by the weatherman.

The official low reading at the local water filtration plant was 35 degrees but here the bay water would have a tempering effect. Further north and in the low lying areas the temperature went well below the freezing point with a heavy white frost being visible on rooftops early Wednesday morning.

Officials of the Canada Packers plant in the city were unable to state by Wednesday noon the extent which tomatoes suffered from the frost. Saturday night's frost blackened many of the vines and it was feared another frost would effect at least some of the tomatoes in the lower areas. Only about 40 per cent of the tomatoes in the Hastings area have been picked, it was stated.

Corn in the low areas north of the city was whitened Saturday night and corn binders have been busy this week.

Money Raised For Blind People Spent on Them

"The thing that keeps me interested in the Canadian National Institute for the Blind," said Mr. A. D. Archibald, "is the fact that all the money raised for the blind is spent on the blind." He pointed out that there are now 120 cases registered in Belleville and Hastings County and all of them are receiving some sort of rehabilitation, and whether it is that they are being taught Braille, being placed in employment, or given a radio license, there is a cost involved.

"You see," he explained, "it costs money even to give a blind person a free radio licence or a theatre pass, but we are glad to do this as one of our services."

Mr. Archibald told the Intelligencer that the C. N. I. B. is not a government organization. While it does receive some county grants, these amounts do not begin to cover the annual cost of its rehabilitation services. "That is why annual Campaigns are necessary," he said.

Purpose Rehabilitation

He mentioned what he considered a fairly general misconception about the C. N. I. B. Some believe it is a relief agency, which buys clothes, coal and other necessities for the blind. While it does perform these functions when needed, the main purpose of the C. N. I. B. is rehabilitation. Many of those on our files have been able to carry on normally as a result of using the services of the Institute for the Blind. Blind people of this county are reading, going about their household tasks, working in factories and stands and taking part in social activities, all because of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

"As Treasurer of the Hastings County Advisory Board, I have learned for myself what the Institute means in the way of rehabilitation to blind people. That is why the other Board members and myself gladly give our time voluntarily, and that is also why I can assure your readers that the money they give to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind will really do a wonderful job."

CUT PHONE CABLE

Hamilton, Sept. 20—(CP)— A workman in nearby Burlington last night mistook a 600-pair Bell Telephone cable for the root of a tree and chopped through it with his axe. As a result, hundreds of homes in the district had dead telephones.

Three emergency crews worked all night repairing the damage.

Large Spanish Onions Grown In This City

If there are any tears in the Sam Cummings household, 128 MacDonald Ave., they should be big tears. That is if the size of onions has anything to do with tears.

Last spring Mr. Cummings planted a bit of Riverside Sweet Spanish onions. The other day he harvested his crop and found that some of his specimens averaged well over a pound each. One of the big fellows weighed one pound and 10 ounces and three weighed a total of four and three quarter pounds. The big one was 16 inches in circumference.

Mr. Cummings stated that the onions had received no extra care.

Victoria Trust and Grey And Bruce Trust Amalgamate

The Board of Directors of the Victoria Trust and Savings Company of Lindsay, Ontario, and the Board of Directors of the Grey and Bruce Trust and Savings Company of Owen Sound held meetings on September 13th and 14th respectively at which a plan to merge the two companies into one amalgamated company, to be know as "Victoria and Grey Trust Company," was unanimously approved by each Board. Each company has called a special general meeting of its shareholders to consider and, if approved, ratify an agreement covering the merger, and notices to this effect have been mailed to shareholders. Definite approval of the plan by the shareholders cannot be obtained until October 31st when both companies are holding their meetings.

Both companies operate under Province of Ontario charters, and have provided a Trust, Savings, and Loan service in central Ontario for many years. It is planned to continue the same facilities and services as are presently maintained at all the branches of the two companies. The two Boards of Directors are to combine to form the Board of Directors of the amalgamated company.

The Victoria Trust and Savings Company was established at Lindsay, Ontario, in 1895 and operates branches at Belleville and Cannington. Mr. T. H. Stinson, K.C., of Lindsay is President of the Company, and Mr. H. J McLaughlin, K.C. of Toronto and Mr. F. G. Perrin of Oakwood are Vice-Presidents. The Grey and Bruce Company was founded at Owen Sound in 1889, and in addition to its head office there, operates a branch at Peterborough. Its President is Mr. George D. Fleming of Owen Sound, and Mr. J. G. Fraser, of the same city, Mr. E. W. Cooper, of Meaford, and Mr. T. A. Mackay of Peterborough are Vice-Presidents.

Letters to the shareholders recommending the plan to merge are very similar, and the following extract is common to them both.

"Your Directors earnestly believe that it is in the best interests of the shareholders to unite the two Companies; they already have much in common and a friendly feeling has existed between them for many years. Combining their assets, operations, and experience should result in increased business and earnings, thus benefiting the shareholders. The pooling of assets will provide wider diversification of security for the shares thus strengthening their position. The Amalgamated Company, with assets of about $37,000,000 and a long history of service in the Province of Ontario, should enjoy a high standing among Canadian Trust Companies."

The merger agreement provides that shares of each company are to be exchanged for shares in the Amalgamated Company on a par for par basis. It is planned to have the shares of the Amalgamated Company of $10. par value, and application is to be made to list them on the Toronto Stock Exchange. Victoria shares being of $100. par value will receive ten of the new shares for each present share. The capital stock of the Grey and Bruce Company being shares of $50. par value will receive five shares of $10. par value of the Amalgamated Company for each present share. Previous to the merging of the two companies Victoria shareholders will receive a special cash dividend of $7.50 per share, which is being distributed for the purpose of equalizing the value of the shares of the two Companies par for par.

Chocolate Cake Baked by P.E. County Youth Wins Top Prizes at Fair

Modern woman has emulated and in some cases bettered many things the mere male of the species can do, with the exception, perhaps, of growing a moustache.

Now, the achievement of a 17-year-old Prince Edward County youth indicates that mere man can do better, much better in a certain sphere of milady's activities.

And a number of ladies of the "Garden County" will wear slightly pink countenances when they read this story.

The youth who has a yen for culinary activities, majored in cake-baking in the college of the home kitchen. This year, he decided to enter his oven productions at the Picton Fair.

He concentrated on the production of a chocolate cake. His achievement, he felt, would give him some kind of an idea as to how he would rate with the champion women cooks of the county.

Came the big day and the youngster stared in amazement at the two "Special First Prizes" that adorned his cake. He almost gasped as he looked again and noted the tag that brought his entry the chocolate cake-baking championship of the county.

He had won over all the women entrants in the district. And among the "also rans" was a cake baked by his mother. His name for obvious reasons, is being withheld.

The new store will be constructed of concrete blocks faced with brick and will have a full size 11-foot basement.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Sept. 20 — (CP) — Prices dipped and recovered as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Opening trends pointed slightly lower in continuation of yesterday's losses but mild demand appeared in mid-session and the market advanced slightly. Volume for the first three hours was 967,000 shares.

Leading senior golds and junior producers showed some of the best advances in recent sessions in pulling out of a narrow price path. A handful of lower-priced issues traded sharply, led by Paymaster Mines, for some good gains. Dome paced fractional advances in seniors.

Industrials also bounced higher. Papers, utilities, refining oils and textiles were in moderate demand. Steels encountered considerable selling.

Selected western oils advanced slowly. Calmont Oil, yesterday's feature, held the limelight, showing an advance.

Base metals were about balanced. Some recovery tendencies were evident in market leaders that dipped sharply recently following a steady advance to new high price levels.

New Fire Truck to Replace 33-Year-Old Machine Authorized by Council

Trenton (Special) — Trenton is to have a new fire truck to replace the 33-year-old La France which broke down recently, and thrown in on the deal will be a free machine from Niagara Falls. Cost of the new truck from the company was quoted at $21,246, but government subsidies are expected to bring the price into the $14,000 range.

The government subsidy will be contingent on an agreement by the town to provide fire protection for adjoining municipalities. If such is the case, the subsidy will amount to 35 per cent, and will bring the cost down to $13,809.90. Minimum subsidy is expected to be 25 per cent.

Also in the deal was the transfer of a 23-year-old La France machine from Niagara Falls. This truck will be given to Trenton free by the company, and it was this offer that decided town council to favor the La France bid. Niagara Falls is buying a new truck, and is trading the old one in on it.

Cost of putting a new engine in the old truck would have been $2,500 and councillors felt that it would be false economy to fix the veteran. "Even with a new engine, it could never be considered reliable," they said.

The new truck will have a five-man cab, a 300-gallon water tank, and will come equipped with all fire-fighting "extras." Delivery of the machine will take about 75 working days. In the meantime councillors felt, RCAF equipment would be made available for emergencies, as in the past.

Only further decision to be made on the matter is whether or not debentures will be issued to pay for the machine. Present fire equipment in Trenton consists of a 1943 model commercial pumper, a 1933 hose truck, a commercial truck and the battered 1917 La France.

Transport Hits Station Wagon Near Radio Station

Damage amounting to $100 was caused to a parked station wagon on Victoria Avenue this morning when a brake-loose loaded transport struck it, smashing its grill and headlights.

The station wagon, the property of Radio Station CJBQ, was parked on the right hand side of Victoria Avenue a few yards west of the building.

The transport, belonging to the Smith Transport Company had been parked outside the new Dominion Stores when, it is stated, the air brakes stopped functioning and the loaded vehicle rolled slowly down the avenue gradient.

It struck the station wagon a glancing blow on its left front, pushing it across the sidewalk where it came to rest a scant inch from a car owned by John Buchanan, CJBQ engineer, which was parked between the sidewalk and a fence

Damage to the transport was negligible. Its driver, Jack McFarlane, Holloway, R. R. I. was inside the Dominion Stores building when the accident occurred.

Acting as a buffer, the station wagon probably averted damage to the radio station building, which was in direct line with the moving transport when it struck the other vehicle.

PICTON

Fire Destroys Cressy Factory, Loss is $8,000

Picton — Fire completely destroyed Cressy cheese factory and all contents yesterday. All equipment was ruined and sixty-five cheese, each weighing 90 pounds, burned. Loss will run close to $8,000. The cheese was valued at $1,660. The building had been much improved in recent years and was metal clad. The equipment had also been improved.

This factory was built in 1920 to replace that which was burned a year earlier. It is a stock company with Elmer Norton as president and Clifford Harrison as secretary-treasurer.

The fire was discovered around 4:30 a. m. by the maker, Harold Henderson. The outbreak, of unknown origin, was in the second storey at the east end over a curing room. No fires had been left on or had been started that day.

A big orchard sprayer owned by Ross VanVlack pumped water through a line from the bay and helped save the boiler house close by.

The house occupied by the maker is also metal covered and was saved. Fearing that it might be lost, all contents were removed.

For the present, milk from the factory's patrons is being taken to the Waupoos factory. Officers and directors of the company are meeting to discuss plans for the future.

Insurance carried will cover only part of the loss.

H. and P.E. Regt. Observes Army Week, Parades

Trenton (Special)—The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment started off a week of parades in Trenton Monday night. Purpose of the parades is to mark Army Week, September 18-23, and to show the public how the dollars they contribute as taxes are used to promote defence.

The Hasty Pees paraded all regimental transports and guns, and were headed by Major F. M. Burtt, commanding officer of the support company. From Frankford, one six-pound gun and one truck came to augment the Trenton reservists. The equipment was inspected at the market square by transport officer Captain Ross, of Headquarters Company, Belleville. Vehicles from the six H. and P. E. companies—Bancroft, Madoc, Picton and Wellington rifle companies, plus Trenton and Belleville—made up the parade.

Last night, the unit paraded in Frankford, and tonight will show in Belleville. Thursday the parade takes place at Picton, and Saturday sees the reservists at Bancroft.

Air Commodore John G. Kerr To Attend College

Trenton (Special)—A former chief staff officer of the RCAF station, Trenton, has been appointed to attend the Imperial Defence College in England. Air Commodore John G. Kerr, CBE, AFC, will sail for overseas early in December. A/C Kerr is 41.

The former Trenton man is a native of Arnprior who joined the RCAF in 1931 after graduation from Royal Military College, Kingston. When the World War II broke out he was officer commanding a preparatory training squadron at Camp Borden, with the rank of squadron leader. At the first of the war, he was closely connected with the establishment of training schools under the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan, and was commanding officer at stations at St. Hubert, P.Q., and Fingal, Ont.

A/C Kerr was posted overseas in May 1944 as a group captain, and remained there until July, 1945. During that time he was promoted to air commodore. On his return to Canada, A/C Kerr was posted to command a wing of long-range bomber squadrons, to be used with the planned RCAF Pacific force. Following that, he served as chief staff officer at Trenton, and for several years has been Deputy Air Member for Operations and Training at Ottwa.

A/C Kerr was awarded his Air Force Cross in 1943, and was appointed a Commander of the Order of the British Empire in 1946.

THE SAME SHAW

George Bernard Shaw, recovering from a broken thigh bone, remains alert to all that is passing. The other night he was lying in bed with the light on listening to what — a radio broadcast of a production of his great play "Saint Joan." Shaw like any patient or sick person was told to turn out the light.

Shaw's mental vitality is one of the marvels of his time. He remains alert to the latest trends in the world about him for he is one of the leaders of thought in the English-speaking world.

Vegetarian as he has been, such is he still. After he entered the hospital for rest and recuperation, his housekeeper sent him food that he likes, vegetables and nuts such as he has been accustomed to eat.

MIGRATIONS

Once again the birds have flown on that mission so mysteriously and intriguing to man. Much as man roams he has not made a seasonal affair of it as the song birds which come from the deep south, to the north, raise their brood and after the due season with a precision which never fails, move southward according to a compass man has not yet understood. Much as he has probed all through history the strange custom of the birds the answer is not yet given. Birds, just as ancient birds of long ago, take the long flight from the realms of warmth to the cooler north and return.

Dogs and cats are given credit for a strange gift of being able to find their way to a degree. Man calls it instinct. But they have not that faultless guidance of birds which moves them from south to north and from north to south at the proper season.

One of the most impressive sights is the gathering of the birds as they prepare for their journey en masse over a great part of the world. No company of human beings could so organize their social movements as by some strange gift the birds are able to do.

Nature of course has given them and left them with wings after all the changes which they have passed through in the course of their development through time from the earliest bird life. Their wings are one of the marvels of all the works of Nature. One mythological figure, one of the early youths, tried to become a birdman but fell to his death, ancient legends claim. Even the ancient pondered over the strange problem of migrations and flight of birds which were given a religious significance by such masterly people as the old Greeks and Romans. But the ancients got no nearer the solution of the origin of migrations of the fowls of the air than modern man has.

Wings overcome many barriers. Yet not all flying creatures migrate. Some birds stay with us all the year. Why?

One fact stands out clearly, birds have given man a problem to solve — why they fly and come and go.

Life would lose much of its charm if nature had not established these long flights by vast numbers of the flying creatures. They have enriched history for literature is full of the evidence of the charm and appeal birds have for human beings. Men and women have seen in the movements of birds some of the spirit of beauty which fills the earth. To man the bird is the emblem of aspiration, hope and achievement.

MORE THAN PUSH-BUTTONS

It is men — masses of men — and their sheer, dogged courage that today holds the line against enveloping tyranny in a corner of Asia. The great thrust now aimed at cornering Korea's red invaders is a drive of infantrymen and tanks — of sheer weight.

It is men that were desperately called for at the beginning of the fight and men are still needed. Our fastest planes, our most devastating bombs, our most ingenious instruments of detection and annihilation — these are not enough. Manpower is the weight that decides today's battles as it did yesterday's wars.

If Korea has taught us nothing else, it has suddenly thrown back in our faces the persistent illusion of the "push-button" age. It was a blind belief in the miracle of technology that nearly cost us our survival in the last struggle; has frustrated and bedeviled our industrial economy in the post-war years, and has — up to now — led to a fatalistic obsession with the theory that a handful of bombs will settle all future conflicts. It was all going to be so wonderfully easy. — Hamilton Spectator.

My mind to me a kingdom is; such present joys therein I find, that it excels all other bliss that earth affords. — Chaucer.

Mackenzie's Column:

Old Reich Will Remain Divided For Many Years

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The decision of the Big Three Powers — Britain, France and the United States — to end their protracted state of war with Western Germany is a strategic move calculated to maintain peace and to strengthen the defences of Western Europe.

Its terms constitute a warning to Russia not to interfere with Western Germany. Indeed, the Big Three say bluntly that any attack on Berlin or Western Germany will be regarded as an attack on them as occupying powers.

This means, as far as present indications go, that the old Reich will remain divided upon its present lines indefinitely.

Russia's eastern zone of 46,600 square miles, with its population of 17,300,000, will continue as a communized satellite of Moscow. The western zone — 96,300 square miles, with a population of 49,-700,000 — will function separately under its Bonn government, with the Big Three continuing occupation.

Will it Last

But will Germany remain divided permanently? I don't believe so. The Germans are a clannish folk and it's in the book that sometime in the distant future these two portions of the Fatherland will coalesce, by force or otherwise.

The Big Three decisions not to end military occupation of the country serves a double purpose: It is a safeguard against Germany building up a war potential which would permit a further aggression. It is a protection for the unarmed and at present defenceless country.

As would be expected, the Big Three agreed that the re-creation of a Germany army would be against the best interests of Europe and of Germany herself. Throughout a long discussion of this problem France remained firm in a refusal to agree to such rearmament of a Germany which three times within 100 years had attacked her.

However, Germany isn't to be left militarily impotent for defence purposes. She is to be allowed to create mobile police formations, and such forces can be extremely effective

This would seem to be a shrewd move on the part of the Big Three. It not only strengthens the general defences of Western Europe, but it may be expected to give a fillip to the morale of the Germans. They are a proud folk who would resent bitterly being utterly dependent on their conquerors for protection.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

MR. BELVEDERE OF RIVINGTON STREET

Last night, in the mood for conversation and kartoffelklase, I went a-calling on my Aunt Frieda and my Uncle Charlie

"Your uncle, he ain't home," said Frieda as I walked into their Allen Street flat. "He is having a nervous break-up, and Dr. Gittleson is sending him to Mr Feitlebaum's place in Lakewood-Cathedral in the Pines."

"What brought it on?" I asked

"Well, is like this," said Frieda. "A couple weeks before Groundhog Day — you should pardon the expression — is coming home your uncle and announcing he is becoming a baby sitter. Every Monday night, he says, the Lerners on Rivington Street is going to the theatre uptown, and Mrs. Lerner is offering him a dollar a hour and free television if he will sit with their little six-year-old boy, Wilbur.

"Well, when Charlie is coming home the first Monday night, I am naturally asking him for the five dollars, but he is telling me he ain't got it. He and Wilbur, he says, is watching the wrestling on the television and betting a dollar who will win, and the little boy is winning five times consecutive.

"Next Monday, Charlie is again losing the five dollars. This time is baseball. He is betting on the Brooklyns, and the dumbhead, he is not knowing what Wilbur is knowing — that Jakie Robinson is not playing on account of because he has a busted hand.

"The third Monday, your uncle is going to the Lerners with a deck pinochle cards in his pocket — and again is losing the five buckses. Wilbur, he says, is catching on very quick, is remembering all the cards, and by 10 o'clock is trumping and melding him right in the ground.

"Well, all Summer it goes like this. Every Monday Charlie is baby sitting and every Monday he is losing to the baby. And quinciquantly he is not eating so good and is hollering and banging with the doors This little boy is making him plain crazy, and your uncle is swearing he will get even-Steve — no small fryer, he says, is making him a monkey.

"Last Monday I am figuring I will see myself what is going, and so I keep Charlie company to the Lerners. There I am meeting Mrs Lerner who is giving me a big howdy-doodle, and explaining her husband is busy in the shop, and is inviting me I should go with to the theatre

"She is also making me acquainted with Wilbur, and while she is putting on the hat I am talking with him, and he is making on me a very good impression.

"Later when we are coming home from the theatre the impression is changing, because Wilbur is playing on me and your uncle a trick from a hundred years ago.

"A trick like this: When Mrs. Lerner and me are going out, the little boy is telling your uncle his mother wants he should take a bath right away, but he ain't got time because Hopalong Cassidy is in twenty minutes. So your uncle is telling him a man don't need twenty minutes for a bath, and he could do it easy in fifteen. So the little boy is betting him five dollars he can't take off his clothes, bathe himself and dress full up in fifteen minutes.

"'Starting from a full tub?" is saying your uncle.

" 'Starting from a full tub,' is answering Wilbur.

"Well, as everybody knows, Charlie is a fast bather and is doing the job complete in nine minutes And when we are coming home from the theatre he is smiling like Steeplechase. 'I want you should be present at the paying-off ceremony,' he says. 'For taking a simple bath, I am winning five dollars cash from Wilbur.'

"When I was hearing this, I am thinking the ceiling is falling down on me."

"I don't follow you," I said to my Aunt Frieda. "Why weren't you happy? Charlie finally won."

"Is simple," Frieda explained sadly. "While I am getting acquainted with Wilbur and his mother is putting on the hat, he is betting me ten dollars he can make your uncle take off all his clothes."

THE PACKSACK

WHAT! NO BOOKS?

I persuaded a friend to read a little book that was a favorite of mine. He did so, enjoyed it greatly, he said, and then remarked that it was the first book he had ever read through! And he, nearing his fiftieth birthday! I was amazed and told him that my opinion was that he had only lived a half life.

Then it was that I speculated upon what my life would have been had I never read a book, until that time of life. I would have missed the acquaintance of characters that have been household names in thousands of homes. I would never have known David Copperfield or his friend Micawber, Henry Ryecroft, Mrs. Proudie, Jane Eyre, Liza of Lambeth, Philip Carey, Sherlock Holmes, Rima, and hundreds of other fiction characters that early became friends of mine. I would never have understood my country, or other countries, had I what a host of the great, and near great, I have come to know from their own books about them!

People who have never read a book have imprisoned themselves, and need to be let out from their confinement. They will never know the full joy of life until they do. Books open up the world, gleam light into it, and feed both the mind and spirit. Select the books to read as you select your friends, for they will stay by you when your human friends may have deserted you.

George Barr McCutcheon, who died many years ago, was a great lover and collector of fine books. I have a small one that he wrote, which he called "Books Once Were Men." That is so true. We take up a book and we handle the spirit of the author himself. I walk into my library and silent voices greet me from every wall and corner. I am never alone when there.

A college mate of mine once told me that the entire course of his life was changed after having read Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables. What a character in Jean Valjean! The book was written as a protest at the galley slave system, but it is a book about life. Books are permanent friends!

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

One of the smartest stores in my city, devoted to furs and fine raiment for women, has greeted the autumn season all renovated, painted, decorated. And to celebrate the face-lifting, it is holding a fashion show and "at home" for the public. In a spirit of bravado, I attended.

Many of the city's most beautiful models had been employed to wander, drooping elegantly, about the premises, all tricked out in the newest fashions. The best architects and interior decorators had done a wonderful job on the stately chambers of the store. It was theatrical. No Hollywood setting for a musical extravaganza could excel it. From concealed outlets, soft music floated. Modernistic arrangements of September flowers accented all the shadows, the corners, the angles. Only a few furs, a few garments, lay or hung about to suggest that amid all this sophisticated elegance, crass commercialism lay concealed.

There was only one thing wrong with the whole lovely picture. The customers.

The customers struck a sour note. They were the frowsiest, bunchiest, bulgiest ill-assorted mob of old battle axes and young hatchets you ever saw. Amid all the cool splendor of the show rooms, alongside the beautifully made and superbly dressed fashion models, the shortcomings of the customers were brought out as by footlights. To suppose that furs, clothes, cosmetics, hair-does, could do anything for these well-heeled unfortunates would be sheer fantasy. A more shocking setting in which to sell fashion to women could hardly be imagined. They appeared shocked at each other. It was an unholy show.

As I edged my way out, the proprietor greeted me: "What do you think of it?"

"Superb!" I whispered hoarsely. "If you could only keep those awful customers out!"

THE BOWEL IS NO PLACE FOR A POLYP

A polyp is a projection of tissue growing from the mucus membrane lining of hollow organs, such as the nose, throat, uterus or bowel. The growth is often smooth, rounded and of the same color as the adjacent tissue, at first.

A polyp begins as an apparently simple overgrowth of the normal lining. As development proceeds, the growth elongates in such manner as to produce a stalk from which further growth into the cavity of the organ occurs. The growth might be likened to a burgeoning flower.

Experience has shown that about 95 per cent of all polyps occuring in the bowel eventually become cancerous. This high percentage does not apply to polyps in other locations.

The cause of polyps is unknown. In the nose, they are often associated with sinus disease, and may grow to such an extent as to block breathing, but very rarely, if ever, become cancerous.

In the bowel, they remain symptomless for a long time. Polyps in the rectum (there may be one or more) may protrude at times and be mistaken for hemorrhoids.

It is probable that the over-all incidence of cancer of the bowel includes a high percentage of cancer arising from unrecognized polyps, although all cancer of the bowel, of course, does not originate in this manner.

Inasmuch as polyps in the bowel produce no symptoms or distress in the early stages, the question naturally arises as to how one can know whether or not he harbors a polyp.

A polyp in the bowel may be detected by two methods. One is known as proctoscopy. The other is X-ray. In the former, an electrically lighted tube is introduced into the bowel through the rectum, and the lining is carefully inspected by direct vision. In the latter, a contrast medium—usually barium—a white powder suspended in water—is injected into the bowel as a preliminary measure. X-ray examination then proceeds.

A polyp, being soft tissue, is not always directly diagnosable by X-ray examination. When a contrast substance is injected into the bowel, the polyp becomes apparent. After the bowel has been emptied, flecks of barium cling to the structures and outline their formation. A film taken at this point is often more informative than one taken when the bowel is full.

The next question naturally arising is—what are the indications, or reasons, for this type of examination in an apparently well person.

Ideally, it might seem as though everyone, on general principles, should have this type of examination periodically. Practically this would be a monumental and impractical task. But any person who has symptoms of bowel disorder — or rectal disorder — should have the benefit of a routine proctoscopy and X-ray examination of the bowel.

Personally, I would feel much better about spending money for an expensive procedure which revealed nothing wrong, than I would to save the money and worry about what I might have. I could never feel that money spent for the purpose was "wasted."

The presence of polyp in the bowel calls for immediate surgical removal. Such action has cured thousands of cases of cancer before they got well started. The necessary surgical procedure is mild indeed, compared to the extensive surgery often necessary in well established cancer of the bowel. "Well established," in this instance, too often means —incurable.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Preventative

For once the geek is right—I find no such word as preventative in my dictionaries. (C. L. P).

Answer—You had better give 'em to the rag man and invest in a Webster's New International. Webster says preventative is a noun or an adjective.

The Flea Situation

Can't imagine where these black fleas come from but they get into the house and bother my wife no end, although they never bother me. The welts they leave when they bite her are terrible. (W. H.)

Answer—Chapter telling how to deal with them in booklet about various pests or parasites—Unbidden Guests. For copy send 25c and stamped self-addressed envelope.

Experience and Judgment

The heart specialist at the—— Clinic told me you advice that angina sufferers take nitroglycerin tablets ad lib is highly dangerous. (F. C.)

Answer—Interesting. If the eminent clinikateer will write over his own signature one good reason why it is dangerous I'll publish it here and I promise not to divulge his identity. For reasons set forth in the booklet C V D (about heart and artery troubles) I recommend unrestricted use of nitroglycerin by such sufferers.

THE WAY TO SPIRITUAL TRUTH

The story of Thomas, one of the original twelve disciples, would bear continuous perusal by modern men.

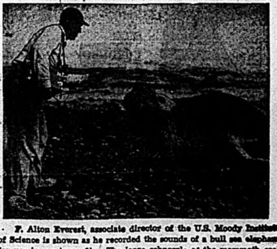
Thomas was a doubter. He was an honest doubter, but a doubter he surely was. He would not believe spiritual truth until it was proved to him, and the proof he demanded was physical and material proof. He declared that he would not believe in the resurrection of Jesus even if he saw it with his own eyes. He must have further physical proof. He must touch the nail prints in Christ's hands and thrust his hand into the wound in Christ's side.

The opportunity for physical proof was offered to him, but Thomas did not take it. He had something better. He was conscious of the Lord's presence, and that answered all his doubts.

In material things, seeing is believing. In spiritual things, believing is seeing. We never understand a spiritual truth until we first believe it.

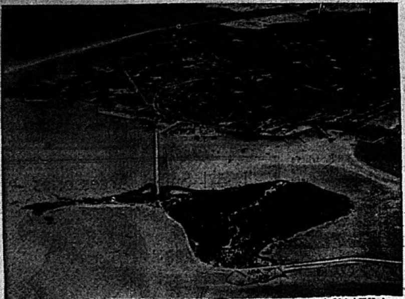
This is hard for the modern to take. But spiritual truth transcends the techniques of science. Only through belief followed by faith do we arrive at a knowledge of spiritual truth.

PROOF SEA ELEPHANTS SNORE MUSICALLY



F. Alton Everest, associate director of the U.S. Moody Institute of Science is shown as he recorded the sounds of a bull sea elephant for use in a science film. The large schnozzle of the mammoth seal acts as a sound resonator giving a musical tone to the "clung-clung-clung," which passes as sea elephant language. The institute reports that beautiful deep-throated snoring sounds of sleeping elephants were also recorded. But the female sea elephant at right recorded a sour note as she charged the photographer.—Central Press Canadian.

INCHON LANDING DELICATE OPERATION FOR COMMANDERS



Now that Wolmi Island and the port of Inchon, shown here, are firmly held by U.N. forces and thousands of tons of war material are being transported inland toward Seoul, commanders in the original assault admit that the landing was carried out in spite of some of the greatest collection of natural hazards ever impending an amphibious operation. Mud flats, entirely surrounding the island, would have prevented anything but a direct assault had enemy firepower not been silenced by Canadian, British, South Korean and U. S. naval gunfire. — Central Press Canadian.

Trade Between Canada, U.S. Hits New Peak

Ottawa, Sept. 20 (CP)—Trade between Canada and the United States move ahead to new peaks during July, the bureau of statistics reported Tuesday in its monthly trade summary.

July trade between the two countries produced a small credit balance of $100,000 for Canada—the first this year—compared with a debit balance of $54,200,000 in July last year.

The adverse balance for the seven months ended July was cut sharply to $87,500,000 from $362,500,000 a year earlier.

Canadian exports to the U.S. in July reached an all-time peak for the month of $168,200,000, compared with $104,400,000 a year ago, while imports, also at a new top, totalled $170,600,000 against $160,300,000. Foreign exports through Canada which totalled $2,500,000 produced the $100,000 credit.

In the seven-month perido, exports to the U.S. came to $1,067,700,000, compared with $806,600,000, while imports totalled $1,175,200,000, compared with $1,169,000,000.

For the world as a whole, the value of Canada's merchandise imports exceeded the value of exports by $2,700,000 in July. This compared with credit balances of $9,300,000 in June and $12,800,000 in July last year.

During the seven-month period, the deficit on foreign trade has $7,700,000 compared with a credit of $41,900,000 a year ago.

Professor Gives Portuguese Explorer Credit For Discovering America

Birmingham, England, (Reuters)— An English professor claims Christopher Columbus did not discover America in 1492. He says that was done five years earlier by a Portuguese explorer named Dualmo.

Prof. A. Davies of Exeter University said Columbus "cooked" his ship's log.

He told scientists of the British Association there were "several features" about Columbus's first voyage suggesting that he knew land was there before he set out.

He said Columbus's brother, a map maker in Portugal, had told him about Dualmo's discoveries. He knew, therefore, that he would find land 750 leagues west of the Canary Islands and he maintained a course due west from the Canaries to do so.

He added that as soon as the ships left the Islands Columbus began to falsify the log and by the time the vessel had reached the West Indies it showed the ships had covered 900 miles more than they really had.

When Columbus landed in Cuba he recorded the latitude as 42 degrees north instead of 21.

The falsifications were deliberate so that he could claim a new discovery, the professor added.

He said that from 1500 onwards world maps began to appear based on Portuguese charts which showed the coastline of North America in detail. That was years before the Spaniards began to explore the coast of the United States.

LCB Raises Liquor Prices On All Brands

Toronto, Sept. 20. — (CP) — Liquor-price boosts of from 15 to 35 cents a bottle were announced Tuesday night by the Ontario Liquor Control Board.

Canadian rye whiskies now selling at about $4 are boosted 25 cents on a 26-ounce bottle; $3.40 lines are up 35 cents; bottles at $3.20, $2.95 and $2.85 are up 30 cents. Canadian gins generally are increased 25 cents. The new prices go into effect Thursday.

The boosts are the result of price increases bw some Canadian distillers and of the recent hike in federal tax on spirits, Brig. J. C. Spragge, Liquor Control Board comptroller, said in a statement.

Canadian Highland whiskies, imported Scotch and Irish whiskies, imported cognac and brandy, imported gins and rums and liquers will cost 20 cents more. Reason for these increases are the tax boost and higher import duties, Brig. Spragge said.

In most cases the price of 12-ounce bottles is increased by half of the boost on 26-ounce bottles. In some cases, the smaller bottle has been increased by only 15 cents.

PORTRAIT PAINTER

Mrs. Hamilton said she met Majava three years ago in Fort Lauderdale when he came to purchase a painting of Morro castle. A year later, she told reporters, he came to her studio and related the story of Oakes' killing.

Majava, she related, told that he got his story from "a blonde woman in Miami." At the time, Mrs. Hamilton continued, he told her the name of the man who supposedly killed Sir Harry.

"I told police all I knew about the story Majava told me," Mrs. Hamilton asid.

Other Way Round

Majava, arrested in Oakland Sunday on a drunk charge, said it was Mrs. Hamilton who told him the name of the killer. Mrs Hamilton said it was the other way round.

She refused to tell reporters the name, but said "He does live in Nassau and is a prominent man.".

In New York, meanwhile Count De Marigny, who was tried and acquitted on a charge of slaying Sir Harry, said he "fervently hopes" the mystery can be solved.

In an interview De Marigny said that until the murderer of the Canadian millionaire is found his life will "continue to be a hell."

Found Innocent

"People still believe I murdered Sir Harry, although I did not and was found innocent," he said. "Finding his killer is my only chance for a 100-per-cent clear bill."

De Marigny, formerly a resident of Montreal, was Sir Harry's son-in-law at the time the latter was slain in the Bahamas. His wife, Nancy Oakes, stoodby him during the trial but later obtained an annulment of their marriage.

De Marigny said he had been living in seclusion here for two years, denied a steady job "because everyone thinks I'm wrong.

Several pertinent facts about the celebrated slaying never have been revealed, he said, adding that the murderer "could be found in the Bahamas-Palm Beach area if they wanted to find him." He would not elaborate on whom he meant by "they."

BRAZILIAN BOOM

About 30 new businesses are springing up each month in Brazil's two leading cities, partly due to increased consumer demands.

HAPPY DAYS ARE HERE AGAIN

Most welcome man in Hamilton, Ont., is the garbage collector. After a bitter strike of nearly six weeks, the city's union employees went back to work and started collecting the refuse that had accumulated in backyards and on streets. Here a housewife sighs with relief as she hands over a bucket of refuse to a collector. — Central Press Canadian.

RED

The Marines crossed the Han in amphibious tractors soon after dawn.

Naval guns of the Allied armada off Inchon, the invasion Port 22 miles west of Seoul, poured a thunderous fire at the northeast river bank and aircraft and artillery pounded red positions.

Guns in Action

The navy guns 20 miles away were called into action after communist fire had turned back the first river-crossing attempt Tuesday night.

The U.S. battleship Missouri joined the naval bombardment group in the Yellow Sea off Inchon to arch her 16-inch shells into the resisting reds inland.

The mighty Mo raced around the Korean peninsula from the Sea of Japan coast where she had softened up Pohang for reconquest by the allies. South Korean forces followed up the bombardment on the port city and completed the recapture Wednesday morning with no organized resistance encountered.

A daring 14-man allied scouting party swam to the northeast bank and watched communists pour heavy machine-gun, rifle and mortar fire into the first marine amphibious tractors trying to cross in darkness.

Two Scouts Wounded 1

The tractors turned back. Then the reds spotted the patrol and fired on it. The patrol swam back to the southwest bank in a hail of bullets. Two scouts were wounded.

Tractors churned the waters through heavy red fire. They ploughed up the northwest banks and chugged across rice paddies toward hills where the reds were entrenched.

Associated Press correspondent Bill Ross, who crossed the Han 10 miles northwest of Seoul with a marine force, said casualties were the heaviest since the second front operation started last Friday at the Inchon beachhead.

On the Seoul side of the river marines attacted the reds in four strong hill positions just behind the shore.

"When we get high ground north of Seoul there won't be anything to it," said marine Col. Lewis (Chesty) Puller. "He (the enemy) can't stand up against our air and artillery."

WEDDINGS

CUMMINGS—COONEY

The Wesleyan Methodist Church, Belleville, decorated with tall standards of pastel gladioli and ferns, was the setting for a lovely Autumn wedding on Saturday, September 16, at 2 o'clock, when Doris Viola, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garfield Cooney, R.R. 6, Belleville, and Philip Floyd Cummings, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Cummings, Belleville, were united in marriage. Rev. J. S. A. Spearman officiated, assisted by Rev. W. R. Schamehorn, of Newburg.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. Joseph Cummings. Rev. R. Walsh, of Bloomfield, was guest soloist and sang "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden" immediately before the bridal party entered the church and "Because" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a floor-length gown of white satin cut on princess lines, panelled with lace. Her full-length veil of embroidered silk net was caught to a satin headdress. She carried a white Bible with white satin streamers and red Sweetheart roses.

Miss Ruth Plane, Belleville, was maid of honor, gowned in ice-blue moire taffeta with matching mitts and carried a crescent bouquet of white and red gladioli petals.

Miss Beulah Cooney, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, wearing a gown of frosty-pink moire taffeta with matching mitts and carried a crescent bouquet of white and pink gladioli petals.

Little Miss Norma Cooney, as flower girl, wore pink taffeta with matching hat and carried a nosegay of white baby 'mums centred with tiny pink roses.

Mr. Ross Cummings was groomsman for his brother. The ushers were: Messrs. Ross and Keith Cooney, brothers of the bride.

The reception was held at the home of the bride, where her mother received in Gainsborough blue crepe with grey accessories and corsage of pink gladioli. The groom's mother assisted in navy sheer with navy and grey accessories and corsage of pink gladioli. A buffet luncheon was served by Misses Marion Gaebel, Beatrice Lucas, Joanne Crocker, and Mrs. Clayton Young.

For their wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Buffalo, N.Y., the bride wore a navy gabardine suit with grey and green accessories and corsage of red Sweetheart roses. They will reside at 54 Henry Street, upon their return.

WOODS—DARBY

A quiet, but pretty wedding was solemnized on Thursday, Sept. 7, at 1:30 p.m., in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Cobourg, Ontario, when Olive Elvina Darby of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry John Darby, of Romford, Essex, England, became the bride of Charles Alexander Woods, of Cobourg, son of Mr. Albert Woods, Cobourg. The Rev. E. MacKay, pastor of the church, officiated.

The bride was becomingly attired in sky-blue silk crepe, fashioned on ballerina lines with overskirt of matching French lace. She wore a matching lace headdress and carried a Colonial bouquet of mauvy-pink roses and gypsophelia.

Mrs. Grace Bygott, of Sudbury, and sister of the bridegroom, attended the bride, as matron of honor, wearing a blue bolero gown and matching feathered headdress and corsage of pink roses and baby's breath.

Mr. Lawrence Mitchell of Cobourg, attended the bridegroom.

The reception was held at the home of Mrs. William Woods, which was tastefully decorated with pastel gladioli and ferns, following which the happy couple left for Killarney Lodge, Algonquin Park, the bride travelling in a dark red ensemble with navy accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Woods will reside in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were present from Toronto, and Sudbury, Ontario.

Miss Ivy Dickens is Returned President Hospital Auxiliary

The Women's Hospital Auxiliary held its first meeting of the Fall season at the Nurses' Residence on Tuesday. A large number of members and friends were present to hear the annual reports and vote on the new slate of officers for the coming year.

Miss Ivy Dickens was returned as president; 1st vice president, Mrs. A. H. Ketcheson; 2nd vice president, Mrs. S. Sillitoe; recording secretary, Mrs. P. T. Seibert; corresponding secretary, Mrs. E. B. Lally; treasurer, Mrs. Malcolm Robb; bulletin editor, Mrs. R. H. Tanner; press reporter, Mrs. J. H. Forrester; Blue Cross, Mrs. R. A. Elliott; executive—Mrs. H. Wray, Mrs. G. Scott, Mrs. R. A. Elliott, Mrs. W. J. Morrison, Mrs. E. O. Keeler, Mrs. P. C. McGuire.

Membership Increased

The past year has been a very successful one for the Women's Hospital Auxiliary. There is an increase in membership and interested part time workers. We have today 108 paid up members, an increase of 75 over the past five years. There is an average attendance of 35 members at our monthly meetings. During the year the organization conducted five major projects to raise money, with success.

The Christmas Ball held in December netted	$ 209.04
A play Arsenic and Old Lace held in March netted	409.25
A Fashion Show held in March netted	545.91
The Opportunity Shop transferred to the Auxiliary	500.00
A Rummage Sale held in June realized	90.25
Making a total of	$1,754.45

The Opportunity Shop was reopened in October. The interior of the Shop was enlarged and re-modeled and the amount of business was increased.

At Christmas time gaily wrapper presents and candy baskets were prepared for indigent and ward patients and again at Easter, 60 baskets of fruit and candy were distributed to patients in the hospital and ten to patients in the Old Folks Home.

Sewing and Knitting

During the year special sewing is continuously being done by the members under the sewing convener, supplying garments needed by the hospital.

The Beta Sigma Phi Sorority a junior group of young women knit and sew material supplied by the Auxiliary, making layettes for the Good Samaritan cupboard. This cupboard provided layettes for infants of the needy on dismissal from hospital.

A monthly bulletin was edited and mailed to each member and other interested persons which contains information of important business of the past and future meetings.

During this year a sum of $360 was set aside by the Auxiliary to be paid to a student nurse in need of financial assistance over her three-year training course.

An indigent fund was maintained providing small comforts for needy patients.

As a member of the Ontario Federation of Hospital Aids this Auxiliary sent two delegates to the convention held in Toronto, October 31-Nov. 2. Mrs. Mikel, honorary president of the Auxiliary, also attended this convention.

Gifts to Hospital

A gift to the hospital of an oxygen tent equipped with automatic refrigeration unit was made by the Auxiliary and also four children's cribs at a total cost of $990. Four reclining chairs and two folding chairs were given costing $73.53. A loan of $200 was made to a Student Nurses' Fund. A radio and record player was given to the student nurses. A scholarship of $250 was given to a graduating student nurse. During the year sums of money have been voted for the use of the House committee which confers with the hospital management regarding necessary refurnishings. Five hundred dollars was voted to be used for this purpose in the hospital and $200 in the nurses' lounge.

The Auxiliary has enjoyed entertaining speakers at their monthly meetings. Mr. Wakefield, the superintendent of the hospital, frequently addresses the meeting keeping interested facts and problems before the members. In November, Mrs. Mikel very capably reported on the convention of the Hospital Aids in Toronto.

During the year, Miss Potts the director of Nursing, gave an interesting talk, telling of plans which were being made for the benefit of the nurses in training.

Mr. P. C. McGuire, chairman of the Hospital Board, spoke to a meeting explaining many questions relating to matters in the whole hospital set-up.

Miss Ashton, newly appointed, sopke at a meeting telling of her work with injured patients and the plans she was making and hoped to develop in her field of work. During the week following the fashion show, a luncheon was held in honor of the models of the fashion show.

Following the meeting a very interesting report was given by Miss Potts on the nurses' convention held in Vancouver. Tea was served by the director of nursing, assisted by a group of nurses in training.

The Opportunity Shop reopens for business on Sept. 28th and donations of articles for stock would be greatly appreciated. The shop also sells on consignment.

Venture Club Entertained at "Town Room"

The Soroptimist Club of Belleville entertained the Venture Club at dinner in Lattimer's "Town Room" on Monday evening, marking the first get-together of the season of the Clubs and was an occasion of good fellowship.

Following the dinner, Miss Ada Moore, of the Venture Club gave a graphic report of her trip to the 11th biennial convention of the American Federation of Soroptimist Clubs at Seattle, Washington, in July.

Her report was vivid with highlights of humor and seriousness as she brought the trip and the convention proceedings to her listeners. Miss Rachael Fox, also presented a report of her visit to the same convention in a spontaneous happy manner, which was delightful as she took the audience on a mental journey across country to the majestic Rockies and on to the convention where the delegates enthusiastically worked out a pattern around the Harrogate slogan, "Working for the World We Want".

Mr. Alec Gordon entertained with two piano solos; one a pleasing composition of his own.

The Soroptimist Club has a project of community interest planned for the winter: the furnishing of the sitting room for the ladies in the new County Home, and the proceeds from the club's efforts will be directed toward this worthy objective.

Economic Crisis Facing Families Says Official

Toronto, Sept. 20—(CP)—Mrs. F. E. Wright, president of the Canadian Association of Consumers, said today that "an economic crisis is facing our families."

In her report to the annual meeting of the C.A.C., Mrs. Wright said Canadian consumers face "very real difficulties and hardships" in maintaining their standard of living. Root cause was the high cost of essentials.

In a review of the activities of the 13,000-member women's organization during the last year, Mrs. Wright termed the association "a two-way channel between consumers and government, trade and industry."

She reported that during 1950—the association's third year—15 national women's organizations participated, branches were set up in every province but Newfoundland, and the association membership was increased by almost 50 per cent.

Mrs. W. S. Winters of Toronto, C.A.C. corresponding secretary, reported that the association had twice written to the federal agriculture department protesting meat prices.

"Nevertheless, the hurdles of high-priced meat; the compulsion of the Canadian consumer for the most part to buy poorer grades of meat selling at as high or higher than U.S. prices; the continued policies of wrapping bacon in deceptive, red-striped cellophane; and lack of compulsory meat gradings, still stand."

ISRAEL IMMIGRATION

From May, 1949 to May, 1950, 398,288 immigrants arrived in Israel.

Women of the Moose

The regular meeting of the Women of the Moose, Belleville, chapter 435, was held in the Saco Club rooms with a record attendance, each committee chairman giving a report.

Arrangements were made for the Sr. Reg. Selina Isles to attend the annual conference of the Women of the Moose to be held in Hamilton, Sept. 22nd, 23rd and 24th; several of the officers and co-workers are also planning to attend.

Prize donated by Peggy Mintz, for publicity chairman, Mrs. Muntzie, was won by Mr. Arthur Savage. This was drawn for at the supper which was served under committee chairman Luella Livingstone and helpers of the home making committee.

A social hour was planned for the next meeting.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Pity the poor best man who must pay. . .and pay

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please settle for us this argument concerning my wedding plans: Who pays for the bride's flowers and for the maid of honor's flowers? Is it the best man or the groom? Everyone that I know had the best man pay for these flowers.

J. G.

Naturally. . .or at least it should be naturally! . . .the groom wants to pay for the flowers his bride carries on their wedding day. The flowers for the bride's attendants are provided by the bride's parents.

The position of the best man is an honorary one, and he has only two financial responsibilities: (1) he supplies his own attire for the wedding, as prescribed by the groom; and (2) he sends a wedding present to the bride-to-be.

It just doesn't make sense that the best man is "expected" to pay for the flowers, any of the flowers, or for any other of the wedding expenses. But, alas, this is a "racket" that flourishes briskly in some circles. . .thus convincing the best man that he should pay. . .and pay and pay . . . for flowers, for champagne, for car-rental, and so forth. However, many best men (ushers too) have rebelled lately, and have withdrawn from the "honor" of being best man when they are told what expenses they are expected to pay! More power to this healthy and sensible rebellion!

Traveller comes home. . .invites friends to party

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My mother arrived home three weeks ago from Europe where she had a 5-month trip. The first week she was here, she and my father and I went on our vacation trip, and the second week there was much confusion about trunks and so forth. Now we have been discussing the latest date on which a homecoming party may be given for my mother. Her relatives are indisposed and so are unable to give this party And since I am only 13 years old, I can't give it. So mother and I would like to know if it would be proper for her to give this party herself. She would like to give it.

Susan L.

Yes, it would be entirely proper, and a very happy plan, for your mother to invite relatives and friends to come to your home at some stated time—for example, for tea or other late-afternoon occasion. She might telephone them or write notes to this effect: "I'm home again, after a wonderfully interesting trip to Europe, and so eager to talk it all over with my dear friends. Won't you please come to a little party we are having here on Saturday September —— arriving between four and four-thirty? Do say you'll come, for tea and talk!"

Bride's mother and groom's mother must be dressed similarly

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My son is to be married in November. If the bride's mother wears a dress, is it proper for me to wear a suit?

B.B.

You guide as to what type of costume you are expected to wear at the wedding is the bride's mother, She is the hostess of the occasion. . . . it is she who decides what type of costume she will wear. . .and you, the woman guest of honor, must wear a costume of the same type that the bride's mother is to wear. This is very important, since (1) you enter the church just before the bride's mother, and are ceremoniously escorted by an usher (your husband following) to your place in the first pew on the right of the aisle; and (2) you stand with the bride's mother in the receiving-line at the reception. My advice: consult at once with the bride's mother. . .by meeting or by telephone or by letter . . .and ask for her definite guidance.

BEAUTY

Best foot forward

Do you realize that your feet, that carry you about all the day long, are one of the most marvelous mechanisms in nature? Would you recognize a perfect foot if you were fortunate enough to see one? Ninety per cent of the middle-aged sisters suffer from various foot ills—corns, callouses, ingrowing nails, minor deformities—many of which are due directly to ill-fitting shoes. With most of us it is a matter of what kind of shoe looks smart. Comfort and foot health are overlooked. which seems pretty senseless.

The care you give your feet and the selection of proper shoes for every occasion is essential to health, efficiency, and physical activities in all walks of life. Good feet help to prevent accidents. If they are not in condition, no woman can expect to carry herself beautifully, to have style or grace of movement. If they are painful, the sweetest disposition may curdle. When your feet hurt, you hurt all over. A large percentage of women hobble instead of locomoting with a light step.

If you are about to sally forth to buy new shoes, to be sure you have the proper size of shoe with flexible leather soles, The shoes you should wear should be determined by the type of feet you have. There are shoes for walking, dancing, golfing, and for comfortable wear in the home.

Shoes should be wide enough to avoid treading over the outer edge of the leather sole. They should be long enough so you can wiggle your toes and, by the way, you should wiggle them while lying in bed at night; that habit affords them a certain amount of exercise. If your toes have gone into a huddle, you will know that you have not only neglected them, but have abused them.

If you are suffering from any minor deformities, your chiropodist or podiatrist will gladly discuss your shoe problems and suggest the correct styles. Chances are, however, if you are the average woman, you will do what the majority of shoppers do—seek a mode that makes your feet appear attractive without regard to hygienic conditions.

Never wear the same pair of shoes two days in succession. Change your stockings every day. If the soles of your feet burn, friction them with a foot powder; put some of the powder in your shoes. Now and then give your feet a brisk massage with mineral oil; it will keep the skin from getting dry.

White's District. — Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Holmes, who celebrated their 25th wedding anniversaries recently. The Bay of Quinte Women's Institute, of which each lady is a member, presented each with a bouquet of gladioli at their regular meeting last Wednesday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Holmes.

Miss Sharon Jeffery spent the weekend with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Jeffery.

Mr. Cecil Laslett, of Windsor, has been a guest for the past week of Mr. and Mrs. Ritchie Ketcheson. Mr. Laslett and Mr. Ketcheson were former school friends.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Brown, Mr. Gerald Brown, Miss Mabel Brown, Mrs. G. F. Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Young, Mrs. C. Hogle and Mr. and Mrs. Will Jones were at Bethel Church on Friday attending the funeral of Mrs. C. M. Sine, of Sine.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Jeffery spent the weekend in Rochester.

Quite a heavy white frost was noticed in this district on Sunday morning but no harm was done. Both tomatoes and corn are still to be harvested and an early frost would mean a heavy loss to many farmers.

Rally Day service is to be held at White's Church on Sunday afternoon. The junior choir will assist in the service and several of its members will also take other parts. There will also be a promotion service. It is hoped that many will make a special effort to attend this worthwhile service.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Bowers and family, entertained Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fair and family of Sidney, on Sunday.

Backward Look For Beauty

Before you don one of the new bare-top dresses, give your back a little cosmetic care. In the tub, scrub with a long brush; afterwards pat on powder.

By HELEN FOLLETT

NEXT time you are sleuthing around the shops for a new frock, stand before a triple mirror and size up your back. Is it neat and trim, with a graceful nip in at the waistline? Let us hope. If the upper portion is rounded you won't look as nice going as coming. Few women give a thought to rear appearance, not having eyes in the back of their heads.

A neat, smooth back is a good-looks asset; it makes ordinary clothes look like a million dollars. It helps to create youthfulness of figure and sartorial glamor. To attain it and to preserve it one should keep the chest lifted, abdominal fibres packed against the backbone, shoulders with an easy pose. If you throw your shoulders forward it is a good guess that your back will not be anything to brag about

Bare-Top Formals

With bare-top formals, chest, neck and arms require a certain amount of cosmetic attention. When bathing, use a long-handled brush to scour the area of your spinal column. Have the brush well soaped. The bristles should be firm so they don't bend and weaken when moist. Blackheads often form on the upper portion of the back. If they are already present have the mama or the sister sponge the skin surface lightly with eau de cologne. The alcoholic content will seep into the pores, soften the black points and, eventually will dissolve them.

No woman can have an attractive figure who does not possess a well-molded back, covered with just enough flesh to hide the bones. But there is more than beauty in the perfect back. The spinal column is the cornerstone of the human skeleton

Hold yourself tall, walking, sitting or standing. That is the secret of good posture. It is the means of establishing splendid anatomical lines. Without correct stance the musculature weakens and body balance departs.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

You can't solve a problem by just sitting

Fifteen years is a long time to endure an unhappy situation without taking any decisive step to try and better it.

Unfortunately, many women with "problem husbands" apparently think they are doing something when they merely scold and nag and quarrel to get the husband to change his ways But scolding is rarely decisive, and hardly ever settles anything Neither do tears and pleading. Some sort of action is usually necessary to solve a difficult marital problem.

Such action doesn't necessarly mean leaving the husband. Sometimes it simply means that the wife revises her own way of living and adopts a new one.

It is the latter course that I am suggesting one wife might try before packing up and walking out on her 15-year-old marriage.

In all those 15 years, this woman tells me, she and her husband have never agreed on much of anything. Besides the fact that they are at odds in this sort of wholesale way, she has certain specific grievances.

One is that whenever she is ill, her husband is not only unsympathetic but annoyed. He doesn't want her to have a doctor, complaining about the cost, and he goes off and leaves her to take care of herself. Another grievance is that her mother-in-law is critical and rude to her, and her husband sides with his mother against her. A third is that she spends many a lonely evening at home while her husband is out having fun in his own way.

"I would like your opinion," she says, "as to whether I should continue living with my husband or not I know I could live without him and be better satisfied now, although once I would have died for him."

Now if this woman has herself persuaded that she would be happier living apart from her husband, I wouldn't think of trying to change her mind. But since she has asked my opinion, and because there is something about what she says that makes me believe she would like once again to feel she "could die for him". I am going to suggest that she try an experiment for a while. She might set herself a time limit, say six months or a year, to try it out, If it works, fine; if it doesn't, she can still leave and strike out on her own.

What I suggest is, instead of just sitting at home and putting up with the poor deal she seems to be getting; she might interest herself in various types of activities in the community. She might even take some sort of job which would keep her away from home enough so that she could get outside of her problem for a certain number of hours each day. She says elsewhere in her letter that she is "a nervous wreck". Since her nervous condition is undoubtedly in large part due to her intense preoccupation with her troubles, some interesting work would almost certainly help it greatly.

It is true, of course, that if this wife lives in a small town where opportunities for outside work and other interests are more limited, it may be harder to carry out this program. But I believe that any woman who genuinely wants to change her mode of life can usually do so, if she will get up spunk enough to make a beginning by looking outside herself.

S.S. STRONGBOX

London. (CP)—The Eastern Queen new luxury flagship of an Indo-China shipping company, is as hard to break into as a bank. Dubbed by dockers, S.S. Strongbox, the vessel's promenade decks are enclosed with heavy bars and fins jut from her sides to keep off China sea pirates.

Capetown. (CP)—A donkey with a liking for strong drink got his owner in trouble here recently. The man was acquitted on a charge of cruelty to animals when he pleaded that the donkey he was charged with beating had got into his hut and drunk his kaffir beer.

Fashion Flashes

FRANKLY FAKE but fabulous pieces of costume jewelry bring glitter to the new sartorial season. Double strands of large graduated pearls drawn inward and looped through an elaborate lyre design of large rhinestones bring glitter.

TURN AND turn about clothes delight the college girl. All-reversible is a costume consisting of plaid cotton and black corduroy. The plaid weskit has black corduroy revers, and the two-faced skirt wraps and buttons in back.

AT-HOME clothes, designed for informal evenings such as a television gathering, were never nicer. Quilted aqua blue crepe makes an overblouse that teams nicely with all-over quilted navy velveteen slacks.

AND NOW we have casual glamor as the keynote of late afternoon informal evening clothes. Well, it's as good a description as any and aptly describes an outfit made up of a halter-top sheath dress in Oxford gray tissue wool jersey topped by a cardigan windbreaker of bright red moleskin.

GRADUALLY the ostrich-feather trimmed hat is making a comeback, appearing in some of the top-notch collections. A creamy white felt cloche has white ostrich plumes at one side and is trimmed with a narrow band of gold kidskin.

PERFECTLY GRAND are the evening separates for Fall Adding up to a lovely costume and each piece good on its own, is a taffeta lampshade skirt banded and hem edged with velveteen to match the velveteen top that is sleeveless and has a deep, clefted neckline and a wide, tailored, self belt.

U.C. Committee Condemns Materialism, Irresponsibility Of Man in Modern Society

Toronto, Sept. 19 — (CP)—A special committee of the United Church of Canada has condemned what it calls the materialism and irresponsibility of modern society.

In a 100-page report prepared for study by church groups and clergymen, the committee says that modern man is lonely in the midst of crowds, has overthrown old standards and now has nothing to use as a guide and has amassed scientific knowledge at the expense of a sense of morality.

The report was prepared by a special committee on culture, set up four years ago to study the relationship between Christianity and modern culture. The committee comprised prominent clergymen and laymen.

The report claimed that "American paganism is having a baneful influence on Canadian culture. The evil impact of a glamorized American way of life which we are too prone to imitate, bodes ill for our moral and social well-being.

Eradication of Fear

Only through a steadfast belief in God could man's "fear, anxieties and worries be eradicated."

Because press and radio have become "powerful agents in the shaping of our destiny" professional ideals and attitudes are needed by journalists.

"The kind of training a journalist needs most today is not training in the tricks and machinery of the trade — if he is to be a competent judge of public affairs, he needs the broadest and most liberal education."

Motion pictures, especially those from Hollywood, tend to become a form of "paganism which places the value of money above the value of human personality and irresponsible profits above public well-being"

Commercial sponsorship of radio programs and the system of best-sellers in literature are "fatal to independent and original creative effort" but there was an attempt being made by some writers to break through the "strangling grip of commerce."

Drama in Canada was healthy and virile but music now was "commercialized . . . it is a luxury for those who can afford it."

The report said those tendencies are symptoms of man's rootlessness. The growth of science and the complexity of modern life had persuaded him to ignore the traditional religious and social moral standards. There was a general spirit of irresponsibility and "ethical anarchy," and the things that counted in life "are the things that money can buy."

"Modern man is trying to escape from himself. He has revolted against Divine authority, leaving him only the authority of his own ego . . . This escapism shows that man suffers from a moral inferiority complex, a perverted idea of his place in the scheme of things."

The committee urged the church to "redeem" society by making its claims "for the Christian faith intelligible to people" who do not now profess it.

Russians Made No Effort to View Own Machine Gun

Lake Success, N.Y., Sept. 20—(AP)—Everybody but the Russians got a good look at a captured north Korean sub-machine gun with 1950 Soviet markings at Monday's session of the U.N. Security Council.

The Russians made no effort to inspect the weapon, placed before the council by the U.S. delegate, Warren Austin.

Gen. McArthur has called the weapon "physical proof of Soviet delivery of munitions to north Korean forces during 1949 and 1950". The Russians claim they have made no such deliveries since December, 1948.

For a while the gun lay on the table almost studiously unnoticed by the Security Council members. But after Austin completed reading MacArthur's report and suggested that the council members examine the accompanying exhibits, Sir Gladwyn Jebb, council president, suggested almost wryly:

"I suggest that they be passed around."

All Show Interest

The delegates, all except Russia's Jakob A. Malik, showed marked interest. They held it, hefted it, aimed it, and as it circled the table toward Malik, the Russian arose abruptly and took a walk. The Norwegian representative, Bredo Stabell, proferred the gun repeatedly to A. A. Soldatov, senior Soviet adviser, but the Russian seemed not to see.

It was after the council adjourned that newspaper men had an opportunity for a close-up at the weapon, crudely made, but strong.

"It is a good gun," explained Col. John T. Cole, of the U.S. military staff committee. "It is very workable"

Technically labelled a 7.62 mm. PRSH-A1 sub-machine, Col. Cole said it is "a modification of the Thompson sub-machine-gun." The condition of the magazine and the wearing of the barrel bluing indicated it had seen heavy use.

The official U.S. notation said it had been captured from the north Koreans in the vicinity of Taegu before July 21.

Abroad With Me

By Dorothy E. Futcher

My hostess and I have breakfast together and I want to tell you about some of their customs in Norway that differ from ours. For breakfast they have coffee and it is good. Coffee is rationed but they have cream, which England and Scotland do not have, and we all know what cream does for coffee. Sometimes they have an egg, but always at hotels or private homes. Smorgesbord: You will know this is a collection of what we would call open-faced sandwiches. They are artists at making these plates attractive and appetizing. They haven't our modern electrical equipment—no pop-up toasters. If you have jam you eat it with bread.

Lunch about 12 o'clock is a repetition of the above. They have their one hot meal of the day at four or five o'clock, not the variety of fruits we have for juices or desserts, but the soups are delicious—also the vegetables. Meat is not plentiful, but I have never tasted fish or fowl prepared more deliciously. At hotels and restaurants the main course is served from huge silver platters, which the waiter carries to each person. The meat dish is in the centre, very tastefully arranged and the vegetables surround it, with the exception sometimes of potatoes which they serve later. I marvel at the dexterity of the waiters holding these huge platters in the left hand and serving with a large spoon and fork in their right hand. They use these pieces in a pinching movement and are expert at it. Try it and see how you manage.

Another difference we have noticed —they never eat with the fork alone, as we do by transferring it to our right hand. This is equally true of England, Scotland and Norway, and I imagine it will carry in all the countries we visit. The first course is eaten with the fork always in the left hand and the knife in the right. Dessert, whether it be pastry or pudding, is eaten with a dessert fork in the left hand and dessert spoon in the right. We find this a very simple and commonsense arrangement.

So if you want to be European, you will have to change some of your eating habits. We think them very sensible.

In Norway, the women wear their wedding and engagement rings on the right hand, but on the same finger we do. They are smartly dressed, they wear their clothes well. The middle and upper classes have the advantage of the world shopping centres of Copenhagen, Paris and London. I believe I told you in my last letter the Norwegian people are a very handsome race—physically strong and hardy. The housewives deplore that their kitchens are not modern and truly they are not. If we had to work in them we would feel cramped, with no place to put things out of our hands. They tell me they look at the pictures of our kitchens in the magazines with envy.

They haven't central heating and here in Norway, their stoves are very tall, of iron or steel, reaching nearly to the ceiling. I haven't seen one in action so I can't tell you about their efficiency. But they have delightful fireplaces in all their livingrooms — they build their fires with the logs on end and when they strike the match to it it goes off with a roar.

The plumbing is not modern, but their homes are stocked with beautiful pieces of silver, glass, china and furniture, cared and cherished by a family for generations.

And now their beds—they are comfortable enough, but your bed covers consist of an elder-down, sewn or folded in the top sheet. It is delightfully cosy, and light, but I wondered what you would do in really warm weather. When I asked my hostess she said, "Oh, I have all kinds—thinner ones for warmer weather."

The majority of the women we have met can speak a few words of English and many speak excellent English. It is surprising how well we manage—they have words as we have derived from Latin and German roots.

Many young women come and speak to us telling us they are Canadian girls. They met their husbands when they were at "Little Norway" and came across the seas with them to establish their home. I asked about the adaptibility and whether they were happy in the land of their adoption. The answer was always "Yes, we love Norway." A few told me they weren't contented until they had had a trip back to their old Canadian home—then they were ready to come back and settle down to build. They all master the Norwegian language quickly—a Toronto girl told me "Now we speak nothing but Norwegian in our home." This is as it should be; We couldn't have given them to finer lads—and the older women tell me they love them like their own daughters.

Britons "Wolves" Says French Girl

Pwllheli, North Wales, (CP)—Claude Fabius, 20-year-old jeweller's assistant from Paris, spending her summer vacation at a holiday camp here, says of the British male:

"They are the freshest pack of wolves I have ever met.

Claude has solved her problem by asking permission to work in the coffee bar, for free, so she can listen to the conversation around her and perhaps join in.

STIRLING

St. Paul's Church Holds Harvest Home Service

Stirling—On last Sunday morning, St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, was a bower of beauty. The front of the edifice was banked with baskets of gladioli, asters, chrysanthemums and various Autumn flowers. Large sheaves of corn, baskets of rosy apples, and all varieties of vegetables, with the usual pulpit rose and several rosebuds, which made a pretty setting for the service based on "Thankfulness for Seed-time and Harvest".

Special Music

Mrs. A. E. Baker, A.T.C.M., organist and choir leader, presided at the organ and the senior choir rendered two numbers "Give Thanks", and "Rejoice Again".

The junior choir rendered a "Song of Thanksgiving" and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown and daughter, Verna, were heard in a trio, "Sweet Hour of Prayer".

The three hymns sung by the congregation were "Come Ye Thankful People, Come", "Sing to The Lord of Harvest" and "We Plough the Fields and Scatter".

The pastor read Psalm 65, and the Bible message: "Thou crownest the year with Thy goodness, and the little hills rejoice on every side", brought a note of thankfulness for God's goodness to all in this lovely country of ours.

The pastor, Rev. A. E. Baker, U.E. told the children a story about "The Laughing Valley" and gave his message to the congregation based on "Gratitude to God for the abundant harvest"

Three Baptized

Early in the service, Mr. Baker baptized three small babies with God's pure rain water caught from the clouds on Friday and Mr. George Carlisle, clerk of the Session, presented the parents with certificates.

The church was well-filled with worshippers for this special "Harvest Home" services.

Politics a "Cinch" Says Lady Alderman

Port Arthur, Ont., (CP)—Mrs. Eunice Beaver Wishart, only woman alderman in Northwestern Ontario, says the political field is a "cinch" for any married woman—providing she has a tolerant husband.

Once hubby is won over to the idea of his wife entering politics, she says, all that is needed is access to some money for campaign expenses, boundless energy and a liking for long hours. Then you support whatever issues are close to the housewives' purses and you are a cinch to be elected.

Mrs. Wishart became interested in the possibility of running for public office while working on the Port Arthur Wartime Prices and Trade Board. She ran for city council three years ago and was elected the first time out.

The lady alderman and her male colleagues didn't hit it off right at the beginning. She was quoted as saying some of the aldermen were "so narrow-minded that their ears almost touched." Now in her third term, she finds the city fathers have "mellowed" and consider her an alderman and not a woman intruding on municipal affairs.

More Sopranos Needed

"Women think of little things that men cannot comprehend," observes Mrs. Wishart, explaining why she thinks more women's voices are needed in running the country.

"They are less materialistic and more humanitarian. Most of us are mothers and we think in terms of flesh-and-blood when it comes to matters like welfare and schools."

Two of her pet topics are conservation of the vast pulpwood forests in the Lakehead and the beauty of the Port Arthur district as a tourist attraction.

A neat, conscientious housewife, she keeps her big, old-fashioned home spic and span although sometimes attending as many as four council meetings a day. For housewives thinking of entering politics she offers this tip:

"I live only a block away from city hall and I can leave supper cooking in the oven and drop over for a 4:30 p.m. committee meeting and get back in time to have supper ready."

And what does Mr. Wishart think of his wife's public career:

"If you want a lot of free time, nominate the wife for civic office," is his advice. "She'll be too tired to ask questions when she comes home after a busy day at city hall."

Montreal, (CP) — Whoever abandoned a baby on one Montreal doorstep must have figured there should be someone there who'd be willing to give the child a home. The doorstep was that of an apartment house. The three-day-old baby was taken to hospital, where it was found to be in good health.

Labor Federation Favors Lotteries For Charities

Sherbrooke, Que., Sept. 20 — (CP)—The Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor yesterday went on record as favoring establishment of provincial lotteries for charitable purposes.

Close to 400 delegates at the labor body's 29th annual convention passed the resolution to support provincial lotteries for charitable, health and education purposes. Several syndicates affiliated to the C.C.C.L. favored the resolution.

Delegates also condemned vice and immorality connected with gambling.

(The provincial government at the last session of the legislature adopted a bill providing for the establishment of a government controlled lottery. An amendment to the criminal code is necessary before a lottery can be set up.)

The five-day convention which ends tomorrow also adopted resolutions favoring the 40-hour work week and a minimum wage of 75 cents an hour.

Other resolutions adopted called for obligatory automobile insurance in the province; provincial legislation to make St. Jean Baptiste Day, June 24, an official holiday throughout the province; payment to jurors equal to their regular earnings as workers; closing of all grills Sundays; and banning of all immoral comic books.

MAJOR OIL SOURCE

Venezuela's current oil production is about 1,500,000 barrels a day.

STIRLING

Public Utilities Commission Set Up by By-Law

Stirling—By-law No. 537 creating a public utilities commission for the village of Stirling was given its several readings and passed at the regular meeting of the council. Reeve Wells was in the chair and councillors Bailey, Bradshaw and Montgomery were present.

Under the terms of the by-law the corporation entrusts the control and management of the waterworks utility to the existing Hydro Electric Commission, the same to take effect immediately. The name of the commission shall be changed from Stirling Hydro Electric Commission to the Public Utilities Commission of the village of Stirling.

First and second readings were given a by-law to authorize the borrowing of $130,000 by debentures for public school purposes for 20 years at 3½ per cent interest and awaits approval of the Municipal Board before getting its third and final reading. The money will be used in the construction of Stirling's new public school.

Tender Accepted

The tender of the Dominion Securities Corporation Ltd., to purchase the debentures at $100 plus interest to the date of delivery was accepted by council.

Clerk Mallory was instructed to write the General Accident Assurance Company that the repairs recommended in the boiler inspector's report had been made to the community building boiler.

The clerk was also instructed to write Central Mortgage Corp. regarding assessment on wartime houses which had been sold.

A request was tabled from the Boy Scouts for permission to hold apple day on October 7th. The request was granted.

Mr. Wm. Cairns addressed council relative to cleaning out a ditch below his property on Henry Street. The streets committee will have the necessary work done.

Several accounts were passed for payment.

PICTON

Wilson to Hold Mile Trials on Picton Bay

Picton — Officials of Prince Edward Yacht Club have been advised that Harold Wilson will hold mile trials with Miss Canada IV on Picton Bay, Saturday Sept. 30. Wilson set a North American record for the mile here last fall, with 138 miles an hour average over the mile. He hopes to set a new world mark. Miss Canada is reported to have been repaired following damage suffered in the Harmsworth race.

BEES DRUNK ON COGNAC

London, Sept. 20 (AP)—Thousands of bees carried out low-level attacks on targets—customs men, passengers and just bystanders—at London airport yesterday. But there were no casualties. The bees were drunk. They had gathered for one on the house when a passenger dropped a bottle of cognac.

TWEED

Work Started On New Bowling Green For Village

Tweed—Work started on Tuesday on what is going to be a new lawn bowling green for Tweed. A lot belonging to T. N. Beatty adjacent to the park was purchased from him last week and workmen are now putting it in shape. Canvassers were out last week and they met with a fine response to their appeals for donations. It looks now as if Tweed was going to have a lawn bowling green after a lapse of a number of years. A number of the former bowlers have died or left Tweed and there are not too many of the old bowlers left, so there should be a lot of new faces when bowling is resumed once more.

The spot selected is an ideal place. It is right at the park and will join the flood lighted ball diamond. Lots of water available for watering purposes and in the not too distant future a club house will likely be erected.

Cars Collide

What might have been a very serious accident happened early Sunday morning when two cars met almost head-on just outside of the village corporation, on the Belleville road, No. 37 Highway. A car driven by Mr. Ronald Way, who was taking a boy friend of his home from Tweed a few miles out in the country, met a car driven by James Bosley, Tweed, coming from Belleville when the crash occurred. It all happened so quickly that no one could tell what really did happen. Both cars were total wrecks and the roadway was covered with broken glass. The occupants of both cars were badly shaken up and needed medical attention. It was a miracle that some one wasn't killed.

Allies' Decision to End State Of War With Germany Allows 46,000,000 to Become Free

By DANIEL DE LUCE

Frankfurt, Germany, Sept. 20—(AP)—Forty-six million west Germans today are emerging from the dark purgatory of the conquered.

Their little capital, Bonn on the Rhine, is to be the seat of a revived world power. The heavy hand of foreign occupation rule already is cut to a thin shadow.

Next year, unless all diplomatic omens are false, the west Germans will become masters in their own land and courted allies in the common defence of Europe.

This is the meaning attributed here to the decisions reached at the Big Three Foreign Ministers' Conference in New York.

The communique, which the United States, British, and French ministers issued there yesterday is known to tell only part of the story. But even its guarded phrases were sweeping in their implications.

Some obsolete agencies of western allied authority still have to be junked. Suspicion of German war potentialities is not yet completely buried in Paris and London.

On Road Back

But Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's advice to his countrymen now is "restraint and patience." He sees them nearing the end of the road back — an amazingly-short road.

Only five years ago, 100,000 captive German soldiers milled in a barbed-wire enclosure near Adenauer's home. He could watch hungry German civilians beg for garbage from allied troop kitchens. The conquerors were talking seriously of ruling a de-industrialized and agricultural Germany for generations.

But today, Adenauer can make the first foreign minister of the year-old German federal republic—himself. If he wants to.

He is preparing, with allied approval, to enroll a mobile police force of 40,000. In weapons and training it is likely to be the equal of the Soviet zone's feared Volkspolizei (people's police.)

Lid Off Production

Another year and west Germany presumably will be building divisions for the western European army. Adenauer's prospective top side in this is Count Gerhard Von Schwerin, who commanded panzer forces in Russia and the African desert.

The lid is off German steel production, once tabbed for virtual extinction. The vast industrial Ruhr can fire up its reserve blast furnaces as long as is shows unfilled order for western armament needs.

The freeze is over, too, for German shipyards. No more limitations on commercial ships for buyers abroad. Who doubts that German purchasers will soon have the same right?

But in contemplating its quick resurgence, Germany cannot forget that the menace of a third world war is responsible for most of it. Communist aggression in Korea—a similarly-divided country—is credited with putting old allied policies for Germany into the final tailspin.

Some Germans wonder suspiciously if they are being used as pawns in a Washington-Moscow struggle for supremacy.

TALKS REACH STALEMATE

Hamilton, Sept. 20 — (CP)— Wage talks between Hamilton city council and representatives of some 1,100 city hall and hospital workers ended in a stalemate Tuesday.

The employees are members of the Hamilton Municipal Employees Association. They seek a $4 weekly wage boost and a five-day or 40-hour week. Their working hours now range from 37 to 48 hours.

A. C. Dennis, provincial labor department conciliation officer, said the talks probably would be continued Friday or Monday.

Three Baptist Lay Preachers Given One Month

Val D'or, Que., Sept. 20—(CP) — Three Baptist lay preachers were sentenced to one month in jail Monday after being found guilty of obstructing traffic while conducting an open-air service Saturday night.

The three, Janda Gulp, 20, of Toronto, Elgin Last, 25, of Windsor, Ont., and Gaston Gariepy, 23, of La Sarre, Que., pleaded innocent to the charge. They were sentenced to a $25 fine or one month in jail. They chose to go to jail.

The three brought to 17 the number of Baptist preachers jailed at Amos, Que., in recent weeks, after being found guilty of similar charges.

The union of regular Baptists of Ontario and Quebec has disputed the city by-law under which the lay preachers have been arrested and sentenced.

At Montreal, Rev. J. R. Armstrong, secretary-treasurer of the union, said delegates of the Baptist sect will air their views before the Val D'or city council Sept. 25.

The union claims wording of the by-law is too broad and allows discrimination against Baptist preachers.

Student Survey Shows Costs Will be Higher

Toronto, Sept. 20 (CP)—The cost of an out-of-town student's academic year at the University of Toronto will be about $1,200 this year, a student survey shows.

Last year's cost was estimated at about $1,086. Tuition fees are largely unchanged but living costs have risen.

Tuitition fees range from $238 in rates to $446 in medicine. Other expenses involved are estimated as follows: Board, including meals $425, laundry, $50; amusement, $125; clothes, $150; books, $40; city transportation, 10; toilet articles, $15; sports equipment, $10, sundry, $125.

Early Start on Organization Of Military Force to Defend W. Europe Seen in Decision

By JOHN HIGHTOWER

New York, Sept. 20 (AP)—An early start on the actual organization of a military force to defend western Europe against Russia is foreseen by American officials here.

Their prediction is bolstered by the expected arrival tomorrow of the British and French defence ministers.

At the same time, American authorities believe that decisions reached by the United States, Britain and France on measures to relax occupation controls in Germany will lead to strengthening western German ties with the allied powers and help clear the way for a German role in the projected new allied army.

State Secretary Acheson is known to believe that the next round of Atlantic council talks will produce a final agreement among the 12 member countries on creating this unprecedented peacetime force.

He is also hopeful that it will move France nearer acceptance of the principle that German troops can be used along with American, British, French and other Atlantic power military units.

Meet in Two Weeks

The council will meet again briefly within two weeks. Meanwhile, Defence Minister Emanuel Shinwell of Britain and the French Defence Minister, Jules Moch, are due here to consult with their cabinet colleagues, Foreign Secretary Bevin and Foreign Minister Schuman, on details of the proposal, and it is assumed, especially on the use of German troops.

They are expected to talk also with Gen. George C. Marshall, President Truman's defence secretary-designate.

Out of these talks is expected to emerge a much greater understanding than any yet achieved of exactly what military commitments the major western powers will undertake in joining the force and also an agreement on initial steps to create it.

Speed Important

American officials say privately that speed is the utmost importance.

Acheson, Schuman and Bevin wound up their conference on German control problems yesterday with a communique which said they intend to end the state of war with Germany; had authorized a mobile German police of 40,000 men; would allow the Germans to send diplomatic representatives abroad; and would otherwise give them more authority both at home and abroad.

Canada is expected to follow the big three's lead in ending the state of war with Germany. Government sources in Ottawa said yesterday this action can be expected soon, although they emphasized it is a question to be taken up by the cabinet.

Harvest Slowed In South Ont. Due To Wet Weather

Ottawa, Sept. 20—(CP)—Harvesting throughout southern Ontario has been at a standstill due to wet weather, the Bureau of Statistics reported Tuesday in a summary of crop conditions.

Pastures and new seedings are in excellent condition. Grain and corn is generally good. Tomatoes and fruit crops have been damaged by excessive rain, with peaches showing considerable rot. Potatoes are generally good but some blight is evident.

In northern Ontario much of the grain is in the field with some still to be cut. While yields of spring grains throughout the province are above average, harvesting operations have been repeatedly delayed by wet weather, with consequent deterioration in quality of both grain and straw.

The Bureau reported that rains during the last 10 days have delayed harvesting in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, while harvesting conditions are ideal in Alberta.

Quay of Adventure in Heart Of Paris Sees Noted Character

Paris, (Reuters) — Thousands of people daily may glance down at the half-dozen ships tied up in a stretch of the river Seine without suspecting the stories behind them and their skippers.

The ships, flying the flags of many nations in the heart of Paris range from scow-like houseboats to knife-prowed yachts. The captains of these vessels are equally varied.

One of the latest adventurers to cast off from this "quay of adventure" was 28-year-old Marcel Bardiaux, who set out in his tiny sloop, Four Winds, to sail single-handed around the world.

An incoming craft was the bulbous Dutch barge, De Brave Hendrix, belonging to Jack Bilbo. This black-bearded giant is already well-known in many lands for his "adventures" in art and literature.

He is the sculptor of the largest nude state in the world, painter of a thousand incomprehensible canvases and author of "I Carried a Gun for Al Capone".

Son of a German circus-owner, he had been drifting around the Mediterranean with no other object than to "sail on and on while the boat stands it."

A French adventurer who moors frequently at the quay is Jean Saint-Maur, a former naval man who sails alone in an old submarine chaser rechristened Tao.

When ashore, he paints murals, organizes art exhibitions and prepares the decor and costumes for ballets. He says that his curious, combined profession of painter and sailor once saved his life.

Captured by the Japanese during the war, he was already facing a firing squad when the officer in command asked his profession. When he replied "artist", he was reprieved and allowed to study Japanese lacquer painting.

But of all the craft that come and go at the quay of adventure, none is stranger than that of Miss Isabel Perrin, an American girl who has made Paris her home.

Her craft is simply a small wooden hut floating on empty oil cans, and edged with window boxes filled with flowers. A ladder links it to the shore and there is a dog kennel on the roof. Miss Perrin's favorite pastime is to sit at the wide windows of her floating home and watch other adventurers sail by.

Berlin, Sept. 20 — (Reuters)— East and West Germany have "virtually agreed on large-scale exchange of electric power, water and gas, a West German spokesman said yesterday. The exchange would take place at 12 frontier points and Berlin. Berlin's public utilities were cut off from normal supply sources by the division of the city into occupation sectors.

Musicians and Artists Hear Early Records

Hempstead, N.Y., (AP)—Phonograph records made more than half a century ago were heard at a reunion here of some of the surviving musicians and recitalists who made them.

Twenty-one old recording artists and some of their fans met in this Long Island community for the fourth annual gathering of the Pioneer Recording Artists and Their Admirers.

Jim Walsh, news editor of Radio Station WSLS, Roanoke, Va., a founder of the group and one of the chief fans, acted as master of ceremonies.

Walsh, who has a collection of 15,000 old recordings, gave high praise to the artists who made records for the infant phonograph industry.

"In the old days," he said, "nothing came out of the horn that the artist didn't put into it."

Recorded in 1887

Nowadays, Walsh said, sound engineers can make almost any recorded performance sound good.

Russell Hunting of Yonkers, N.Y., who made a famous recording of "Casey at the Bat" and started making records in 1896, was among the artists present.

Billy Murray, singer, who started making records in 1897 and is the only surviving member of the "Manhansett Quartet"—one of the first quartets to make records on wax cylinders—was another old-timer.

Fred Van Eps, of Plainfield, N.J., still was in short pants when his banjo playing was recorded in 1887. He recorded "Dixie Melody" on the old Edison records.

"I'm still playing", Van Eps said, "but it took me six years to change over to the new style."

Lit Porch Lights Invite Canvassers

Victoria, B.C. (CP)— Plans for a novel campaign system—new in Canada—have been announced by the Greater Victoria Community Chest and Council.

It's the "lights on" system, and this is the way it works:

The house-to-house drive will last only one night—Oct. 2—when 2,000 canvassers will aim for a quota of $181,000.

Residents will be asked to stay home that night and put on porch lights as the invitation for canvassers to call.

The idea was first tried last year in Omaha, Nebraska.

Routine canvassing will be carried out at city business establishments.

Saltee "Prince" Founds Monarchy Off Irish Coast

Dublin, (CP)—Ever since he was a boy of 10, Michael Neale has dreamed of the day he could retire to a rugged little island he could rule and call all his own.

Seven years ago, he bought the very spot he had visualized and announced his plans to establish a realm, independent of the republic. He would have his own flag, coinage and police force.

Neale, now a married man with a family of five, set off along one of Dublin's rocky roads and headed for his tiny domain.

He hired a boat at Wexford and made for the great Saltee Island, seven miles off the south coast of Ireland, for the first time as an acknowledged prince. The proof of his title was in his pocket—a summons from the Department of Justice for an alleged motoring offence. It was addressed to Michael Neale, Prince of the Saltees.

"At last I seem to be winning," he remarked.

Trouble Over Taxes

But he was wrong. His troubles were just beginning. The local authority in County Wexford brought action against him covering taxes for roads, police and other services.

Neale challenged the claim. Any services he enjoyed, he said, were provided by himself and anyway, his island was outside the Republic's territorial waters.

The court ruled against him.

To assert his princely rights, Neale left the island and set up temporary residence in Dublin. A tax bill, he argued, could not be charged if he didn't live on the property.

But when the county persisted that Neale owed $1,600, he stuck to his guns and refused to pay.

"Now that I have been recognized as a Prince of the Saltees, I may find good reason to lodge a counter-claim," he said with a smile. In any case, he added, it was his intention of forming a trust in support of his move to legalize the title and establish it on a hereditary basis.

ADVISERS ARRIVE

Hong Kong, Sept. 20 — (AP)— Chinese press reports today said 12 Russian advisers have arrived at Shek-Ki, just across the Kwangtung provincial border from the Portuguese colony of Macao, to direct the building of a new airfield. The report said the Russians arrived Friday with a number of Chinese communist engineers and heavy equipment.

European Doctor Treks Over World To Escape "Isms"

Sydney, N.S., (CP)—A Lithuanian doctor who at various times has been pursued by Germans, Russians and Arabs would like to practise in a country with no "isms".

Dr. Jacob Lipshitz fled with his family from his native Lithuania to Russia at the age of nine, when the Germans took over. The Russian revolution meant a trek to Germany. Between the two world wars he studied medicine in Berlin and later practised neurology and psychiatry in the German capital.

He was on the move again a year after Hitler assumed power in Germany, ending up in Palestine. His family, disagreeing with his beliefs, stayed behind. Only one is now alive.

For 13 years the roaming doctor practised in Jerusalem, playing a leading role in the formation of the Haganah organization. During the Second World War he served four years with the British army. In 1947, he settled again in Jerusalem.

Then came the conflict in Palestine, and he found himself besieged by Arabs. The small Haganah group after more than two months escaped at night from the Arab besiegers. For 15 more months he fought with Jewish troops and when it was all over his practice was still in Arab territory.

Now he's a ship's doctor, looking for a land with no "isms".

"Daddy, what makes it hum?"

"HARNESSED RAINDROPS, SONNY!" It's a true answer...

In Shipshaw powerhouse you are awed by the hum of twelve gigantic generators. They are driven by rain and snow which fill Lake St. John and pour down the Saguenay River.

The water is channelled to a man-made lake on top of a hill. Then it rushes down tunnels chiselled through solid rock to dash against turbines like the model at which the boy is peering — but weighing 50 tons.

The turbines drive generators. The electricity they generate speeds to nearby Arvida. There it refines shining aluminum out of bauxite from British Guiana.

Over 1000 Canadian companies form aluminum into all sorts of useful articles. All this means work for Canadians. This country supplies nothing but the raindrops — and the brains, hands and enterprise to harness them.

The hum in the power house at Shipshaw is a hymn of progress. It is a sound of Canada's standard of living going up...

Orioles Square Montreal Series With 6-3 Win

(By The Associated Press)

Baltimore Orioles and Montreal Royals battle at Montreal tonight to see which team meets Rochester Red Wings in the finals of the International League playoffs.

The Orioles, faced with elimination last night, squared their games apiece by whipping the Royals 6-3 before 7,934 fans.

So it'll be either Jim Hughes or Joe Landrum for Montreal against Karl Drews for the visiting Orioles.

Rochester gained the final round Monday by defeating Jersey City 7-3 to clinch their series 4-2.

A home run by Anse Moore with two mates on capped a four-run, sixth-inning spree which gave Bill Kennedy the nod over three Montreal hurlers. Kennedy, in winning his second game of the series, struck out five, walked three and scattered 10 hits. Starter Clyde King was the loser.

Famed Parkwood Stables Purchased By E.P. Taylor

Toronto, Sept. 20 — (CP) — The famed Parkwood Stables of Col. R. S. McLaughlin have been sold to E. P. Taylor, millionaire Toronto industrialist.

Taylor, owner of one of the finest racing stables in Canada, said today the farm will be operated as a "national stud" to improve Canadian-bred horses.

"We feel that we have been breeding increasingly - better stock in Canada in recent years and we hope to make Parkwood such an institution that the best American racing stables will send their mares to our stallions," he said. "We trust that the day will come when Canadian-bred horses will be the equal of any thoroughbreds in the world."

Purchase price of the 470-acre estate near Oshawa was not disclosed. Taylor said it will be operated by a syndicate which will buy high - grade stallions and make them available for breeding to horsemen with suitable mares.

Col. McLaughlin, a leading Canadian horseman for 20 years, announced nearly a year ago that he was giving up racing Since then he has been racing on a reduced scale. Now his entire stock will be sold in a month In the meantime, the stable will be raced by Taylor.

Parkwood includes a half-mile training track and accommodation for 64 horses.

The high - scoring forward's plea to Coley Hall, owner of the P. C. H. L. Vancouver Canucks, was reinforced by a telegram from Tommy Gorman, manager of the eastern club.

"Kuntz doesn't particularly fit into our plans this year" commented Hall, but he added:

"However, Kuntz presents a considerable investment on my part and I can't just let him go. I made Ottawa an offer and now it's up to Gorman."

"ROSES" HERE THURSDAY

Batawa Shoemen play hosts on Thursday night to the Bowmanville Roses at the Exhibition Grounds in the second game of their Intermediate "A" playdowns. The Shoemen and Bowmanville battled to a four-all tie on the latter's diamond on Monday night when the game was called on account of darkness. Game was held up, 'tis reported when a Bowmanville player was accidentally "beaned" by one of Art Wright's fast shoots. The player was rushed to hospital and his condition is said to be serious. Bowmanville has a strong aggregation and the Shoemen need to be on their best baseball behavior if they want to cop this best of three series for the Eastern Ontario "A" championship.

THIS IS IT!

Cy Barriage's "Hags and Hows" tangle with the cocky Stewarners tomorrow night at Alemite field and the tilt means elimination for one or "t'other". Both squads have two victories under their respective belts and both will be a'gunning for victory. Stewarners, however, are just as determined to lower the boom on the loquacious Cyrus, his boss and his cohorts, so it should be a game worth seeing. Some of the wise money is going on the "Hags" but don't sell Stewart Warner short. Stranger things have happened in this funny world of sport. Incidentally the "Hags" will be bolstered with the services of Roger Mallory who, it is reported has removed back here from Peterborough.

Tonight rural South Hastings augmented by a large following of "city slickers" will converge on Exhibition Park when the Latta and Cannifton teams clash in their final conflict for the South Hastings Baseball League championship. Each team has won three games in this hectic best of seven series and tonight is the payoff playoff.

So don't bother planning any social visits to either Plainfield, Latta or Cannifton, and surrounding districts tonight. In fact you might be disappointed if you go farther afield for on Monday night, spectators who spared not the tonsils were noted from Marlbank, Tweed and Madoc. And the baseball bug has been no respecter of persons. Reeves and the village fathers complete with families rub shoulders with farm boys in the crowded stands. Grey-thatched farmers and their ladies, the teen-agers of the four corners, and the small fry have been victims of this diamond germ. Supporters of both squads are solidly behind their teams, and segregate themselves during the heat of baseball battle. It was a shouting, howling, cheering throng, nearly 800 that greeted the squads on Monday, and if spectator interest in that game can be judged a criterion, there should be a record crowd out there tonight.

But don't be a wise guy. Don't adopt a wisecracking role and seat yourself in the midst of the supporters of one team and start rooting for the other or criticizing players of your nearby friends. You're likely to bring down the verbal wrath of an eighty-year-old fan on your shoulders or find a feminine finger doing calisthenics under your nose. For these good people of Latta and Plainfield take their baseball seriously. You can have your Yanks, Tigers, Braves and Dodgers and do what you will with them, but "lay off" any verbal criticisms of the "boys". The game gets under way at eight o'clock and from all reports, if you want a seat in the grandstand, you had better get there early.

[illegible] THE BREWERS!

At last Herbie Henn's Brewers softball cockerels are convinced. And so are quite a few of the softball faithful. They had ideas that the high - stepping Ox Pointers from "Ham" Legate's cement-manufacturing village were "over their heads" and their performances to date in the semi finals series were but a flash in the pan. But last night they saw the "Point".

Yup, the surging Point Anners, maintaining the high calibre of softball that has characterized their play in these payoff playoffs, dunked the Hennery Gang by a 4-1 score after a brilliant hurling duel between Lum Carson and the much-improved Pat Maracle. They flashed a near-shutout right in the "pans" of the Brewers to win their third straight game and the right to enter the finals.

Jack Hunter's left field three-run homer that some insist should have been caught, proved the Brewers' swan-song. That was the ball game and the death knell of the Brewers hopes to enter the finals. Lum Carson deserved a better fate with a fine three-hit mound effort, but there was no denying these Hot-Pointers. And Howe and Hagerman or Stewart Warner had better look to their laurels in the finals, for it is going to take a good team to beat this Mike Whalen crew. Incidentally, the first game of the three-of-five finals series will be played at Alemite Field Saturday evening starting at 5:30 sharp.

BELLEVILLE MOTORS OUT!

Hot off the griddle comes word that the Belleville Motors semi-finalists in the "B" Section of the league, has defaulted the series to Bateman Motors. The Belleville management notified the loop executive that it found it impossible to field a team at 5:30 p. m. and accordingly withdrew from further participation in league activities. Bateman Motors are now automatically in the finals. Bakelite and Avon Jewellers resume their feud in the other bracket tonight and Friday night at 5:30.

NEVER A DULL MOMENT

There is plenty of activity on the sports front tomorrow night. The Bowmanville Roses will be here as hosts of the Batawa Shoemen at Exhibition Park in their second game of the Intermediate "A" playdown round. The first joust ended in a called-game four-all tie. At 5:30 comes the deciding joust of the Howe and Hagerman and the Stewart Warner softball semi-finals and at seven of the clock the Belleville Cubs baseball club will be guests of the team executive at a chicken dinner at Golden Acres. 'Tis said, the gentlemen of the exec are giving the lads a little "something to remember them by" and to extend their appreciation of a fine effort. Incidentally Frank Grandame, manager of the team will not be present due to the fact that he entered the hospital this week to undergo an operation. The boys send their best, Frank, as do we all, and wish for you a speedy [illegible]

Torrid American Loop Race Tightens With Only Half Game Separating Top Three Clubs

By MURRAY ROSE
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The American League had a brand-new race going today. New York, Boston and Detroit are only half a game apart with only 12 days to go in the tense battle for world series loot.

The pace-setting Yanks fell within a whisper of the runners-up last night by losing to Chicago 4-3. Detroit belted out Philadelphia 12-4 in a day game and Boston was rained out in Cleveland to set up the tie for second place.

So here's the way the three teams stood going into Wednesday's three-fronted action.

	W	L	GB	TP
New York	90	53	—	11
Boston	89	53	½	12
Detroit	89	53	½	12

Today it was New York at Chicago, Philadelphia at Detroit and Boston at Cleveland, the last a doubleheader. Players can be counted on to give the scoreboard as much attention as they do the opposing pitchers.

New York pinned its hopes on lefty Ed Ford (7-0), the magnificent 21-year-old rookie who will be opposed by Ray Scarborough (13-16), the one-time Washington ace.

In Detroit it was Dizzy Trout (15-5) for the revamped Tigers against Philadelphia's Alex Kellner.

The surging Red Sox went with two well-rested hurlers in Chuck Stobbs (11-6) and Joe Dobson (15-8) against the cream of the Cleveland staff, Bob Lemon (20-11), and Early Wynn (16-8).

Near Disaster

Yesterday's firing brought near disaster to New York, new hope for Detroit and rest for Boston's rubber-armed relief ace, Ellis Kinder.

Besides losing a game they almost had won, the Yanks temporarily lost the services of Vic Raschi, their 20-game ace. The crack righthander, who pitched against the Browns, was riding a 3-2 lead for 6½ innings when he complained his arm "didn't feel right."

Tom Ferrick, a demon rescue worker until recently, failed in the clutch again. Chico Carrasquel nicked him for a single and Gus Niarhos, the former Yank, doubled him to third. With two out Nelson Fox blasted a triple to centre to drive in the tying and winning runs.

The Yanks had gone ahead 3-2 on Joe DiMaggio's 31st homer and Yogi Berra's 24th four-bagger, the latter's a two-run blow.

In Detroit where Red Rolfe reshuffled his line-up, the Tigers' spirits soared. Hoping to get more atack in his line-up, Rolfe sent in Charlie Keller, Pat Mullin and Dick Kryhoski to replace Vic Wertz, Hoot Evers and Don Kolloway. The change worked.

Made First Start

Keller, the ex-Yankee, was making his first start in the line-up after invaluable pinch-hitting duties. He answered the bell like an old firehorse, powdering two homers, two singles and driving in five runs. Mullin blasted out a homer and double. Kryhoski whacked out two singles.

The Tigers' 19-hit bombardment against the A's was their second biggest of the year. Behind that clouting, young Art Houtteman breezed to his 19th win of the year.

Washington nipped St. Louis 5-3 in the other American League contest.

In the National League race, Boston moved a full game up on Philadelphia by nipping St. Louis 7-6 while the Phils were clipped 1-0 by Chicago. Brooklyn Dodgers also moved up by whipping Pittsburgh twice, 14-3 and 3-2. The Cincinnati-New York game was rained out.

Ogdensburg Wins First Game From Ottawa by 5-1

Ogdensburg, N.Y., Sept. 20 — (CP)—A four-run uprising in the third inning, featured by Ollie Kollevol's three-run homer, gave Ogdensburg Maples a 5-1 victory over Ottawa Nationals here Tuesday night in the first game of their best-of-seven Border League championship series.

A crowd of 1,600 shivering Winter Park fans saw righthander Frank Saul, off to a shaky start when Ottawa scored a first-inning run, settle down to a gilt-edged hurling chore.

Maples nicked Ottawa starter Justin (Brick) Dorosky for a run in the first, and sent him to the showers in the third. Alvin Johnston finished up for Ottawa, allowing only three hits and blanking the home crew the rest of the way.

Second game of the series is slated for Lansdowne Park in Ottawa tonight.

Saul walked only two, both in the first inning, and struck out eight, keeping his hits after the first to no more than one an inning.

Those dashing Adonises of the wrestling mat, Whipper Billy Watson and Timothy Geohagen are matched with those arch-villains, Fred Atkins and Lee Henning in a team match at Memorial Arena on Friday — and that should just about pack the place with the faithful. It is a grudge battle and when Atkins and Henning start throwing their weight around something has to "bust" but the Whip and Timmy say it will not be their handsome physiques. So everything points to the outstanding joust of the season on Friday. Pat O'Shocker meets Ray Gunkel in the semi-go with Abe Zvonkin tangling with Joe Devalteau in the opener.

Brewers Eliminated by Point Anne

Jack Hunter's three-run-homer and an error broke up a brilliant hurling duel at the Alemite Field last night and paved the way for Point Anne's 4-1 victory over the Brewers Warehouse team.

The victory, the third straight for the rampaging Pointers eliminated the Brewers from the Commercial Softball League 'A' section playoffs series and sent the Ox Point crew into the finals against either Howe and Hagerman or Stewart Warner.

Mike Whalen's crew, the hottest team to hit the league playoff this season, proved their form in the money series was no flash in the pan. They tied the first game 5-5 after leading 5-0 at one time then hit their peak and swept aside the Brewers in the next three games.

Fine Hurling

Four and one half innings rolled by with both pitchers setting aside the opposition with monotonous regularity in front of flawless fielding. Up to this point Lum Carson, Brewer righthander, had allowed but one clout while his mates had garnered four off Pat Maracle, Pointer ace. But some fine clutch hurling had held Brewers scoreless.

The big break came in the bottom of the fifth. Horwood doubled to left centre and raced home for the first run of the game when Wanamaker, Brewer left fielder, juggled Marecle's fly. Maracle went out at third and Logue drew a free ticket. Sword got on with a fielder's choice on an all-safe play and Jack Hunter drove a line smash to right field that rolled to the outer pastures for a home run, scoring Logue and Sword ahead of him. That was the ball game.

Carson settled down and retired the Pointers hitless and runless for the rest of the past time. He allowed but three hits, the other clcut coming in the second when Horwood hit his first double of the game with two out, and no damage resulting. Lum whiffed four and walked three.

Good in Clutches

The Brewers got to Maracle for six hits, but the dusky hurler was invincible in the clutches. The lone run off him came in the eighth. Locke went out and Vic Holsey poled a double to left centre. Leo Goyer flied out to left and Holsey raced to third. Jack Hurrie laid down a puzzling bunt in front of the plate, which both Maracle and Brant, the Point battery thought was foul. Hurrie raced to first and Holsey raced home on the play. Whiting was sent in as a pinch-hitter but Maracle sent him down swinging.

Brewers threatened to rally in the fourth. Leo Goyer slashed out a single to right field but went out stretching it to a double on a fine throw to the bag. Hurrie smashed out a single but Maracle caused Nolan to pop to the third baseman.

The Point pitcher struck out nine of the Brewers and handed out four free tickets.

Vic Holsey and Leo Goyer each hit a double and single for the Brewers with Jack Hurrie having a perfect day with the willow with two hits and a pair of walks.

Horwood hit two doubles for the Point Anne team with Jack Hunter's circuit clout providing the third hit garnered off Carson.

Umpire Knocked Out

Plate Umpire Harold Bawden was knocked "dizzy" following the first play of the game. The first Brewer batter had been retired and the usual infield tossing started. The Point first baseman fired the ball to his infield and struck the official on the back of the head. He fell to the ground but recovered later with a bad bruise on his pate.

Point Anne meets the winners of the Howe and Hagerman-Stewart Warner series at Alemite Field on Saturday night in the first of the three of five finals series. Game at 5.30.

The teams:

Brewers: Woods, 2b; Locke, 1b; Holsey, c; Goyer, cf; Hurrie, rf; Nolan, ss; Reid, 3b; Wanamaker, lf; Carson, p; Henn, Whiting, Barriage, lf.

Nelson Podolsky, Kirkland Lake Fractures Leg

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Sept. 20 —(CP) — Detroit Red Wings suffered their first serious casualty in their fall training Tuesday.

Nelson Podolsky of Kirkland Lake, good looking right winger with the Indianapolis Capitols last season, suffered a broken leg in an early morning practice.

Officials estimated that Podolsky's services would be lost for at least two months.

Last season with Indianapolis in the American Hockey League, Podolsky scored 26 goals while assisting in 30 others. He was rated a good chance to stick with the National Hockey League Wings this season.

Red Wing manager Jack Adams revealed that Marcel Pronovost is expected to be back in action within two days.

Whipper Watson Not Allowed To Play Football

(By The Canadian Press)

Whipper Willy Watson is too valuable a hunk of property to get tangled up with a bunch of bruising football players. For that reason, he won't play in any Edmonton Eskimos home games this season.

The Whipper, pride and joy of Toronto wrestling fans, signed a contract with the Eskimos last June and planned to take his place on the line when the western Canada Interprovincial Football Union Club played at Edmonton. But the idea was nixed by Toronto promoter Frank Tunney.

"Ten guys jumping on you with cleats can do a lot of harm," Tunney explained when he announced the Whipper would confine his mayhem to the wrestling ring. Tunney has a five-year contract with Watson, and it has two more years to go.

Does that mean football is tougher than wrestling, Tunney was asked.

"Well, I don't say 10 guys with cleats on are going to climb all over Whipper, but there are a lot of big fellows out there and they can do a lot of harm. Watson is too valuable a piece of property to let loose on a football field."

St. Louis flyers of the American Hockey League have purchased three players from New York Rangers of the National Hockey League.

The players, who will join the Flyers at their training camp in North Bay this week, are centreman Sherman White, 28, defenceman Jean-Paul Lamirande, 27, and Steve Hrymnak, 25.

Bob Heck, star American outside of the Toronto Argonauts of the big four, flies to Chicago today for an appointment with his draft board. He'll be back by Saturday for the Argos football game in Toronto with Ottawa Rough Riders.

President Bob Moran of Argos said he'll try to get Heck deferred until the end of the season.

Bill Tobin, president of Chicago Black Hawks of the National League, said Tuesday he believes goalie Frank Brimsek intends to retire from hockey.

He was commenting on a report that Coley Hall, owner of the Pacific Coast League Vancouver Canucks, wants to hire Brimsek "at a salary which shouldn't be hard to take."

"I gave Hall permission to negotiate with Brimsek," said Tobin at the Hawks' training camp in North Bay. "But I still think Frankie will retire. However, if he decides to play for Vancouver, I will be willing to negotiate with them for his contract."

Brimsek, formerly of Boston Bruins, was brought by Chicago last year. He was offered a Hawk contract recently and a chance to play in the Chicago farm system but told Tobin he thought he'd quit hockey.

Joe Louis said Tuesday he doesn't expect his heavyweight championship fight with Ezzard Charles a week from tonight to end in a decision.

"It'll be a knockout one way or the other." he said firmly. "Charles, he stands and fights. He doesn't run away like Joe Walcott did."

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Sept. 20 (AP) — The technicians signalled they were ready and the director announced "let's shoot it."

The make-up man ushered the star, Arthur Kennedy, into the set. The scene began. Bystanders were convinced that Kennedy could not see, and sure enough, they were right.

Kennedy is portraying a blind veteran in "Lights Out." Before he goes into every scene, a make-up man applies contact lenses to the actor's eyes. The lenses fit over the eyeball and shut out light to the cornea. They plunge Kennedy into a world of darkness into which only the strongest light enters.

All For Realism

The whole thing was the idea of director Mark Robson, a sharp man for realism.

"I thought if Arthur knew exactly what it was like to be without sight, he would be even more convincing," Robson told me.

"It was Mark's idea," Kennedy admitted, "but I was all for it. I tried on 80 pairs of lenses before I found the right kind. At first the studio was against the idea. They thought putting in the lenses would hold up production. But we managed to talk them into it."

I asked Kennedy what was the mental sensation of being temporarily blinded.

"It was a feeling of being lost," he said. "It's a hard thing to get used to."

Bruised

The earnest young actor has received a number of bruises during the film and exhibited a nasty one on his chest.

"I was walking beside Robson," he said, "and he didn't remember that I couldn't see. I walked right into a chair and took a tumble. I'm lucky I didn't break a rib."

"Lights Out" concerns a soldier who is blinded in Tunisia and returns home to seek his own security. Robson hopes the film will show seeing persons the best way to treat the blind.

"That is," he explained, "to let them help themselves. They want no special treatment."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Worthy opponents never let you buy anything cheap in bridge. They reckon in terms of expendables. They will readily take a loss that is less than the amount the other side can win.

In championship duplicate this policy is pursued to the ultimate. An opposing side bids not only up to the hilt. They bid far and beyond their capacity if the loss compensates.

If your side can make a slam, they prefer to take a defeat of anything less than the slam would pay you. In other words, if you can make 1500 they prefer to make a bid that defeats them only 1490.

We were in this deal:

♠Q 3
♥A K 10 9 8 5
♦A 7 5 2

WEST
♠K 10 7 6 4
♥7 6 2
♣7 5 4

EAST
♠A J 9 8 5 2
♥Q
♦Q 8 6
♣J 10 8

SOUTH
♠None
♥J 4 3
♦K J 4 3
♣A K Q 9 6 2

With urging from me, my partner in north reached a contract of six hearts which I passed. Up to then the only adverse bidding was a spade bid by east in the first round.

West had too much respect for our bidding. Realizing that our small slam would make, he stopped to count the cost of a sacrifice. After some mental calculations he came up with a bid of six spades.

Having no way of knowing we could make seven hearts, my partner doubled. In me had been a desire to go to seven hearts. But I was not quite confident enough of the solidity of our trump suit.

If opponents are defeated five tricks doubled we would get 900 points. Our small slam in hearts was worth 980. If the other table took the sacrifice the opponent bid might cost us the title.

On the other hand, if we bid seven hearts and fail to make it we are a total loss. The cup might well depend on the decision. But I closed my one brain cell and bid the heart grand slam.

I was sweating blood until it was evident that the grand slam was a cinch. And the final scoring showed it helped take the prize. Sometimes it pays to be dumb.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was playing marbles with Puds Simkins and arguing with him about different subjects such as who lived here before the creation of the werld, me claiming there was only berds and Puds claiming there was nuthing but insects, saying, Everybody knows the insects had to come before the berds.

Why did they? I said, and Puds said, Because they had to be here for the berds to eat, that's why. Berds can stay alive without eating insects, he said.

Maybe they cant now, but they use to be able to, I said and Puds said, Oh yeh? Then what did they eat? he said, and I said, They ate each other, that's what they ate, and I'm sure of it.

Aw, nobody eats each other except cannibals, Puds said, and I said, That's exactly what makes me so sure, because the ferst berds were cannibals, and I'll bet you 50 dollers on it.

Oh yeh? Well I'll bet you a hundred dollers there was nuthing here but solid insects, and there wasn't a berd in site, Puds said, and I said, You will, heh? Well I'll just bet you a thousand dollers there was only canniball berds, and you can take it or leave it.

I'll bet you a million dollers, what do you say to that? Puds said, and I said, I'll bet you a dime you haven't got 15 cents.

Sounding more like getting down to real earth, and Puds said, I'll bet you a nickel you haven't got 2 cents.

I'll bet you 4 marbles you haven't even got a cent, and here's my 4 marbles and I double dare you to put up your 4, I said, and Puds said, Aw, you're too late, I'm tired of betting.

The result being we kept on playing marbles, but not for keeps.

Transfer Property In India, China To Native Churches

Toronto, Sept. 19 (CP)—General Council of the United Church of Canada decided last night to transfer all the church's property in China and India to native churches in those countries.

Very Rev. Jesse H. Arnup, Secretary of Overseas Missions, said the United Church had always intended to turn over the properties as soon as the churches in China and India were strong enough and had sufficient leaders to carry on the work. In China, it was considered possible that the communist government might seize all property owned by foreign interests.

The United Church will continue to send missionaries to India and China, Dr. Arnup said.

General Council voted down a proposal to seek income-tax exemption for ministers earning less than $5,000 a year.

Very Rev. George C. Pidgeon of Toronto, a former moderator, in a report on training for the ministry blamed "niggardliness" on the part of General Council for difficulty in obtaining candidates.

He said Alberta alone needs 30 ministers and he blamed the situation on the lack of financial aid to theological colleges.

"You can't separate the decrease in assistance and the decrease in the number of ministers," he said. In 1929 the theological colleges received more than $2,000,000 but, although their work had tripled since then, last year they were given only $95,000, he added.

The council voted its officers a straight salary of $5,500. They have been receiving $4,500 plus a 15-per-cent cost-of-living bonus for the last two years. The change means that they will get a net increase of $325 dating from Sept. 1. The increase also applies to field officers and superintendents of home missions.

It was decided to ask the Federal Government to remove the eight-per-cent sales tax on materials used in construction of new churches, a concession now given to hospitals and welfare agencies.

MAY SOLVE VETERANS' HOME BUILDING

Success of a co-operative house-building plan in Ottawa may make it possible for half-a-billion war veterans to build their own homes with little or no down payment. The plan in Ottawa, has 29 veterans building 29 houses under V.L.A. and National Housing help and direction. Here, V.L.A. construction superintendent Morris Goodwin, right, uses a house model to demonstrate the fine points of building to his "students" who expect to move into homes they have built themselves by next spring. — Central Press Canadian.

MADOC

Madoc—On Wednesday afternoon the members and associate helpers of Trinity United Church W.M.S., Madoc, entertained the W.M.S. societies of the Madoc district. Those in attendance were from Marmora, Eldorado, Union, Cooper, Hazzards, Queensboro, Ivanhoe and White Lake, there being 53 visitors and 30 members of Madoc W.M.S.

Mrs. W. Hulin provided organ music while the ladies gathered in the auditorium of the church. Flowers had been placed at the front of the church radiating a message of welcome.

Miss Annie Holmes presided and opened the meeting.

Mrs. D. Carman brought greetings and welcomed the ladies and hoped all would enjoy the meeting and social time together.

The Cooper ladies led in a fine worship service with Mrs. Will Rollins and Mrs. A. Bird in charge and Mrs. S. Rollins as pianist.

Mrs. Clifford Chambers of Eldorado and Union W.M.S. gave an interesting review on "Dr. Kagawa of Japan, recently heard in Bridge Street Church, Belleville.

A solo was rendered by one of Marmora's W.M.S. members and Mrs. Ed Holmes of Queensboro gave a reading, also Mrs. Bert Wickens of White Lake.

Mrs. R. N. Broad of Hazzards was then called upon to give an address. She introduced the new study book on "Japan" and used a map of Japan and missionary stations. In her talk she outlined the first chapter, telling of the artistic manners of the Japanese girl, while Miss A. Robinson gave the impersonation of a Japanese girl in a real Japanese gown, shoes and fan.

Mrs. Broad's talk was interesting and gave all a vital picture of how much the prayers and help of each member is needed.

Mrs. P. H. Nayler (branch officer) gave a brief resume of the "Missionary Monthly".

The offering was received by Mrs. L. Bennett and Mrs. P. Halland and dedicated by Mrs. Manley Fox.

The meeting closed by all singing "In Christ There Is No East or West" and prayer by the president, Miss Holmes.

All were invited to the Sunday school rooms which were inviting with small tables and a profusion of flowers. Mrs. P. Caverley and Mrs. S. Ashley poured tea while several of the members served tasty refreshments.

Blood on the Stars

By Brett Halliday

Shayne whirled and trotted to the kitchen. He ran water from the faucet into a half-gallon boiler, the largest vessel the small kitchenette afforded, set it on the gas flame, then went back to stand in the bedroom doorway again.

Dr. Price had the blood wiped away and the brown hair parted to reveal an ugly wound just at the base of Lucy's skull when Shayne returned. He was probing carefully, and without lifting his head said, "Concussion. Not dangerous, but quite serious."

"How long ago, Doc?"

"Half an hour, maybe. Watch that kettle and bring it in as soon as it boils. You can't help by standing there gawking. And call my nurse in six-seventeen. I'll need her in a few minutes."

Shayne stopped at the telephone and called the nurse. She answered sleepily, but promised to come down at once. The kettle was boiling when he went back into the kitchen. He carried it into the bedroom and asked the doctor whether there was anything else he could do.

"A clean towel and washrag," the doctor ordered.

Shayne sprinted into the bathroom and took a washrag, three linen face towels and a large bath towel from the cabinet and raced to the bedroom with them, then went into the living room to wait.

Pacing the room and tugging at his earlobe he worried his mind for some clue as to what could have happened to Lucy. She was wearing a nightgown and a robe. Why were her bedroom slippers lying on the living room floor instead of beside the bed, which would be the normal place for them to be? She had promised to wait in his apartment until he returned. Evidently she had gone to her room, undressed and made herself comfortable in the gown and robe and slippers, then returned to his living room to wait for him. When he was so late coming home, maybe she had become anxious and decided to rest on his bed instead of going back to her own room so that she would know the minute he returned and find out whether anything had happened to him.

Miss Naylor's knock on the door interrupted his thoughts. She was tall and austere appearing without any makeup and with night cream still smeared on her face. Her hair was done up in metal curlers, but she wore a clean starched uniform and seemed completely self-possessed, competent, and unaware of her personal appearance.

Shayne took her to the bedroom. She went in and firmly closed the door. For a moment he glared at the door, then resumed his pacing.

Half an hour ago Lucy was struck down, Dr. Price had said. Shayne himself had been in the apartment almost that long before going into the bedroom. He didn't let himself think that things might have been different if he had gone directly to the bedroom when he saw her slippers on the floor.

The door to the apartment had been unlocked, he recalled. Perhaps she had thought of something she wanted to get from her own room while she waited for him, had gone and left the door on the latch. She didn't have a key to the door. But why would she have gone into the bedroom, gone to bed, without locking the door.

The agony of trying to think without anything to begin with, with absolutely nothing that could give him any intimation of what had happened, was exhausting. He sank into a chair by the table. He poured a drink and began sipping it slowly. He looked around the apartment with narrowed and speculative eyes. He knew every inch of it, every article of furniture and the exact position occupied by each one. He could not see anything out of place. . . nothing whatsoever to indicate where the attack on Lucy had occurred.

Anger rolled over him like a tidal wave as he began to realize the actual import of what had occurred. Someone had come here, brutally slugged an innocent girl and then walked calmly out again. And he was sitting around like a fool, straining his ears for a sound, a significant word, from the closed bedroom, and not doing one thing about what had happened.

He got up and stalked to the telephone, got police headquarters, and asked for Sergeant Harvey who was in charge of the homicide squad.

"Speaking," Sergeant Harvey said.

"Mike Shayne. There's been an attempted murder in my apartment. Murder. . . maybe."

"Which was it? Make up your mind."

"The doctor will have to tell us that." Shayne's voice was edged with anger. "You got anybody around there who can come over and dust for fingerprints. . .or is that too much trouble."

"Keep your pants on," said the sergeant wearily. "We'll be right over. Who is it?"

"My secretary," said Shayne shortly. "Miss Lucy Hamilton. I wish you'd bring Robertson if he's on duty." He hung up and again let his eyes roam slowly over every inch of the room, then strode out to the kitchen and tried the door leading onto the fire escape. It was locked, and the key hung in its accustomed place over the sink.

Back in the living room he got the night clerk on the wire. The man asked anxiously. "What's the trouble, Mr. Shayne? Someone hurt up there?"

"My secretary. I'm afraid she's pretty badly hurt, Jim. Was there anyone asking to see me this evening?"

"Not a soul, Mr. Shayne. I haven't seen Miss Hamilton go out or come in, either."

"She didn't," Shayne told him. "We had dinner here, and she waited for me when I went out. Notice anything particular about anyone coming in or out of the hotel while I was gone?"

After a brief silence, the night clerk said, "Not a thing, Mr. Shayne. Mostly just the regulars. I'll ask the elevator boy if you want."

"I'll talk to him myself. The cops are on their way over, Jim. Send them right up, will you?" He hung up and went to the closed bedroom door and bent his head to listen through the keyhole. He could hear the low murmuring of voices, but could distinguish no words.

He left the entrance door open when he went down the corridor to the elevator. When it stopped in response to his ring the door opened, the Negro boy asked excitedly:

"What's up, Mist' Shayne? You all right? When I brung Doctor Price down. . ."

"I'm all right. It's Miss Hamilton. She was slugged in my apartment while I was out. Did you bring any strangers up here tonight? Anybody who asked for my room?"

"Nobody that ast for you. Nosuh. Coupla strangers, maybe. Nobody I noticed a-tall."

"Any friends of mine then," said Shayne sharply. "Anybody you may have seen around here with me before."

"Nobody 'cept that newspaper man. The long thin un. . ."

"He came after I was back."

"Thass right. He sho did." The elevator buzzer sounded. "I'se got somebody waitin' at the bottom," the boy said.

Shayne nodded and went slowly back to his open door. The elevator returned to the third floor and stopped before he had entered. He turned to see Sergeant Harvey and two of his men get off and come toward him. They greeted Shayne with grave cordiality when he invited them in.

"Well. . .let's have it," said Sergeant Harvey.

Shayne explained briefly what had happened to Lucy Hamilton, ending with, "Doctor Price and his nurse are in there with her now. I hope she'll be able to tell us what happened."

"You say she was dressed for bed?" the sergeant asked delicately.

"It looks as though she had gone to her room and gotten ready for bed and then came back here for something. . . perhaps a book to read, or a magazine," Shayne explained. "Or maybe she saw someone coming in my door and suddenly remembered she had left it unlatched, and hurried down here to put him out."

"You think she was attacked in here. . .or in the bedroom?"

"We'll have to get that from the doctor. I didn't waste any time looking around the bedroom after I found her like that. It's my impression, though, that there'd be blood on the floor if she was attacked in here."

"Might as well go over the whole place for fingerprints, Richardson," the sergeant said to the younger member of the trio. "What'll be legitimate beside yours, Mike?"

Dr. Leopold Infeld Quits U. of T. Post, Stays in Poland

Visit to Native Country Recently Stirred Controversy

Toronto, Sept. 21—(CP)— Dr. Leopold Infeld, whose visit to his native Poland this year touched off a Canadian controversy about his knowledge of atomic "secrets", has decided to stay in Warsaw.

Sidney Smith, president of the University of Toronto, where Dr. Infeld had taught since 1939, made the announcement today.

He said in a statement that Dr. Infeld submitted his resignation by mail and wrote:

"I find here excellent conditions for research and scientific work and for instructing the young Polish generation."

When Dr. Infeld's plan to visit Poland became known last March the matter was raised in the House of Commons by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader. He asked that "appropriate steps" be taken "to ascertain the circumstances under which Dr. Infeld plans to 'return' to communist-dominated Poland.

Mr. Drew said that Dr. Infeld, a Jew who is an intimate of atomic scientist Albert Einstein who fled from Poland to escape persecution, was "armed with certain atomic knowledge." Dr. Infeld had made a "strangely accurate prediction" in 1946 that Russia would have the atomic bomb within three years.

Dr. Infeld denied possession of any secrets or that he was being "recalled."

Said He Had No Secrets

"I have no secrets," he told a reporter at that time. "Everything in my brain can be known to the public."

Dr. Infeld argued that "practically all" scientists had said in 1946 that Russia would produce an atomic bomb within three to five years.

"There is nothing sinister about this visit to the country of my birth," he said before leaving on what was to have been a year's leave of absence. "Since I don't have any atomic secrets, the question boils down to whether I intend to go for a visit."

Dr. Infeld, 51, became a Canadian during his 11 years in this country. His wife is an American. She and their son and daughter accompanied him to Poland.

Today's announcement said that Dr. Infeld wrote Sept. 13 from Warsaw:

Opportunities for Research

"I find here excellent conditions for research and scientific work and for instructing the young Polish generation. Nothing is sparerd in efforts or in money to develop the native talent that exists.

"I have found here a tremendous desire for peace and universal constructive activity. This nation experienced the horrors of war as did none other. It and its government wish to do everything possible to avoid another conflict. My decision is to remain in my native land, to contribute all I can do to the scholarship being done in my field here and to work for peace throughout the world."

Dr. Infeld studied at the universities of Cracow, Berlin, Leipzig and Cambridge and at the institute of advanced studies in Princeton, N.J. There he collaborated with Dr. Einstein in "the evolution of physics" and other papers.

Mr. Drew, after Dr. Infeld's rebuttal of his statement in the Commons, commented:

"Those who teach in countries with communist governments are ordinarily acceptable to the communist authorities on more than academic grounds.

"It is certain that anyone who is opposed to communism would not be permitted to teach in a Polish university today. Dr. Infeld's statement alone is sufficient reason to inquire why he is so acceptable to the communist educational authorities in Poland."

Vishinsky Told 50 MPH Too Fast Is Warned

Glen Cove, N.Y., Sept. 21—(AP)—Russia's Foreign Minister, Andrei Y. Vishinsky, has been warned by a traffic cop that the next time he speeds through Glen Cove he'll get a ticket.

Speeding away from the palatial estate the Russian United Nations delegation occupies here, Vishinsky's car was stopped yesterday by motorcycle patrolman Timothy O'Neill.

Mildly O'Neill explained to Vishinsky and his chauffeur that 55 miles an hour was too fast for the congested highway. Then the cop added:

"This is just a fair warning. Next time we will have to give you a summons."

Vishinsky smiled politely. His car pulled away—gently.

Food Shortage Is Growing In Hungary

Vienna, Sept. 21—(AP)—Hungarian press reports reaching Vienna today indicated a food shortage growing in that largely agricultural communist country.

The communist newspaper Szabad Nep conceded: "certain difficulties exist.'

"It must be reported that in many cases production of food products and necessary goods is not sufficient to cover the growing needs," the newspaper continued.

It blamed hoarders and speculators for "yawning gaps in all goods." Other Hungarian press reports indicated the shortages were mainly in potatoes, meat, flour, sugar and dairy products.

Western sources here said they had reports that Hungarian workers were lining up for hours before food stores to try to buy a few potatoes or a little meat.

RUSSIA PRAISED

New York, Sept. 20. (AP)—The American communist party celebrated its 31st anniversary last night with a Madison Square Garden rally attended by an estimated 10,000 persons. Speakers criticized President Truman and Gen. MacArthur, and praised Russia.

EAST GERMANY'S COMMIES FLOP ON BOTH COUNTS

Try to Take Land, Light From Western Powers

Berlin, Sept. 21 — (AP)—East Germany's communists today tried to take away land and light from their Western confreres — but flopped on both counts

At midnight the reds cut off electric power deliveries to West Berlin. West Berlin got along on its own resources.

Earlier in the night, on the outskirts of the British zone, a half-dozen Russian soldiers tried to move their border barriers to annex 175 square yards of territory. Some 100 British infantrymen turned them back and British officials planned negotiating talks with the Russians to settle the mix-up today

There were other incidents, also, indicating the communists were systematically stepping up their war of nerves against Allied West Berlin.

1. Several hundred communists tried to stage an unlicensed street demonstration in the French sector, but were scattered by police with fire hoses. About 30 reds were arrested.

2. East German officials ignored a West Berlin offer that each side release police that had been arrested the day before in a series of tit-for-tat raids on each other's personnel. At the latest count West Berliners have 51 eastern cops in custody, while 25 West Berlin police are under communist arrest.

3. The communist press stepped up its propaganda barrage against the west, shrilling cries of "Ami (American) and Tommy (British) go home" On the other side of the ledger the Russians released, after 14 hours of routine questioning, two American miliary police they had taken yesterday in the border area. The men said they had not been mistreated.

Asked to Fill Out Income Tax Returns

Niagara Falls, Sept. 21 (CP)—The Income Tax Department has cracked down on housewives in the greater Niagara area who operate tourist homes to augment their husband's incomes.

During the past week, housewives have received a form letter from the department asking them to file their income tax returns for 1949.

An accountant who makes out income tax forms said today he had made out a dozen forms this week, and had deducted from the gross receipts payments for laundry, light, heat, water, and 50 per cent for replacement or equipment such as linen. He said only one return had exceeded $600.

There are approximately 1,000 tourist home operators in Niagara Falls and suburban Stamford township.

Airliner Crew Has Aerial Seat To Watch Queer Antics of Meteor

Denver, Sept. 1 — (AP)—An airliner's crew had a ringside seat for the rare behavior of a meteor which apparently prompted reports of weird rocket ships flashing across Wyoming and Colorado last night.

Hundreds of reports from the ground followed a definite pattern. Witnesses told of two strange craft scooting southeast along the eastern edge of the Rockies about 3,000 feet above the ground and between 500 and 1,000 miles an hour.

But Capt. H. A. Gurney, piloting a United Airliner, believed he and his crew witnessed the incident that caused it all. And, he adds, "If I hadn't seen it from start to finish, I would have been ready to believe anything too."

The plane's crew saw the meteor as they flew just east of St. George, Utah.

"A giant meteorite — or meteor — flashed by us, traveling east and a bit south," Gurney related. "It was white-hot, shaped something like a football. The tail was almost as hot, coming but from behind like a V."

"When it was about 150 miles ahead of us, three pieces broke off the head. They turned from white to red to black. But they didn't fall. They faded out without seeming to drop.

"Then that white-hot nose blew into two pieces. They turned red They just kept going into space, following the curvature of the earth and the whole thing swinging from east to southeast with the orbit of the earth."

Reports from pilots and others who caught glimpses of the display came in all the way from northwestern Colorado.

It was the second meteor report in two nights.

West Kentuckians reported Wednesday they had seen a meteor streaking through the early-morning sky. The object, also visible in Tennessee Indiana and Illinois, was reported to have exploded in the air.

Ancient Capital to Play Host Again to Canada's National And Provincial Leaders

Quebec, Sept. 21. (CP)—For the first time in 86 years, this ancient capital next week will play host to Canada's national and provincial leaders.

In 1864 the Fathers of Confederation met here to lay the foundations of a unified infant Canada. The conference which opens next Monday in some ways parallels that early meeting. Its purpose is to work out a modern legal framework binding the different parts of the country into a nation. The main problem is arrangement of a constitution capable of meeting present and future needs of Canada as an adult nation.

The meeting also will mark the first meeting here of national government leaders and the chiefs of Canada's 10 provinces.

In 1864, leaders of Upper and Lower Canada, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland conferred. Provincial leaders met here 23 years later but at that time the roster of Canadian provinces was not today's 10.

The formal 1950 conference agenda has not been published, but presumably the government chiefs will put their heads together over the problem of a system for amendment to the constitution with satisfactory safeguards for essential rights.

A formula for a system of amendment was worked out by a special federal-provincial committee during the Ottawa Constitutional Conference in January.

The committee—made up of the justice minister and the provincial attorneys-general—met in Ottawa last August to study proposals from the various provinces due to come before the Quebec meeting.

There is no indication how long the Quebec meetings will last, though guesses are four or five days.

The conference is not intended to deal with the question of taxation rights and their sharing between federal and provincial governments, but this question is bound to be referred to.

Most important step might be agreement on a system, suitable to all, of undertaking constitutional amendments as they are required without danger to rights distributed to the partners in Confederation in 1867.

The conference meets in Quebec by invitation of Premier Duplessis, who made his bid for meetings here last January.

The Governor-General, Viscount Alexander, will entertain the delegations at this summer residence in Quebec's 118-year-old citadel and a reception will be held at Bois de Coulonge, estate of the Lieutenant-Governor, Sir Eugene Fiset.

Prime Minister To Visit King At Balmoral

London, Sept. 21. (Reuters)—Prime Minister Attlee was to fly to Scotland today to see the King, who is on a holiday at his Balmoral home.

Government quarters were quick to say there is no particular significance in this and no question of any political crisis.

The visit, they added, is purely a normal one, as the Prime Minister has not seen the King since August 11.

Attlee and the King probably will discuss the opening of next month's new session of parliament.

Meanwhile, a foreign office spokesman said he had no knowledge of any intention on Ernest Bevin's part to retire as foreign secretary when he returns from New York.

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express had said today there were reports that Bevin, who has been ill for some time, had decided to resign and would be succeeded by Attorney-General Sir Hartley Shawcross.

Crash Survivors Are Rescued From Glacier

Reykjavik, Iceland, Sept. 21—(AP) — Survivors of an Icelandic Airline Skymaster crash and the three-man crew of a U. S army plane which crashed trying to rescue them from atop a 6,000-foot glacier arrived here today by air.

The Skymaster crew of six men and a stewardess had been marooned on the glacier seven days.

Two planes brought the wreck-survivors back from an improvised airfield north of snow-covered Vatnakoell Glacier after a ground party had brought them off the ice on skis.

The American crew survived unscathed after their Dakota equipped with skis, crashed and tore off a wing tip and a rudder while attempting to carry the Icelandic crew off the glacier yesterday. No one was hurt.

The stewardess in the Skymaster crew suffered a slightly injured foot in the original crash. The plane was carrying a cargo of 10 sled dogs.

Transport Driver Dies in Hospital After Accident

The driver of a beer-laden west-bound Hyatt highway transport suffered fatal injuries and highway traffic south of Marysville was held up for more than three hours early this morning when the transport crashed into bridge and jacknifed across the road.

The driver, Walter Dupuis, 40, Montreal, died two hours later in Belleville hospital. He suffered a crushed chest, fractured skull and lacerations.

Cause of the accident was believed to have been a broken spring on the trailer which caused the driver to lose control of his vehicle, the transport striking the concrete abutment at Sucker Creek and ripping out a line of guard rail posts.

The truck then upset across the road, spilling its load of beer bottles over the highway.

Dr. D. C. McVickers of Deseronto attended the injured man at the scene and took him to Belleville Hospital in his car where he died ten minutes after admission. The doctor stated Dupuis had been conscious after the accident and was able to stand on his feet although he was in a dazed condition.

Provincial police routed traffic around the smashed highway transport for three hours before the road was cleared. The accident occured about one and a half miles south of Marysville.

EVEN THE EXPERTS CAN'T KEEP PACE WITH EXPANSION

One Industrial Record Shattered by Another

Ottawa, Sept. 21—(CP) — So swift is the pace of Canada's industrial expansion this year that even the experts have been caught up in the whirl.

With unusual suddenness one industrial record is shattered by another. Employment is at its highest point in history. Demand for goods and services are at unprecedented levels—and still the march of records goes on.

One government expert, sitting down to compile the surprising fact that the total value of Canada's output of goods and services—the gross national product—this year would reach the unparallelled level of $16,300,000,000 soon, was confronted with the fact that he would have to revise his figures.

Instead of $16,300,000,000, the total value of goods and services now is expected to reach beyond $17,000,000,000 — a gain of more than $1,000,000,000 in a matter of a year.

Never before in peacetime history has Canada's industrial expansion been so rapid, nor filled with possibilities of even greater developments in the future.

No Predictions For '51

But because of the sudden and sharp changes in the industrial picture, the experts decline to make any further predictions of what 1951 may hold.

It is possible that, because of new war orders and still-greater employment, still further records may be achieved. But somewhere along the line, the experts reason, there will have to be an adjustment in prices.

When will this adjustment come? That is the big question on the minds of many of the government economists. Some believe it may come with the end of war in Korea, perhaps in the spring of 1951.

With an allied victory in Korea and the prospect of the enemy or potential enemy being firmly held, the demand for commodities may soften and prices may ease.

Other experts merely shake their heads. To them the drive ahead on the road to shattering new industrial records is just beginning.

Life For Officers, Men on Destroyers Hard at Sea But Good Time in Port

By LIEUT. A. J. PLOSZ R.C.N.
(Naval Information Officer,
H. M. C. S. Cayuga)

With the Canadian Destroyers Off Korea, Sept. 21 — (Delayed) — (CP) — Canada's three destroyers — Cayuga Athabaskan and Sioux — have been operating under United Nations command in the Far East for more than six weeks now and life for the officers and men is pretty much one would expect in a war theatre.

At sea it means hard work and sweat for out here the temperature and humidity are high. In port it can mean swapping yarns over refreshments with the sailors of other nations shopping in the canteens and in the local shops or dancing in a club with a Japanese "taxi-dancer" some of whom speak halting English with a Brooklyn accent.

The naval base where the destroyers come after patrols and convoy duties is situated near a fair-sized city of wooden houses set along sloping hills.

Shopping facilities are good and anything from gaily - decorated silk kimonos, silk scarves to chopsticks can be purchased. There is a currency problem — Canadian currency is needed aboard ship; American occupation dollars, or GI scrip., for the American post exchange and American clubs; Hong Kong dollars for British canteens and Japanese yen for local shops — but the boys soon got used to it.

And the Canadians have found themselves welcome at the American, British and Autrallian canteens and clubs. One American club has engaged about 20 Japanese girls as "taxi dancers" who wear western style evening gowns.

New Red Column Said Moving South From Manchuria

Terrific Battle For Red-Held Capital Now Shaping up

By LEIF ERICKSON

Tokyo, Sept. 21. (AP)—United States Marines smashed today at the heart of Seoul, but a North Korean column was reported rolling down from Russian-dominated Manchuria to fight for the Korean capital.

The nationality of the armored column of 40 tanks and 200 other vehicles from red China's Yalu river frontier in Manchuria was not determined by U.S. Intelligence officers.

Many red Koreans who have fought in the south since their June 25 invasion across Parallel 38 were seasoned in communist China's Manchurian armies. Their heavy equipment and planes are all of Russian manufacture.

The American Marines and their tanks entered Seoul from the northwest at 6 p.m., Wednesday (5 a.m. E.D.T.), Associated Press Correspondent Russell Brines reported from the Inchon-Seoul beachhead.

This was the strong force that crossed the Han river in amphibious tractors at dawn Wednesday eight miles downstream from Seoul.

Another Marine column was moving in from the west after seizing Seoul's airfield across the Han river.

Korean red troops were converging on Seoul from several directions—many of them from the old Allied southeast beachhead perimeter.

A big battle for Seoul seemed to be shaping up—a battle of deep significance if the force from Manchuria should turn out to be non-Korean in its manpower.

A spokesman said it may already have crossed the 38th Parallel, dividing North and South Korea and only 30 miles north of Seoul. It was reported to have started out from the Manchurian border town of Antung on the Yalu river.

Bore Down on Two Sides

Correspondent Brines said elements of the U.S. 1st Marine Division rumbled into Seoul's northwest outskirts just 12 hours after ramming across the Han.

Brines reported the leathernecks bore down on the city from two sides. The second column swept in from the southern suburb of Yongdungpo to the Seoul satellite airfield and headed for three makeshift bridges spanning the Han. The main Seoul airfield, Kimpo, was takn by marines Sunday. It is 12 miles northwest of the capital on the far side of the Han.

The second thrust inside the Seoul metropolitan area cut the main highway leading south to Suwon.

Fighter planes covered both columns.

The Seoul-Suwon highway was the key red supply artery supporting communist forces around the allied perimeter in the southeast. It is also a route for reds returning from the south to defend Seoul.

U.S. 7th Division troops battled for the last ridge line west of the highway, on the marines' right flank 10 miles south of Seoul.

Front reports said the marine tanks found the going on narrow roads too slow and took to the railroad tracks to enter Seoul from the northwest. In the built-up outskirts of the capital, the marines spearhead was slowed for a while by mortar fire.

But marine artillery fire drove some 75 reds from a cave on heights north of the city. They came out waving a white flag.

AP correspondent Relman Morin reported the drive on Seoul from the northwest and south was a big push "like the big ones near the end of the last war."

Three Hold up Omega Club, Grab $1,300

Toronto, Sept. 21 — (CP) — Three men, one armed, held up the Omega Social Club on downtown Yonge Street today and escaped with $1,300.

Peter Yannakas 60, a chef, was beaten and robbed of $1,000. John Psimoulos, night porter, lost $300. Police said the bandits overlooked several hundred dollars in the club safe.

Psimoulos said he and the chef were the only persons in the club when the bandits entered. Psimoulos met them in the lobby. One bandit, waving a nickel-plated revolver, ordered him to a back room.

Police said Psimoulos was not searched, and tried to hide his money. The bandits saw him and grabbed the money.

Psimoulos said one bandit choked him and another poked the gun in his face. He was told he would be killed if he made a false move.

Yannakas said he was struck on the mouth and thrown into a small bathroom. The bandits took $1,000 from him, intended for provisions and staff pay.

He described the gunman as 21-25 year old, 5 feet 5 inches tall, with a small dark moustache. The others were 27-35.

Police said the bandits apparently waited outside the club until the night staff left.

A rubbish pile at the rear of Luckins' Meat Market on Front Street which in some manner got afire caused firemen a brief run to that address at mid-morning.

The fire was extinguished, however beore it ate its way through the wooden wall and very little fire damage resulted.

The smoke filled the butcher store and drove employees out into the open, while it also filtered into the next door restaurant.

Quarter Century of Service To Board by Lt. Col. E.A. Geen Given Official Recognition

Recognition of a quarter of a century service as a member of the local Board of Education was given Wednesday night by board members to one of their number when they presented Lt. Col. E. A. Geen with a handsome travelling bag at a dinner party held at Bloomfield.

All members of the Board of Education with the exception of Arthur L. Burke who was in Kingston, attended the dinner party at Maple Inn where they were served with delicious steak and chicken dinners .

Following the dinner Frank Cushing on behalf of other members of the board, referred to Col. Geen's lengthy service on the local board, noting that he had been a member continuously since 1925, through the period of construction of the Collegiate and Vocational School. He had served in every capacity and in every committee on the board, including the advisory committee. He was chairman of the board for two years 1934-35.

Once Had 25 Members

At the time Col. Geen first became actively interested in city educational matter the school board was a union board made up of 21 members including appointed representatives from the high school and elected members from each of the wards in the city. Col. Geen was first elected to represent Murney Ward. He was with the board when it was re-organized in 1938 to a Board of Education with its present ten members.

Presentation of the handsome travelling bag on behalf of the board was made by Mr. Cushing while Miss Josephine Tickell presented Mrs. Geen with a dozen roses.

Following the presentation the party returned to the board room at Belleville where Chairman of the Board Enos David showed colored moving pictures taken at the recent convention held at Bigwin Inn.

C.C.F. Speaker Says Workers 'Clubbed' Back to Work To Terminate Railroad Strike

A call for trade union members to take political action to protect their rights as workers was made here Wednesday night by Mr. Harry Walters, C.C.F., provincial member for Braconsdale, Toronto.

Speaking at the opening Autumn meeting of the local C.C.F. party organization at the Orange Hall on Church Street, Mr. Walters said that railroad workers had been "clubbed" back to work by the government in its order to terminate the recent railway strike.

"Railroaders have lost their collective bargaining rights—they cannot strike—and if they fail to come to agreement with the railroads the matter will be settled by arbitration," he said.

He said that with one stroke of the pen the government had defeated 40 years' work by trade unionist workers. He quoted Premier St. Laurent as saying the back to work order was an emergency measure which would be written off as soon as the emergency was past.

"But he knows as well as I that once legislation is on the books it is never written off unless it is vindicated. It will be up to some other government to do it."

Possibly Only Action

The speaker admitted that the action taken by the government was possibly the only action that could have been taken in the face of the "peculiar economy" and the fact that no action had been taken in the past 15 months to meet railroad workers demands. It had been admitted that workers needed more pay and that hours of work were too long but nothing had been done about it.

The strike had proven many things that railroads were absolutely essential to the economy of the country and also that the government's labor administration was ponderous and unwieldy and would have to be revised.

Papers Attacked

The newspapers came in for attack by the speaker for the attitude taken in reporting of the strike issues. He said newspapers had given an unfair impression of actual strike issues. In the first instance the wages of all railroad workers had been averaged to present a more favorable figure for the railroads and the papers had failed to compare railroad wages and hours of work against other branches of industry.

"The papers said that the railroads could not pay the wages demanded by the workers, but trade unionists do not feel that the ability of a company to pay should enter into the picture. The need of the workers should be the driving force."

"Nothing could convince him," he said, "that the C.N.R. deficit was an actual and not a paper deficit. Freight rates in Canada should be raised to compare with that on American lines and unfair competition by highway transports should be eliminated. Then Canadian railroads would be able to pay wages demanded by the workers."

The meeting which saw but a small attendance was presided over by Ernie Nelson, president of the local C.C.F. Association.

Premier Frost Predicts More Activity in North

Kirkland Lake, Ont., Sept. 21 (CP)—Premier Frost of Ontario paused here last night during a northern Ontario tour to predict more activity for the Cobalt area than it had early in this century when it was a silver boom camp.

The premier, scheduled to open a new asbestos plant at Matheson today, said that cobalt, used in hardening steel and in producing certain heat-resistant alloys, would be more valuable to Cobalt than its silver.

The premier's party visited the silver Miller mine which Harry Miller reopened in 1946 after it had been idle—like other Cobalt area mines—for 30 years. In the four years since its reopening the mine had produced 2,030,000 ounces of silver.

The party also saw the Kerr-Addison gold mine, east of Kirkland Lake which is producing about $1,000,000 in gold monthly.

"This might have been overlooked if there hadn't been people to pour money into it", said the premier, as the party recalled the history of the property. At least three times before 1937, promoters were ready to give up on it. Since then it had become one of the country's biggest gold producers.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Sept. 21 (CP)—Papers led a quiet market into firmer ground today on the Toronto Stock Exchange, following uncertainty in early trading.

RCAF Drum, Trumpet Band Will Receive Trophies Won At Waterloo Musical Festival

Trenton (Special) — The final reward for winning the Canadian championship will become a reality to the RCAF drum and trumpet band today. Professor C. F. Thiele, of the Waterloo Musical Society, will present trophies and medals won by the band at the Waterloo Tattoo June 24.

Prof. Thiele is making a special trip to the station to make the presentations to the band considered tops at the Waterloo festival. The Waterloo musician expressed a desire to do the honors in person and the RCAF station co-operated. The ceremony is to take place about 1:30 this afternoon on the parade square.

The band won one trophy in the street parade and march past class. It was in this division that the RCAF outfit scored its highest total. Another trophy will be presented for a first in test piece competition. The piece under consideration was "Centurion", and as well as copping the trophy, each member of the band is to be awarded a gold medal.

In addition, each man will receive a silver medal for placing second in another test piece competition. The required music this time was "Monty" Also, third place bronze medals will be awarded for yet another test piece competition — in which the composition was "Dunk".

Prof. Thiele is arriving at the station in the morning and after the ceremonies he will be conducted on a tour of the RCAF grounds and buildings by Group Captain G. P. Dunlop, officer commanding. Prof. Thiele is known in the district for his efforts in connection with the Belleville Music Festival last year, sponsored by the Belleville Municipal Band. He is expected to take charge of the festival, which will take place in a short time again this year.

AUTUMN NEAR

Summer has yet a very brief space of time according to the calendar. It does not end on the 21st day of September. It stays until Saturday the 23rd. At 9.34 standard time on that morning summer officially departs and autumn comes in. So says the calendar and its word can be taken for the stars and planets have so ordained.

But to the camping and rusticating public in general summer left some time ago, at least the vacation did for another year. Many of course will not yield their hold on the summer season and will frequent the summer haunts until late autumn's rude hand stays their late wanderings and pleasures.

As ever the summer of 1950 seems far too short. Over four hundred years ago the master of poets said that "summer's lease hath all too short a date." That expresses the feeling of everyone in the temperate zone — summer is always too short. The school boy could want more holidays and the business man and the employees would like a wide extension of the summer season but that would be useless, for all man's wishes and all the yearnings of the schoolboy cannot modify the schedule of the sun and earth, the other planets and the stars. In nature of things that is so.

In the economy of nature it is well of course for the seasons map a way of life for many persons, especially those who till the fields and are responsible for the growth, the agricultural class, who are responsible for the sowing and the cultivation and the harvesting of what the earth produces in the short term between spring and autumn. In the great season of productivity in the fields lie the happiness and future of the peoples of the world. The earth must bring forth fruit, and the earth's fields must have rest. That is the time which now lies ahead and for that the seasons of autumn, winter and spring are ordained.

CHRISTIAN NAMES

Classified advertising columns in the Windsor Star have been a rich source of material for one member of its staff who finds in it evidence of the changes which the social history of our time has brought. He deals with Christian names and comes up with some strange discoveries. He says that "the want ads are undoubtedly a prolific source for idle-hour researehers." Here is the result of one of these researches.

One of the amazing discoveries is that his recent delving shows from an examination of birth notices in the Windsor paper's columns that the name of George is disappearing. Here is his sum-up of the trend in the naming of children: "Of the last one hundred babies whose arrival has been announced in the Windsor Star's birth notices, not one bears the manly name of George. For that matter, there is not one William, and nary a Walter, Gordon, James or Harry.

"Instead the newest generation is called Patrick, or Gary, Grant or Michael, Thomas or Mark.

"But it is the disappearance of George that gives greatest cause for alarm. Where would Britain be today without George? Who would have slain the dragon? Who would have founded the present royal succession? Who would half the pubs have been named for? For that matter, how can we possibly let George do it, if George is allowed to disappear?

"The situation on the distaff side is almost as serious. Ten per cent of all babies born in Windsor since September 1st have been named Patricia, Nancy or Jo-Ann. The good old names of Mary and Elizabeth each appear but once as a first name. Victoria is apparently completely outmoded."

AVIATION

How intense is British interest in aviation and the development of aircraft is seen in the fact that 60 different types of aircraft were listed to appear at the flying display at Farnborough, England, this month, among them being the twin-engined English Electric Canberra 2, the new bomber going into service with the Royal Air Force.

The largest of the year's new aircraft listed is the Blackburn Universal Freighter, the fuselage of which is large enough to hold a bus. This was one of the few four-engined aircraft at the display.

Another is the de Haviland Heron 12-16-seat airliner which made its first flight last May. Another new aircraft is the Prestwick Pioneer, the first aircraft designed and built in Scotland to go into production.

The Pioneer has large bat-like flaps, can take off in 80 yards and is expected to go into service in Australia. Gas turbine-powered aircraft include three new machines, the Vickers Tay Viscount, the Avro Ashton four-jet experimental aircraft and the Turbo Viscount 700.

Development of aviation is one of the essentials of keeping step with progress.

THE COGITATOR

At bridge I'm listed with the dubs,
But to my credit friends will say it,
When I must play the three of clubs
Unhesitatingly I play it.
I do not sit there gravely blinking
To give the notion I am thinking.

I do not hate to let it go
And high above the table wave it,
Or sit and stare at it as though
By thinking long enough I'd save it.
I never keep my comrades waiting
For what is known as "cogitating."

Slowly his brow the thinker rubs
And time drags on and naught can stop it.
His only play: the three of clubs!
He stares at it, but will not drop it.
Patient to be but few are able
When there's a thinker at the table.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

As we read the day to day reports of the UN meetings, the feeling grows in us that surely greater men than these are concerning themselves with the fate of us all. When we read the utterances of the various leaders and public men of all the nations, the impression increases that there must be, somewhere, hidden from view, bigger minds than these devoting themselves to the problems at hand.

History entitles us to believe that men adequate to any occasion will arise and save us. History and literature both inspire in us the feeling that there are supermen. But wherever we look today, we see and hear only small, bickering men, no larger than ourselves.

The trouble may be familiarity. the modern press, its unabashed reporters, its cameras, the movies and radio, have yanked all our great men right out onto the footlights, over them, and into our midst.

The old majesty that hedged in the big shots of the past is utterly absent from all the world's leaders except Stalin. Everybody fears him because nobody knows him. Familiarity used to breed contempt. Now it breeds anxiety. What we are all secretly yearning for is some Old Man of the Mountains to come down and rescue us.

Yet we are pitiless in our curiosity, swift to appraise quick to scorn: and if some wonderful Old Man of the Mountains did come down amongst us, we would snatch our newspapers, twist our radio dials and endure utterly tiresome movies in order to see the news reels, until we were satisfied that the old gentleman merely needed a haircut and a shave in order to be just like us.

We pray for somebody bigger than we are. But we are inclined to doubt all candidates. This is said to be the century of the common man. It begins to shape up that way.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

SOMETHING NEW AND DIFFERENT

Not long ago the circus was in town. In the sideshows, people paid to see the fat woman, the sword-swallower, and all the rest. Under the big top itself, the spectators were thrilled as always by the high-wire performers and the animals.

The fact is that human beings like to see something strange and different. They always have. The caveman, indeed, never paid to see a saber-toothed tiger, but as soon as wild beasts became scarce in inhabited regions, ancient history records that they were exhibited to crowds as rarities.

We all share the instinct for the new and unusual, though some of us have more of it than others. It drives some to the movies, some to the circus, some to travel, some even to spend their lives adventurously in remote regions.

Our desire for the strange will be harmful if it makes us merely goggle at freaks, or lose ourselves in wild adventure stories to escape from the facts of life.

But if unusual experiences open our eyes to life, if they increase our knowledge of humans, if they leave us wiser and better informed, then we have chosen well. This kind of curiosity is the basis of real education.

MacKenzie's Column

Britain is Still Divided Over Vexed Question

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

Britain's Labor Government has won a doubtful parliamentary victory, narrowly defeating a Conservative attempt to compel its downfall over the controversial steel nationalization program.

This attack, led by former Prime Minister Winston Churchill in best fighting form, was precipitated by the government's announcement that it would assume control of the country's vital steel industry Jan. 1.

Churchill made a motion which in effect called for condemnation of this program, and Attlee announced that his government would stand or fall on the vote.

The significance of this battle lies in the closeness of the result. The Socialists won by only six votes—306 to 300. This represented an all-out effort by both sides, and involved routing ill members of Commons out of bed to attend the session.

This means that the country also is almost equally divided (or was at the time of the general election last February) over the question of steel nationalization. That was the major issue of the election, in which Attlee sought a mandate for his program and got it by a hair's breath.

Canny Winnie

Churchill naturally made the most of this close division of the country, and accused the Socialists of using their slender margin to "knock the other half" about.

Steel nationalization in Britain of course is in a different category from other industries barring coal. Steel production is the heart of the country's economy in normal times, and is doubly so now that the country is in the midst of a great defence program.

Naturally this situation brings out the most vigorous of the ideological arguments pro and con. The Socialists reiterate that control of this great industry by capitalists is a menace to the national interests. The opposition retorts that this is no time to remove directors who for years have been running the steel industry successfully and replace them by government direction.

The Saw-Off

In short this bitter battle is the epitome of the political differences between socialism and capitalism. Obviously it will have to be ironed out before the government can claim a clear mandate from the almost-equally-divided electorate to go "all out" in inaugurating socialism.

Prime Minister Attlee presumably has this in mind for he is said by informed sources to plan another general election early next year. This would be after steel nationalization is effective and the rearmament program is going full steam. It would give the electorate a chance to declare itself.

Four Charged Result of Fight

Orillia, Sept. 21. (CP)— Four persons have been charged with assault as the result of a fight said to concern custody of a four-month-old baby.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray Cook left here several weeks ago for Toronto to seek employment. They left their four-month-old child in the custody of Mr. Cook's brother, Bruce, a district farmer. In Toronto the Cooks separated and Mrs. Cook decided to go to her home in Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario.

Mrs. Cook said she made several efforts to recover custody of the child but her husband had telephoned his brother from Toronto, instructing him not to give the child up.

Three carloads of men arrived at Bruce Cook's farm, Tuesday night, and a fight ensued between the men and Cook's neighbors. Charged with assault as a result of the fight are: Mrs. Cook, her mother, Mrs. Winnifred Jackson, of Sault Ste. Marie, Gerald Van Hezwick, Atherley, Ont., and Benny Jarvis, of Orillia. They were freed on $500 bail and will appear in court, Friday.

EMPLOYEES WALK OUT

Toronto, Sept. 21—(CP)—The Amalgamated Meat Cutters Union (A.F.L.-T.L.C.) called a strike yesterday against the People's Meat and Provision Company—the first strike in years against a retail meat market. Approximately 40 employees in two stores walked out, charging the stores had ignored the report of a conciliation board which recommended a 45-hour week and a flat $60 a week for journeymen meat cutters.

BAN PUBLICATION

Singapore, Sept. 21—(Reuters)—The Singapore government today announced a ban on publication of the leftist Chinese newspaper Nan Chaitu Jit Poh for the duration of the present terrorist emergency in Malaya. Action against the newspaper was taken under a law adopted by the legislative council enabling the government to prohibit the sale and publication of newspapers "systematically circulating prejudicial matter."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

OTHERS

The complexion of the entire world could be changed over night if everyone in it would but form the habit — and make it permanent — of thinking of the interests and welfare of others.

The reason why we have troubles and wars that affect the wellbeing of all is because there are communities and nations that think only of themselves. They think they are the world! To think of others is to think of co-operation and a working out of all problems together. No individual can earn an honest success without the interest and help of others. Everyone of us is compelled to depend upon others, no matter what our occupation may be.

I once heard of a missionary in China who wanted to send back to the folks at home some message that would adequately express his love and Christian greeting at Christmas time in just a word, and so he cabled: Others!

The moment we begin to disregard the feelings and interests of others about us, we isolate ourselves from the very element of human happiness that is responsible, more than anything else, for our own joy and success.

Eliminate all that you owe to others and make a note of what would be left, and you will realize the enormous debt that you owe — to inventors, scientists, researchers, historians, poets, entertainers — the list of our benefactors being endless! How much we owe to the sturdy pioneers, who suffered untold hardships to develop the country in which we live, passing on their work for us to improve.

Undying is the memory of those who have been sacrificed upon the fields of battle that we might enjoy the liberty and freedom, and and way of life, that is ours today. To others goes the credit—ours—the benefit. When we are tempted to spread idle gossip, we must bear in mind that there are always those who are innocently involved. We must think of those others.

We can only accumulate happiness for ourselves by doing all in our power to add to the happiness of others. It's such a simple process — but it's sure, and keeps adding up!

OLD-FASHIONED MOTHER GIVES GOOD ADVICE

Our third child was due early in March. We were living on a farm without a telephone. Knowing we might expect weather that would make it difficult for the doctor to get to us we had bought books which told us how to prepare for an emergency. We had everything ready, linen sterilized cord, scissors and other things we might need. Not much more than an hour after I awoke i nthe early morning I realized the baby aws clamoring to be released she came howling into the world. My husband tied and cut the cord, helped clean up, and neither of us was at all scared. When a neighbor and the doctor arrived we were all ready to receive visitors.

It seems to me (continues the old-fashioned mother) that in the recent books about child-birth without fear an important thing has been overlooked. It is not enough in my estimation, to prepare a woman for correct mental attitudes after she has become pregnant. I think girls as well as boys should be conditioned from babyhood in response to pain of any sort. In our home it was a disgrace to make a fuss over trifling accidents.

Bumps and bruises were merely normal incidents of childish activities. Also, on a farm fifty years ago there were plenty of hard, disagreeable chores to be done and each child had to take his share of these. We learned early in life to work, quickly and efficiently, and not grumble over an unpleasant task. After all, bearing a child is just another of life's chaores which includes some pain and unpleasantness, with rich reward coming afterward. (Mrs. F. M. J.)

There's a forld of difference between the attitude of this old-fashionde mother and the attitude of the average—oh, well, let's just cal her weak sister today. The poor ignorant gullible $300 snob today must go ot a hospital where they will make a case out of it and if the current installments on the car, furniture, radio, television and refrigerator leave anything in pocket she eneds a "specialist" for herself (obstetrician) and another for the baby (pediatrician) and the awful sufferings she endures and snobbishly attributes to her refinement as compared with the old-fashioned mother.

It is a bit sickening to read some of the letters I receive from these $300 snobs who regard me as a kind of bull in the china shop. They say I am evidently not familiar with the way these things are done in a modern hospital etc. That's just the trouble. In the delivery rooms of the most modern hospitals things happen that make me shudder—and I'm fairly hard-boiled. No, no, children, this wretched la-di-da attitude doesn't alter the fact that home is the safest place to have a baby.

This old-fashioned Ohio mother says she and her husband are now past seventy and have brought up three children, now married and with families of their own. But she writes like a vigorous young woman just out o fcollege. Makes me feel right proud when she says: "I'm glad one man in the medical profession is not afraid to tell the truth about some of the present day 'clinics' and quacks. More power in your elbow..."

Color Blindness

Navy doctors told son, 18, he was slightly color blind. He went to a doctor at home who says he has never heard of such a thing. So when he came home from the army he attended ——— school two years, then went to work as electrician. Plant doctors told him he is slightly color blind, as he does not distinguish delicate shades of blue and green...but an eye doctor told hi mthere is no such thing. (H. O. J.)

Answer—There is congenital (present at birth) color blindness which is incurable. There is partial color blindness from excessive smoking, for example, sufficient to disqualify a man from a job requiring recognition of red or green light signals. This is curable. There are different degrees of color blindness.

Plans Completed For Hasty Pees Reunion Here

Just five years and three days after that eventful day when the battalion marched into Belleville on its return from overseas, Hasty P's will begin to gather here again for another reunion. The dates of this, the sixth post-war reunion, are October 7, 8 and 9 — Thanksgiving weekend. As last year, the formal program has been drawn up for the Saturday and Sunday, leaving the events of Monday up to the individual iniative of any who can remain for the long weekend.

The regimental association had decided last year that the executive should try to stage this year's reunion in Picton with Toronto as a suggested alternative. An executive meeting in April learned that neither of these locations was possible, and decided that Belleville would be the reunion city for the third time in four years.

Bob Scott, association secretary-treasurer, is chairman of the committee arranging the reunion. Several sub-committees have been at work since mid-summer laying the groundwork for the big weekend. Angus Duffy will be in charge of the parade and the catering arrangements for the Sunday banquet. Bill Graydon is arranging the entertainment for the dance. Len Hyslop and Mitch Raschotte have charge of liquid refreshments. Cam Wallbridge will direct billeting. Bob Scott will supervise registration and will take in the money from the scholarship fund draw.

Features

The Sunday banquet, a feature introduced so successfully last year in Peterborough, will again be a highlight of the reunion weekend. For the Saturday night dance Bill Graydon is trying to arrange something new in the way of special entertainment — perhaps a floor-show.

The Sunday parade and memorial service have always formed the most impressive part of the reunion, and again this year they find a prominent place in the weekend program. The Queen's Own Rifles bugle band of Toronto and the Peterborough Municipal Band will provide the music.

WEDDINGS

RAFFA—GERRIE

Tall standards, of calla lilies, ferns, seven-branched candelabra, and white gladioli formed a lovely background in Shelton College Chapel, New York City, on Saturday, Sept. 9, at 4 p.m. when Audrey Christine Gerrie, Reg.N., of Mount Sinai Hospital, N.Y., daughter of Mrs. W. H. Gerrie, of Belleville, Ont., and the late Mr. W. H. Gerrie, became the bride of Joseph Thomas Raffa, BSc., of Brooklyn, N.Y., son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Raffa, in a double-ring ceremony. The Rev. Proctor Davis, director of New York Gospel Mission to the Jews, officiated.

The wedding music was rendered by Miss Dorothy Grob at the console of the organ. Miss Betty Hudson, soloist, sang "Because", and Mr. Otto Samuel, violinist, rendered Handel's "Largo" and "Traumeri" before the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. William S. Gerrie, of Toronto, the bride was radiant in her bridal gown of white antique taffeta fashioned with molded bodice, long, tight-fitting sleeves ending in lily-points over the hands, Marie Antoinette collar and hooped skirt ending in a graceful train. Her fingertip veil of triple French tulle illusion fell from a matching poke bonnet. She carried a white, taffeta-covered Palestinian New Testament surmounted by a Bible bouquet of white stephanotis centred by a white orchid.

Miss Ferne Gerrie, of Belleville, and sister of the bride, was maid of honor, becomingly gowned in robin's-egg blue faille taffeta, fashioned on princess lines with sweetheart neckline, and short sleeves. She wore a three-tiered poked bonnet, the under-brim trimmed with tiny, pink rosebuds, and carried a Colonial bouquet of pink roses and blue cornflowers.

Miss Marilyn Roth, of Chattanooga, Tennessee; Miss Lorna McComb, of Toronto; Mrs. Romeo Maringola, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Karl Parshall, both of Brooklyn, N.Y., were bridesmaids. All wore gowns of fuchsia faille taffeta, matching poke bonnets with rosebuds trim, long, white, embroidered, gloves, and carried Colonial bouquets of red roses and blue cornflowers.

Her full-length veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a seed pearl headdress, and she carried a bouquet of red roses and baby's breath and wore the bridegroom's gift, rhinestone necklace with matching earrings.

Miss Bernice McGuinness, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, wearing a blue, brocaded satin gown with net overskirt, pink hat and mitts. Miss Helen McGuinness, also sister of the bride, wore yellow satin, featuring a nylon yoke, with mauve hat and matching mauve mitts. Little Helen Coffey, cousin of the bride, was flower girl, demure in her floor-length ruffled frock of mauve satin with yellow headdress and matching gloves. Queen Mary's Gift Thrills Sarah, 11

London. (CP)—Presentation to Queen Mary is an enviable honor, but for 11-year-old Sarah Winters it led to something which made the young girl very happy.

Sarah was presented to Queen Mary at a matinee of "The Family Honor", produced by her grandmother, Nancy Price, and starring her mother, Joan Maude. In the course of their conversation, Sarah told the Queen Mother about her collection of Victorian china and glass, on which she lavishes most of her pocket money.

Shortly afterwards, the girl was delighted to receive from Queen Mary, a gift of two cases of miniatures. They contained a trayful of tiny bottles and decanters, iridescent glass fish, a cloisonne box containing a pendant and miniature 'cello with a knife and a button-book inside.

With the gift was a letter addressed to Nancy Price, who was created a Companion of the Order of the British Empire in this year's birthday honor: It said:

"Queen Mary was much impressed by the acting of your charming daughter. She is glad to know that your granddaughter has started collecting at such an early age and has looked out a few things for her."

Sarah started her collection when she was only six.

A detailed list of the pieces was included, signed by Queen Mary.

Sarah regards it as valuable as the rest of the gift.

Records Development Of Obstetrical Care

Winnipeg, (CP) — Winnipeg General Hospital, in a brochure celebrating opening of its new maternity pavilion, recalls that its first maternity section more than 60 years ago had only 17 beds.

"In 1888 custom dictated that all women who could were delivered at home," writes Dr. Ross Mitchell, head of the hospital's honorary consultant staff.

"This left for a maternity hospital only four classes—unfortunate girls, the destitute, rural patients who had no friends with available homes in the city, and those whose labors were expected to be extra difficult or hazardous."

Today Winnipeg has seven maternity hospitals with 282 beds.

R.C.A.F. ON JOB

Twenty-nine of the 133 fliers who breached the Mohne Dam in Germany in the Second World War were members of the R.C.A.F.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking?

The idea of eating shoe leather as a main course for dinner isn't a strictly modern conception. Although this dish was vividly depicted in the movie The Gold Rush, records show that leather was also boiled by Magellan's sailors during a trying period aboard ship.

Mad food prices shouldn't give birth to mad food substitutes. There are many satisfying meat dishes that are easy on the budget if they appeal to your taste. The meat specialties like tongue, kidneys and liver never reach the fantastically high prices of roasts and chops.

Liver patties are liver hamburgers, rather highly seasoned, and pan fried until brown.

One pound of liver makes four generous portions for patties. If the liver is fresh, the meat mixture may be too soft to be shaped into cakes or patties. In that case, merely drop the mixture from a large spoon onto the frying pan. As the liver browns, it will become firm enough to hold its shape.

Serve bottled horseradish or cream horseradish sauce with browned liver patties.

Liver Patties—4 Servings

Remove the membrane and tubes if any, from 1 pound beef liver. Put liver through a meat grinder.

Chop fine 1-2 cup onion and 1-2 teaspoon garlic. Put onions and garlic in a saucepan with 1 tablespoon fat and simmer slowly until onion turns yellow.

Beat 1 egg slightly.

In a mixing bowl combine liver, onions, garlic and egg. Add 1-4 cup sifted bread crumbs, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper and 2 tablespoons chili sauce.

Melt fat to a depth of 1-4 inch in a large frying pan. Drop liver into pan with a large spoon to make cakes. Flatten with a spoon or spatula. Brown on both sides. Do not overcook.

To make horseradish sauce: Melt 2 tablespoons butter in a saucepan. Remove from flame. Mix in 2 tablespoons flour. Gradually add 1 cup hot milk. Return saucepan to a slow flame and simmer 5 minutes, stirring frequently. Add 1-4 cup prepared horseradish, 1-2 teaspoon dry mustard and 1-2 teaspoon salt or more to taste.

EXPORTS AT NEW PEAK

London, Sept. 21—(Reuters)—British exports touched a new monthly peak of £189,500,000 ($587,450,000) in August, the board of trade announced. This figure, for what is normally a poor month, represents a 10-per-cent rise above the average for the first seven months of 1950.

W.C.T.U. Meets

The Women's Christian Temperance Union held their regular meeting in the Y.M.C.A. building with Mrs. Farnsworth presiding.

Miss Clazie conducted the devotional exercises. She gave an inspiring talk on "Worry" and urged all followers of Christ to have faith.

Tribute was paid to the deceased members Mrs. Shortt, Mrs. Boyd and Mrs. Baker. Mrs. Farnsworth read parts from a letter from Dr. Herbert Baker expressing the appreciation of the family for letters of sympathy and kindnesses shown by their Belleville friends in their hour of sorrow. Among those attending Mrs. Baker's funeral at Woodstock were Dr. and Mrs. Baker, Miss Brown, Mrs. Farnsworth and Mrs. Lattimer.

Mrs. Gorsline, corresponding secretary gave her report and Miss Reeves, the treasurer gave the financial report showing a balance of $53.59 on hand.

As Mrs. Bennet was absent Mrs. MacFarlane gave chapter 7 entitled "Alcohol, a Protoplasmic Poison" from the study book and concluded with this statement which really gives a synopsis of the chapter, "Alcohol can kill a few, taint many, and produce a host of socially, morally, mentally and physically unfit persons, for which the rest of society is penalized."

Blood Test Urged

Mrs. Farnsworth then introduced the "Clip Sheet for October" "Why Not the Blood Test For Drivers Involved in Highway Accidents?".

May, 1950, established a black record of highway traffic accidents. In Ontario alone 64 persons, including 19 children were killed. Highway Minister George Doucett is appealing to all drivers to drive with care, courtesy and common sense.

Is drinking involved as a cause of accidents on the highway?

Dr. L. Joslyn Rogers, head of the Department of Analytical Chemistry at the University of Toronto and consultant to the Attorney General of Ontario declared at a Rotary Club luncheon that 45 per cent of all major accidents involve either a drunk driver or a drunken pedestrian.

How can it be known when a man who occasionally drinks but is an experienced driver is no longer safe on the road?

In 1932 Professor Widmark in Sweden published his experiences with the blood-alcohol test and since then the method has been used widely in many countries. In the test if the amount is 0.15 or over he is definitely under the influence of alcohol to such an extent as to make him unsafe as the driver of a motor vehicle.

Swedish Rate Low

In Sweden police have authority to use the blood-alcohol test at any time and the accident rate is now among the lowest in the world.

It is possible that Canada may witness a parliamentary debate on the question of blood tests for drunkenness, particularly in relation to driving. Mr. John Diefenbaker promises to introduce a bill designed to make such tests permissible and usable as evidence.

The offering was then received and hymn 78 was sung.

Girls Tell of Camp Life

Memo to HUNTERS...

Now is the time when all over Ontario sportsmen enjoy the thrills of hunting. In marshes, fields and forests, hunters make full use of our abundance of wild game.

Now, too, is the time to consider what this implies. If we think for a moment, we must realize that our supply of game is not inexhaustible. That's why we must observe the game regulations.

Game laws are designed to protect our sport—not to restrict it. If we all consider the importance of conservation at this season, and take only what we can use, we'll have better sport tomorrow.

Conserve today for tomorrow's holiday.

Serum Developed May Prove Effective in Treatment of Polio

Paris, Sept. 21—(AP) — The Pasteur Institute in Casablanca, French Morocco, has a serum with which it is hoped to prevent polio.

The director, 65-year-old Dr. Georges Blanc, told about it on a visit here. He has been running the Casablanca Institute for 20 years.

The serum, as he calls it, is to be used the same as a vaccine. It comes from experiments on 4,000 rabbits. Polio virus, the cause of infantile paralysis, was given to these rabbits. In their bodies it was modified.

The changes, Dr. Blanc says, made the serum safe for humans.

"At least," he said, "it doesn't hurt people. Now we have to find out whether it will help them."

For that Dr. Blanc says he would like to have a hundred monkeys. These animals are expensive and the institute hasn't that many.

The serum will not be tried on human beings directly, because doctors don't do things that way. The monkeys get exactly the same form of polio as humans, and tests of them will show well enough what can be done for people.

Ten monkeys were given the serum at Casablanca and then given what should be fatal doses of the polio virus. Five of the animals did not get polio.

This is a hopeful sign, Dr. Blanc says, but not conclusive. It is possible that the five might not have contracted polio anyhow, for reasons unknown.

But if he can get 20 to 30 monkeys protected out of 100, Dr. Blanc says, that will prove the serum is on the right track.

On Monday last the Kinnettes held their first 1950-51 meeting at St. Thomas, Parish Hall, under the direction of Kinnette Ruth Follwell in the absence of president, Helen Wilbur.

The treasurer's report was given and showed that $1200 had been raised and spent on community service work of the city.

One of the guests for the evening was Kinsman, president Murray Davis, who thanked the Kinnettes for their co-operation and assistance, also congratulating the 23 Kinnettes who had 100 per cent attendance for which they will receive the 100 per cent pin.

The other guest was immediate past president of the Kinsmen Club, Ernie Colebourne who officially installed the new officers for 1950-51. Song leaders for the evening were Bernice Lloyd and Eva Yanover and sergeant at arms, Gertrude Gourley.

N. Korean Colonel Surrenders Realizes 'Russia Engineered War For Benefit of Russia'

(By LIONEL HUDSON)

In Southwest Korea, Sept. 21. (Reuters)— Col. Lee Hak Ku, chief of staff of the North Korean 13th Division, walked into the American lines south of Tabudong today with his hands above his head.

Tabudong is 15 miles north of Taegu.

Lee told interpreters he had surrendered because he had "realized Russia had engineered this war for the benefit of Russia and not for Korea."

Handsome with a distinct Russian bearing, the 38-year-old prisoner speaks Russian and Japanese as well as his own language.

The highest ranking officer so far captured by United Nations forces in Korea, Lee told interpreters his divisional commander had gone back to camp headquarters for a conference and he had taken the opportunity to give himself up.

The colonel said he had been an ardent communist and still believed in communism. But communism was not working out as he thought it should. The application of the principle was not right, he said.

There was a feeling of defeat in the northern front line but optimism in the rear.

He thought it useless for the communists to continue the war as they were only facing extermination.

The 13th division, which American Intelligence officers consider one of the crack communists units, had terrific casualties as the result of American artillery and air strikes, he said.

Says Pigeons Used For Betting

Buenos Aires, Sept. 21. (Reuters)—An Italian woman who used four carrier pigeons for illegal betting transactions has been arrested here.

Police said 42-year-old Tosca Benedetti hit on the idea after being caught several times when carrying bets personally.

The pigeon scheme worked well until police, suspecting Tosca's business, kept special watch and saw the pigeons go regularly on their missions.

HEART STOPPED

Colchester, England, Sept. 21.—(Reuters)—A 69-year-old man's heart stopped beating for 17 minutes during an operation but started again and his breathing became almost normal, a doctor reported yesterday. The man died two days after the operation, Dr. John H. Dicon told a coroner's inquest.

Canadian Special Service Squadron On Way to Rosyth

Londonderry, Northern Ireland, Sept. 21—(CP) — The Canadian special service squadron, training with elements of the Royal Navy has completed a two-week course in submarine warfare and has left for Rosyth, Scotland.

The Canadian squadron is composed of the aircraft carrier Magnificent and the destroyers Huron and Micmac. It is under the command of Commodore K. F. Adams, commanding officer of the Magnificent.

"We have modernized our ideas and reaffirmed in our minds the great necessity for offensive tactics. While we have learned to respect the submarine as an enemy, we have learned even more facts relating to its limitations."

During the course, two Canadian navy fliers Lieut. Vincent J. Murphy of Nanaimo, B.C., and Lieut. G. W. Babbitt of Woodstock, Ont., were commended for contributions made during the exercises.

FRANCO CRITICAL

Madrid, Sept. 21. (AP)—United States policy toward Premier Tito of Yugoslavia shows the American people are "too simple and easily hoodwinked", Generalissimo Franco said yesterday. In a newspaper interview the Spanish leader criticized American aid to Yugoslavia while Spain is kept out of United Nations.

FREED OF CHARGES

Los Angeles, Sept. 21. (AP)—Orvie Cleghorn, a 270-pound wrestler and operatic student, yesterday was freed of charges of attempted rape against a 98-pound woman who claimed she stopped him with a few judo holds of her own. Miss Evalyn Sloann, 23, a Hollywood private detective, accused the self-styled "Pagliacci of the ring" of trying a few wrestling holds on her in a parked car.

Wins Pumpkin Contest at Fair By Close Margin

Roscoe Robson, M.L.A., Hastings East is still the "Pumpkin King of Ontario."

But he very nearly lost his crown in a two-way pie-filler battle at the Coe Hill Fair yesterday.

He won, but his challenger, Elmer Sandercock, M.L.A., Hastings West, gave him a close battle for the title.

The contest was the result of a challenge hurled at Mr. Robson by his parliamentary colleague early in the spring. Mr. Robson, is a well-known grower of pumpkins and has produced some fine specimens.

But that did not daunt Mr. Sandercock. He issued the challenge that he could grow a larger pumpkin than could Mr. Robson. The challenge was accepted, Mr. Sandercock planted what resulted in one vine in his city garden and nutured it through its brief span of life.

Mr. Robson, planted his usual acreage and was satisfied that his prize produce would walk off with the honors.

The two pumpkins were judged at the Coe Hill Fair yesterday by neutral officials, and Mr. Robson's exhibit won.

But as was said before, it was close. The margin victory was enough square inches to make a pumpkin tart, and fourteen seeds.

LIGHT ON LOVE AVENUE

Tampa, Fla., Sept. 21. (AP)—City officials have been asked to install a street light on Love Avenue. Residents complained it is used more for love than it is for an avenue.

Municipalities Asked to Consider Defence Program

Chatham, Sept. 21 — (CP) — Provincial Secretary Arthur Welsh urged municipalities Wednesday to consider the civil defence program recommended by his department.

Col. Welsh, who came here to open the Junior Chamber of Commerce industrial fair, addressed the Rotary Club.

Because of the deterioration of the international situation, there is grave danger, Col. Welsh said "our way of life is passing through a critical period. Whether we survive is something we do not know. We can at least do our part in seeing that democracy and Christianity, and the way of life on this continent, is not submerged by some other ideology."

Col. Welsh said that thinking people know that all parts of the North American continent are within range of Russian bombing planes, and they know of the danger of sabotage.

"We do not know how many atomic bombs Russia has, but we do know she has aircraft to deliver them to any part of this continent. We also realize that in Canada and the United States there are vital places which would be the targets of the bombers."

Many Vulnerable Areas

Col. Welsh said he could enumerate many vulnerable areas, but mentioned only one — the Soo locks. Through these go more marine traffic than the combined traffic of the Panama, Manchester Ship and Suez Canals

Targets such as these constitute the first danger. The second danger, he said, is the creation of panic among the population. The success of armed forces in modern war are depending on the support of the civilian population. It is not a question of the number of men engaged in conflict but the amount of equipment that can be produced, and the ability to use it.

Outlining the defence plan Col. Welsh mentioned the importance of the work of augmented fire and police departments, hospitals, and such organizations as the St. John Ambulance, Red Cross and various womens organizations

"We have enough ingenuity and faith in ourselves to meet these problems successfully," he said.

Application to Hold Dances Until 1 A.M. Refused in Bristol

Bristol, England, Sept. 21. — (Reuters)—Dr. W. Kenneth Wills, who is 77, and deaf, told a court here yesterday that dances at an inn 200 yards from his home here keeping him awake at night.

Wearing a hearing aid, Dr. Wills said he could not hear what was being said in court. But, he added, he could hear the dancers from his bedroom—"the place has peculiar acoustic properties".

The court refused an application from the inn to continue dances until 1 a.m., and ruled they must stop at 12:15.

CKWS Kingston Says 3rd Station Not Required

Vancouver, Sept 21 — (CP)—Application for one new amplitude modulation radio station was heard at Vancouver Wednesday by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's Board of Governors. Recommendations are expected to be announced by the board today.

R. S. Grant of Kingston, Ont., appeared on behalf of St. Lawrence Broadcasting Corporation, Ltd., which is seeking a licence for a 1,000-watt station at Kingston.

Jack M. Davidson, supervisor of radio station CKWS, opposed the application saying the Kingston area is adequately served by CKWS and CFRC, operated by Queen's University. He contended the Kingston area has not a sufficient potential of listening audience to support a third station.

Mr. Grant said the situation in Kingston is different to other areas of similar population as there is no competition from stations in other nearby Canadian cities. He also maintained that merchants and business men in the area which the new station would serve require an additional outlet for radio advertising. He said there also is need of an outlet for the CBC Dominion network in the area.

TOM GARD'S NOTE BOOK

"Let me live in a house by the side of the road
And be a friend to man."

Wonder how many follow this practice? I can't help thinking there would be a marked improvement in man's dealing with man if we all did. It would be equally hard to imagine people of this calibre living in houses that were not attractively landscaped. A few well chosen and artfully placed shrubs will work wonders in transforming the appearance of your property. Right now is the time to transplant them.

Wipe Your Feet

I suppose it is only human nature to put off until tomorrow what you don't feel like doing today! One job I have been avoiding in my own back yard must be done at once, if for no other reason than to keep the housekeeper happy. Invariably dirt tracks into the kitchen on my shoes after a session in the garden, even though I try to be careful. A shoe scraper at the back door is the answer and it will have to be installed before a visit to a marital relations board is involved. I plan to make mine out of an old hoe blade.

Indoor Gardening

Now that the thoughts of the gardener will soon be turning indoors, here are two ideas I'm working on. My picture windows do frame a picture in summer while the garden is in bloom but present a dreary sight at times during the garden's off season. By making a large fernery, I'll be able to enjoy an indoor garden all winter this year. The other ideas is one I dug out of a magazine recently. If you enjoy making miniature dish gardens try the idea illustrated for your container.

Record Cabinet

If you have an old piano that has finished its period of usefulness, don't scrap it but make a cabinet for records or books out of the frame. By using the old wood and giving it a new finish you'll be surprised at the attractive case that can be made at reasonable cost.

Smiths Falls Now Game up On Brockville

Brockville, Sept. 21. (CP)—Smiths Falls Royals climbed back into contention for the Central Ontario Baseball League crown as they blasted Brockville Memos 8-3 Wednesday night behind the six-hit hurling of Bill Kasepchuk. The Royals now lead the best of seven series 3-2.

Getting to "Smokey" Smith for two runs in the first frame, the Smiths Falls squad never let up. They chased Smith in the fourth after four more runs and collected two more off Bill Aldrich before the game was called at the end of eight.

Kasepchuck gave up six hits while fanning three and walking one. Smith was touched for six runs and seven hits in 3 1-3 while passing two and striking out two. Aldrich gave up two runs on seven hits and three walks while whiffing five.

Joe Levandoski of Brockville, hit the only homer in the sixth with none on. Bob Turner of Brockville slammed a triple in the eighth and Kasepchuck banged a double in the third for the only other extra-base hit.

Ethan Arnold with four for six and A. Kelleher with three for five were the best Smiths Falls batters, while Levandoski with two for four was Brockville's top.

Avon Defeats Bakelite 6-3 To Even Series

In a typical "B" Section semifinals playoff battle, the Avon Jewellers tied their semi-final series with the Bakelite squad at Alemite Field last evening defeating them 6-3. The third game o' the series will be played on Alemite Field Friday evening starting at 5.30.

The winners of this series will meet the Bateman Motors which have automatically become finali.'s through the withdrawal of the Belleville Motors squad.

Although eight errors, four each were charged against the squads the game developed into a close battle after the second innings. But by that time the damage was done since Avons scored two in the first and the clinchers, four of them in the second innings. After that they were held scoreless, and to three hits by Burtch who went the route on the mound for the losers. He struck out three and walked four.

Aids Own Cause

"Yank" McBride toiled over the nine innings route for the Jewellers, giving up six, hits striking out two and issuing one walk. He aided his own cause when he smashed out a triple in the second to drive in two runs. He added a single for good measure in the first.

Bakelite took a two-run lead in the first innings when Avon errors gave them a brace of tallies for no hits. They added another in the seventh when "Pied Piper" Peaver walked and raced home on Butch's hit.

B. McTaggart, Ethier, Connell and McTaggart got the remaining four clouts for the winners with Cousins, getting a double, Powers two singles, Burtch, Cook and Littlejohn accounting for the rest. The teams:

Bakelite: Littlejohn, 3b; Arnott, 2b; R. Burley, ss; Cousins, c; Cook, lf; Lawn, rf; Peaver, cf; Burtch, p., Stewart.

Avon: McTaggart, lf; Cowan, c; Connell, cf; McBride, p; B. McTaggart, 3b; Miller, rf; Bellis, 1b; Reid, 2b; Ford, ss.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Sept. 21 — (AP) — One question currently intriguing some baseball experts: is Jimmie Dykes, who isn't in a too comfortable spot with the Athletics, the No. 1 candidate on Cleveland's list of prospects to replace Lou Boudreau next season? . . . And, while we're asking, who the heck has fired Boudreau already? . . . Now that the Dodgers have hung out the "wait till next year" sign, the fans have begun whooping it up for Tommy Brown, who has been around since 1945 trying to earn a regular job.

BLACK CATS

Teen-agers are disturbed this week according to the letters we have received. Here are the questions and our best advice in the answers:

FIRST DANCE: "I'm fifteen and taking a girl to a dance for the first time. How much money will I require to do the thing properly?"

It depends on the girl, the dance and the state of your finances. Girls definitely do not require a taxi cab and a corsage for week-end dances. However you do need the tickets, street car fare, a dollar for a coke and a sandwich. That's about all. Don't start spoiling the girls. All it gets you is a headache.

NON-SHAVER: "I'm a boy who has yet to shave for the first time. Is it necessary for me to use after shave lotion? Will it stimulate the growth of a beard? I want to start using a razor."

After-shave lotion certainly makes your face feel better whether you shave or not. But even the best lotion (even Tamblyn's) won't make that beard come along faster. Just relax and let nature take its course.

BABY SITTING: "I want to add to my income this year by baby sitting. Some folks tell me young parents would rather have a boy. Others tell me that mothers prefer a girl. I do need the money, what should I charge?"

You're right. Plenty of parents feel safer with a boy in the house when they step out for the night. If you made it known throughout your neighborhood that you were available for baby-sitting, I'm sure you would have no difficulty getting clients. The charge? It varies from 35c an hour to 50c an hour for expert service (expert service means being able to change the baby and give him his bottle). Good luck!

HAIL THE CHAMPS!

The mythical pennant of the South Hastings Baseball League floats proudly today over the equally mythical City Hall of Latta. For the first time in eight years, the good folk of Latta and district have all the reason in the world to "crow" over their baseball team. "Doc" Empson and his doughty lads captured the gonfalon last night at Exhibition Park when they humbled the Cannifton team 17-12 in the seventh and deciding game of the finals series.

For over two and one half hours over 1100 cheering, howling supporters of both teams stood, sat or danced while the fate of their teams was being decided in the wide-open, rip-roaring game being played in front of them. And when it was all over, bedlam broke loose.

* * *

No sooner had the final out been scored than the fans poured out on the diamond. They surrounded the Latta team, hugged, kissed, back-slapped and shook their hands. Then they started congratulating themselves in the exuberance of the moment. Fine sportsmen that the Cannifton people are, they, too, came down from their seats and many congratulated the winners. The players lifted Glass, the finishing pitcher for Latta shoulder high. Somebody yelled for "Doc" Empson. They hoisted him in the air and carried him around.

Then while cheers rang out, the handsome Tummon Cup, emblematic of the league championship came out of nowhere and was presented to Manager Empson of the victorious team. A lot of the loyal Cannifton fans filed slowly out of the stands. They had lost the bauble but they were not disgraced.

WELL, IT WON'T HURT 'EM

Tommy Schreider, defenceman of the Diesels Electrics Senior "B" hockey team last year left yesterday for Stratford where he is trying out with the Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League. Tommy received a hurry-up phone call from the Barons' management and he took off pronto. Also trying out with the Cleveland team is one Joe Nolan, who cavorted on the ice here last winter in a Diesels-Electric uniform. "Mayor" Tripp, former goalie with the Rockets is also breathing Stratford air in a Barons outfit.

AND SO ON INTO WINTER!

Playdowns for the senior baseball championship of Ontario will start the first week in October. The intercounty winners will play the Niagara District League winners and Toronto will tackle the Central Ontario loop representatives, Smiths Falls or Brockville.

W. J. Snyder, secretary of the O. B. A. said today that owing to the heavy rains of last week the Association was forced to grant all four leagues one week extension until the end of September.

When Fred Atkins, the hard-rock Australian matman, teams up with Leering Lee Henning, the crunching Iowa corn-husker, in the main wrestling event at the Memorial Arena on Friday night, it will be just about as awesome a mat alliance as could be formed.

They will meet the high-geared, impressive team of Whipper Billy Watson, the talented Toronto wrestler and leading title contender, and Timothy Geohagen, the powerful Irish sensation.

Atkins by himself is as mean, rough and granite-like a grappler ever to snarl under the Arena spotlights. Henning by himself is a punishing, smashing ring - mixer of outstanding ferocity and effectiveness. Together they make a good bid to be the most fearsome twosome ever to combine forces.

While Atkins and Henning are a strikingly damaging duo, they'll be in against a pair of high-flyers in Watson and Geohagen, two of the most popular and most effective ringsters in the sport today.

DOTS AND FLASHES . . .

Avon Jewellers of the "B" Section Commercial Softball League evened the best of three-of-five semi-finals series last night at Alemite Park, defeating the Bakelite squad 6-3 in a well-fought game . Third game of the series will be played Friday evening, Alemite Field, 5:30 . . . Howe and Hagerman are confident they can take the measure of the Stewart Warner this evening at the Alemite field in the fifth and deciding game of their series . . Rog Mallory is back with the How and Hags, and he should give them some added strength . . . Stewarners are determined to cop the nod, so it should be a real pastime . . . First fixture of the Knife and Fork League gets under way at 7 this evening at Golden Acres where the Belleville Cubs management is entertaining the players at a chicken dinner and "fun" . . . Exceptionally nice gesture on the part of the exec. which had to dip down several times in its personal pockets to meet expenses during the playing season . . . You can't beat that kind of sportsmanship . . . Rumors along Hockey Row have it that we'll ice a senior "B" team this season, and a better, much better Junior "B" squad than that of a year ago . . . Leagues playing twilight games, should remember that Daylight Saving gets the gate on Sept. 30 . . .

Latta Wins South Hastings Baseball Title And Trophy, Defeats Cannifton by 17-12

It is all over with the exception of the cracker-barrel and winter evening replays.

The Latta team, for the first time in eight long years, won the championship of the South Hastings Baseball League, and the Tummon Cup which goes with it, last night in Exhibition Park.

Over 1100 cheering fans, which packed the grandstand and bleachers to capacity, saw the victors surge from a 7-all tie to defeat the Cannifton squad 17-12 in the seventh game of their finals series.

Exciting Series

The victory and championship climaxed a hectic series that saw first one team victorious, then the other. As the series progressed, interest and tension mounted, and last night's game saw the proverbial "lid blown off" by a loyal Latta populace when its team came through with ultimate victory.

They poured out of the stands on the playing field and nearly mobbed the players. Pitcher and manager were hoisted shoulder high and carried around the diamond. When the Tummon Trophy appeared it was the signal for another vociferous outburst. Players and fans surged around Manager "Doc" Empson when the bauble was presented to him. Players and officials of the Cannifton team congratulated their conquerors in true sportsmanlike spirit.

Another Wide-open Tilt

The game was a repetition of that wide-open wild and woolly type of baseball that characterized the sixth game here on Monday night which the Lattawans took by a 19-15 score.

Twenty-nine pairs of spikes and running shoes clattered across the plate during the nine innings battle. Twenty-eight hits, including seven triples and four two-baggers were lashed out into the wild blue yonder, and just to show the cheering stands that they knew more of the baseball answers, the boys kicked the ball around no less than 14 times, with nine of the miscues being charged to the victors.

Use Six Hurlers

. Both sides used their entire stock of hurlers. Latta tossed three chuckers into the fray with Cannifton doing a similar job. Manager "Doc" Empson, however, took no chances with his pitchers "blowing". One hit and a walk meant showers for any Latta chucker. Manager John Laurenson, however, appeared satisfied to let his flingers pitch their way out of any self-incurred holes, and perhaps therein lay part of the Cannifton defeat.

Twice the pastime was tied, with each team coming from behind to even the score. Cannifton scored singles in the first and third off three hits and three errors and held a 2-0 lead going into the fourth. Then the Latta bats exploded, and the mortagges and taxes in the stands were forgotten. Four hits, two errors, a walk and a hit by pitcher sent five Lattawans scurrying across the plate while the roar of the faithful could be heard downtown.

Cannifton gave their supporters something to cheer about in the top of the fifth. Sheffields double and a walk sent starting Latta pitcher Joe Marsh, overalls and all, to the showers. Lefty Hall came into the breach and a brace of errors and Oliver's single sent three runners home to tie the score.

Nip and Tuck

Latta again took the lead in the fifth scoring twice off singles by Sullivan and McWilliams and big Mase Rigby's slashing triple along the third base foul-line. Two Cannifton errors aided in the cause.

But the Laurenson crew came right back to tie the count at seven-all. Hall struck out Harder and Cook in a row and walked Sheffield. Laurenson drew a free ticket to first to put two on and Jarrell smote a mighty three-bagger into deep right field close to the line.

It was all tied up until the eighth when the Latta bats again exploded into a barrage of hits that scored six runs to make the score 13-7. But the Cannifton team roared right back into the picture with four runs off two hits and three Latta errors to come within striking distance. But Latta clinched the game and title with another four-run outburst in the ninth while the best Cannifton could do was a single tally.

Joe Marsh allowed four runs for as many hits in four innings for Latta. Hall was touched for six hits for seven runs and Glass yielded one run and one hit in one innings.

For Cannifton Bradden started and yielded seven runs, seven hits in four innings. Jarrell gave up six hits for six runs in four and Oliver was charged with four for four in one innings.

Laurenson led the hit parade for Cannifton with two triples and two singles. Oliver hit a triple and single and Jarrell a triple. For Latta, Sullivan smote two triples and a single. McCreary hit a double and two singles Rigby got a three-bagger and Hazard a double and a single.

Armstrong Gets Break by Ezinicki Not Reporting

(By The Canadian Press)

Maybe it's a break for rookie George Armstrong, this absence of thumping Bill Ezinicki from St. Catharines hockey training camp of Toronto Maple Leafs.

The shift of lines brought about by Ezinicki's failure to report when the camp opened Monday shuffled Armstrong, 20-year-old husky from Skead in Ontario's Sudbury district, into a right-wing slot beside Ted Kennedy, Toronto's captain and ace centre.

Armstrong, a sensation in the Allan Cup playoffs with Toronto Marlboros last season, has fitted right in with Kennedy and left-winger Sid Smith.

Another result of the Ezinicki affair is that Howie Meeker has moved from the Kennedy line to the thumping right winger's regular spot with central Cal Gardner and leftwinger Harry Watson and this threesome looks hot.

In the Ezinicki case, the next move now seems up to Bill himself.

He sent a telegram Wednesday manager of the Leafs, reporting: "Not feeling up to standard. Want to stay home."

Conny Smythe, Leafs managing director, said the thing for Ezinicki to do is to have an examination by the Leafs doctors.

"We have the best medical staff there is," he said. "They'll find out what's wrong and will give him the treatment he needs. But if they find nothing the matter, he'll get the same treatment as if he worked for any other firm and went out and played golf for a week when he was given a job to do."

Smythe spiked reports that Ezinicki has been on the trading block. "He hasn't been offered to anyone. He hasn't been discussed in a deal or trade of any kind."

The British Women's Curtis Cup team scored an 8-2 victory over the Canadian Ladies' Golf Union team at Toronto Wednesday, making a clean sweep of three doubles matches and copping five of the seven singles tests.

Ada Mackenzie of Toronto and Mrs. Graeme Pyke of Montreal were the only Canadian winners.

Jean Bisgood of Bournemouth, with a two-under-par 37 for the first nine, paced the Britons in the singles. She defeated Mrs. N. J. Carlson of Toronto, 4 and 3, and finished one over par for the 15 holes.

Miss Bisgood teamed with Philomena Garvey of Dublin in the doubles to score a 4-and-3 win over Miss Mackenzie and Anne Sharpe of Welland, Ont.

They applied the stethoscope to Joe Louis Wednesday and declared the former champion in his "best fighting shape since the war."

The official medical examination, conducted by Dr. Vincent Nardiello of the New York State Athletic Commission, was the next to last before the Brown Bomber meets Ezzard Charles at Yankee Stadium next Wednesday night for the heavyweight championship.

"Joe has a slight head cold but it's nothing to get excited about," said Nardiello, "No fever, no redness of the throat. Should be gone in 24 hours.

"Joe has a cold before every big fight," added Mannie Seamon, the bomber's long-time trainer.

. Nardiello, who has been tapping the ribs of Louis and other fighters for 19 years, said the 36-year-old "unretired" champion was in his best physical and mental shape since 1942.

"He weighs 218, just about two pounds over what he hopes to hit when he goes into the ring," Nardiello said.

"His waist, which was 36 inches is down to 33. He's hard as a rock."

After the examination, Louis relaxed on the training table and answered the usual questions.

"I feel fine, much better than I did for both Walcott fights," he said.

"I don't think it'll go far—I'll get Charles or he'll get me.

Hill Prince just about locked up the 1950 three-year-old championship and threw the key away Wednesday when he soundly whipped 12 sophomore rivals in the $24,400 Jerome handicap.

King Ranch's Middleground, hero of the Kentucky Derby and Belmont Stakes, never showed in contention and struggled home 10th.

Final Chapter of American League Pennant Race Opens With Winner Anybody's Guess

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The final chapter of the American League pennant race opens today, and the solution is anybody's guess.

Of the three contenders, the second-place Detroit Tigers appear to be in the best position to take charge.

The Tigers play single games today and tomorrow, while the league-leading New York Yankees and the third-place Boston Red Cox are idle. Victories in both of these games would put the Tigers in first place.

In addition, the Tigers have another advantage as four of the Red Sox' and Yanks' 10 remaining games are against each other. They start to knock each other off in the Yankee Stadium Saturday while the Tigers are in Cleveland.

The Tigers entertain Philadelphia Athletics today, with Freddie Hutchinson pitching against little Bobby Shantz. A victory would shove the Bengals into a first place tie with New York. The Tigers then move to Cleveland, where they take on the Indians in the opener of a three-game series tomorrow night.

Here's the picture at a glance:

	W	L	Pct.	GB	GL
New York	91	53	.632	—	10
Detroit	90	53	.627	½	11
Boston	89	55	.618	2	10

Detroit kept close on the heels of the Yanks yesterday by nosing out the Athletics 6-5. The New Yorkers turned back Chicago White Sox 8-1. The Red Sox, however, suffered a severe jolt as they dropped a doubleheader to Cleveland Indians, 6-3, and 7-1.

Had Rough Time

The Tigers had a rough time before the A's succumbed. The Mackmen piled up a 5-1 lead at the expense of Dizzy Trout in the first five innings, but the Tigers struck back. They won the game with a two-run splurge in the eighth against Bob Hooper. Charley Keller started things with a one-out single. He moved to second on a wild pitch and scored the tying run when Ferris Fain threw Hoot Evers' grounder wild past third. Evers reached second o nthe miscue and scored the winning run on Don Kolloway's third single of the game.

Ed Ford, 21-year-old rookie lefthander, stopped the White Sox on three hits in hanging up his eighth victory without a loss for the Yankees. The victors clubbed Ray Scarborough and two relief pitchers for 11 hits.

Bob Lemon and Early Wynn cooled off the Red Sox, who had won 27 of their previous 32 games. Lemon scattered seven hits in bagging his 21st victory in the opener. Wynn allowed only five in posting his 17th triumph in the finale.

Washington Senators swamped St. Louis Browns 12-7 in the lone American League night game. Irv Noren led the victors by driving in five runs on a homer and double.

Phillies Move Close

Philadelphia Phillies, meanwhile, moved a step closer toward winning the National League pennant. The Phils defeated Chicago Cubs 9-6, to pull 7½ games ahead of Boston Braves and Brooklyn Dodgers. The Braves dropped into a second-place tie with the Dodgers by losing a 1-0 night game to St. Louis Cardinals. The Dodgers dumped Pittsburgh Pirates 7-2.

Two home runs by Mike Goliat and another neat relief stint by old reliable Jim Konstanty featured the Phillies' victory. Goliat's second homer came with two on in the eighth inning and won the game. Konstanty, who came to the relief of Russ Meyer in the sixth, picked up his 16th victory.

Carl Erskine held the Pirates to five hits, including a two-run homer by Ralph Kiner, to square his record at 5-5. Kiner's four-base blow was his 46th.

Cloyd Boyer, bothered by a sore arm, blanked the Braves on four hits. Peanuts Lowry singled home the only run in the eighth inning. Vern Bickford, gunning for his 20th victory, was the loser.

Cincinnati Reds turned back the New York Giants twice, 4-1 and 2-0. Ewell Blackwell stopped the Giants on four hits in the opener and Ken Raffensberger on six in the finale.

Remember When

(By The Canadian Press)

Dizzy Dean, lanky pitcher with Houston, Texas, was recalled to the St. Louis Cardinals 19 years ago today. The gabby right-hander, now broadcasting home games of the New York Yankees, was sold to Chicago Cubs in 1938 for $185,000 cash and two players.

Ogdensburg Goes 2 Games Ahead Of Nationals

Ottawa, Sept. 21. (CP)—Ogdensburg's Art Cook bore down with a two-hitter at Lansdowne Park Wednesday night to shut out Ottawa Nationals 3-0 as the Maples took a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven Border Baseball series final.

Some 3,000 shivering fans watched the mound duel, in which Don Bryant, Nats' star pitcher, struck out 11 of the visitors.

Ogdensburg went into an early lead with two runs in the first inning. John Sosh singled and Howe Weeks walked and the bases were loaded when Ollie Kollevol was hit by a pitched ball.

A walk scored the first run, and Joe Comacho's freak single off Bryant's leg brought home the second run.

In the eighth, it was Cook's single which brought in the final run.

Waterloo Tigers Well on Way To Win Title

(By The Canadian Press)

Waterloo Tigers have a big lead in the finals for championship of the Intercounty Baseball League.

And St. Catharines Stags are within a game of winning the Niagara District Senior League.

Waterloo blasted Brantford Red Sox 6-2 Wednesday night to take a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven final series. They did it on the seven-hit pitching of Al Dumouchelle. They also cashed in on seven Brantford errors.

They shelled Billy Gibbs for 12 hits. Five of the hits and three errors came in the first inning when Waterloo poured in three runs. Two more errors in the fifth gave them another run and a wild pitch in the eighth added one more.

St. Catharines beat Welland Stokes 4-2 and took a 3-1 lead in their best-of-seven series. Ricky Kosko, 19-year-old Stags hurler, held Welland to seven hits while Stags collected 10 from Danny Patakfalvi.

Pollick collected three hits for Stags while Hicks had two safeties, and drove in two runs.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Sept. 21 (AP)—Burt Lancaster has cast aside his gat and his slouch hat for a javelin and a sweat shirt.

The former film mobster has gone on a sports jag and is getting himself the rep of being Hollywood's No. 1 athlete. Lancaster's prowess was hidden under his tough-guy roles until a couple of years ago. He did his old circus act at the gala opening of Barnum and Bailey-Ringling Brothers circus here and amazed the town.

Then he defied tradition and performed his own stunts in "The Flame and the Arrow," leaping about the scenery like a mountain goat. Now he is enacting the famed Indian athlete in "Jim Thorpe, All-American" and doing stuff that would give the average actor a bundle of charley-horses.

New Facet

"It has opened a whole new facet of my career," Lancaster commented. "Before, I was usually the guy whose wife had run out on him or who got into trouble with the cops or something.

"I wanted to do the sports scenes myself. Think it lends more authenticity to a picture. I had to learn most of the things from scratch, since I never did much track or football as a kid.

Lancaster even delayed the start of the picture so he could get in shape for the athletics.

"I caught on quickly" he admitted. "All they had to do was show me how once and then I could do it. My training in gymnastics helped me do that.

The picture will show Thorpe as an Indian kid raised on a reservation with a distrust for the white man. He rises to sports fame and scores the amazing feat on winning both the decathlon and pentathlon in the 1912 Olympic games. But then his honors are snatched from him when it is discovered he once played baseball for pay thus altering his amateur status.

AT THE BELLE

Farley Granger in "They Live By Night" and "The Golden Twenties"

Romance and suspense are artfully blended in the arresting drama "They Live by Night", RKO Radio's stirring vehicle for Farley Granger, Cathy O'Donnell and Howard deSylvia, one of two features showing today on the Belle Theatre screen.

Rich in its sympathy for a pair of youngsters who got off to a wrong start, "They Live by Night" is a highly compelling piece of screen fare, and deals understandingly with the troubled romance of a youth and an underprivileged lass, both of whom are drawn into a career of crime by two exconvicts who dominate their fate.

"Golden Twenties", 2nd Feature

Highlighting America's jazz age by actual films seen in the period, "The Golden Twenties" is the title of a seventy minute entertainment presenting outstanding events, noted personalities, amusing incidents, typical customs and manners and typical fashions, in both dress and undress, as well as the march of political events, in that period lying between the end of the First World War and the beginning of a great depression.

To the middle-aged-and-beyond of our present day population these personalities, sights and sounds will come with a nostalgic mirroring of days long past. To the younger and far greater segment of our citizenry they will present amusing, astonishing, at times eye-opening and incredible evidence of a not-far-distant past on which our present day life is based. There is food for thought in the picture.

Warner-Pathe News will be presented with two foregoing features at the Belle Theatre today.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was smoking to make himself comfortable and I said, Hay pop, is it hard to make artificial flowers?

Well, it's still more difficult to make real flowers, pop said. The biggest man cant do as well as the smallest seed, he said, and I said, But jimminies, pop, paper flowers ought to be easy if you had the tools.

Well yes, if you had the experience, pop said, and I said, Well anyways, pop, the tools have to come ferst, or elts you wouldn't have anything to practice the experience on. And I know where I can get the tools just by tearing a coupon out of The Boy's Frend Magazine and writing my name and address on it. The Universal Novelty Company will send me a compleet set of tools werth 2 dollers, and after that they'll pay me 10 cents apiece for all the paper crissanthemums I can make, I said.

You meen they'll send you the tools after you've sent them the 2 dollers, pop said and I said, No sir, that's the bewty part of it, they dont want me to send them a cent. All they want is 2 dollers everybody's got a lot of old stamps around the house, I said.

The Universal Novelty Company doesn't want old stamps, pop said. They want young stamps and a stamp is young as long as it doesn't show the wrinkles of cancellation, he said, and I said, But gosh, pop, I mean G. just think of what a cinchy way it would be for me to make money at home on rainy days, instead of catching a cold out in the wet.

We'll reopen the subject after you've saved up enough money to buy 8 dollers werth of young stamps, pop said.

Sounding like a long ways off.

Here's Good Advice For All Stomach Sufferers

Thousands of people tell of relief obtained by taking Syntona. Hamilton man troubled 2 years — gas, indigestion, heartburn, sour stomach — tells how it helped him.

To any person suffering from common stomach disorders including gas, gassy pains in stomach, heartburn, sour acidity after meals and associated symptoms such as poor appetite, nervous irritability, and fatigued, rundown condition, here is sound, sensible advice. Thousands of men and women suffering similarly have found quick, lasting relief by taking a short treatment of Syntona Herbal Compound.

Here is the experience of Mr. Earl Wilson, 32 Magill Street, Hamilton, Ontario, who said recently:

For two years I suffered with indigestion, gas, sour stomach and heartburn after my meals. I would get headaches, had no appetite, and couldn't sleep well at night.

"In trying to get rid of this condition I took several treatments and even went to Toronto tryin gto get help, but nothing seemed to do me any good. So recently I just thought I would give Syntona a trial and am sure pleased with the results. This is actually the first thing that has helped my stomach and now I am free of gas, heartburn and sourness, can eat better, sleep soundly at night and am free of headaches. I certainly think Syntona is a good medicine and I am glad to recommend it to others."

You, too, may find this Pure Herbal Medicine to be just what you need to help you. Why not try a bottle today?

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville at DOLAN THE DRUGGIST.

Blood on the Stars

By Brett Halliday

"Lucy's. . . she cooked dinner here, as I told you. And Tim Rourke's. No one else has been here the last few days except the maid who cleaned thoroughly yesterday."

The sergeant nodded thoughtfully. "Sure you're not leaving anything out, Mike? Sure you didnot know she'd be waiting for you like that when you got here?"

"Slugged?" Shayne's tone was outraged. "You think I knew she was lying in there slugged and didn't call the doctor for half an hour?"

"Don't get sore, Mike, I'm figuring all the angles. Seems funny your horsing around in here with Rourke when maybe calling the doc earlier would have. . ."

Shayne got to his feet slowly, his big hands flexed. "Go on. Say it out loud, you liver-hearted rat."

"What the sarge means", said Richardson, "is that you must've knows she wasn't in good shape or you'd have been in there a lot faster."

Shayne whirled on the fingerprint man, but Harvey's voice brought him back to a sense of proportion. "Don't be like a kid, Shayne. You've ribbed enough other guys in your time to take a little of it yourself."

"One more crack about my secretary and I'll tear you limb from limb," Shayne growled.

"You got to admit that lump on your jaw isn't more than a few hours old,". Sergeant Harvey said. "You're not levelling with us, Mike."

Shayne stood very still and his hands slowly unclenched. "Yeh," he muttered. "I know the whole thing sounds screwy. But I gave you the story straight." He sank back and lit a cigarette.

Since finding Lucy on the bed slugged, he had wholly forgot his own disfigurement. Now he realized how things must look to the police."

"I got tight over on the Beach," Shayne resumed, "and rammed a concert culvert on Delaware Road about midnight and got this. You can check with a Beach cop named Rawson. He found me passed out under the wheel, and my car's in the hotel garage banged up right now."

"What're you working on now?" Harvey asked.

"I'm not. I haven't decided whether to settle down in Miami again or not. I'm sort of on vacation."

"For a guy who's on vacation," said the homicide man who stood beside the sergeant, you've been sticking your nose into plenty of stuff the last few months. There was that deal Rourke was mixed in, and then the two stiffs in the Bay, and then just last week the Deland kidnap mess. And I heard down at headquarters that Painter was pulling you in tonight on the jewel theft at the Sunlux."

"He'd like to tie me in on that", Shayne snorted.

LIFE FOR

In the way of recreation there is swimming, softball, tennis and basketball. Inter - ship competitions are keen and there are movies on board ship and at the theatre in the American post exchange building ashore where admission to a first-run Hollywood production is 20 cents.

At sea the destroyers operate blacked out and the ventilating and cooling systems have had a hard time keeping pace. The protective anti-flash clothing makes upper deck work a little warm for some members of the ships' companies.

The Canadians have wasted no time in adjusting themselves to local conditions. It's not uncommon to see a white-clad sailor from Alberta or British Columbia riding with mock majesty in a rickshaw; awkwardly manipulating a pair of chop sticks over a bowl of rice in a restaurant or sitting on the floor in a home enjoying a cup of tea with Japanese host.

And when the Canadians go visiting, they leave their heavy navy-issue shoes at the door, in compliance with Japanese custom.

In this lovely natural harbor are units of the American, British, Canadian, Australian, New Zealand, French and Dutch navies. The language barrier presents no problems to the resourceful sailors who make themselves understood with an amusing collection of gestures, facial expressions and pidgin talk.

BIG PAYOFF

Toledo, O., Sept. 21. (AP) — A breath-taking payoff of $449.50, largest in raceway history records, enlivened last night's harness events at Fort Miami raceway. The history-making long shot, Joe Jester, a five-year-old chestnut horse owned by Mrs. Glynn Trolz of Jackson, Mich., took the second half of the night's classified pace at a mile and one-sixteenth, in a photo finish.

Rural Operators Given Change in Dimes and Nickels

Lewiston, Me., Sept. 21 (AP)—Lewiston-Auburn filling station operators have given a new twist to gas-war techniques.

A score or more of "customers" drove into Austin Ellis' filling station yesterday. Each ordered a gallon of gas and paid with $20 bills.

Ellis said most of them were rival operators and that he had been tipped they had been coming. So he had the change all ready—all in dimes and nickels.

FORGOT HER NIGHTIE

Copenhagen, Denmark, Sept. 21 (Reuters)—A fashion-show model stepped onto the stage here last night, smiled at the audience of buyers and gaily pulled open her housecoat to display the nightie under it.

Pandemonium broke loose. The audience stood up, stamped and cheered.

Puzzled, the attractive model looked down—grabbed her housecoat around her and ran off the stage.

She had forgotten to put on the nightie.

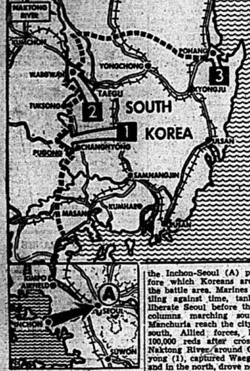
NUTCRACKER STRATEGY SUCCESSFUL



U. S. marines have advanced supported by Allied air power, in the Inchon-Seoul (A) push, before which Koreans are fleeing the battle area. Left Wing of British Labor Party Wants Election Soon

London, Sept. 22—(AP)—The left wing of the Labor party began campaigning out loud today for a new national election within the next few weeks.

The Socialist Weekly Tribune called on rank and file Labor members to rebel against Prime Minister Attlee and support this course at the annual party conference starting Oct. 2 at Margate.

The Tribune reflects the views of Health Minister Aneurin Bevan and his strong following in the party. His wife, Jennie Lee, is a member of its editorial board.

The demand for a quick election brought into the open a split in Attlee's cabinet. Attlee is known to favor postponing the appeal to the voters, perhaps until next February.

The Labor government now has an effective majority of only seven votes in the House of Commons.

The Tribune insisted: "There is only one decisive way in which the deadlock can be broken. That is by a new appeal to the polls."

The weekly said that in a new election "it might be perfectly possible to secure a majority of some 60 or 70." It added:

"That prize, if it could be gained, could alter the whole situation at home and abroad.

"It could give the government the power to ensure that socialist principles were applied in sharing any new burdens that this country must carry.

"More important still, it would enormously strengthen the labor government's authority in foreign affairs."

Nights in Jail Days at Work Plan Studied

Guelph, Sept. 22. (CP)—Reforms Minister Hamilton of Ontario said in an interview today that his department was studying the possibilitiese of a plan which might permit certain types of convicted persons to work at their own occupations during the day and spend nights and weekends in county jails.

Stressing that the matter was still under study, he said that the plan would only apply to persons such as habitual drunks and some petty offenders.

The plan proposes to relieve some of the expense incurred by municipalities where the families of habitual offenders fall back on municipal welfare for support.

Mr. Hamilton said if the scheme is put into effect it would mean the offender would be able to work at his regular employment during the day with his wages being turned over to the support of his family. At night he would return to jail.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Sept. 22 (CP)—Synopsis: The rain - producing disturbance south of Lake Erie continues to pursue a more southeasterly course. Thus it appears the lower lakes regions will escape the wetting which was previously anticipated for today. Instead variable cloudiness will prevail and temperatures will climb to the mid-60s.

A storm over Hudson Bay will govern the weather of Northern Ontario. As the storm races eastward showery weather will cross the northern regions to be followed by clearing and much cooler air tonight.

This air will gradually move southward and clear up the southern forecast regions by early

Two U.S. Thunderjet Fighters on Way For 3,600-Mile Non-Stop Flight

Washington, Sept. 22 — (AP)— Two U.S. Air Force F-84 Thunderjet fighters took off from Manston Airbase, England, at 9:01 a.m. EDT today in a second attempt to fly 3,600 miles non-stop to New York.

The two single-engine planes,

The flight, if successful, would be the first non-stop jet plane crossing of the Atlantic, the longest single-engine jet flight and the fastest London-New York trip ever made.

The trip was set up to demonstrate progress in refuelling-in-flight technique for jet fighters.

The two planes took off Tuesday in a first attempt but had to cancel the flight over Prestwick because of trouble with one of the refuelling planes.

WEST AND EAST POWERS RELEASE POLICE HOSTAGES

Another Grim Incident In Cold-War Ends

Berlin, Sept. 22 (AP) — The latest round of Berlin's grim "tit-for-tat" cold-war game ended today with the release of 53 east German policemen held by the west and 25 west Germans held by the east.

The western authorities released 47 east German police hostages this morning and later in the day freed six others after convicting them of trespassing in the U.S. sector of the city illegally armed. They were turned loose because their five-day sentences already have been served while awaiting trial.

A short time later the east Germans released the 25 western policemen they had been holding.

The six were let off easily because they had blundered into the U.S. sector "apparently without evil intent," the judge said.

If War Comes Too Late to Start Road Program

Winnipeg, Sept. 22 — (CP) — A Canadian army engineer said Thursday that if war comes it will be too late to start a road development program. The work must be done in peacetime.

Brig. Geoffrey Walsh, Royal Canadian Engineers, gave the Canadian Good Roads Association his views on highway facilities the country will need in the event of war.

The normal flow of road traffic would be changed, resulting in a much increased number of vehicles, a different type of vehicle and heavier units. There would be "eccentric loads" of abnormal width, height and weight.

Dispersion of industry would depend on roads. Though extensive highway development might not be justified on economic grounds at the time, it could be justified on economic plus defence considerations. After an attack on an area, roads probably would provide the only way of getting immediate help to a stricken area.

Brig. Walsh said that while there are comparatively few targets in Canada which would justify an atom-bomb attack, there are plenty in the United States. Aircraft failing to reach American targets could be expected to select secondary objectives in Canada.

WANT SYNTHETIC GAS

Bonn, Germany, Sept 22 — (Reuters) — The Germans, who gave the word "ersatz" to the world, want Allied permission to resume production of one of their chief wartime products - ersatz gasoline. The West German Labor Minister (Anton Storch, said yesterday the Allies will be asked to permit resumption of synthetic gasoline production, banned by the Allies after the war.

MADE COMMANDO RAID

Hong Kong, Sept. 22 — (AP)— The pro-Nationalist paper Kung Sheung Daily News said today the Chinese Nationalists made a commando-like raid last week on Namoa Island, 10 miles northeast of communist Swatow. Unconfirmed elsewhere, this report said the Nationalists withdrew after seizing more than 100 prisoners

Bright Employment Picture In Canada For Rest of 1950 Foreseen by Labor Minister

Ottawa, Sept. 22 (CP)—Although unemployment increased during the nine-day rail strike last month, the employment picture for the remainder of this year looks bright, Labor Minister Gregg said Thursday.

In his monthly statement on the employment situation, Mr. Gregg said now that the railways are back in operation "many new hirings can continue as scheduled."

"For the balance of this year employment in manufacturing is expected to be above the high level reached in 1949." The accelerated defence program and the increase in demand for many products would be responsible for the increase.

Mr. Gregg said that during the rail strike some firms temporarily laid off workers while others postponed making additions to their staffs.

As a result, registrations at National Employment Service offices increased to 151,600 at Aug. 31. This was about 5,000 more than at Aug. 17, but 6,500 below the total at the beginning of the month.

The increase in registrations—the first in almost five months—was mainly concentrated in Ontario and the prairie regions, where most of the layoffs of non-railway workers occurred. In Newfoundland and Quebec the number of registered unemployed decreased in the two weeks of the strike. In the Maritimes and British Columbia the increase in registrations was relatively slight.

Mr. Gregg said the employment situation for women continues to be much less favorable than for men. At Aug. 31, there were 54,000 women registered at the Employment Service offices, 14,300 more than at the corresponding date of 1949.

Many Married Women Work

Reports from managers of local employment services offices indicated that married women are seeking jobs in much greater numbers than last year, largely because of the increase in the cost of living.

Primary iron and steel, non-ferrous metals, electrical apparatus and pulp and paper are among the manufacturing industries which continue to respond to the stimulus of increased demand for their products in both Canada and the United States.

Neither agriculture nor logging was seriously affected by the strike, and in both these industries demand for labor continued heavy.

Demand for labor in the pulp and lumber cutting in most sections of the country exceeded the supply, and the heavy cut of pulpwood and lumber is expected to continue throughout the rest of the year.

U.K. Grain Harvest Worst In History, Hit by Rains

London, Sept. 22—(CP)—Britain's hope of obtaining substantial dollar savings through a bumper wheat crop has been frustrated by bad weather.

Last month's optimistic forecasts have withered under rain, hail and lightning, agricultural experts now say it will be Britain's worst grain harvest in living memory.

National Farmer's Union last night described the harvest as "dreary, disappointing and disastrous."

The Farmer's Union said that in Devonshire alone more than £1,500,000 ($4,650,000) has been lost.

Exactly a month ago today, the N.F.U. issued a statement saying that if things turned out as expected, Britain would obtain 375,895 tons more home-grown wheat than last year. It said this would represent a saving equivalent to $25,000,000 in U.S. funds on the basis of the price that would be paid for dollar wheat under the international wheat agreement.

Then the rains came. Within a few days N.F.U.'s latest statement says "reports poured in of laid and twisted crops from 20 counties."

The agricultural correspondent of the News Chronicle said only mechanization of Britain's farming had prevented a disaster that could have unbalanced the national economy for this year.

"Even as it is," the correspondent said, "we shall be poorer by some millions of dollars."

Official Seeks Woman Witness In Oakes Case

Miami, Fla., Sept. 22—(AP)—A Nassau police official investigating the murder of Sir Harry Oakes, was returning to Miami today and was reported to be seeking Betty Roberts, pretty blonde who was an important witness in the seven-year-old case.

Betty, a friend of Marquis Georges de Visedelou Guimbeau, testified she talked with Alfred de Marigny, Oakes' son-in-law who was accused of the murder, at about the hour the slaying of the Canadian mining millionaire was committed. Defence counsel contended de Marigny could not have killed Sir Harry if he was at home at that hour.

Augustus Roberts, assistant police superintendent, flew to Florida from Oakland, Calif., where he talked with Edward Majava, 31-year-old mechanic, and announced Majava was "telling the truth."

Betty Roberts, 16 at the time of the trial, is 22 now. Charles W. F. Bethell, owner of the Savoy Theatre where Betty worked as cashier, said in Miami today that Betty is married and visited Nassau with her husband two weeks ago, but allegedly returned to New York.

Township May Have to be Listed Urban or Rural

Toronto, Sept. 22 — (CP) — Max Sloan, head of the assessment division of the Ontario Municipal Affairs Department, said Thursday night that to overcome taxation problems, it may become necessary to define townships as urban or rural.

He addressed county representatives of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, who yesterday set up a committee to study taxation questions that arise when expanding cities spread into rural areas.

Mr. Sloan said the acts governing county assessment were passed during the 19th Century and early in the 20th Century. At that time, farm lands were considered those which would not demand the type of services required by city areas. Since then, however many former farm areas have become suburban residential areas.

One of Ontario's disabilities is that 24 per cent of its land is tax exempt, Mr. Sloan added.

"STOP-WORK" MEETINGS

Sydney, Australia, Sept. 22— (Reuters) — The communist - controlled Australian Waterside Workers Federation today called for "stop-work" meetings at all Australian ports as a protest against the high cost of living. The federation adopted a recommendation by its federal council which was relayed to the branch executives for consideration.

NO FIRE ALARMS HEARD ABOARD CRUISE SHIP

Passengers Not Given Warning Says Witness

Quebec, Sept. 22—(CP)—Belief that there would have been no loss of life aboard the burned cruise ship Quebec if a fire-warning signal had been heard was expressed here yesterday by a passenger aboard the Canadian Steamships Lines vessel.

Charles Buchner of Verplant, N.Y. was testifying before an inquiry into the fire which cost seven lives last August when the Quebec burned outside of Todoussac, tiny lower St. Lawrence River harbor town.

Mr. Buchner told Judge Fernand Choguette of Quebec superior court, who is presiding over the inquiry, that he had heard no alarm to warn passengers of the blaze.

Hearing no alarm but aroused by the smell of smoke, Mr. Buchner said he helped wield hoses and noticed that some crew members were waring lifbelts while "some 30 passengers" who were with him had none.

He lead a group to the bow of the 7,000-ton vessel and there lifebelts were made available to them. He did not think fire-fighting apparatus aboard the vessel was adequate.

No Rafts Prepared

Mr. Buchner had twice asked a crew member to prepare rafts but was told the captain was master of the ship. A number of the passengers did not realize how close to land they were.

The other main witness yesterday—Thomas Waldron of Peekskill, N.Y.—also heard no alarm. He noted only one ship's officer assisting passengers off the burning vessel.

Earlier, the inquiry, which continues tomorrow, heard additional testimony from Geoffrey Aldcroft, Montreal engineer whose firm installed fire-warning devices aboard the ship this spring.

The witness said it would have been "easy" for someone to disconnect batteries operating the ship's fire-alarm system. Such an action would paralyze the systems and render them ineffective, he said.

There have been unconfirmed reports of sabotage aboard the vessel.

High-Frequency Sound Waves Can Erode Diamonds, Blast Steel Bars

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 22 (AP) — High - frequency sound waves powerful enough to erode diamonds and blast steel bars into fragments have been harnessed and now are ready for industrial application, the National Instrument Conference was told yesterday.

John W. Butterworth, director of hypersonics for Brush Development Company of Cleveland, O., said the tecnnique sets up stresses equal to 1,500,000 times the pull of gravity within the material and literally shakes it apart.

These sound waves can emulsify liquids almost instantly by smashing the particles together into a "homogenized" liquid that never will separate said Butterworth.

A similar process "can be used to impregnate materials like fabric and wood with chemicals to prolong wearing qualities and make them fire-resistant.'

In the medical field, "ultrasonic energy will help produce improved vaccines against diseases such as pneumonia.'

Present vaccines he said, are created from the entire cells of pathogenic bacteria and sometimes produce dangerous allergic reactions as a result of the protein included in them. Ultrasonic energy shatters the cells and releases cytoplasm, a clear, protein-free liquid, for production of non-allergic vaccines.

Butterworth reported that his company has invented a saucer-like ceramic for focusing the sound waves, much as a magnifying glass focuses the sun's rays to burn a hole in a piece of paper.

High-frequency electric power vibrates the ceramic from 100,000 to 1,000,000 times a second, producing sound waves that are inaudible to human ears, sensitive only to frequencies under 20,000 a second.

The ultrasonic waves are so powerful at their focal point, he said, that they shatter any material, even diamonds or hard steel.

Fight at Bayonet Range in Seoul, Giant Vise Closing

Good-Sized Planes Can be Handled From Suwon Field

By LIEF ERICKSON

Tokyo, Sept. 22. (AP)— The Allied 10th Corps and North Korean defenders battle bitterly for Seoul at close quarters today on both sides of the Han river. Some of the fighting was at bayonet range.

To stand off reinforcements for the red-held capital, the Allies put forces across rail lines and highways north and south of the city.

Units of the U.S. 7th Division drove into Suwon, 20 miles south of Seoul, from the 10th Corps' Inchon-Seoul beachhead.

Suwon is a vital communications hub astride the major route of communists withdrawing from the United Nations' expanding Pusan beachhead in the far southeast.

U.S. Marines used bayonets and flame throwers to make a mile-wide swath through Seoul's industrial western suburb of Yongdungpo, on the south west side of the Han. Other Marines cut the rail and highway lines into the capital from the northwest.

These were the toughening phases of the amphibious assault aimed at seizing Seoul, the distribution centre for communists faltering and fleeing in the south. Barring effective reinforcements from the north, it also puts the reds in the tightening jaw of a giant vise.

A tank-led red mystery column, reported yesterday by U.S. intelligence to be moving southward from red China's Manchurian border, remained a mystery. Washington army spokesman said they had heard nothing of such reinforcements and nothing more was reported by the 10th Corps Friday.

Good Airfield

A spokesman at Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said U.S. 7th division troops entered Suwon without opposition. In addition to blocking Red reinforcements for Seoul from the south, Suwon provides an airfield that can handle good-sized planes.

The field had been used by U.S. air transports evacuating civilians before the reds entered Suwon July 1—one week after invading south Korea.

Suwon is 120 miles northwest of Waegwan, where the U.S. 24th division advanced two miles to expand the northwest bridgehead across the Naktong River. This was on the highway to Kumchon, Taejon, Suwon and Seoul. Elsewhere on the Pusan perimeter, allied forces punched out gains up to 20 miles Friday morning.

The fighting in Seoul's Yongdungpo suburb was hand to hand, in closely-jammed and shell-shattered factory buildings.

The fierceness of the red resistance in the suburb appeared to foreshadow the same tough struggle in Seoul, a city of 1,000,000 where the reds have some 18,000 isolated troops.

Associated press correspondent Tom Lambert, with the forward fighting forces, reported marine casualties at Yongdungpo were "relatively heavy."

Split in Two Columns

Tank-led marines who crossed the Han Wednesday eight miles northwest of Seoul had split into two columns: One striking southeastward down the railroad tracks to the capital's outskirts, the other hitting for high ground to the north.

The second column reached a high ridge overlooking Seoul from the north where artillery could sweep the approaches from the red Korean capital of Pyongyang, 120 miles northwest of Seoul.

Marines on the northwest outskirts of Seoul were dug in 2½ miles from the heart of the sprawling capital. They were within sight of Seoul's few tall buildings.

Uncertainty over where the city's limits extend resulted Thursday in a premature report by aerial observers that the marines had entered Seoul proper.

An estimated 3,000 reds were reported dug in on South Mountain—a dominating height located in field dispatches only as being near the Han River.

Spying for Russia Brings 15-Year Term for Slack

Greenville, Tenn., Sept. 22 — (AP)—Alfred Dean Slack today was sentenced to 15 years for wartime spying for Russia.

Judge Robert L. Taylor in pronouncing sentence termed Slack's espionage activities for Russia "shocking".

The judge thus ignored the government's recommendation for a 10-year sentence for Slack, who pleaded guilty last Monday.

Slack was arrested June 15 and charged with passing to Russian agents information on the manufacture of the high explosive RDX. The government said he stole a sample of RDX and handed it, with technical information, to Harry Gold, biochemist also charged with espionage.

Amorous Bass Startles Angler

Down around Quebec way, fishermen claim muskies will jump out of the water into a boat.

Out west, they claim large fish will nudge a boat out of the way.

But in the Bay of Quinte, the piscotorial specimens have gone one better. In fact, the bass are showing affection for anglers, and proving it in approved human style.

For instance, the other day, Dave Lockyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Locckyer, was angling for smallmouths in the bay near here.

There was little or no wind. The sun shone brightly and scarcely a ripple disturbed the surface of the water.

Gazing down in the depths in an effort to locate a finny guarry, Dave was surprised when the surface suddenly exploded in his face, and a large bass leaped clear and struck him in the mouth.

That is Dave's story, and he is the type that never indulges in yarns of a tall nature.

Belleville Cubs Defeat "Chickens" In Knife and Fork League Game, Presented With Gifts by Executive

The Belleville Cubs baseball club played its last game of the season at the Golden Acres last night.

At nearly full strength, the team backed up by its executive defeated a picked chicken team by a score of 9-0 with each player crossing the plate once. That was enough. Their physical well-being would not allow repetition.

The excellent repast, at which the players were guests of the executive was garnished with presentations and brief addresses. Through club President Bill Lockyer each player was presented with a sports shirt, with Coach Speedy St. Louis being pleasantly surprised with a gift of a handsome mantel clock.

President Lockyer, who chairmaned the function spoke of the early season struggle to get the team started, and keep the spark of baseball burning in the city.

Few Willing Hands

"A few willing hands, with no money, showed a spirit to carry on with what they had, and proved to skeptics that baseball could be carried on in Belleville," he said.

He extended his personal appreciation to the members of his executive and the unselfish manner in which they co-operated with money and effort. He had special words of praise for the players, "who knew we had no money, yet gave us their best both on the diamond and off it They did a fine job and wound up in a blaze of glory."

He expressed the club appreciation of the co-operation given by press and radio and all who assisted in any way.

Brief congratulatory addresses were given by President Jack Carson of the Belleville and District Bareball League, and executive members, Walter Gerow, Sr., Jack McNab, Charles Mott, Jack Devine, Geo. H. Carver and club treasurer Paul Mercier.

Peter Jones, team captain speaking on behalf of the players expressed their appreciation of the generous gesture of the executive in providing the banquet and the gifts.

Elder Neilson, voted the most valuable player to his team in the league, and a stranger to the team prior to joining it, said he was proud to play with such a fine group of players. He had enjoyed his association with them. They had "stuck together" he said, and he had enjoyed helping to mold together a team that did such a fine job in finishing in the league finals.

Tribute Paid

President Lockyer paid a special tribute to Coach St. Louis prior to making the presentation to him. "His outstanding efforts for baseball not only this year, but in previous ones, mark him as one who has a sincere interest in the game. He was the man on whom the greater part of responsibility rested and he came through with flying colors. He spent endless hours and days coaching and working with the players. He gave his efforts gratis and on many occasions paid for his gasoline out of his own pocket."

In appreciative reply, Coach St. Louis said he had enjoyed the time spent with the team, and the co-operation received from both players and executive. He paid tribute to the business manager Frank Grandame who is in hospital and was unable to be present. "I found Mr. Grandame easy to get along with and he co-operated with me to the fullest extent, he said.

Not All Sunshine

"It was not all sunshine, however," he smiled, "but this fine gift more than repays me for anything I have done."

Players and executive expressed regret through representatives at the inability of Manager Grandame to be present. However, they expressed their sympathy in a tangible way and today he will receive gifts of fruit and flowers.

Players present included Jack Elliott, Peter Jones, Elder Neilson, Dave Lockyer, "Huck" Reeves, Ed. Lewis, "Chuck" Barriage, "Gabby" Moynes, Brian Mulvihill, Bobby Bunton, and "Cuffer" Noakes, Clarence Cook, Jack Green. Russ Soules, Gary Schreider and Al Galhraith were unable to be present.

MARMORA

Bethlehem Steel to Enlarge Drill Operations in District

Marmora — Drilling operations commenced in June on property southeast of Marmora village on which they have an option, are to be enlarged by the Bethlehem Steel Corporation. While the policy of this well known company is still one of official silence, there is reason to believe that within a few months, an official statement will be issued by them. That the exploration work done by the drillers has been encouraging to date is indicated by the fact that operations are being continued and cousiderably enlarged.

Five Drills Operating

In order to complete the preliminary drilling before winter, owing to long water lines, five drills with their crews will be in operation next week. They will do a lot of drilling in a few weeks.

Dr. W. G. Wahl, who is in charge of the exploration work, has just returned from a vacation with his family at Bethlehem and in New York and in other American cities. For greater convenience in carrying on the clerical and business end of the operations he is opening an office on Forsythe Street over Jones and Potts Hardware Store.

Modern Theatre Will be Erected In Village

Marmora—To the great surprise of most residents of Marmora it was learned on Thursday that Marmora is to have a modern picture theatre. A. J. Maynes of Tweed proprietor of the Madoc and Marmora 5c to $1.00 stores has purchased from Carl Heath the former W. A. Sanderson property on Forsythe Street, recently purchased by Mr. Heath and into which he had moved on September 11. The residence one of the oldest in the vilalge, is to be torn down for the erection of a theatre to seat between 400 and 500 persons. Marmora Village Council has issued a building permit and construction work is expected to start almost immediately. In hte meantime, Mr. Maynes plans to visit theatres in the nited States and Canada to see the new designs which are proving popular and convenient for the public before making his personel selection.

HOGS

Toronto, Sept. 22 — (CP) — Truck hogs were $30 at Stratford, today. Other markets were not reported.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Sept. 22. (CP)—Papers led a broad list of industrial stocks into new high ground for a second successive session on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Demand was steady as market leaders were carried strongly ahead for gains ranging from fractions to more than a point. Volume for the first three hours was 875,000 shares.

On the industrial board the list again climbed to a new peak average price level. Utilities, steels, foods, agricultures and textiles followed papers higher.

Gold stocks slipped quietly. Dome Mines bucked the trend in senior producers for a fractional advance but juniors showed declines up to 10 cents.

Base metals moved irregularly, at times showing signs of resuming recent strong climbs. Key issues like Consolidated Smelters, Noranda, International Nickel and Hudson Bay brightened.

N.Y. Stocks Rise To 19-Year Peak

New York. Sept. 22. (AP)—Hard-hitting demand for stocks swept the market to a 19-year-peak today. Key issues moved ahead for gains running to more than $1 a share.

Railroad shares, which have been highballing ahead for weeks, led the advance. Other groups, such as motors, steels, rubbers, chemicals and oils, were quick to swing in line.

The general price level, as measured by the Associated Press average of 60 stocks, broke through its 1946 high and reached a top since March 1931. In that year prices were still crashing down from the dizzy heights of 1929.

Nickel Plate Railway was a star performer with a jump of $8.25 a shore to $153.25, on top of yesterday's gain of $7 a share. The extreme rise was later shaded.

Canadian issues gained with Hiram Walker climbing $1, Canadian Pacific, Dome Mines and Distillers Seagrams each 3-8 and International Nickel 1-4. McIntyre was off 1-2.

On the curb, Giant Yellowknife added 1-8 while Lake Shore and Royalite Oil were unchanged.

Tobermore Flute Band Will Play In Stirling

One of Toronto's best known bands, the Tobermore Flute Band, organized in 1921, will play at the 75th anniversary service Sunday morning at Carmel, five miles west of Stirling, and will give a sacred concert program in St. Paul's United Church, at Stirling, on Sunday afternoon.

The Tobermore Band is one of the few flute bands playing music in harmonized parts. With a membership of 40 it will travel by chartered bus to help make the day a memorable one in the Stirling community. Fresh from playing at the C.N.E. the band is coming to give its service free for this special day.

The band is not an Orange Order band, but many of its members are members of the Order. During the war it was attached to the Royal Canadian Engineers' Band. Its leader Robert J. Woddley has been in charge since 1929. He served with the R.C.A.F.

Its aim is to help and encourage young men in band music. It is self supporting and its members make it their "hobby".

The Sunday afternoon program at St. Paul's will include sacred march "Triumphant", "Our Boys", "Dream of Paradise" and others. The band will march to the church from the Stirling war memorial. The program will be given at 3:30 p.m.

Committee Will Consider Plans To Alter City Hall Ground Floor

A special committee from city council will consider proposed alterations on the ground floor of the city hall to provide additional accommodation for the city treasurer and assessing departments. Named to the committee at Thursday night's regular council committee meeting were Aldermen Haig, Potter and Butler, with City Comptroller H. D Bateman.

Plans prepared by city engineer Charles Mott call for enlarging of the department to the west door of the inside farmers' market. This would provide the additional space said to be required for the treasurer, assessing department and for general offices.

The city engineering department was authorized to prepare plans for the construction of storm sewers in the Veterans' Homes project south of the highway.

Will Open Tenders

The board of works committee was authorized to open tenders for the heating installation at the city barns and to make a recommendation for the tender award at the next committee meeting on Oct. 5th. In this way it would be unnecessary to wait for the regular council meeting to commence installation.

City council will deed over to the local board of Education a parcel of land in the Bayview Heights district for use as additional school grounds for the new public school on MacDonald Ave.

New lights were recommended for Earl Street, between North Front and Gordon Streets; for the east end of Brassey Street and on John Street, south of Bridge Street.

Ald. Lattimer to Attend

Alderman Lattimer, as chairman of traffic was authorized to attend the traffic control convention to be held in Kitchener Oct. 12-14.

Committee approval was given for calling of tenders for a two-way radio for installation at the fire hall. Also $100 was approved as a grant for the Fire Prevention Week program

Council voted to take an option on the property of Mrs. Arthur Denyes, 109 Dundas Street East, with the view of acquiring the property for use as a site for the proposed new fire hall in the east side of the city.

MANY PLAY INJURIES UNNECESSARY

The best way to avoid accidents is to be prepared both physically and mentally, says H. J. Miller of Mutual Benefit Health & Accident Association in an article — "Let's Take the Pain out of Playtime" — in Health, magazine published by the Health League of Canada.

Thousands of casualties result annually from accidents at play, states Mr. Miller, who adds that "we must begin to reasize that playing is an art if you are to participate in any form of sporting activity and stay free of injuries. The fellow who keeps in condition and closely observes the normal precautions isn't likely to end up in a hospital ward with a pain-wracked body as the result of an unfortunate mishap."

The author stresses the need for good conditioning for those who want to play strenuous games, the advisability of taking it easy in the early part of the season when a sport is being taken up after a few months' layoff, and avoidance of over-fatigue which, he stresses, is one of the most frequent causes of accidents.

Children able to participate in organized sport at school or the playground, states Mr. Miller, should have the necessary equipment — pads, masks and a competent coach or instructor. Parents should take a genuine interest in the children's activities even though it means getting out of that easy chair and putting down the newspaper for an hour or two after supper."

He admonishes the parents among his readers to "keep an eye on those youngsters. They are a great comfort in old age."

On the subject of fatigue, Mr. Miller says that when fatigue creeps in, the mind gets sluggish as do the limbs and there the stage is set for an injury. The human body can take only so much punishment, and an athlete with his "second wind" is much mor who remains in the contest

"When you feel fatigu breather. Learn how to re playing."

MYSTERY

There is a romance about the distribution of plants, how this takes place without seeming reasons to explain the distribution. In the Old Country botanists are facing a new problem — to explain how more than twenty plants which are alien to the United Kingdom come to be growing in a bomb-crater at the edge of a wood in Surrey. A natural theory is that some person may have deliberately brought the seeds from Europe, perhaps after a holiday and mischievously sown them in the crater to confound the botanists. But there is an objection to this view as the crater is difficult to get at, is known to very few persons only. A practical joker would have had difficulty in getting all the seeds and it is said that it is questionable whether any botanical collection in Europe has them all.

But there is the possible explanation of a migrating bird bringing them. Yet an obstacle to this is that there are no similar plants growing in other craters nearby. No migrant bird chancing to pass that way would, it is thought, be likely to bring such a variety of seed.

There is given consideration also to the idea that the seeds came in the explosive mixture of a bomb which caused the crater, but the answer to that is that the explosion would most certainly have destroyed the seeds.

So far science is baffled: But the mystery and the interest grow — more plants are being found in the same crater.

LONDON'S RIVER — FESTIVAL HIGHWAY

During the Festival of Britain 1951, the fullest use is to be made of the river Thames.

Recently, there has been a revival of the use of the river by the introduction of a water-bus service from the southwestern suburb of Putney to historic Greenwich. In 1951, this service will be greatly increased, and new boats are being built for the purpose. This will provide a valuable means of transport between three of the main Festival activities in London.

It is expected that ten million fares will be taken on these water buses during the five months of the Festival. This water link between Festival centres will enable visitors to travel along a route that is steeped in history.

OUR DINOSAURS

Memory goes out to the Drumheller Valley farmer who for years stumbled over a rock on the way to the barn and swore he would remove it, but never did until a visiting scientist identified it as an essential part of a dinosaur and dug it up, free. We trust that the provinces and all others concerned will facilitate and encourage the work of the dinosaur hunters who go out from Ottawa on their forays. These ancient creatures and their kindred make small impact on our consciousness but somehow we dislike the idea of their being neglected, their bones or fossils allowed to be exposed and unhonored in the wilderness. — Ottawa Journal.

HARVEST TIME

Who walks an orchard through can see
The work of nature done,
And all is as it ought to be
Beneath the morning sun.

Where all the springtime blossoming
Made lovely every bough,
A perfect growth for harvesting
Are peach and apple now.

From bud to leaf, from flower to fruit,
From springtime to the fall,
The trees the ways of men refute
And seems to shame us all.

All things in nature serve the plan
For them by God designed,
And strange it seems that only man
No way of peace can find.

While patrolling his beat today City Traffic Officer Bert Frink found a McLaughlin touring car abandoned near the corner of College and North Front Streets. The license number was checked and it was ascertained that the car was owned in Picton. The happening and cause of abandonment will be investigated.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

There is a type of person who feels that the mere sentiment of good will is enough. You don't have to come through with good deeds.

For example, when dinner is over and everybody is about to rise from the table, there is the lady of supreme good will who leaps up first and cries:

"Now, I'll wash the dishes!"

"No, no, no," protests the hostess warmly.

In the confusion that ensues, as the men move into the living room or out to the front verandah, and the ladies mill about clearing the table and shifting everything to the kitchen, you are not likely to observe that the lady who captured the good will of the entire company by her loud claim upon the dish washing has just had to run upstairs for a minute. . .

Women are by no means alone in their belief in the sufficiency of the expression of good will. There is not an office or a factory or a board of church wardens or a bowling club that has not its master of the technique of asserting, in the most eloquent terms, the very essence of good will in all things. They are reasonable. They are rational. They are kindly. They have the solution of every problem.

But circumstances, at the moment, prevent them personally from undertaking the tasks involved. In meetings, they are the men who cry "hear, hear," in deep voices. As meetings break up, they are the lads who get up and move votes of thanks. Going out the door, they are the ones who have their arms chummily about the shoulders of the ill-natured guys who have been saddled with the work.

Among both the women and men, there are those who carry their good will so far that the mere intention is equal, in all respects, to the performance. A lady who expresses, clearly, the intention of having somebody to dinner, has, as far as she is concerned, had them to dinner. And the man who says: "By the way, I paid you that ten bucks, didn't I?" is possessed of a consternation that practically paralyses him when he learns that he didn't. And he doesn't.

Kemptville, Ont., Sept. 21 (CP) —Outline of a three-year industrial development program for eastern Ontario was adopted here yesterday at the fifth annual meeting of the Eastern Ontario Asociatsed Board of Trade.

Keystone of the plan is an effort to encourage new industry to locate in the broad Belleville-Cornwell-Pembroke triangle.

Total cost of setting th eprogram in motion over the three-year period was tentatively estimated at $30,000 by W. J. Cairns fo Ottawa, re-elected secretary-treasurer of the organization.

About 10 delegates, representing almost all of the 36 Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce in eastern Ontario signified their approval of a program which includes:

1. A concentrated effort to finance the plan by asking for contributions from counties, cities, towns and villages as well as banks and large firms in the area.
2. Publication of a booklet to show the advantages of locating in eastern Ontario.
3. Establishment of an industrial promotion office.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By Billy Rose

HAMBURGER HEAVEN

Today I'd like to eliminate the first paragraph of this piece and get right down to the meaty part. And if that's all right with you, here's the meat in three thick slices:

Slab No. 1: — Just before it closed, I dropped in to see Garson Kanin's play, "The Live Wire," and even though Katharine Hepburn was sitting a seat away from me I was pretty much bored by [illegible] than inspired shenanigans. Part way down Act 3, however, h galoot with the Ripley-esque name of Murvyn Vye took entre and, in the role of a theatrical agent, gave out ne of the neatest bits of led satiric acting I've seen y a Broadway moon. He only that one appearance, a dozen dizzy minutes he d up the evening and left st of the actors standing with egg on their faces.

ess it gets down to this — part in a fair play can a lot more to a performer fair part in a fine play. strength of his one scene now dead "Wire," Murvyn as established himself as the hottest things in the shoeleather. And don't go me why I don't sign him my new television show if he's that good. A few minter the curtain dropped I

No. 2: — A couple of s ago, old Flying Saucer imself appeared on tele for the first time, and to 's surprise Eddie Cantor e old Eddie — the same cker kid who exploded all e stage in "Kid Boots" a of a century ago.

I happened to see the out-of-town opening of "Kid Boots," and I learned a lot about Cantor as a showman that night. When the house chandelier went on at the end of Act 2, everybody and his agent agreed that the comedian had never been better. But when one of the sketch writers took me back to his dressing room after the performance, Cantor was a study in gloom.

"What are you brooding about?" I said. "The show is in the bag."

"It needs a lot of work," said the little man with the hyperthyroid eyes, "and I've got to round up the writers tonight and get going. Some of my lines get big laughs, but most of them get chuckles — and the wise mob won't accept chuckles from me. Between now and tomorrow morning we've got to chop out the little laughs and try to think up some big ones . . ."

In addition to Cantor's know-how about what's funny and what isn't, his TV show has another asset in Director Charles Friedman; the bucko who staged "Carmen Jones" for me a few years back. I'm glad to see more and more of these stage pros enter the new medium, but it's a briar-pipe cinch that some of the gents who have been ruling the megacycle roost will have to look to their laurels and Hooper ratings.

Slab No. 3: — I've written darn near a thousand columns in the past four and a half years, and I still can't figure out why one brings hoorays and another is met with ho-hums.

The latest f'rinstance is the open letter I wrote to Judy Garland recently in which I sympathized with her troubles, told her how talented I thought she was, and why it was important to a lot of entertainment-starved people that she continue making movies.

This piece brought in several sacksful of mail, and among the approving correspondents was Senorita Judy herself. But that wasn't all. A few days after the column appeared, I got a phone call from Miss Garland saying she was in New York and would like to chin with me, and so that night the actress and I — with Eleanor along as chaperone — went to the Copacabana to see Joe E. Lewis strut his rib-cracking stuff.

"Having a good time in New York?" I asked Judy.

"Happier than I've been in years," she said.

"Let me play doctor for a minute," I said. "It's my hunch that one of the things you hate about Hollywood is Hollywood — the town is evidently mixed up in your mind with a lot of bad memories. Well, if that's the case, why don't you pack your duffle and move to Manhattan?? Once or twice a year you can amble out to Hollywood and make a movie — after all, it seldom takes more than eight weeks to shoot one."

"I'll think about it," said Judy.

Yesterday she phoned. "Guess what," she said. "I'm moving to New York next month.

Chances are, of course, that my buttinsky talk had nothing to do with Judy's decision, and that the talented tot had made up her mind long before I shot off my bazoo. But be that as it may, I'm glad Manhattan is going to get her. It couldn't happen to a nicer island.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BEST TIME TO WORRY

Worry is perhaps mankind's greatest industry! But it is a wasteful one, scattering its wreckage around the globe and saturating the years with its devastating work. There may be times when a little worry may do some good. I recall the incident of a boy's serious illness, after an operation. A young doctor had done the job, and all night he kept in touch with his patient, and kept calling up the hospital to know how he was coming on. I remarked to the nurse in charge about how Dr. X semed to worry about his patients, and she replied: "Well, when I get ill I want the Doctor to worry about me!"

But mostly worry is bad news for anyone. I got to thinking about this and I thought if only we could corner this worry, confine it so that we might look at it squarely in the face, and tell it what we thought about it, we might give it a death scare—and be rid of it, as a nuisance and annoyer.

So, here is the suggestion: Let all worry be confined to a single hour of the day — say at five o'clock in the afternoon. The day's work is then about over, and if these worries of ours can be gone over then, and dismissed as foolish, and of no human value, we can then enjoy a good dinner, and then with pleasant conversation, an hour or so at some entertainment, or an evening with a good book, life could take upon itself a new and happier cast!

The very worst time for worrying is just before bedtime, and of course during work. We should go to our couch untroubled, with a relaxed mind, and with cheerful thoughts teeming through our mind. Then there are sure to be those "pleasant dreams" that people speak about so often, but miss all too much.

I can detect no sign of worrying on the part of the birds that chirp outside my window, or note it in the play and work of animals that I observe. Worry is man's disease, or occupation, let us call it, and a losing one it is. It pays no profitable dividends. One reason for the existence of a kindly and ever interested God is that each of us may have a free and untroubled mind!

Personal Health Talks

OUTBREAKS OF APOCRYPHAL HYDROPHOBIA

Ordinarily I'd be ashamed to use the term "hydrophobia" in addressing intelligent people. But "authorities" who purport to be physicians and guardians of public health us the term whenever they wish to frighten people of subnormal I. Q. and whip up a mad dog scare in the community. So I use it instead of the simpler three-syllable term ra-bi-es (accent on first syllable) merely to remind readers of the superstitious origin of the idea conveyed by the word—morbid or irrational fear of water. No physician or health-officer today has the temerity to imply that morbid or irrational fear or dread of water is a symptom or sign of any particular disease. Nevertheless the advocates of rabies use the term "hydrophobia" in their professional and popular utterances as though it were a proper synonym for rabies.

One medical authority, in an article on Rabies in Cyclopedia of Medicine and Surgery, gives this interesting light on the diagnosis:

"In tetanus the incubation period is shorter and the injury is different—usually a puncture wound rather than a bite. The spasmodic reaction is different, the mandibular trismus (gnashing of teeth, lockjaw) being a readily recognized feature, while reaction to water is not so marked; nor is the terror of a rabid patient easily confused with the mental clearness of a lockjaw (tetanus) victim."

Blessed if I can see what earthly difference it makes whether the injury is bite, scratch, cut, tear or puncture.

True to the professional tradition this medical authority drags in the "reaction to water." Even the three Chicago savants who embellished their report of twelve cases of alleged rabies in the comic weekly (Jour. A. M. A.) of the cigarette promoting association with some second-hand pictures, from some undisclosed source, showing "refusal to accept water"—although in deference to the possible intelligence of some readers these savants ran this legend under one such sensational illustration: This is not fear of water. It is the patient's recognition of the inability to swallow.

Inability to swallow is one of the characteristic symptoms of tetanus (lockjaw).

I believe many cases of alleged rabies in man are actually tetanus cases. I believe some cases of alleged rabies in young children, occurring in the height of a mad dog scare whipped up by the health board or the health officer, are actually cases of strychnine poisoning — the children have found and eaten some sugar coated pills or tablets of strychnine.

I'd want the standard prophylactic treatment — an immediate injection of tetanus antitoxin and immediate surgical disinfection, cleaning or excision of tissues badly damaged — if I were bitten or scratched by animal or bird, whether the animal or bird were presumed to be rabid or not. I'd take no chances with nineteenth century "cauterizing" of the wound with "fuming nitric acid" or other destructive substance, for any surgeon of this century knows that dead tissue in a wound favors infection, whether with the acute blood poisoning (septicemia) or the germs of tetanus (lockjaw), and you just can't apply such crude caustics as "fuming nitric acid" or pure phenol (carbolic acid) to living tissue without destroying some of the tissue.

I tell you, folks, the health "authorities" and many old timers in the medical profession are obsessed on the rabies question. If rabies actually occurs in human beings the disease is so extremely rare that we may well drop it from the list of diseases which belong in the field of public health administration.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

I Don't Say!

You say uric acid causes inflammation in the joints but you don't say what to do or take to get rid of it. (S. A.)

Answer—If typographical error or editorial liberty has made me seem to say any such thing I'll be hopping mad and you won't find my column here any more. Send me the item which gave you such a false impression and I'll acknowledge your kindness with a full set of little lessons in the way of health. It has not been scientifically proved, and certainly I do not believe, that uric acid or mono-sodium urate deposits in joint tissues or elsewhere cause any disease.

Neighbors Believe in Witches

Our first baby died only a week old, of pneumonia. All the neighbors tell me this happened because I helped my husband paint a fence when I was four or five months along. (Mrs. A. L.)

Answer—Ignorant, superstitious folk. Send 25c and stamped self-addressed envelope for booklet Preparing for Maternity.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THEREFORE REJOICE

Dwight L. Moody used to preach that God stood behind the sinner with a double-edged sword, ready to hew him down. One day when he was preaching in Dublin, Moody met a young English evangelist named Henry Moorhouse. The great American preacher was unimpressed by the young Englishman, but agreed if he came to America he could preach one Sunday in Moody's church. Moody thought so little of him that he arranged that the sermon be preached on a Sunday when he himself was to be absent from the pulpit.

Upon his return, Moody found everyone talking about the young Englishman. So the old evangelist went to a meeting and sat himself down, intent upon finding out just what it was this youngster had. To his amazement he found him preaching on just one theme, namely, that God loves the sinner. He is not standing behind him with a two-edged sword, ready to hew him down. Instead, He is behind him with love, and the sinner is running away from His love so freely offered.

Moody, after listening to Moorhouse for a few evenings, gave up his former ideas and after that preached as the young Englishman did, that God is love. It made a vast difference on the preaching of the older man and greatly added to the power of his message.

Too often we cringe in fear before God. Certainly the Most High does not want this. "God is love." That Biblical declaration should fill us with assurance.

News of Trenton

C. of C. Plans to Organize All Retailers in the Town Into Different Sections

Trenton — (Special) — Trenton's Chamber of Commerce has almost finished its summer program, but plans are already well under way for fall and winter work. Heading the list is a plan to organize the retailers of the town into different sections. Purpose is to facilitate any changes Chamber members may consider.

Retailers under the proposed plan would be divided into four main sections — clothing, hardware and building, electrical appliances and furniture, and groceries and meat markets. The clothing section will be all-inclusive, with representatives from the male and female clothiers, dry goods, shoes, and millinery. Likewise, the other classifications will be subdivided if necessary.

Ezra W. Smith, Chamber of Commerce manager, said that the plan will enable any member who desires any sort of a change or any new plan may take it to his representative, who in turn will take the idea to his group. It can then be taken right into the retail section of the Chamber and dealt with there.

New Location Chosen

Other plans for the winter include the placing of signs showing the new location of the Chamber. Formerly, and all during the summer, the Chamber operated from the Don Sutherland location on Dundas Street. The C. of C. new home is at 56 Elgin Street, in the Trenton Insurance Agency building.

Mr. Smith said yesterday that the summer had been "very satisfactory." No complete record was kept of the number of inquiries received, but that is included in plans for next year.

Also on the Chamber's program for the fall and winter is active support to the town council in getting a definite plan for street and house numbering. Thus far, there has been no master plan, but authorities are now working on it. Mr. Smith said the application of the plan will go into effect early in 1951.

Dock service was provided all summer for boats visiting Trenton and moving up the Trent River. Only one untoward incident occurred during the hot weather, when the gas pump at the dock ran dry. "Outside of that," Mr. Smith said, "the season was very good."

The Chamber manager plans to have a sign erected on the new site, and hopes to have at least one directional sign placed in the business section. The business section will receive further attention if Chamber plans to have waste paper bins on the streets go through. This will again be done in co-operation with the council.

No new industries or stores have told the Chamber that they plan to establish here, Mr. Smith said, but several have asked advice. As yet, nothing definite has come from their queries.

Kitchener, Sept 22 — (CP) — Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League probably will sponsor a Kitchener entry in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A circuit, Alderman George Hainsworth said Thursday night.

Hainsworth, former goalie with Toronto Maple Leafs and the Canadiens, said he had received a letter from General Manager Frank Selke of Canadiens saying the Montreal club probably would sponsor the club. Hainsworth has been heading a committee trying to arrange sponsorship.

$56,000 Race Will be Staged If Track Dries

Delaware, O., Sept. 22 (AP)—The postponed $56 000 "Little Brown Jug" is set to go today—unlas unless the weatherman takes a hand again.

Heavy rain and a flooded track washed out the three-year-old pacing classic yesterday. Fire hose was used to pump some of the standing water from the half-mile track at the county fairgrounds, and gasoline was on hand to help dry the oval should the showers cease.

If more rain falls, the race will be held over to Saturday If the track continues in its present state, halting a Saturday race, the purse of $56 525.47 will be divided among the 11 survivors of the 568 original nominees.

Postponement of yesterday's Grand Circuit program put a six-race slate on the track today.

WEDDINGS

BALYX—JOHNS

A lovely wedding was solemnized on Saturday, September 16, at 3 p.m., in Holloway Street Unuited Church, before tall standards of multi-colored gladioli and ferns, when Sara Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Johns, of Belleville, was united in marriage to Garnet Francis Balyx, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Balyx. The Rev. S. E. Larman officiated.

Mr. Harold J. McNish, organist, provided the wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a charming bridal gown of floor-length white taffeta featuring a French lace tunic and graceful train. The molded lace bodice was fashioned with plunging neckline and long scalloped sleeves. The fingertip veil was held by a matching lace-trimmed taffeta cap and she carried a line-arrangement of Lesta Hibbert roses, Amazon lilies, maline tufts and bows of eggshell satin.

Mrs. Harvey Balyx, of Bellevill, and sister-in-law of the bridegroom, was senior bridesmaid, becomingly gowned in a strapless rose taffeta with Chantilly lace jacket buttoned to the waist, matching gauntlets and headdress. She carried a muff-arrangement of fleur-d'amour and white silvered poms, tied with silver French cord.

Miss Dorothy C. Johns, of Belleville, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, wearing a gown of navy blue taffeta, with Chantilly lace jacket buttoned to the waist, matching headdress and gauntlets and carrying a floral muff similar to that of the senior bridesmaid.

Mr. Harvey Balyx, of Belleville, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman, and Mr. Thomas Burley, of Shannonville, and Mr. Borden Lee, of Belleville, were ushers.

The reception was held in the church parlors, which were delightfully decorated with Autumn flowers. The bride's mother received the many guests wearing a white dotted navy sheer with white and navy accessories and corsage of Sweetheart roses tied with navy bows. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was gowned in navy blue sheer with navy accessories and corsage of Sweetheart roses tied with rainbow ribbon.

The bride's table, with its ivory lace cloth was centred by the bride's three-tiered wedding cake, surrounded by blush-pink tulle cornered by tall, ivory tapers in crystal holders, and topped with white streamers, maline, petals of white 'mums and fleur-d'amour.

For travelling to Kingston and points west, the bride chose a grey checked suit with navy blue accessories and corsage of fleur-d'amour. Mr. and Mrs. Balyx will upon their return reside in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were present from Toronto, Kingston, Gananoque, Trenton, Corbyville, Cannifton and surrounding district.

VARDY—PLATT

Against an effective background of gladioli and ferns in St. Paul's United Church, Warkworth, Ontario, on Thursday, September 21st., Doris Ella Platt, Reg. N., only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Platt, of Warkworth, was united in marriage to Jack Douglas Vardy, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Vardy, of Bancroft, Ontario. The Rev. H. G. Lester officiated.

Mrs. Lulu King, organist, provided the wedding music, and Mrs. Norma McCleary, of Warkworth, soloist, sang "Because", before the ceremony, and during the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer", and "I'll Walk Beside You", during the signing of the register.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was charmingly gowned in white, slipper satin, featuring drop-shoulders, rounded neckline, with nylon yoke, and full skirt fashioned with shirred panels. Her floral headdress held her fingertip veil of tulle illusion and she carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses and ivy.

Mrs. Donald Keller, Reg.N., of Belleville, sister of the bridegroom, was her only attendant, wearing a becoming green taffeta gown with hair arrangement of roses and ivy. She carried a cascade bouquet of Corona gladioli, Pinochio roses and ivy.

Mr. Leslie Platt, of Nelson, B.C., brother of the bride, was groomsman and the ushers were Mr. Donald Keller, of Belleville, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Mr. Gordon Platt, of Norham, Ontario, brother of the bride.

At the wedding reception, which was held at "Woodlawn", Campbellford, the bride's mother received, wearing a wine-colored gown of crepe with black accessories, and corsage of Johanna Hill roses, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore grey, flowered crepe with black accessories and corsage of Bettertime roses.

For travelling to Ottawa and points east, the bride donned a cinnamon-brown suit with dark brown accessories and brown plaid topcoat, and corsage of bronze 'mums. Upon their return, they will reside in Belleville.

Before her marriage, the bride was entertained at a miscellaneous shower held in Belleville by her classmates and friends. She was also the recipient of many lovely gifts at a shower held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Greenly, Norham, Ontario.

Abroad With Me

By Dorothy E. Futcher

Stockholm is a beautiful city, built around Lake Malar and has a population of half a million. The lake and the sea meet here, for a canal joins them, allowing fairly large ships to anchor outside the city hall. The houses are attractive, well painted and all with red tiled roofs, which weather to a browny-red-like copper Our hotel is old but comfortable and the management goes out of its way to make our stay pleasant.

We are guests of our Swedish sisters again, and are off in a bus that is absolutely deluxe, for a house-work school at Vackstants, 30 miles out of Stockholm. The streets in Stockholm are narrow with the exception of the main ones along the water front, so narrow that they are just two lane and you can almost shake hands with people on the opposite sidewalks. These streets are cobblestones, large cobble-stones, and at intersections are arranged in a fanlike formation.

To us, the traffic is just mad-dashing hither and thither in these narrow street, cars, trucks, bicycles and pedestrians. They drive on the left hand side of the road, like England and Scotland. Norway was like home, right side, and we hear Denmark is also. Building is going on everywhere on the outskirts of Stockholm and the buildings are as modern as in America.

We stop at an old church dated 1128, and are able to get some pictures of it and the beautifully kept graveyard for the weather is really favoring us today and the sun is shining. Their customs are very different. A cement curb surrounds the family plot, the headstones often part of this curb. There are flowers near the stone, but the rest of the plot is sand and gravel mixed, not sod, and carefully raked so that every tooth mark shows. Two men were working while we visited here, proving that labor is not such a difficult problem as at home. The church is of stone, plastered white, which has yellowed with age.

We are out in the country and see many herds of beautiful cattle. They are red, with very little white, a cross between the Swedish red and white (a strain common to the country) and the Ayreshire. We learn that all milk is standardized in Sweden. If butterfat content is high it is mixed with skim milk to bring it down to the standard of 3 per cent. There is no milk delivery in Sweden, everyone goes to a "milk shop" for their supply and it is bottled in bulk. These milk shops must be approved by the Board of Health. The cost is ten cents per quart. This information starts off with a discussion why the above would not work in Ontario. What do you think?

We pass luxurious field of red and white clovers and the white weed through them is not our pest, wild carrot, but the white daisy. Men are ploughing for fall wheat, a cultipacker stands idle in a field and farther on a combine, broken down on the job, waits for repairs. They are leaving stubble a foot high and we wonder the reason. Some thistle shows up where the grain is leaning. There are no road fences, no fences at all, except around pastrue fields.

We reach our destination, a beautiful situation on a promontory of over 300 acres jutting out into the sea. Vackstanas is a school for girls to learn something of farming and something of household science. It is popular for Swedish girls planning to marry and in its 10 months course they get instruction in foods, clothing, weaving (always prominent in Sweden), gardening, poultry-raising and dairying. It is beautifully kept, everything spotless and compares to the course taught at Kemptville. Girls can enter without a high school education. About 30 girls were studying here; the number is increased in the winter months. There were easily 20 hand looms in the bright sunny weaving room. The girls make many of the necessities for the school, tablecloths, cushion tops, rugs, drapes and even the blankets for the school are hand woven.

Teacher and pupils wear native costumes, for the majority of these girls come from rural districts where native dress is still worn. The girls prepare all the food and serve us a delicious dinner, started off with a special Swedish dish, which I confess I would have to acquire a liking for. Instead of hot soup we were served a sour milk, soured a special way, and on this you sprinkle sugar and cinnamon, or ginger. Those of us who liked buttermilk seemed to relish it.

The rest of the meal was delicious, including hot rolls, fresh from the oven. The girls entertain us with Swedish songs and out on the green after dinner dance some of their country dances for us. I see some of the red and white Swedish cattle near and crawl under an electric fence (1 strand of wire) to get a good picture of them.

Our next stop is at Tvetsberg—a large farm in the neighborhood and we are welcomed by the whole family, lined up to shake our hands. This farm is typical of the Swedish manor house and comprises 2,000 acres—1,500 acres of forest and 500 workable land. We are shown first the ultra-modern home of the son with his family of five, complete even to Bendix washer. The kitchen cupboards could teach us some lessons—the shelves built up, each one wider than the one below. On the left hand side of the monel-metal sink is the drying cupboard. Dishes are washed, scalded and left to dry, upended in these drying racks, a very sensible and ingenius arrangement. The cupboard doors were sliding ones—never in your way over your working surface.

We like young Mrs. Reinius' kitchen very much, it was a model of efficiency and good planning. She has an excellent Swedish stove not electric but one that burns either charcoal or coal and fitted with special metal covers over the lids which accumulate heat, so in a minute food can be cooking.

Mr. Reinius (Junior and Senior) takes us to see the large barns. The cow house (as they call it) is 110 metres long (a metre is 39 inches) and 20 metres wide, and is fitted to accommodate 110 cattle. We saw their herd come in to be milked—50 cows at four o'clock. Their milking machines are similar to ours. Their wooden silo is up in the barn which they fill with green hay, uncut, sprinkled regularly with a formic acid. They have 11 men working for them, all living with their families on the farm. Of these one is a mechanic and one a carpenter to keep everything in repair. Implements are modern—two Massey Harris trailors, diesels and one Allis-Chalmers. The repair house is fitted with lathes grinders, drills and electric and gas welding. Mr. Reinius stated the electric welding apparatus was the most valuable thing on the farm.

Afternoon coffee in the delightful old manor house, whose large rooms are distinctive with old Italian furniture and priceless pieces of glass and silver terminated a most interesting afternoon.

We leave for Copenhagen in the morning, the last lap of our trip and I hear it is a 12-hour journey. As I write this message to you, I hear the rain dripping steadily on the window ledge and I wonder if the same weather is prevailing at home.

ALL FRY-CADBURY BARS NOW 6¢ INCLUDING TAX

Last December, Fry-Cadbury Ltd. reintroduced 5¢ Chocolate Bars.

The public showed its hearty approval of this policy; sales grew so rapidly we had difficulty in meeting the demand.

Today, higher material prices, especially of cocoa beans and sugar, make the 5¢ price more difficult to maintain.

Nevertheless, Fry-Cadbury Ltd. is glad to announce that, due to careful planning and efficient production, the basic 5¢ price of all Fry-Cadbury bars remains unchanged until further notice, and, of course, the same fine quality will continue throughout.

Now, however, to meet the national emergency, our Government has placed a special new tax on all candy bars which means your Fry-Cadbury bars will cost you 6¢.

It is certainly worth remembering that Cadbury's Dairy Milk — Canada's finest milk chocolate — is only 6¢ a bar including tax.

Sunday School Lesson of the Week

Sincerity is Not Enough

By ROY L. SMITH

It must be remembered by religious people that not all the evil of this world is a result of the actions of the irreligious. It has often happened that desperate and despicable things have been done by those who have tried to excuse themselves on the ground that they were sincerely trying to do the thing that is right.

Sincerity is not enough, even in religion, even though it is one of the great virtues. It is possible to link sincerity with ignorance and produce a monstrous situation.

Saul Was a Sincere Man

There can be no question about it. Saul of Tarsus, the persecutor, the "hound of Heaven," was a sincere man.

As a zealous youth dedicated to the God of the Hebrews, he was determined to serve his faith with a whole heart no matter what the cost to him might be. Neither danger nor death held any terrors for him where the sanctity of his ancestral faith was concerned.

And it must also be conceded that the religion of the Jews, ceremonial and sterile though it may have been in that day, had produced the most moral and the most spiritually minded people of antiquity.

With a fanatical devotion the young man Saul had dedicated his life to the preservation of the highest and finest thing he knew—the faith of Israel. There was no hypocrisy of any kind about it.

But He Was Mistaken

With a zeal that was almost madness the young Pharisee imprisoned those who declared their loyalty to Jesus of Nazareth. With relentless fury he pursued those suspected of having deserted the faith for the cult of the Nazarene, and whenever the opportunity arose he cast his vote for their death. It was as if all the spirit of mercy and kindness had been seared out of his soul.

He was able to watch pure minded women and noble men go to their death without a twinge of conscience. He could be a monster and be proud of it. The pleas of saints fell on his unresponsive ears like hail on the stone pavement.

The Sunday School lesson for September 24: "Paul, World Evangelist," Acts 16:9-15; 17:22-31; 26; II Corinthians 11:22-12:10.

He Was Religious, Too

All his frenzy and hatred was cloaked in the guise of religion. Saul was able to persuade himself that he was defending the faith, doing the will of God, and saving his own soul.

Had the same things been done by the Roman governor, a pagan, the soul of Saul would probably have revolted. He would have charged the atrocities to his barbarism. But a perverted religion had so far blinded his eyes and closed his mind that he was entirely incapable of seeing his own sins.

This is to say that there is good religion in this world and there is also bad religion, and the only cure for bad religion is good religion.

Any religious faith which produces bitterness, hatred, cruelty, injustice, moral perversion, or callousness is bad religion.

No small part of the responsibility of good religion is its obligation to supplant bad religion—to put tolerance, kindliness, mercy, and the spirit of forgiveness in the place of intolerance, bitterness, sterility and unending hatred.

Transforming Ideas

Saul the persecutor, and Paul the Christian evangelist who could write the most beautiful prose poem on love that has ever been produced, were different in just one important respect.

Saul and Paul both had the same heredity, and both lived in the same world. Paul was different from Saul because of the different things he believed. Each was equally sincere, but Saul's sincerity was linked to prejudice and Paul's was a part of an enlightened mind.

Our Dreams Make Our Lives

Years after his experience on the Damascus Road, Paul explained to the Roman authorities that his whole later life was the product of a dream — a vision of something new and wonderful.

He described his life up to the moment of his great experience, and assured his judges that he had been religious, that he had been honest, and that he had been looking for the light in the wrong direction.

Once that the vision of the Damascus Road took possession of him he never deviated from the path. It was that vision which transformed his life, his thinking, his purposes, and all his attitudes.

He who lives without vision fails to live. The dumb brutes are satisfied with food, shelter, and warmth. But a man made in the image of God has to have more. It is that "more" of which dreams and visions are made.

This is the contribution that religion makes ot life when it is good religion. It lifts a man out of things earthy and makes it possible for him to see the things that cannot be explained in terms of the earth.

Sincerity, linked with vision, produces transformations of life.

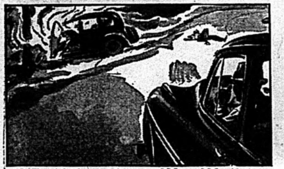
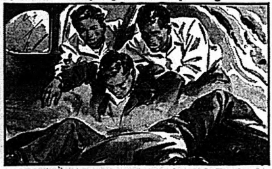
VALET FREES 3 OCCUPANTS OF WRECKED, BLAZING CAR

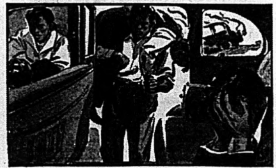
Robert Foster, 29, of Hamilton, Ont., with his wife's help, saves three young men from perishing in flames



1. The sight that met the eyes of Mr. and Mrs. Foster after midnight on the Mount Albion Road was anything but pleasant. An old model sedan had careened off the road, ploughed 60 feet along a gulley and smashed into a tree. A broken fuel line had sprayed gasoline on the hot motor and flames broke out. Leaping from his car, the young valet ran to the scene.



2. One man had been thrown to the road. The hood had been ripped off and the motor wrapped around the tree. In spite of her husband's protests, Mrs. Foster insisted on helping to get one man out. Then Foster had to rip off the back part of the front seat to get the other two men free. By this time the whole car had been enveloped in flames. An explosion might easily have followed.



3. Foster put three of the victims in his car and drove them to the hospital. The fourth was taken in a police ambulance. Thanks to the coolness and unselfish efforts of Robert Foster and his wife, the four seriously injured men did not burn to death in the wreck. We are proud to present THE DOW AWARD to this gallant young Canadian citizen.

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

BACK TO KELP

Point - au - Pere, Quebec — We had followed the highway down the south bank of the St. Lawrence as far as St. Anne-de-la-Pocatiere and then it curved inland through farm country with white-sided,- red roofed barns, then back down to the river again, and then at Point-au-Pere, a few miles past Rimouski, it happened.

The windows of the car were opened because it was a fine, warm, autumn day. For some strange reason we had all begun sniffing the air like retrievers.

"It couldn't be . . . ." I began.

"But it is!" Brown Eyes cried. "Seaweed!"

I pulled in hastily by the side of the road, almost on the lawn of a small cottage facing out to the gulf, and we scrambled like fools from the car. across the road and down across a slope of gravel to the water's edge.

The kelp along the shore was amber and glistening.

Small, bulbuous - eyed fish (could they be bullheads?) darted in the quiet pools left by the tide. Tern and seagulls were floating lightly on the dark blue water which stretched away into a light blue haze. From a red and white lighthouse a half mile up the shore came the lonesome clang of an iron bell.

I bent to the water, dipped my hand in it and gave it the tongue test. It was sure enough salty to the taste. I turned and saw that my wife and the kids were crouched, smelling the seaweed. We were all a little foolish with happiness.

After exactly 6767 miles of travel we'd come once more to the edge of an ocean . . . from the Gulf of Georgia to the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

Men in Love

Please. Don't tell me I'm sounding like John Cabot just because we made a drive that thousands of tourists make every year. I grant you that it's no exploit. But it is a thrill for a seaside dweller to whiff that wonderful fragrance after nearly four months away from it.

What a wonderful tang it has! If this trip of ours has confirmed any prejudice it has been that devotion for the ocean.

Take your glorious mountains, take your beautiful plains of wheat, your forest, your hill and dale. Give me a small corner where the surf sighs and there's a sharp, clean smell of salt water and I will ask for no more.

When we had fueled up our lungs with that ozone we returned to the trailer to find a place to park for the night. I saw that the porch of the cottage was occupied by a small, elderly gentleman wearing a Basque beret.

He was surveying us with open curiosity and I realized that our performance must have seemed extraordinary, if not downright ludicrous. All that sniffing of the kelp, the finger dipped in the water and, too, we were now all carrying bouquets of seaweed and wearing idiotic smiles. It could have been alarming.

I felt that some explanation was called for, pointed dramatically at our British Columbia licence plates, swept my arm out to the gulf and called up to him, "Le mer !Formidable"!

At first I wasn't sure he understood. But then a quick and wonderful smile creased the old man's face. He spoke very rapidly in French, none of which I understood, and concluded with a sweeping motion of his arm out to the sea that made mine seem amateur theatrical stuff.

We had at that moment an understanding that transcended any barrier of language or temperament. We both happened to have the same love.

Our farewell this morning to Quebec City was a reluctant one.

We hauled our caravan through the city at eight o'clock with the early morning sun showering the old stone town with silver. The suburbanites were converging with their bright morning faces on the business district, the children, so neatly and formally dressed, trudged to school and, for the moment, we felt . . . well . . . out of things.

But then we were out in the open country where fall has its first grip with here and there bright new rust through the green.

And again the kind of country that keeps the traveller's head on a swivel as we hummed along a fine broad road past the neat farms with barns as bright to the eye as a Georgia O'Keefe painting and the broad St. Lawrence unfurling alongside with the Laurentians rising like dark clouds in the distant mist.

On through the little towns that press in, as if for companionship, upon the road, each dominated by the great high churches, and the farms that run in narrow strips down to the river between fences grey with age.

It was a pleasant prelude to that exciting moment when the old familiar tang brought us to a halt.

We have moved no more than a hundred yards from where it hit and here for the night we've set up camp within sight, sound and smell of the sea.

Good Companions Hold First Fall Meeting

Last Friday ushered in the fall activities of the Good Companions Club of the Tabernacle United Church.

A goodly number of hungry people turned up for a feed of corn, topped with hot dogs.

Club president, Morris Smith, welcomed the members, after which Herb Parks led the group in a lively, if not exactly tuneful, sing-song. Then the recreation leaders, Mr. and Mrs. Lew Andrews conducted games.

Everyone enjoyed the evening immensely — the sing-song, the games and the refreshments — and are looking forward to the next meeting to be held in the church in October.

VARIED VIEWPOINT

Air Marshal W. A. Curtis, chief of air staff, is the only Canadian chief of staff who has served in all three services.

Howe and Hagerman Win Odd Game In Five to Oust Stewart-Warner

At Alemite Field, last evening, Howe and Hagerman earned the right to meet Point Anne in the finals for the "A" section championship of the Commercial Softball League as they defeated Stewart-Warner 9-4 in the fifth and deciding game of the best th[illegible]of-five series.

[illegible]art-Warner opened the [illegible] in the first frame when [illegible]-two out, Bertrim doubled to [illegible] field and was driven home by V. Carr who doubled to right. Howe and Hagerman combined singles by Donovan, Spafford and Mallory along with two Alemite errors, to push across four big markers. A triple by Rollins and a single by Don Adams gave the "Plumbers" a run in the second inning. Two more runs were sent across the platter in the third inning as an Alemite error and three consecutive base hits paved the way.

From the third inning on the game developed into a pitcher's duel with Al Adams of Howe and Hagerman and Marty Halloran of Stewart-Warner throwing effective ball.

Good Pitching

In the sixth frame Vern Carr, who led all hitters at the plate, smashed a tremendous home run to right centre field to give another run to Stewart-Warner. Marty Halloran gave the best hurling performance of the evening in the last of the sixth. The first three men, Hunter, Doyle and A. Adams, each beat out infield singles. However Halloran settled down and proceeded to strike out the side as Rollins, Donovan and Spafford all waved at third strikes.

Al Adams went the route for the winners and effectively scattered nine Stewart-Warner hits to gain credit for the win. Only in the first and eighth innings did he allow more than one safety. Adams fanned five hitters and did not issue a walk as he kept the game well in hand.

Howe and Hagerman touched Marty Halloran for fifteen hits, while his mates committed eight errors behind him. Halloran struck out five and walked one.

Rollins, Spafford, Don Adams, Wardaugh, Hunter and Al Adams each claimed two safeties for the winners.

Vern Carr pounded out a single, double and a homer in a losing cause while Rowbotham and LeForte hit two safeties each.

So now the Howe and Hagerman crew hook up with the high flying "Cementmen" from the Point who downed the Brewers in straight games.

Batawa Forfeits Game When No Catcher Available

Insufficient manpower in the catching department forced the Batawa Shoemen to forfeit its Intermediate "A" playdown game with Bowmanville here last night after six and one-third innings of play. The score, 4-1 for the visitors, reverted to the conventional 9-0 after the Shoemen were unable to continue

Johnny Aquino, first - string catcher was ejected from the game early in the seventh innings by Umpire Don Thomas. Gene Spencer, second string catcher, was used in the starting line-up and gave way to Gordie Mufritt in a pinch-hitting role in the fifth. This left the Shoemen without a receiver, and the Batawa squad was forced to concede the game.

Up to this point, the game from a playing point of view was good enough with three runs separating the teams. Player arguments and near-fisticuffs with more or less open warfare threatening to break out momentarily marred the pastime until the climax came after the ejection of Aquino.

Get the Gate

It happened this way. Yourth, Bowmanville third-sacker who tripled, raced for the plate on a perfect squeeze play after Hooper, his catcher laid down a bunt along the first base line. The play was made at first, and as Yourth came in Aquino blocked the plate. The pair went into a clinch and the plate official promptly gave them the gate.

Legree started on the mound for Bowmanville and hurled masterful ball during the abbreviated pastime. He allowed but two hits and one unearned run while striking out three and walking one.

Noble Willis, Bata starting pitcher, hurled good enough ball but was "pulled" (while the fans raised puzzled eyebrows) in the fifth after giving up two runs and five hits in 4 and two-thirds innings. Art. Wright took over and was touched for two runs and 4 hits in two innings.

Near-Rhubarb

A near-rhubarb occurred near second base early in the game when Mouse Bush, Red Carson and a Bowmanville player nearly came to blows after Bush claimed the runner had "gave him the spikes". Feeling was high and tempers beginning to flare when the game came to its sudden ending.

Peacock's three - bagger and Carson's single were the only Batawa hits. Yourth, hit a triple, double and single for the winners with Hooper getting a pair.

The teams:

Bowmanville: Gilhooley 2b; Bagnell cf; Yourth 3b; Hooper c; Furey lf; Cox rf; Hamilton ss; Batten 1b; Legree p.

Batawa: Spencer lf; Mufitt lf; Aquino c; Carson ss; Watson 1b; Bush 2b; Solmes 2b; Peacock cf; Semark rf; Bridgeman rf; Rankin 3b; Willis p; Wright p.

Bowmanville	002 000 2—	4	8	1
Batawa	010 000 x—	1	2	3

x—One out when game was forfeited in seventh. Official score, Bowmanville 9, Batawa 0.

Umpires: Thomas plate, Townsend, bases, both of Belleville.

Irwin Praises Rookies in Camp Of Les Canadiens

(By The Canadian Press)

Coach Dick Irvin, who can be as talkative at a hockey training camp as an owl, came right out Thursday and said the kids training with Montreal Canadiens "are the finest group of rookies we've had since 1940-41."

That was the year Elmer Lach, Ken Reardon and others made their start with Canadiens.

"As a rule the rookies are flying in the first couple of days and then start to tail off," said the coach.

Just then Paul Masnick, stocky young centre from Regina, racked up his fourth goal of the day, and Irvin became downright loquacious.

"Our gang is getting stronger each day and it's going to be tough to pick our team. We have six boys who look like topnotchers and a couple more who aren't far off."

Irvin said those who have impressed him most are Jean Beliveau of Quebec, Masnick, Dickie Moore, up from the Junior Canadiens, Reg Abbott, ex-Brandon wheat kings, and a trio from the farm pastures of the American Hockey League, Frank King, Tom Johnson and Bud McPherson.

Winnipeg backfielder Tom Casey is still leading western football converence in point-scoring.

Statistics released Thursday by league secretary Bob Gillies show the Negro speedster has amassed 30 points, all on touchdowns.

In second place is Saskatchewan Roughriders' quarterback Jack Hartman with 28 points. All but five of his points have been scored on converts and field goals.

Royal Copeland, former Toronto Argo Halfback now with Calgary Stampeders, is third with five touchdowns for 25 points.

One point behind him is the place-kicking playing coach of the Edmonton Eskimos, Annis Stukus, with 24 points, made up of 17 converts, two field goals and one single.

Al Rollins, thrown overboard by the New York Rangers seven seasons ago, seems to be gunning for Turk Broda's job in the Toronto Maple Leafs net.

Rollins was stricken by rheumatic fever while at a Ranger training camp at the age of 16. His hard fight along the comeback trail has seen him play hockey with Seattle of the Pacific Coast League, help Edmonton Flyers win the Canadian Amateur Title in 1948, and play with Kansas City Flyers of the United States leagues.

Rollins played 27 games for Pittsburgh Pirates last season. This season, said Leaf coach Joe Primeau at the team's St. Catharines camp, "he has come up with flashes of mighty good goal-tending. He has been particularly good on close-in plays."

Melville (Butch) Keeling, former forward with New York Rangers of the National Hockey League and an N.H.L. referee for the last three years, has accepted an offer to coach Brampton Regents, an Ontario Hockey Association Junior Club, it was announced Thursday.

The re-appointment of Steve O'Neill as manager of Boston Red Sox for the 1951 American League season was announced Thursday by General Manager Joe Cronin.

O'Neill took over the Red Sox last June 23, after Joe McCarthy resigned with the club in fourth place with a record of 33 victories and 30 losses.

Tom Poholsky Squares Accounts With Baltimore

Rochester, N.Y., Sept. 22 (AP) —Tom Poholsky, ace righthander of Rochester Red Wings, picked an opportune moment to square accounts with Baltimore Orioles.

Poholsky won 18 games during the regular season but failed to beat the Orioles, who defeated him three times.

The 21-year-old righthander got his revenge last night as he pitched the Wings to a 12-2 victory over the Orioles in the opening game of the best-of-seven international league final playoffs.

Poholsky turned in a neat six-hitter, but lost a shut out when Clyde Kluttz poled a two-run homer in the second inning.

Kluttz, belt put Baltimore ahead 2-1, but the Wings came back in their half of the second with a five-run barrage that routed started Bob Raney. Don Richmond featured the uprising with a three-run homer. Russ Derry and Don Bollweg also homered for the winners, who belted out 15 hits. Dick Cole and Larry Ciaffone collected three hits apiece and each scored three times.

The second game will be played here tonight. Either Eddie Yuhas or Jackie Collumn will pitch for Rochester against Iry Medlinger or Tommy Fine.

The third, fourth and fifth games of the series will be in Baltimore Saturday, Monday and Tuesday nights. Remaining games if necessary will be played in Rochester. The winner then will meet the American Association's playoff winner, either Columbus or Indianapolis, in the Little World Series.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Baseball's position, at its best a precarious one in this village, did not get any boost in popularity at the exhibition staged at the Fair Grounds last night in the game between Bowmanville Roses and Batawa. What started off to be a good game ended in a seventh inning fiasco with the Shoemen forced to withdraw and Bowmanville taking the game by the conventional 9-0 score.

* * *

The majority of the little more than the figurative "handful" of fans present, went home more or less disgusted with the proceedings. It was apparent from the start that "feelings" existed between the squads, which were fanned by argumentative, and on a couple of occasions, physical rhubarbs. These, plus some poor player strategy by the Batawa bench pointed the way to the finale that saw the Batawa team forced to leave the field because of inability to field a full squad.

* * *

The Batawa management showed a definite lack of judgment in including its two available catchers, Aquino and Spencer on the starting lineup Gene Spencer was taken out of the game for Gordie Muffitt in the fifth and in the seventh Johnny Aquino got the heave-ho from Umpire Don Thomas. With no other receivers at hand, the Shoemen were forced to concede the game. After all, you can't play baseball with eight men.

* * *

Catcher Aquino was ejected from the game when he blocked the plate after a Bowmanville batter had bunted and scooted for first in a squeeze play. Aquino and the runner coming in from third went into a bunny hug at the plate and got the gate from Umpire Thomas. The official was right in claiming that the catcher had no authority to block the platter since no play was being made there.

* * *

Previously Mouse Bush, Red Carson and a Bowmanville player started rudimentary fistic activities around second base after Bush appeared to be spiked. Base umpire "Red" Townsend stepped between the pugilistically inclined gentry, but no punishment was handed out. On another occasion Art. Wright, Batawa pitcher, combined with Bagnelle of Bowmanville, while the latter was batting, in an "in-again-out-again" dance. Apparently there was no love lost between this pair, and they staged a war of nerves of their own.

* * *

Players of both teams appeared to be on edge, and it was evident that very little fuel would be required for the flame of hostilities to break out in the open. However, the game came to an abrupt end when the plate incident occurred. Consistent substitution on the part of Batawa reduced its manpower to scratch and when Aquino got the heave-ho that was that.

AN ENJOYABLE ENDING

The Belleville Cubs baseball club wrote an enjoyable fini to its 1950 activities at the popular Golden Acres last night when the players were the guests of the executive at a chicken dinner banquet. Presentations of sports shirts were made to the players through Vice-President Bill Lockyer, while Coach Speedy St. Louis was the recipient of a handsome mantle clock. The gesture of the executive was greatly appreciated by the players, especially in view of the fact that it was made possible through the "funds of a few". The get-together clearly demonstrated the good feelings that exist between players, coaches, officials and the executive, and while a number of pats on the back were handed out they were thoroughly deserved. The harmony that existed on the playing field, on the bench and in the executive chamber was one of the main factors that brought about the consistent performances of the Cubs throughout the season, and their rise to runners-up for the Belleville and District League title.

* * *

Starting on a financial shoestring (and they ended with the tag) a lot of faith, and the co-operation of the players, the executive through personal sacrifice of time and their own money, plus a few meagre donations, battled successfully to keep the spark of baseball smouldering in Belleville. They did a good job, developed a team that proved a credit to its management and its city, and finished the seasonal activities in an aura of harmony and good will.

ON TO THE FINALS

Howe and Hagermans Barriage-mentored pipefitters will join battle with the fast-stepping Point Anne team in the Commercial Softball League "A" section finals, it was decided last night when the "How-Hags" eliminated the Stewarners in the fifth game of their semi-final series. The first game of the championship series will be played at Exhibition Park under the lights tomorrow (Saturday) night. Al Adams, ace How-Hag hurler will cross pitching rapiers with Pat Maracle, starry Point Anne flinger in the all-important opening game, and all indications point to a mushball thriller.

"BEAUTY AND THE . . ."

Here's a tip to the wrestling faithful. Better get the bacon and beans early this evening, if you intend taking in the clash between the Whipper Watson - Timothy Geohagen team and that of Fred Atkins and Leering Lee Henning at Memorial Arena. For interest is at a high pitch and no doubt Manager Walter Gerow's wigwam will be rafter-packed.

The Bulldozers of Bashem, Atkins and Henning are in an ugly mood since their defeat at the hands of the handsome duo of Watson and Geohagen. Billy and Timmy, however, do not scare easily and they have adopted the "we-did-it-before-and-we-can-do-it-again" attitude. But anything can happen, and it probably will. Atkins and Henning have promised the pair a thorough going over, and not once and not lightly. This time, they claim it will be for keeps. So it looks like a hot time in the old town tonight, and there should be fireworks, fun and fury.

Tigers Have Chance to Head American Loop by Whipping Indians, Yanks-Red Sox Idle

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Detroit Tigers tonight go after undisputed possession of first place in the see-saw American League pennant struggle, while the idle New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox twiddle their thumbs.

Detroit takes on the tough Indians in Cleveland in the opener of a three-game series while the Yanks and Red Sox mark time in New York. Boston and New York open a two-game series in the Yankee Stadium tomorrow.

The Tigers yesterday tied the Yanks for the lead by trouncing Philadelphia Athletics 8-2. The Red Sox and the Yanks are not scheduled.

Here's the picture at a glance:

	W.	L.	Pct.	GB	GL
New York	91	53	.632	—	10
Detroit	91	53	.632	—	10
Boston	89	55	.618	2	10

Hal Newhouser, 29-year-old lefthander, has been selected to pitch for the Tigers against the Indians' Bob Feller. Both boast identical 14-11 records.

The Indians have proved one of the Tigers' toughest adversaries this year. They have clashed 17 times, with each side winning eight games. The other resulted in a 13-13 tie. The victories were evenly distributed, four for each in Cleveland and Detroit.

Newhouser has beaten the Indians four times and lost to them twice. Both of his defeats came in Cleveland's Municipal Stadium. Feller holds a 2-1 card against the Tigers.

Meanwhile, Yank manager Casey Stengel had a pitching problem to solve. His team will work out at the stadium today and two of his aces, righthander Vic Raschi and lefthander Ed Lopat, will try out their ailing arms.

Ready to Pitch Sunday

Raschi, a 20-game winner, was examined yesterday by the club physician, Dr. Sidney Gaynor, who reported him suffering from a slightly-inflamed muscle behind the shoulder. Gaynor was of the opinion that Raschi would be ready to pitch Sunday.

Lopat will probably get the nod for the series opener if he shows no traces of his recent arm trouble. If Lopat is not up to par, Allie Reynolds will get the call to face the Red Sox' Mel Parnell.

An injury-plagued pitching staff hindered the Athletics in their game with the Tigers yesterday.

The Tigers jumped on Joe Coleman, who has had arm trouble, for six runs in the first six innings and were never headed. Coleman, who walked nine, lingered six innings. The A's have only nine pitchers, including three rookies.

Freddie Hutchinson went all the way for the Tigers and was rapped for 13 hits, five more than the Tigers collected. Four doubleplays eased Hutchinson's task. The victory was his 17th.

The game was the only one scheduled in the American League.

Cards Defeated

In the National, Boston Braves defeated St. Louis Cardinals 5-0. and Brooklyn Dodgers thumped the Pittsburgh Pirates 10-8 to remain tied for second place. They trail the league-leading Philadelphia Phillies by seven games. The Phils and Chicago Cubs were idle.

Warren Spahn blanked the Cards on two hits to rack up his 21st victory. The Braves sewed things up in the first inning when Sam Jethroe crashed his 17th home run with a man on base.

The Dodgers overcame a 4-1 deficit with four runs in the fourth inning and followed up with five more in the fifth to clinch the decision over the Pirates.

In the only other game, Cincinnati Reds defeated New York Giants 8-5. The Reds piled up a 7-1 lead in four innings for Howie Fox, who blew up in the eighth and granted four runs before Frank Smith came on to save the game.

The victory ended an 11-game winning streak for the Giant righthander Sal Maglie. The loss was Maglie's fourth against 16 victories. Three of the setbacks were administered by the Reds.

Ottawa Bounces Back in Running For Loop Title

Ottawa, Sept. 22. (CP)—Ottawa Nationals bounced back into the Border Baseball League playoffs Thursday night, beating Ogdensburg Maples 3-2, and all on the strength of six bases on balls.

The Maples lead the best-of-seven series two games to one. Ogdensburg won the first game 5-1 and the second 3-0. The fourth game will be played in Ogdensburg tonight.

Maples started Lefty Bob Smith on the mound and he started things popping right off, allowing six bases on balls before he was yanked for Cal Perry. But the damage was done and Nats were three runs ahead.

Perry held the hit-hungry Nats to two bingles for the rest of the route, neither of which produced further scoring.

Maples scored one in the first and got another in the ninth on a sacrifice play.

MANAGER RE-HIRED

Ottawa, Sept. 22. (CP)—T. P. (Tommy) Gorman, general-manager of Ottawa Nationals, 1950 Border Baseball League pennant winners, announced Thursday playing-manager Bill Metzig will continue in his present role for the 1951 season.

Metzig has been with the team since the league began in 1947 and has been playing-manager since 1948.

Ottawa-Argos Clash Steals The Spotlight

(By The Canadian Press)

This could be the weekend to indicate which club will represent Eastern Canada in the Grey Cup finals this year.

The way they played last week, Ottawa Rough Riders and Toronto Argonauts look good. They meet for the first time Saturday and the winner could go the rest of the way—although there's a long, long way to go.

In the west, the schedule calls for a repeat of last weekend—Edmonton plays at Calgary and Winnipeg plays at Regina.

In the other game in the Interprovincial Football Union, Hamilton Tiger-Cats, licking their wounds after a 48-8 drubbing from Argos last week, are at home to Montreal Alouettes, who were smashed 42-15 by Ottawa.

Argos, with three wins and a loss, lead the league, a single game ahead of Ottawa and Hamilton who were tied for second place. Montreal trails with a single win and three defeats.

In the Ontario Rugby Football Union, Toronto Balmy Beach and Windsor Rockets — both winless so far — meet at Windsor in a Sunday game. Balmy Beach has an exhibition game Saturday with the university of Western Ontario Mustangs at London, Ont.

The Winnipeg-Regina game could turn into a scoring duel between Tom Casey of Winnipeg and Jack Hartmann of Roughriders. Casey, with 30 points, leads the league in scoring. Hartmann has racked up 26 on field goals and converts.

Winnipeg is two points behind Edmonton in the league race, but has played one less game. That means Winnipeg and Calgary victories would put Bombers and Eskimos in a tie for first place. Roughriders are two points behind the bombers while Calgary trails with a single win and six losses.

Loop Standings To be Computed By Percentage

Ottawa, Sept. 22 — (CP) The Eastern Canada Senior Hockey League decided Thursday night to adopt one from baseball's book this season — the percentage system.

At it's annual meeting the league decided to adopt the baseball percentage system for computing league standings.

Reasons for the move are an unbalanced schedule due to availability or unavailability of ice on given dates at certain league points and the fact Pembroke with natural ice, will be a late starter.

It was felt the percentage method was the "only fair way of listing the league standings."

It was disclosed at the meeting that Renfrew has withdrawn from the league this year, leaving a six-team circuit composed of Cornwall Calumets, 1949 champions, Hull Volants Canadian Army, RCAF Flyers, Pembroke Lumber Kings and North Bay Black Hawks.

Opening league games will be on Oct. 13 with Army meeting Calumets at Cornwall and Hull meeting Flyers at Ottawa.

All league officers were re-elected.

Backfielders Sought by Als After Disastrous Season Opening

Montreal, Sept. 22. (CP)—Anybody happen to notice a fast backfielder around? Coach Lew Hayman of the Montreal Alouettes Football Club is looking for one —or even a couple.

The harried maestro needs two backs to give a little oomph to his groggy Canadian champions. What with injuries and an inexplicable lack of punch, Hayman has been driven almost to the point of distraction.

The Montreal football faithful have gone all the way.

In the last three games—all shocking losses—any resemblance of Alouettes to their Gray Cup championship status has been not only incidental but largely accidental.

Affairs reached such a state before last week's game at Ottawa that President Leo Dandurand said flatly there was too much complacency and smugness about the squad.

"But I think their mental attitude has changed now," he said today. "They have just about had that sort of stuff knocked out of them."

Dandurand pointed to the long list of injuries that has beset the club, in addition to the indifferent display of many.

The collapse of the 1949 champions has had Hayman trying frantically to put his finger exactly on the reason or reasons associated therewith.

Three Regulars Ready

Lack of condition, mental attitude and just plain dumbness have been advanced by scores of football fans.

In the backfield Hayman has three uninjured regulars—Virgil Wagner, Alex Pantages and Tommy Mahesterskv.

Pete Thodos, Joey Pal and Bobby Cunningham are still out with injuries. Frankie Filchock has played with a damaged finger and shoulder injury. Both his passing and prestige suffered.

Johnny Harper and Bruce Coulter, chest injuries and all, will go against Hamilton Tiger-Cats Saturday.

Definite decision about Ab Box may not be made until closer to game time. The 41-year-old ex-Argo was hauled out of retirement to handle the kicking last Saturday. He was stiff and sore after the chore and has had business interests up north to look after this week.

The team may snap out of its lethargy at the expense of the Cats, although Hayman isn't banking too much on his newcomers. He feels it takes much longer to drill them in plays, signals and all-round knowledge of what to do and when to do it.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

In the heat of battle an oversight can be fatal. All it takes is one little misstep to lose a chance for an opportunity. East had his head buried in the sand when defending in this deal:

NORTH

SOUTH

South was declarer at four hearts that west had doubled. East had stuck in a defensive spade bid during the first round. So, the opening lead from west was his singleton spade jack.

Dummy ducked and east won the first trick with spade ace. A spade was promptly returned by east. South ducked and west ruffed this return spade. Thus did the opponents get the first two tricks.

Two more tricks taken by them would defeat the contract. So, west made the only return that looked as if east could get in again. The lead to the third trick by west was diamond queen.

Instead of covering with the king, dummy ducked and here is where east went to sleep. Knowing the west queen would win the trick, east neglected to grab it with his ace.

East had his mind on the fact that his ace would still top the dummy king. This made him forget that west needed another spade return. Or he hoped that south had at least two diamonds.

Thus left in the lead with the third trick for his side, west led another diamond. But now south could keep east out of the lead. This south could do by ruffing the second diamond round.

Four top trumps then pulled the west trump fangs. When he got around to it, declarer successfully finessed a club. On the top club he then had in dummy, south sluffed a small spade. His only remaining spade was then the king which was now good.

Given time to consider everything, the neglect of east appears as a colossal blunder. Probably it is in championship play. But it is not for me to criticize it. I have done worse.

AT THE BELLE

"They Live By Night", Blends Romance and Suspense

Two of the screen's most brilliant young players, Farley Granger and Cathy O'Donnell, have the romantic roles in RKO Radio's drama, "They Live by Night", one of two features showing tonight at the Belle for the last times.

Howard deSylvia is co-starred with them in the poignant romance of two lovers enmeshed in a crime wave.

His love affair with the first and only girl he has ever known, and his desperate efforts to escape with her from his sinister companions and carve a new career for himself, builds up to a powerful climax. A remarkable atmosphere of reality and amazing "chase" scenes filmed from a helicopter make the picture a novel type of screen offering.

"Golden Twenties" 2nd Feature

In "The Golden Twenties", the 2nd worthy feature attraction on the same program, the younger portion of our today's population gets an excellent chance to see the events, the personages and the trends that laid the foundation for our present day status in America. If, as an old adage has it, what you do today determines what you will be tomorrow—then here is the picture record of our yesteryears, from which our present period has evolved.

"The Golden Twenties" is a fascinating seventy minute screen review of the jazz age, the decade that followed the end of the First World War, embracing the years from 1918 to 1930. The Warner-Pathe News completes the program. The last complete show starts at 8.30 p.m.

HOW THEY DID IT

Brantford Red Sox and Waterloo Tigers emerged from the six-team playoff scramble to gain berths in the Intercounty Senior Baseball League finals and league statistics show exactly how they did it.

Figures on the round-robin series show the Red Sox led the six clubs in team batting with a .290 average while the Tigers emerged from the error-spotted competition as fielding leaders with a .957 mark.

In addition, Brantford produced the individual batting leader in Johnny Lockington at .424, while Waterloo's Joe Yosurak was the leading pitcher with three victories and no losses.

St. Thomas Legionnaires, who barely lost out in their bid for the finals, produced the leader in runs batted in—Bill Hahlke with 14.

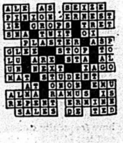
Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle:



Little Benny's Note Book

Today in school Miss Kitty told us about happiness saying, As a generel rule, the most useful lives are the happiest ones, but in the coarse of histery there have been some great exceptions to the rule. Can anyone tell me what a martyr is? Well, Howerd? she said.

Meening Shorty Judge waving his hand, and Shorty said, It's a man from Mars.

Not at all, a martyr is a person who suffers without complaining, in order to brighten the lives of his fellow men, Miss Kitty said. A martyr sticks through thick and thin to what he believes is the rite and the truth. Sometimes we all have a chance to be martyrs in our small way by sticking to our principals for the good of others, even though our motives may be misunderstood. Now perhaps someone in the class can give an example from his own personal nollege. Yes, Beinny? she said.

Meening me waving, and I said, One time nobody in the class hadn't been late for neerly a whole week, and you told us if we kept up the perfect record till Friday you would let the class off a whole hour erly for a reward, and Friday came, and that's exactly what happened.

I remember the occasion very well, but who was the martyr in that case? Miss Kitty said, and I said, I was. Friday morning I made a mistake in the time on account of different peeple telling me different, so instead of coming into school late I stayed away the whole day to keep from breaking the record, and the next day I got accused of playing hookey from school when I was only suffering for the good of others, and being a martyr, I said.

That's an extremely doubtful example and I dont think I'll call for any others, Miss Kitty said.

Which she didn't.

Miss Emma Porter presided at the organ after her long absence through illness. The church was suitably decorated for this service with flowers, fruits and vegetables. This service was largely attended.

The congregation of Thomasburg United Church withdrew their regular service on Sunday evening and joined with the Bethel congregation for their annual anniversary service, when the Rev. Morley Clarke was the guest speaker.

Blood on the Stars

By Brett Halliday

"There'll be a nice reward for the man who gets his hands on those rubies," Harvey commented placidly.

Shayne nodded. "I'm not saying I wouldn't turn a deal if they dropped in my lap." He sprang to his feet as the bedroom door opened and Dr. Price came out.

"She'll pull through, I trust." The doctor closed the door. "Concussion, all right. She's still unconscious, but her pulse is stronger and I anticipate he'll come out of it in fifteen or twenty minutes now."

"Enough to be questioned?" asked the sergeant.

The physician frowned. "I don't advise it. She must have absolute quiet. Recovery depends on mental as well as physical calm. Miss Naylor is preparing a hypodermic and watching her condition closely. I've instructed her to inject a strong sedative the moment she shows signs of returning consciousness."

"If you want Lucy Hamilton to feel mentally at ease you'll let her answer a couple of questions before you put her out again, Doc," Shayne told him strongly. "She's been my secretary for over two years, ano her first thought will be to give me information about her attacker."

Dr. Price tugged at his goatee and studied the detective thoughtfully. They had known and respected each other a long time, though there were no close bonds between them. "It might not upset her so much if you asked her a couple of questions in strict privacy," he offered after a moment. "But I wouldn't advise. . ."

"You don't quite get it, Doc," Shayne said. "These cops think maybe I conked her. If they don't hear the words from her, they'll never believe I didn't.

The doctor's expression cleared. "I see. You mean to say you don't mind them hearing anything she may say?"

Shayne tugged at his earlobe and said softly, "I believe you were trying to cover up for me. Do you think I slugged her?"

"I confess the possibility did enter my mind," said the doctor with dignity. "I find a young lady in night clothes in your bed, a pistol on the floor where he appear to have dropped it, and every indication that she was pushed or slapped and tripped on the carpet, falling backward and striking her head on the radiator."

"Wait a minute." Shayne advanced on him, his gray eyes glinting. "You say there's a gun on the bedroom floor? And Lucy fell against the radiator after being shoved or slapped?"

"I am not a detective," said the doctor drily, "but that is what I infer from the nature of her wound and the bloodstains on the radiator. Naturally, I assumed you either knew what had taken place or had drawn the same obvious deduction as I."

Shayne said, "I didn't take time to look at anything in the bedroom. You got here so fast I didn't even have time to go back in there to do any deducing."

"Lucky I was dressed and could come at once. Another ten minutes might have been too late. If it hadn't been for some practical joker, the young lady might have been dead by now."

"What's this about a practical joker," asked Sergeant Harvey.

"Some fool who called me about twelve-thirty and got me out of bed and a sound sleep. He insisted there was an emergency in apartment six-oh-three, and I got dressed and hurried up there. I confess I was annoyed when I found the place dark and rang the bell several times before I got an answer. Though not so annoyed," he went on with a faint chuckle, "as the man who finally answered the door bell. He insisted there was no emergency in that apartment and that he definitely had not telephoned for a physician. He was quite rude about refusing me entrance, and finally suggested we were both the victims of a practical joker. He gave the impression," the doctor concluded sedately, "that it would be distinctly embarassing if I were to enter."

"What kind of a joint is this?" demanded Sergeant Harvey of Shayne.

Shayne disregarded the sergeant's course humor. He asked Dr. Price, "Do you honestly believe it might injure Miss Hamilton to answer just a couple of questions?"

"Probably not" said the doctor frankly. "But I warn you she must talk very little and must not be excited. If she regains consciousness shortly, as I anticipate, I will withhold the injection until the moment she is able to talk. It will take possibly two minutes to take effect, and during those two minutes you may ask her any questions necessary."

Miss Naylor appeared in the doorway as he finished speaking and said quietly, "She's on the verge of consciousness, Doctor. Shall I give her the injection now?

"I want to allow her about two minutes of full consciousness, Miss Naylor," Dr. Price told his nurse. "Give her the injection the moment she is able to talk."

150 British Troops Killed, Wounded By U.S. Plane Fire

Raked With Incendiary Bombs, Machine-Gun Fire

Waegwan, Korea, Sept. 23 (CP)—American planes and communist guns killed or wounded more than 150 British troops today.

The American hit the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders with napalm (jellied gasoline) incendiary bombs and raked them with machine gun fire after the British troops had called for air support.

After the fighter-bombers had struck, the communists swept over the position—held by the Argyll companies — and long-range communist guns lobbed shells into the British lines farther back.

In 30 minutes the dead and wounded were believed to be well over 150.

The mistaken raid was on high ground which the Argylls had just

Recognition Panels Used

The planes dropped their explosives too far back in spite of huge recognition panels laid out by the Scots.

Before the communist attack the Argylls called for artillery support but none was available, the Americans having already captured.
withdrawn their guns.

An Associated Press photographer, Gene Herrick, watched the bombing incident from an advanced command post about 400 yards away.

Herrick said he made a number of pictures, but soon put down his camera to help carry litters of British wounded across the Naktong River.

While he was helping to carry a wounded private across a bridge, North Koreans opened fire on the litter column with a 76-millimetre self-propelled gun.

The A.P. photographer said many of the British Tommies were angry, but others, including Pte. Arthur Holmes, of Liverpool, were philosophical. Holmes said: "It's just one of those things. This is something that couldn't be helped. Up to now the Yank air force has given us very good support.

Two Companies Hit

Pte. John Grant, of Glasgow, said "the better part of two companies was hit," and several officers were lost. Grant himself was injured.

On the way back from the command post, Herrick said he heard Pte. Stanley Williamson of Birmingham, tell an officer, "it was hell up there, sir."

Hydro Forced To Cut Supply Of Surplus Power

Toronto, Sept. 23 (CP)—Because of increasing consumer demands, the Ontario Hydro Commission is being forced to cut the supply of "surplus" power to some industries, Chairman Robert H. Saunders said Friday.

He was commenting on reports that two Niagara district firms have laid off men because of power restrictions. North American Cyanamid Company at Niagara Falls, world's largest manufacturer of fertilizers, laid [illegible] 100 and said it will lay of another 100 next week. The Norton Company at Chippewa laid of 40.

Mr. Saunders said increased industrial production brought on by world conditions has pushed Hydro's peak load more than 7,000,000 kilowatt hours higher than the peak load for the beginning of August. It is expected to be heavy throughout the rest of the winter.

"We have been forced," he said in an interview, "to cut down on the supply of surplus power sold under contract to some industries which are heavy users. Our contracts call for supplying power under three categories—firm, interruptable and at - will power. These latter two are sold at cheaper rates.

"Contract terms call for cutting the at-will amounts whenever necessary at any time of the year. The 'interruptable' power can be reduced at peak hours.

Fire Destroys Cheese Factory At Carthage

Stratford, Sept. 23 — (CP) — Fire of unknown origin destroyed the two-storey cheese factory owned by Brantford Produce Company at Carthage today. Loss was estimated at $25,000, including $15,000 worth of cheese-processing equipment.

The blaze was discovered by Gerald Scott and David Park, who were returning to their homes at Tralee from Stratford. The Listowel fire department helped prevent the flames from spreading to other buildings.

Carthage is about 25 miles northeast of here.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Sept. 23 (CP)—Synopsis: There are striking contrasts in weather patterns across Canada today. While strong winds lash rain across the B.C. coast, Alberta and Saskatchewan enjoy record breaking warm weather, and yesterday the temperature at Edmonton soared to 83 degrees.

It's a different story over Ontario where September's coldest outbreak so far swept southward to reach the lower lakes regions this morning. Snowflurries were reported in the White River, Kirkland Lake and Haliburton regions, and bleak cloudy weather will continue in these sections today. In the southwestern portions of the province there will be more sunshine although the day will be decidedly cool.

Frost is forecast for most of the province tonight, but winds are expected to remain sufficiently strong to prevent a severe general frost in the southwestern regions.

The outlook for Sunday is sunny and continuing cool with decreasing winds.

Fighting Yank Pays His Own Way To Be at Front With Buddies

With U.S. 25th Division, Sept. 23—AP—The soldier who bought his own ticket to the Korean war is happy.

"This is what I wanted," said Sgt. Richard R. Pretzer of San Francisco as he moved up with an attacking spearhead toward Chinju.

Everyone but Pretzer is wondering how he got here. Officially Pretzer was — until yesterday—part of the 1st Infantry Division at Furth, Germany.

"But Germany was no place to be with a war in Korea," Pretzer explains. And his old division, the 25th was in Korea.

So Pretzer asked around. He found by re-enlisting he could have a furlough. He re-enlisted. Then Dick bought a plane ticket to California. In San Francisco he planked down his savings for another air ticket—to Tokyo.

At Tokyo's Haneda airport the red tape was thick. But the sergeant hitch-hiked a ride to Taegu, then climbed on a freight train to Pusan. There he found a truck headed for this front and climbed in.

He went right up to a rifle company.

Then Pretzer reported in—still on furlough. Days later, after the doughboys knew they had a fighting man with them, he told the true story.

Cables raced back to Washington. Yesterday a cable came back. Date line: Washington.

Text: Sergeant Pretzer is assigned to the 25th Division. Records will be forwarded from Germany.

JET AIRCRAFT MAKES NON-STOP HOP OVER OCEAN

Companion Plane Comes To Grief Over Labrador

By ROBERT CLARK

Limestone Air Force Base, Me., Sept. 23 — (AP) — An oil-spattered Thunderjet fighter plane here is proof that jets can hop the Atlantic in one swoop—if they're refuelled in flight.

This one did it yesterday, completing the world's first non-stop intercontinental flight by a jet aircraft.

A companion plane came to grief over Labrador, but its pilot, parachuted safely.

Col. David C. Schilling of the United States Air Force flew his single engine F-84 fighter 3,300 miles from Manston, England, to Limestone in 10 hours and one minute.

Head winds kept the ace of the Second World War from endangering the 1949 record set by a Panamerican Airways Stratoliner that flew 3,565 miles in nine hours, 16 minutes with a 110-mile-an-hour tail wind.

Schilling said "everything went perfectly" on his flight.

Air Force officials in Washington said his flying mate, Lt.-Col. William D. Ritchie, had trouble refuelling from a tanker plane over Goose Bay, Labrador, and apparently didn't get enough fuel to carry his ship through.

A rescue helicopter from Goose Bay picked up Ritchie unhurt.

Both veteran pilots were on a mission to give jet refuelling techniques an acid test.

Air refuelling already is standard practice for bombers.

Takes Fuel Three Times

The F-84's took on jet fuel from flying tankers over Prestwick, Scotland; Keflavik, Iceland, and Goose Bay, by a British-developed method.

The jet pilot rams a nozzle projecting from his craft into a funnel-shaped nozzle that trails from the tanker plane.

Fuel starts flowing automatically. It stops when the fighter's tanks are filled.

Observers speculated the air-refuelling exploits of Schilling and Ritchie may have demonstrated how quickly Thunderjets could be rushed to Europe.

The jets can travel only about 2,000 miles with extra fuel tanks.

Ritchie and Schilling were unsuccessful earlier this week in an attempt at flying the Atlantic non-stop.

Trouble in one plane induced both to turn back Tuesday after an hour's flying.

Schilling led the first mass flight of U. S. jet fighters from Dow Air Force Base, Bangor, Me., to Germany in 1948.

He led another contingent across last year.

During the war he was credited with downing 28 German planes and destroying 10½ on the ground. He shared credit for one of the grounded planes.

Govt .Decides to Parallel All the Controls Introduced In United States by Truman

Ottawa, Sept. 23. (CP)—Official sources said Friday the government has decided to parallel "in effect" but not "in detail" all of the controls introduced in the United States by President Truman.

The policy, similar to that installed by Canada during the Second World War, has twin aims, an informant said.

One is the aim of fighting inflation and diverting essential commmodities in an orderly manner into defence production.

The other is to make certain that United States manufacturers do not use Canada as a "back door" to obtain supplies which, because of controls, they could not procure from producers in their own country.

In line with this policy, the government already has obtained legislation from parliament which gives it the right to curb instalment buying and control the price and allocation of any commodities considered "essential" in the country's defence.

Thus, in a matter of weeks, first post-war regulations to curb credit buying will be introduced by the government.

In the weeks that follow, said the informant, there will be other controls instituted. These will deal with the allocation of steel and other metals now under control in the United States.

May Be Compulsory

The steel industry likely will be asked to control the flow of steel on a voluntary basis. If this doesn't work, then compulsory controls will be instituted. Other metal producers, such as aluminum, copper, lead and zinc, will be asked to follow a similar policy.

The Canadian system of controls, the informant said, may not be capable of total prevention of shipment of essential goods to a non-essential user. Even during the height of the last war, there were times when commodities got by the controllers into non-essential production.

However, the policy does not envision on over-all general control over wages and prices.

It is likely that unless the government considers it necessary to declare a "national emergency", federal rent controls will go out the window on schedule next April 30.

Four Convicted Of Assault For Part in Brawl

Orillia, Sept. 23—(CP)— Two women and two men Friday were convicted of assault for their part in a farmyard brawl over the custody of a four-month-old girl.

Fined $20 and costs or 15 days each were Mrs. Murray Cook, 21, mother of the baby, Mrs. Cook's mother, Mrs. Winniefred Jackson, 52, and Benny Jarvis, 24, and Gerald Van Hezwyck, 38.

Mrs. Cook's estranged husband, a 230-pound former paratrooper, testified that she slapped his face during the melee Tuesday night. It started when "a lot of cars" drove up to his farm, disgorging persons apparently bent on getting Mrs. Cook's daughter, Murlene.

The infant, who has been in Cook's custody since he separated from his wife, slept soundly during the battle royal.

Cook and his brother Bruce and some neighbors beat off the "attack" and the visitors fled as police approached. Murray admitted waving a gun but said it was not loaded.

Mrs. Cook denied trying to get the baby. She and her mother, planning to return to their home in Sault Ste. Marie, just wanted to pick up a coat and a camera, she said. Jarvis and Van Hezwyck had gone along "for protection".

Said Constable D. F. MacDonald who got there at the tail end "It looked like a regular donnybrook".

Drug Injection May be 'Shield' Against A-Rays

London, Sept. 23 — (AP) — Discovery of a drug injection which may provide an "internal shield" against atomic rays was reported today by three British government research men.

The drug is Thiourea, a substance commonly obtained by heating urea, one of the main constituents of animal urine.

In experiments carried on at the government atomic energy laboratory in Harwell, mice were injected with the drug and then exposed to lethal doses of x-rays. Of nine mice so treated, eight survived.

Mortality among mice either untreated or injected with a variety of other drugs ranged from 14 to 100 per cent

DUPLESSIS REINSTATES TWO POLICE OFFICERS

Also Approves Plan For Hydro Development

Quebec, Sept. 23. (CP)—Premier Duplessis yesterday announced the reinstatement of two provincial police officers recently cleared of conspiracy charges, approved a new $30,000,000 hydro-electric plan and described arrangements for accommodations of federal and provincial leaders at next week's constitutional conference here.

At his weekly press conference, Mr. Duplessis said that Detective Lieut. Marcel Patenaude will return to his post as chief of the hold-up squad while Detective Sgt. Gaston Archambault will be reinstated to the force.

Both were suspended after bank robber Charles-Emile Poliquin accused them and a former provincial detective, Paul Hervieux, of conspiring with him to commit bank hold-ups. All three were acquitted.

Mr. Duplessis also said his Union Nationale government has approved plans for the Aluminum Company of Canada for expenditure of $30,000,000 on initial development of 60,000 horse-power of hydro-electricity on the Peribonka river in Quebec's Lake St. John District.

Referring to the Dominion-Provincial conference, the premier said it was the first time such a "representative and important" Canadian conference had been called for Quebec.

"All the governments of Canada will be represented for the first time," he said.

Provided With Quarters

He added that Prime Minister St. Laurent and Premier Frost of Ontario have been provided with the quarters of the legislative council speaker and the legislative assembly speaker, respectively.

Other provincial leaders have been allocated spacious quarters occupied by Quebec government officials during the regular session of the legislature.

Mr. Duplessis said one of four private dining rooms in the legislature restaurant will be turned over to Prime Minister St. Laurent, one to Prèmier Frost of Ontario and one to Premier MacDonald of Nova Scotia. Mr. Duplessis will keep his own private dining rooms as conference host.

Mr. Duplessis said the government is studying proposals for hydro-electric production is Gaspe that will give impetus to development in the district's copper deposits.

Total Eclipse Of Harvest Moon Monday Night

Toronto, Sept. 23 — (CP)—A total eclipse of the harvest moon Monday night will be visible almost everywhere in Canada except in the Yukon and in northern regions of the Northwest Territories.

It will start at 11:53 p. m. EDT Monday and last until 12:39 a. m. Tuesday. The eclipse will be the only one that can be seen in Canada this year and there will not be another until 1953.

Unlike eclipses of the sun which become visible in different areas at different times, the eclipse of the moon, caused by the earth's shadow falling across the moon's face, can be seen at the same time across Canada.

Deseronto Will be By-Passed By New Marsysville-Napanee Road

Construction of an eight-mile stretch of development road from Marysville to Napanee on No. 2 Highway will commence this fall, it has been announced by Campbell Fraser, Kingston, divisional engineer of the Department of Highways.

Mr. Fraser said the road was designed to eliminate the southern trend of No. 2 Highway which swings south at Marysville through Deseronto, and cut out curves. It will reduce the highway distance between Belleville and Kingston by about six miles, it was stated. The piece of road to be constructed is that known as the "Old Belleville Road" and will mean the by-passing of Deseronto.

Americans Forge Greatest Gains Of the Korean War

Tank-Led Division Makes 35-Mile Gain in 35 Hours

By LEIF ERICKSON

Tokyo, Sept. 23 — (AP)—Allied Marines tightened the clamps on Seoul from two sides today. But fresh red reinforcements for the Korean capital already had arrived from the southern front.

The pinch on Seoul came as Allied forces forged their greatest gains of the war on the southeastern front.

A United States intelligence officer said elements of the Korean communist 9th Division, previously fighting the U. S. 25th Division on the old United Nations beachhead near Haman, reached Seoul Friday.

The reds evidently swept northward up the main Taejon-Suwon-Seoul route before tank-led U. S. Seventh Division infantrymen seized Suwon and its airfield Friday evening. Suwon is 20 miles south of Seoul.

Associated Press correspondent Relman Morin, with the Marines at Seoul, reported two American columns were driving on the ancient capital of 1,000,000 from the north and the southwest.

Within Two Miles

The northern prong, including South Korean Marines, was in Seoul's outskirts within two miles of the heart of the sprawling city. The southwest prong took the shell-battered industrial suburb of Yongdungpo, on the south banks of the Han River, and pushed on toward ruined railroad bridges.

Marine intelligence reported the red reinforcements from the south joined three individual regiments and a "rehabilitation battalion" in defence of Seoul. The battalion, comprised entirely of soldiers previously imprisoned for military offences, is expected to be sacrificed recklessly.

Eearlier, Gen. MacArthur announced that allied troops had fought into Seoul's northern outskirts.

It was the first official word of such a penetration. Aerial observers previously had reported U. S. Marines inside the Korean capital but later checks showed them 500 yards from the city limits.

"United Nations forces north of the Han River are in the outskirts of Seoul," MacArthur reported, without elaboration as to whether they were U.S. or South Korean marines.

While these forces inched forward, U.S. infantrymen driving south from the city and north toward it from the old Pusan beachhead fought within 85 air miles of each other.

Tank-led U.S. 1st Cavalry Division soldiers made the most spectacular gain—35 miles in 35 hours. They paced through disintegrating red defences at the northwest end of the Pusan perimeter. Their advanced position was 85 miles southeast of U.S. 7th Division troops who captured Suwon and its big airfield, about 20 miles south of Seoul.

Near Taegu, AP photographer Gene Herrick said today he watched U.S. air force planes bomb and strafe troops of the British 27th. Brigade by mistake. Herrick repored that casualties apparently were heavy. The U.S. raiders dropped jellied gasoline bombs on the British force while the tommies were attacking a hill held by the reds.

27th Brigade Stalled

Red resistance stalled the 27th Brigade. It is fighting in a sector southwest of Taegu, seeking to take Songju on a secondary road north toward the U.S. 24th Division positions at Kunchon. Thousands of red troops in the southeast sector faced the threat of being trapped by the swift dash. Five thousand already were cut off. Low-flying planes went after them today in good weather, seeking to add to a kill of more than 1,100 Friday.

MacArthur's summary, covering 24 hour operations up to Friday midnight, said U.N. forces on all fronts inflicted 5,920 red casualties and captured 685.

The general's plan to catch the reds between forces at Seoul and the southeast beachhead, then break them apart as a fighting unit, was beginning to bear fruit.

Saturday's far east air force summary said planes along the Pusan beachhead lines "assisted ground elements. . . to such an extent that mass ground force advances were possible for the first time in the Korean conflict."

Judge Adjourns Inquiry Until Next Monday

Quebec, Sept. 23 — (CP) — Judge Fernand Choquette of the Quebec Superior Court yesterday adjourned inquiry into the burning of the river cruise ship Quebec until Monday after it was announced that ship's officers and passengers from the United States would take the witness stand next week.

The Quebec burned near Tadoussac on the lower St. Lawrence River last Aug. 14 with loss of seven lives.

Mr. Justice Choquette said the adjournment would enable him to study 38 exhibits, most of them produced by the ship's owners, Canada Steamships Lines.

Yesterday, Capt. Cyril Burch told the inquiry that emergency instructions in both French and English had been posted in various parts of the ship in plain sight of passengers. Each cabin contained instructions telling the occupant which lifeboat he should run for in case of evacuation.

The judge asked the ship's master if there were any instructions aboard the ship for passengers who had no cabins. Capt. Burch replied that certain officers were assigned to take care of such passengers in an emergency but the captain was not directly in charge of these duties.

Minor Damage In Truck Crash

Campbellford, Sept. 23 — Minor damage resulted on Thursday night, when a Wigley Transport truck, driven by Maxwell Fowler of 612 Armour Road, Peterborough, was in collision with a car driven by Lloyd Kargus of Letterkenny, north of Bancroft, Ontario. The two vehicles were proceeding north on Front Street. The truck had just pulled out from the curb, and the car, in attempting to pass, crowded the truck a little too closely, striking the front left bumper. The truck suffered very little damage, but the right side of the car was damaged to the extent of about $40.

Chief Geo. H. Hardy, who investigated, said no charges would be laid.

Vegetables Form Largest Offering On City Market

A cold wind blew across the market square this morning, and buyers didn't spend too much time standing around. The only lineup on the whole square was in front of a truck selling peaches where it seems to be developing into a habit. These were the only peaches offered, and they were going fast at 75c per basket.

The rest of the fruit market was much the same as last Saturday's, with a few pears offered at $1.00 per basket, and McIntosh apples having the next biggest showing to the peaches. The Macs were selling for $65 for six quarts $1.00 for an 11 quart basket, and $3,00 per hamper. St. Lawrence apples were 40c for a half peck.

Crabapples, rumored to be in short supply this season, were in small quantity at 85c for six quarts, and a few blue grapes were offered at 75c per six quart basket. Watermelons sold from 10c up, and cantaloupes were in the same price range.

In the vegetable market, cabbages were 10c and 15c; green peppers were three for 10c; tomatoes were heavy in quantity again at 30c and 35c for six quarts; corn was 30c per dozen; carrots were 10c a bunch, three for a quarter, as were onions. Onions by the basket were selling for 50c, with beets the same price.

Vegetable marrow was from 10c to 25c; eggplant was the same; squash ranged from 10c up, and potatoes were selling for 50c per peck.

BMB Band Notes

By TREBLE CLEF

This is the first instalment of what is now to be a weekly feature. A weekly report to keep you informed about the activities of your own Belleville Municipal Band a sort of weekly report to you written by the boys of the band.

Tuesday night saw one of the best rehearsals we have had in sometime due no doubt to the fact we have got to be on our toes to compete with the bands we are bringing in for our Fall Festival on October 2nd.

By the way, for those of you who had the misfortune to miss the band competitions on music day at the Canadian National Exhibition, we are going to present for our feature number at the festival, the actual test piece for the Senior series named "Manmen Veen". This number was written by one of Britain's foremost composers Hadyn Woods and is composed of several Manx folk songs including the Mank fishermen's evening hymn and one of their folk dances. The music is very intense and yet is digestable because of its simplicity by everyone.

We are having a little trouble right now with our instrumentation due to the fact that two of our bass players, Joel Mazer and Ray Beamen are attending Queens University, also our alto saxophone player Bob Young, has joined the navy and is now in Halifax. Naturally we are sorry to lose these boys but we do wish them all the luck in the world. Incidentally if there are any of our readers who play an instrument and are interested in music and banding we would be more than happy to have you come down and make yourself known.

We shall be featuring Miss H. Grant on xylophones and Ralph Cornish, clarinet, as soloist at our Festival. Next week we will be in a position to give you more details on the program. The boys have a lot of interest in the festival as can be seen by the fact that they have agreed to extra rehearsals on the next two Sunday afternoons.

Children Enjoy Theatre Show Through Kiwanis Generosity Observing National Kids' Day

Belleville today joined the parade of cities across the continent observing National Kids' Day. Sponsored locally by the Kiwanis Club, the National Kids' Day celebration is designed to focus attention on the needs of the "not so fortunate". More than 3,150 Kiwanis Clubs throughout Canada, the United States, Alaska and Hawaii are participating.

This afternoon several dozen Belleville children were the guests of the Kiwanis Club and co-operating manager George Forhan of the Belle Theatre at the day's film show. The group of youngsters was composed of those children, who registered last night for the forthcoming Kiwanis Hobbycraft courses along with some who attended the Kiwanis owned camp this summer at Roblin Lake.

Overall object of the Hobbycraft courses is to provide knowledge and recreation for the "Kids" and give them something to occupy their evening time one or two nights a week. Classes are held two evenings a week and on Tuesday afternoons. Last year the average weekly attendance was over 150 with nearly 225 children registered. Instruction was given in archery, model aircraft building, sewing, photography, woodworking and leatherworking.

No Child Turned Away

These classes are for children from 9 to 15 years of age but no child has been turned away because of age. The Monday and Thursday classes lasted for an hour and a half. Qualified instructors plus volunteer workers from the Kiwanis Club are present at all times, every Kiwanian serving his turn in rotation as he will do again this year.

Kiwanis chairman of boys' and girls' work, Jack Walton, whose committee oversees the classes announced that this year it is hoped to have classes in additional crafts. He also called for additional instructors in crafts suitable for children.

In commenting on National Kids' Day and the Hobbycraft courses, Belleville president, T. K. Franklin said that Kiwanis International has long been noted for its work with youth and that its youth program is one of the principal activities of the International organization. "We believe that the program to help the "kids" must be accelerated. We want to do all we can to make adults aware of their responsibilities to children everywhere and especially to those children who are less fortunate than the average," stated Mr. Franklin.

Kinsmen Band Will Take Part In Music Festival

The Kinsmen Boys' Band under the direction of Bandmaster Alf. Cooper will take special part in the band festival to be held in the Belleville Memorial Arena on October 2nd.

Sponsors for the band festival, the second annual event of this nature to be held in the city, is the Belleville Municipal Band and its members are proud in presenting to music lovers of the city and district the best in band music. In addition they are affording the opportunity for younger bands in the district to participate in the event.

The citizens of Belleville and surrounding district will be delighted as well as privileged in hearing the Kinsmen Boys' Band which is fast making a name for itself in district band circles.

The band is composed mainly of secondary school students and are the coming musicians who will be filling the ranks of the older members of senior band organizations. The boys have come far under the capable leadership of their leader Mr. Cooper whose efforts have been mainly responsible in bringing this band organization to its present state of efficiency.

Heard in Solo Number

Taking part in the forthcoming band festival The Kinsmen Boys' Band will be heard during the program as an individual band organization and also in the massed band playing. Local citizens are urged to avail themselves of this opportunity of hearing these youthful musicians and giving them and their leader the support they deserve.

One of the feature bands to appear at the festival is the crack Ottawa RCAF Central Command band and the prize winning RCAF Trumpet Band from the Trenton Air Station. Other bands to be heard at the festival include the Stirling Citizens' Band; The Argyle Pipe Band; the Trenton Lions' Club Band and the sponsoring Belleville Municipal Band

Members of the King George Home and School Club will be in charge of ticket sales for the band festival and well in advance of the event will be calling on every household in the city. Members of the Belleville Municipal Band urge that the canvassers be received kindly.

Communism Discussed By Y's Men Forum

A forum composed of Y's men Linton Reid, Ed. Littlejohn, Al. Davis, Roy Best, Tom Hutchinson and Don Williams with Leslie Reid as chairman discussed the topic "Communism should be outlawed in Canada," at the regular meeting of the Y's men's club at the Y.M.C.A. While the best defence against communism seemed to be full awareness of its implications, the strengthening of democratic institutions and the democratic way of life was positive action which could be taken which in itself would negate any influence of communism. Many members felt that the threat of communism demanded that it be outlawed.

Vice-president Gordon Thrill was in the chair. The next meeting will be in the form of a pot luck supper at the cottage of Y's man Don Williams.

The aircraft left Goose Bay, Labador, about nine o'clock Thursday night en route for Tuscon, Arizona, and has not been heard from since. The search for the aircraft is being concentrated in the North Quebec area to the American border.

Training Benefits For Seamen Vets End September 30

Warning to all wartime Merchant Navy veterans that September 30th is the deadline for applications for the vocational training benefits obtained for them by Canadian Merchant Navy Veterans Association was issued today (in Vancouver) by A. J. Heide, national secretary.

All wartime seamen who have not yet applied for this training are urged by Heide to immediately write to the Department of Veterans Affairs at Ottawa or contact their nearest DVA office. The training includes practically every vocation desired and carries with it living allowances.

"In view of the fact that the government has given insufficient publicty to the deadline for applications for vocational training, readers are asked to pass this information along to all known wartime seamen," Heide said. "There are only a few days left for our veterans to apply for these benefits.

V.O.N. Board Prepares For Community Drive

The regular meeting of the local Victorian Order of Nurses was held this week in the Y.M.C.A. rooms. The chairman, Mr. T. Ruston, presided and welcomed the members of the board to this first meeting of the fall season. Those present expressed their pleasure that Mr. Ruston had recovered from his recent illness following his trip to the Old Country.

Miss McGeary, nurse in charge of the local office, gave a comprehensive report of the summer activities. While the average number of visits made during the summer months was comparable to past seasons, the number of visits to mothers and babies showed a slight increase. With the advent of the autumn season the visits to schools will once more occupy part of the nurses' time.

The treasurer reported on the financial position of the organization and stressed the necessity for all board members to co-operate in the Community Chest Drive. As this is the major source of income for the organization he hoped that no effort would be spared in making it a success this year. A full discussion was held by the board on the Community Chest project and the members promised their co-operation.

The meeting expressed sympathy at the death of Miss Lynch and Miss McAvoy and the secretary was requested to write suitable letters to their families.

Oakland Police Question Man In Oakes Case

Oakland, Calif., Sept. 23 — (AP) — Oakland police said they questioned a 48-year-old man named George Boyle for several hours last night, after he said he "knew something" about the 1943 murder in the Bahamas, of Sir Harry Oakes, Canadian mining millionaire.

Augustus Roberts, assistant police superintendent at Nassau, left here Thursday for the Bahamas, after questioning Edward Majava, 31, an Oakland machinist, who had said a "Florida society woman" told him the name of the alleged killer.

In Miami, Roberts remained silent on what he learned from Majava.

The police superintendent did, however, scotch a rumor that pretty Betty Roberts, now the Baroness Alexander Debildering of New York, was to be interviewed in connection with the case.

"I know who Betty Roberts is, but this is the first time I have heard her name mentioned in connection with the present inquiry," Roberts said.

The baroness, 16 at the time of the trial, was an important witness. Defence lawyers contended she talked with Alfred de Marigny, accused of the slaying, at the time the crime was being committed. De Marigny was acquitted.

Saigon, Indo-China, Sept. 23—(Reuters) — French forces were reported today to be about seven miles from the burned - out Foreign Legion outpost of Dongkhe near the Chinese border.

A French army spokesman said Vietminh communist guerilla snipers and saboteurs had delayed the French column on the road between Thatkhe and Dougkhe

Thatkhe is 15 miles south east of Dongkhe, which fell last Monday after a stand to the last man by 200 Foreign Legionnaires.

With guerilla snipers dispersed in thick jungle on each side of the mountain road blowing up one large bridge and a number of small ones, the advancing French column had to proceed cautiously.

4TH INSTALMENT

The "starving year" had a marker effect on the course of settlement as well as on other aspects of life in Upper Canada. The situation seems to have improved by the end of 1788, and with the crops of 1789 conditions became more normal. Many families, however, found themselves in debt and others had sold their land or landscrip to the merchants. Loyalists were still arriving from the States or the lower provinces in considerable numbers, and many of these purchased improved farms from the famine sufferers or brought scrip from the merchants to obtain a good location. Sergeant Taylor seems to have moved onto his land as soon as he purchased it, and a large group crossed from Prince Edward County to the mouth of the Moira in 1789.

The surveys of the Quinte townships had been resumed in 1786 (they had been interrupted in 1785, perhaps by Kotte's expedition to Lake Huron) and most of Thurlow had been surveyed by the end of 1787. Twenty-three grants of land in Thurlow were recorded between February 28th and August 26th, 1788, all in the first five concessions and comprising 3,400 acres, mostly near the river. (Lot 21, Con. 1; Lot 6, Con. 11; Lots 4, 5, 6 and 7, Con. IV; 2, 3, 4, and 5, Con. V. Thirteen grants in Con. IV were all half-lots of 100 acres. There must have been some recent grants in the first concession since the position of these other grants indicates that it was filled up to a great extent.) A number of these grantees never settled on the Moira.

There seems to have been a good deal of exchanging and selling of scrip; for Canniff's list of twenty of the group from Prince Edward contains only three names (William and John Read and John McMichael. Conradt (Coons) Fredericks, one of these grantees, seems to have taken over Lot 2, Con. 1 from David Vanderheyden,) of the grantees of 1788, and the Read family, who had been granted only two separate half lots in Con. IV, were able to get together a block of six hundred acres. This group moved up the river looking for good land and settled in the fourth and fifth concessions in the neighborhood of Foxboro. They numbered fifty or more and formed a compact settlement which for some time was isolated from the "Front" to a considerable extent. Since there were now a number of settlers along the Bay in Thurlow, the township was beginning to be comparatively well settled.

The settlement at the mouth of the river was also progressing. John Taylor built a house on the south end of Lot 5, and within a few months he sold the north half to Captain John Walden Meyers, who was looking for a good mill site. John Walden Meyers had so much influence on the development of the Belleville district and was so representative of one type of the Loyalists of the Quinte district that it may be well to give a brief outline of his career.

The son of "an industrious farmer" of German origin, settled in New York Province, John Walden Meyers (Walden Meyers was apparently the family surname. It was pronounced "Valtenmeyers" in the German manner and may have been originally one word. Meyers usually appears in British documents as John "Walter" Meyers and sometimes as John "Walton" Meyer. The Americans usually wrote Hans Watermeyr or Wattemeiser. Meyers was born in January 1745.) was just over thirty when the Declaration of Independence was signed. He had been married about 12 years and was living on a farm of 200 acres in Colyman's Patent, Albany County, of which he had a lease "forever" at one-tenth of the produce. He had been energetic in improving his holding and had cleared 100 acres, built a good house and barns and planted an orchard. He valued his improvements at £400 "York Currency" (£1 "York" equalled $2.50 in the money of the time. Meyers' claim before the commissioners in 1787 seems to make him say that he made all the improvements in the first six months of 1777, but there must be some error unless he was able to spend a considerable sum of money. His total losses were valued at £337.8s. English, of which he was allowed £247.—between $4,000 and $5,000 in modern money at least.) and had a good deal of stock, besides furniture and "utensils". He evidently could command some cash as well, for the improvements had been made in a short time. He left all this and his wife and seven young children (the oldest twelve, the youngest just born) to join Burgoyne's army "in the mid-summer of 1777." He was soon sent to recruit Loyalists and made his way to the town of New York, where his wife joined him about a year later. She had been turned out of her home and the property confiscated some months before. From 1779 to 1781 he was employed in despatch-carrying, secret service and "resistance" work and recruiting; going to and fro between St. John's (Quebec) and New York.

He became something of a bugbear to the Revolutionists, who seem to have trembled in their beds for fear the terrible "Hans Walterineyr" would get them. Meyers may perhaps have encouraged this undeserved reputation for ferocity by appearing suddenly at night in the houses of his old neighbors and frightening them in various ways. The "Waltermeyer" myth was a successful screen for his intelligence work. (The myth of Meyers' ferocity has come down in American books and appears in Sabine's "Loyalists" but there is no evidence that Meyers ever committed any atrocity or killed any Patriot except in fair fight. He sometimes took prisoners whom he usually soon released. His most spectacular raid was the unsuccessful attempt to seize General Schuyler in his house near Albany, and even in that affair Meyers behaved with "correctness", as far as he could.) In 1870 he was given permission to recruit a company of Loyalists, but had more difficulty than he expected, and it was not till 1782 that he was finally commissioned Captain in Jessup's Corps. (Loyal Rangers. His lieutenant was John Ruiter and his ensign Herman Best.) In the meantime he continued his intelligence work, using a chain of secret agents near Albany to get information.

When the provisional treaty was signed he was at St. John's with his family and at once engaged energetically in a scheme to start a settlement with his company on the Quebec-Vermont border in Mississquoi. By the early fall the settlement was well under way, (houses had been built and crops planted), but the government was opposed to Loyalist settlements in that region and Meyers was forced reluctantly to go to the rendezvous at Lachine. He was in nearly desperate financial straits (He owed money to Major Jessup, who was beginning to be alarmed about its repayment, and in a letter to the Governor, Meyers says he is so "returped" (reduced) by the cut in rations that he will be forced to put his children out to work.) since he had had to spend money on his expeditions during the war which had not yet been repaid in full. Nevertheless he prudently rented a "Canadian" farm near Lachine till September 1784 and raised a crop, before going up country to Cataraqui. He had been allotted 200 acres in Ernestown. (The lot in Ernestown seems to have been reserved for Meyers before his arrival, but the town lot was drawn in 1785 when Meyers was probably in Cataraqui.) and drew a town lot in Cataraqui, but preferred to go farther up the Bay to Sidney, where he "located" a block of nearly 600 acres in the first and second concessions. This was confirmed to him in September 1787 after the survey of the township, and he soon began to build a mill on the little stream which crossed his grant. The water power proved unreliable and Meyers began looking around for another mill site. His financial situation was improving. He managed to clear his debts without mortgaging his half-pay, so he was secure of an income of just over £90 a year. His claim for compensation brought him the capital he needed and in the autumn of 1788 his petition for fifteen acres and a mill site "on the stream called Sogudywitchevon" (usually assumed to be the Trent. Meyers did not get this grant.) was referred by the Land Board to "the Governor's pleasure". He appears to have bought the north hundred acres of Lot 4, Con. 1 of Thurlow from John Taylor for $100 late in 1789 (The sale of this lot by the "late Capt. Geo. Singleton" to "—— Taylor from whom Capt. Meyers got the millseat" is recorded in a report attached to Meyers' petition of 1792 (see below). The exact date is uncertain and the traditional price is given in Canniff. It was a high price for the time.) and to have begun to build his mill thereon in the winter of 1789-90.

The mills at "Meyers' Creek", as the Saganashkokan now began to be called, were a boon to the settlers in the western part of Prince Edward County, and all those on the north shore from the Mohawk Trac to beyond the Trent. For five or six years his was the only grist mill between the Napanee and the Don. The reserve on Lot 4 caused Meyers and his patrons a good deal of annoyance. The landing was on this lot, and Meyers made a wagon road from it to his mill. In 1792 he made his first petition for this lot, which was refused. Meyers was now extending his activities. He started a trading post (perhaps buying the goodwill from the heirs of Singleton and Ferguson) and eventually opened branch posts at Stoco Lake and Rice Lake. In connection with his saw and grist mills, he soon set up a distillery and an ashery. He also set up a brick kiln (probably on his lands in Sidney) and in 1794 built a large brick house on the brow of the hill near his mills. (This was one of the first brick houses in Upper Canada. It has been claimed as the first, but the same claim is made for the Dickson house at Chippewa, and there may have been others as early. It had two full storeys, an attic and a basement which contained the kitchen.) Two years later he attempted to get permission to rent Lot 4 from the Indians for 999 years, "paying annually one gallon of rum and fifty weight of flour" and allowing the Indians to use the lot. This request was also refused, as was a final one in 1798, supported by a separate petition signed by forty-three of Meyers' customers.

These petitions throw some light on the development of the settlements at Meyers' Creek. Meyers had been actively improving his farm and his establishment at the mills must have been taking on the appearance of a village. He now discovered that the line between Lots 4 and 5 had been wrongly placed and that a "great part" of his clearing, with parts of his dam and pond and of his orchard, lay outside his bounds on Lot 4. (This mistake in survey was supposed to have been discovered when the town plot of Belleville was laid out in 1816 and then rectified at the expense and to the annoyance of the adjoining landholders. It must, however, have been known by 1793.) At the landing also a settlement was growing up. The petition of the patrons of the mill states that Captain Meyers had cleared and fenced a pasture at the landing and was keeping a team there "for our convenience" to carry grain to and from the mills. Asa Wallbridge had built a house nearby about this time and in the year of these petitions John Simpson opened the first tavern in Thurlow near the landing on what later became the southwest corner of Dundas and Front Streets, in Belleville. William Bell, who had been running a trading post in Sidney in partnership with John Ferguson of Kingston, moved to Meyers' Creek after the partnership was dissolved and opened a store beside Simpson's tavern. (Apparently not before 1789 since Canniff quotes letters of Ferguson's addressed to Bell in Sidney as late as 1788-9. He afterwards played a large part in the development of the village and county, becoming colonel of the Hastings Militia.) Probably there were other squatters on Lot 4, since the Indians seem to have been ready to share the site with the whites and the government probably did not interfere, though it still firmly refused to allow any one to acquire any legal title to the lead. The signatures to the supporting petition are almost all those of settlers outside Thurlow township in Prince Edward County, the front of Sidney township or from even farther to the west, so that Meyers' Creek was becoming the centre for a wide area. Another attempt to have the reserve removed was made in 1807 by James McNabb and others, but was refusmed like the rest.

POPULATION UP

Toronto, Sept. 22. (CP)—Ontario's population has probably passed 4,500,000, Municipal Affairs Minister Dunbar said today.

At the end of 1949 it stood at 4,411,000, he said. This year's increases have likely put it over the 4,500,000 mark.

From 1940 to 1949 the population increased by 640,000.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

BY WINIFRED E. WILSON

VARIOUS VIREOS

The leader stood still on the narrow path, listening intently. The singing certainly came from the throats of vireos; but which? He should know, yet felt uncertain; so stepping into the woods he followed the voices, and soon spied the choristers flitting about the trees. Gradually a group of eager bird watchers gathered, straining ears and eyes, adjusting binoculars. There were little gasps of surprise and pleasure, and someone said softly.

"Yellow-throated vireos." They had olive green backs, two white wing-bars, and wore gold spectacles. Their throats and breasts were the brightest yellow imaginable. The birds were unmistakable. Yet what singing! Of course more musical, deeper toned voices were to be expected than if they had been red-eyed vireos. Nevertheless, this was exceptional singing, thought the members of the expedition, as they returned to the trail, agreeing that this had been the thrill of the day.

Of the various vireos, six visit Canada. Half of these have wing-bars, and a light eye-ring with a bar of the same color extending to the base of the bill, giving the illusion of spectacles. The red-eye, one of those without these distinctive markings, is the largest, best known, least musical, and noisiest of the vireos. It may be distinguished by its grey cap bordered in black, and a white stripe over the eye. Its uninteresting song is a series of short phrases, and goes on and on. A harsh, nasal call note draws our attention. But it builds one of the most attractive homes in birdland. Strips of birch bark are woven together to form a neat, compact basket which is hung from a forked branch.

The Philadelphia and warbling vireos are pretty much small editions of the red-eye, though the Philadelphia has more yellow on the underparts. The warbling has an-vireo-like song, sweet and without the jerky rhythm. Both white-eye (rare in Canada) and blue-headed are fairly similar to the yellow-throated.

To the uninitiated, vireos are easily confused with warblers, but certain family traits should enable us to separate them. Vireos do not flit about as fast, making them easier to spot, and their bills are not quite as tiny. It is natural to mistake a yellow-throated vireo for one of the small flycatchers, but the latter's habitual upright posture is characteristic, and although they too have light eye-rings, they do not wear spectacles.

USE OF INVENTION

Following consultations between the B.B.C., London's Commissioner of Police and the famous Criminal Investigation Department of Scotland Yard it has been decided to televise objects and photographs of missing persons. It is planned to show viewers such articles as jewellery, guns and other weapons which the authorities are anxious to have identified.

The British Broadcasting Corporation will televise crime exhibits only at the request of Scotland Yard and there are to be safeguards against too frequent use of this modern means. "For the time being photographs of wanted persons will not be broadcast except in exceptional circumstances," it is stated.

The endless procession of discoveries and inventions is helping to modify and change many of the aspects of life. Human interest is expanded and more and more the wonder grows at the marvellous complexity of this world in which we live. So wonderful is life that to man it appears there cannot be an end to the revelation of things still mysterious to the human race. Discoveries have piled upon discoveries in such volume that the human mind can hardly grasp them.

Doctors and other scientists in a position to make fullest use of such new discoveries and inventions have been turning attention to the new revelations into the secret and the treatment of disease. Other investigators are applying the principles so newly learned to make new products out of raw materials. Altogether the complexity and the mystery of the riches revealed in nature and life and yet to be revealed almost oppress the human mind's ability to appreciate these inventions.

THE FIELD

A great thing about a field is that the children can run farther without falling off, into and under so many things so often, says The Printed Word.

A field may be used for looking at, or for playing games, or for fighting a battle, or for growing certain things while trying to prevent other things from growing. A field is for walking and sometimes for sitting or lying supine to mark the course of clouds, how they move across the sky.

Mountains and the sea and the forests are natural wonders more acclaimed by humans, but the fields are more used by them. The fields feed them even more than does the sea, and the fields bring them even mor wealth than do the forests and the metals and water power of the mountains.

Those who live in those vast fields, the prairies, and who have not merely remarked them from a pullman or plane window, but who have been sweated and have pondered and laughed there and been defeated and got up again and have eaten grain-growing turkey — these are professionals from the big-time fields and they have their special feelings about fields.

Fields are bare places on the earth, but many have in their memory some particular field that is not bare of wonder. Perhaps they were taken there as a child, or walked there among the bird calls of evening or at sunrise, or saw there one time the twined grass flowers — really saw them. Fields are for the poor, but he is indeed poor who has not some such visioned field for his very own.

CURES BY SHOCK

Once there was an elevator man in a Canadian city who tangled with the power cables and came within an ace of being killed. He was back at work in a month, better than ever. He said the electrical shock had ended his rheumatism. He regretted he had laughed when his father, back in the '90s, bought an electrical belt guaranteed to cure every human distress except amputation; he had reached the conclusion the old man was on the right track.

He comes into our mind with the news from Chicago that the American Chemical Society has been told that a defence against virus diseases may be established by an electrical blockade in the human body. If the plan works, healthy body cells will be protected against bacteria by the use of charged zinc atoms introduced into body fluids. Tests with mice have indicated the charged atoms prevent pneumonia and influenza viruses hooking on to healthy red blood cells and lung particles.

Grandfather never knew about red or white cells when he hitched on his electrical belt, complete with batteries. Probably the belt did him no good, but it shows he had the right instinct and instinct, we sometimes think, is almost as powerful as the test tube. — Ottawa Journal.

Doing good is the only certainly happy action of a man's life. — Sir Philip Sidney.

Remember that what you believe will depend very much upon what you are. — Noah Porter.

Biography is the most universally pleasant and profitable of all reading. — Carlyle.

"OH, DEAR!"

"Oh, dear! Oh, dear! Oh, dear!"
I heard a fellow wail,
And wondered who was near
With hopes so sure to fail.

Why such a dismal plaint?
Why such a cry of woe?
Why such a heart so faint
I thought I ought to know.

I looked. A man at play,
Losing with victory near!
One small hope gone astray.
Oh, dear! Oh, dear, Oh, dear!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It has been a summer of uncertain and unstable weather all across the continent. It has been a bad year for the tourist and the summer holidayer. But it has been a grand summer for nature. All nature loves uncertain weather.

The pines have never looked more beautiful than this year. All vegetation appears to have taken the occasion to dig its roots firm and deep, whether the foliage got much attention or no.

Nothing can surely be worse for nature than those long spells of sun-drenched summer which man on his holidays calls perfect. Such weather may be good for the maturing of seeds of those plants that have gone to seed at that season. But it is fatal to other plants that have not yet got that far. Many species of insect must rejoice in those tropical summers, without knowing that because they flourish, so will the enemies of them which nature keeps on hand to maintain a balance.

The mixture of fair and foul, such as we have experienced this season, will have given a break to all creation, plant and animal. The birds that were fledged this summer will be more equal to autumn and its trials than the birds of softer summers. The animals that lurk from their enemies—and nearly all the animal kingdom are lurkers—have had a measure of security that is denied them in tender and quiet weeks of July or August, when their every move places them in jeopardy.

The seedling trees that are parched in good tourist summers have had a perfect chance to grab hold of mother earth; and in most parts of the country, the undergrowth is strong. Those pious old trees that shower down their seeds and then calmly smother their own young with their shade and their rooty greed, will find more young pretenders around next summer.

It is too bad about the tourists; but now and then the inarticulate residents, what we might call the really permanent residents, get a break, as in the past summer.

ALL THREE ELECTROCUTED

Prague, Sept. 22 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Frantisek Krocil's dog was electrocuted by a live wire which fell near its kennel in the Moravian village of Vapenice. Mrs. Krocils went to its aid. And, as the newspaper Lidova Demokracie told the story, she was electrocuted. Mr. Krocils went to help his wife. He was electrocuted, too.

TREE PLANTERS

The Alberta provincial government has purchased two mechanical tree planters for use to persuade farmers to plant more trees for roadside, farm and field shelters.

The girl, Rufine Huard, who was convicted on five charges of shoplifting, was given a one-year suspended sentence after the Salvation Army promised to help keep her out of trouble.

TORONTO'S TERMITES

The only major outbreaks of termites in Canada in the last few years have been confined to the Toronto and Windsor, Ont., areas.

Most Canadian Communities Return to Standard Time At Midnight on Saturday

(By The Canadian Press)

Most Canadian communities will go back on Standard Time at midnight Saturday but several larger cities will continue on daylight time for a month or more to save electric power.

In the others, clocks will be set back the one hour that they were moved ahead last spring.

Working from west to east, the clock-shifting routine will go on in British Columbia, Saskatchewan and Manitoba. Alberta is unconcerned about it all for that province holds to standard the year round.

In Ontario, Toronto, Oshawa and Hamilton have approved an extension of daylight time to Nov. 26 as a Hydro-power conservation measure.

Only other exceptions in the east are several cities in Quebec, and Halifax. Nova Scotia's first city will remain on daylight time until Oct. 28. That, too, is a power-conservation move.

In most parts of Nova Scotia's Annapolis Valley, the switch back to standard time was Sept. 9. The rest of the province changes this weekend.

Montreal, which normally sets the time pattern for Quebec City and Levis, will go back to standard Oct. 28. Daylight dates of April 30 to Oct. 28 were fixed by Montreal city council early in the year, and the council has turned down recent requests from Board of Trade, railways and radio stations to advance the closing date.

Thus Quebec, Three Rivers, and Granby are scheduled to stay on with Montreal until Oct 28. Sherbrooke is due to swtich back to standard Sept. 30.

U.S. Back on Standard

New York — All United States communities which have been observing daylight time since April will revert to standard time Sunday morning. Clocks will be turned back one hour at 2 a.m., local time, Sunday.

Many Charges Laid Against Wife in Action

Chicago, Sept. 23. (AP)—J. Leslie Younghusband, much-married Chicago cosmetics and perfume maker, Thursday charged his fifth wife with adultery and drunkenness.

The allegations of his amended divorce complaint matched in these respects her charges against him, which also include cruelty.

The 54-year-old Younghusband charged his wife, a 34-year-old former dancer, once performed "naked dances for the benefit of (one) Tommy Doe" in Ontario.

She also drank to excess and encouraged their children, Jill, 6, and James, Jr., nine months, to drink, the complaint said.

Judge Daniel A. Roberts postponed the divorce hearing until Sept. 28 to give Mrs. Younghusband, the former Mary Louise Uhlman, time to prepare her legal answer.

Younghusband's first wife died. Three subsequent marriages ended in divorce.

The man who gave flappers kissproof lipstick in 1923 charged his wife committed adultery at a Skeet match in Syracuse, N.Y., 10 years ago with one "Dan Doe".

The dance in the nude for "Tommy Doe", Younghusband alleged, took place in 1940 at Orillia, Ont.

For her part, Mrs. Younghusband charged her husband with an adulterer, a drunkard, and a giver of expensive gifts—such as mink coats—to other women.

She alleged he spent "thousands of dollars" on detectives, wiretappers, photographers and gigolos trying to "frame her".

Labor Council Expels Three Members as Reds

Toronto, Sept. 23. (CP)—The Toronto District Labor Council (T.L.C.) Thursday night expelled three members who were branded as communists or communist sympathizers by the Trades and Labor Council at its convention last week.

President William Jenoves, a T.L.C. vice president, told a council meeting that a list containing the names of more suspected communists is being prepared.

Expelled from the Council were Sam LePedes, top man of the United Garment Workers in Toronto; Reg Wright, president of the Consumers Gas Local of the International Chemical Workers; and Helen Weir, business agent of Local 168, Hotel and Club Employees Union.

Only Mr. LePedes was present at the meeting. When he arose to protest the Council action, Mr. Jenoves cut him off with: "Brother LePedes, you no longer have a voice here. You can either remain as a visitor or leave."

Turkey Prices Expected Higher

St. Thomas, Sept. 23 — (CP)—The Ontario Turkey Association said yesterday that Thanksgiving and Christmas turkeys will probably cost more this year.

In a schedule of suggested minimum prices sent out to turkey raisers, it said the raisers should get a minimum price of 88 cents a pound for hen turkeys prepared for the oven and 76 cents a pound for toms on the Thanksgiving and Christmas markets.

Other prices the Association recommended are. hens, live birds, 65 cents a pound; hens, feathers off, 73 cents; toms, live birds, 53 cents; toms, feathers off, 61 cents.

DON'T CONSULT A LABORATORY, STUPID

Many misguided individuals ask me to recommend a "place", a hospital or a "clinic" for the treatment of this or that ailment.

My advice is plain: Never consult a hospital, "place", "clinic" or laboratory about a matter of personal health or illness. Far better to wait until you have grown up and acquired enough sense to consult a physician.

After all, it is pretty silly to spend your money for, say, an X-ray picture, and then find you can't interpret the picture. Even if you take it to a physician for a professional or expert opinion you are almost certain to be disappointed, for a physician who is worthy of confidence will hardly accept the picture — if X-ray evidence is required the physician will specify precisely what he or she wants and what X-ray technician shall fill the order or prescription.

It is just as foolish to go to a laboratory for a urinalysis, a blood count or other test, and then hand the "report" to a physician. If the physician is competent he or she will specify what tests are to be made and what laboratory or technician shall make them.

Notwithstanding the plague of trick "specialists", 'clinics" and 'laboratories" catering to the gullible public today, the practice of medicine is still a personal service. For the sake of good medical care at reasonable cost let's try to keep it that way.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Health Authorities, Eh?

During the recent mad dog scare here I have seen mothers go pale and sick when their children received the least little nick from a playful puppy's tooth, a wound less serious than an ordinary skinned knee. Often enough the child was rushed to a doctor and even given Pasteur treatment. (E. H.)

Answer—All because the so-called health authorities are determined against all judgment and common sense to uphold the tradition of "hydrophobia."

Another Case Report

In ——— (a newspaper)—report of the case of Mrs. ——— ———, who was bitten by a dog that was later shown to be rabid. She received the Pasteur vaccine from four days after the bite, 14 daily injections. Twenty - four days after the bite she awoke at 3 a.m. with painful, swollen arm (the arm bitten.) After two days she visited her physician. The physician treated her for two days and then because of her high fever sent her to the hospital, where she died three days later. Hospital pathologist reported after autopsy that he presumed Mrs. ——— died of rabies. (M. R. A.)

Answer — The pathologist's opinion or belief is as good as any other. I wonder whether the Pasteur virus or "vaccine" killed Mrs. ———. Anyway, the case isn't worth the paper it is printed on, as scientific evidence.

Beware the Seltzer Bait

Mother-in-law insists that seltzer water or ——— seltzer taken once or twice a day keeps the stomach settled and the nerves steady ... expect my baby the middle of January. (Mrs. R. G.)

Answer—The poor woman puts too much trust in Uncle Sam. Uncle Sam sanctions the use of that term "seltzer" by vendors of dangerous nostrums. Chapter on the consequences of taking pain-killers habitually is included in the booklet C V D (heart and artery breakdown). For copy send 25c and stamped self-addressed envelope. Prospective parents — both, not just the expectant mother—should study together Preparing for Maternity, for which send 25c and s. s. a. e.

Nicotine Nonsense

Due to apparent Muerger's disease physicians advise me to cut cigarettes to a minimum. A certain brand claims to contain only 1 per cent nicotine. (Miss S. D.)

Answer—You simply must continue smoking if it costs a leg, eh? The amount of nicotine in tobacco has nothing to do with the ill effects, in my opinion. Rather, it is the amount of carbon monoxide the smoker gets. The brand of cigarettes is immaterial.

Please, Not a Check-Up

Today I was given a check-up and was told I have a cystocele and a rectocele. (Mrs. K. L.)

Answer—Please call it examination, medical examination, physical examination but not "check-up"—that means cleaning spark plugs and dusting gaskets. Both celes refer to prolapse or sagging of pelvic organs in consequence of faulty repair of laceration of outlet in childbirth. Both may be corrected only by a minor operation restoring the supporting muscle.

BEST ARGUMENT FOR RELIGION

Practically every theological seminary gives a course in what is known as "apologetics." This is a branch of theology which defends the reasonableness and divine authority of the Christian religion.

Seminarians of every generation study apologetics and then go out to their parishes to discover that the best argument for Christianity is a Christian. If in their ministry they can point young people to some person in the church who embodies the true Christian spirit, they always find this more effective than putting into the hands of a questioner some learned book on theology.

The reason why the best argument for Christianity is a Christian is because Christianity is not a philosophy of life but a way of life. It is true of us poor mortals, as it was true of the divine Son of God, that unless the Word becomes flesh and dwells among us, we never really know its meaning. What a mother was means more to a boy than anything she ever taught him. The way a father remained resolute in a crisis which tempted him to compromise remains in the minds of children a beacon which sheds its glorious light across the years.

We see Christian faith most clearly when we see it set forth in a life.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

GOD

For weeks this summer I walked about a beautiful cathedral—a little island-carpeted with green moss like velvet, that softly sprung as you tread across it. And there were great tall pines and hemlocks, that I looked upon as and waving beauty to the endless formations of clouds, that, like poems, sprung anew into unearthly compositions.

I thought of those lines of Kahlil Gibam: "And if you would know God be not therefore a solver of riddles. Rather look about you and you will see him playing with your children."

Walking over the rocky shore of this natural cathedral, I saw delicate little flowers, some more intricate in design than anything ever spun in lace by man, and some so colorful that they burst into smiles—and I knew that the face of God was there! I picked up stone after stone, each full of both beauty and mystery, ageless, and then late in the day I saw an incomparable sunset glow across the sky, as though a heavenly chorus were singing out its doxology of joy and adoration.

In every raindrop I feel that I catch an accent of God's love for man, beast, and bird, as well as for every created thing. The whisper of the pines and hemlocks seem like communications, as thought they, too, were worshippers at the shrine in this earthly cathedral, rock-held in this beautiful body of water.

With what ecstasy we can look upon the face of God, and feel his presence, his protection, and his zeal for our happiness and welfare, if we but return that look! How holy is the star-lighted heavens; how like a silent spell of worshippers are the day-blue heavens as each moment displays a movement of clouds that wend their way across space as our eyes fasten to them in wonder and exaltation!

God? He is everywhere, and in everything. The darkest night cannot conceal him. The severest storm cannot drown out his gentlest voice of peace, hope, and

STIRLING

A. Ferguson, Rotary Governor District 247, Addresses Club

Stirling — Stirling Rotary Club was honored by a visit from Mr. Arthur Ferguson, of Gravenhurst, Governor of District 247, of Rotary International, at their regular weekly dinner in the Community Hall on Tuesday evening.

Introduced by President Bill Cornett, Governor Ferguson delivered an interesting address in which he pointed out that Rotary Clubs in 83 countries throughout the world are united in an endeavour to promote international understanding, good will and peace.

In addition to the activities of Rotary's 7,100 clubs in their own communities to promote this objective, Mr. Ferguson explained once a three-year period Rotary International is spending $750,000 principally to create better understanding among the peoples of different nations. One of the principal ways in which the money is being spent is on Rotary Foundation Fellowships which enable outstanding graduate students to study one year in countries other than their own, as ambassadors of good will. Since this program was established in 1947, 195 Fellowships have been awarded to students in 35 countries with grants totalling nearly $500,000.

Common Ground Produced

Devoted to service, Rotary provides a common ground for 342,000 busines and professional executives throughout the world, regardless of nationalities or political or religious beliefs, the Rotary District Governor emphasized.

He said that there is a striking parallel between the program of Rotary and the United Nations Charter, and that since the organization of the United Nations in 1945, Rotary Clubs throughout the world have been active in the development of an informed public opinion on the objectives of the United Nations in an endeavor to make it an effective instrument of free peoples everywhere.

CAMPBELLFORD

Campbellford — The Hon. W. A. Goodfellow has announced that a contract will be let within the next two weeks to pave the 10.6 mile stretch of Highway No. 30, connecting Campbellford and Havelock. The job will be done with hot-mix surfacing, and will include grading similar to the Campbellford - Brighton stretch of the same highway.

It is hoped that the work will be completed this Fall, and will greatly improve what has heretofore been a comparatively bad stretch of highway.

The highway from Campbellford to Stirling has been greatly improved during the past year, and while it is not yet paved, the road is much wider, smoother and safer. It will likely be paved in due course.

The Kinsmen Club, of Campbellford, will hold a meeting on October 2nd., for the purpose of choosing a new president. The president-elect, chosen earlier this year has left town, and a ne[illegible] election is necessary.

RAWDON

Carmel United Church to Celebrate 75th Anniversary

Rawdon — Carmel United Church on the Stirling Circuit, situated in a purely rural community bordering the townships of Rawdon and Sidney are planning to celebrate their 75th. anniversary next Sunday.

This historic church was dedicated in June 1875 as a Methodist Episcopal edifice by Bishop Ashbury. Two men who attended that event, Messrs. John Richardson and William Carlisle hope to be in attendance on Sunday. The latter has worshipped at Carmel all of the 75 years.

Previous to the building of Carmel church the congregation held services in the town line school house which was situated a short distance east of the present site.

The land was donated for building purposes by the late Mr. John Brooks. To date, there have been no weddings in the edifice. There is no business of any kind in the Carmel community and it is practically a farming section.

The pastor, Rev. A. E. Baker, U.E. and a full committee have been working for several months to make this anniversary worthwhile and they have compiled a booklet of history on the "Who's Who of Carmel."

Band in Attendance

On Sunday, the famous Tobermore Band, of Toronto, which played several evenings at the Canadian National [illegible] cently, and whi[illegible] their flutes [illegible] by char[illegible] ing [illegible] R[illegible] table in memory of his parents and several Bibles and hymn books will also be dedicated.

All services will be on daylight saving time and a loud speaker will relay the service from the church to Jubilee Hall. A large number of St. Paul's worshippers are planning to attend.

WEDDINGS

HARDER—PLUMPTON

Stockdale United Church was the setting for a pretty wedding on Saturday, September 16th at 3 p.m., when the Rev. R. McEachern, pastor of the church, united in marriage Peggy June, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Plumpton of Stockdale, to Donald Maitland Harder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Harder, of Trenton, R.R. 5. Dahlais and gladioli decorated the church for the occasion.

Cheese Gives A Tang to Many Dishes

The flavor of cheese appeals to nearly every taste. One reason for this is the wide selection of types and flavors of cheese. The fresh cream cheeses are smooth and mild as butter. Other types, according to the method used in curing as well as the amount of fat left in the milk produce dozens of different textures and flavors to suit every taste.

Cheese has always had definite economic merit because it holds the chief constituents of milk, which are very valuable but exceedingly perishable, in an easily stored form.

Cheese adds food value to other less expensive foods such as cereals and vegetables and also gives them an interesting flavor.

In Canada we are accustomed to colored cheese and many people are under the impression that the white Canadian Cheddar cheese is something quite different from the colored. It is exactly the same except that the yellow cheese has a little harmless coloring added to it in the cheese vat. The white cheese is the kind they prefer in Britain where so much Canadian cheese is sold. The white cheese is sold as "medium" or "old" according to the length of time it has been cured, and either white or colored will give that delicious cheesy flavor to many dishes. AMBULANCE SERVICE

NEWEST TYPE HOSPITAL BEDS TO RENT

(with new Marshall Spring-Filled Mattresses)

By PRUNELLA WOOD

THE SPARE cut of this one-piece wool frock is all that the present mode desires, for we are all for understatement these days. The fabric is lightweight wool with a neutral color pin check, its accents for collar, buttons and pocket flap linings black worsted cloth. Sized from nine to fifteen, this is an excellent campus or career dress for the next six or eight months.

BEAUTY

Self-consciousness

Considering how up-and-coming the younger generation is, the serious subjects they talk about, their interest on politics and world affairs, one might get the idea that shyness no longer exists. But it does. And the self-conscious girl is just as unhappy as was her great-grandmother when she sat on the side lines at the party, wished she were dead because she couldn't be gay and the boy wouldn't pay any attention to her.

Shyness is social fear of doing or saying the wrong thing, fear that others will not approve of one's behavior. The essence of the difficulty is really a feeling of being different from others. This notion may be purely imaginative. Almost everyone suffers from self-consciousness at times.

Many great actors and actresses suffer stage fright, are jittery before each appearance. Though the world may praise them to the skies they have many moments of unhappiness. They're afraid the audience will not be responsive.

The mother of a self-conscious girl should tell that she is as sweet, pretty and attractive as other girls. That is what the wise, loving mother will do; some mothers can't; they seem to be afraid of their daughters or at least don't know how to approach them. Young people need affection in the family circle and it should be expressed; it gives children courage and self-respect.

To talk seriously to a child about self-consciousness is a mistake. It should never be mentioned. For a mother to say "Why can't you be like other girls, enter into social activities, and enjoy yourself?" is to throw the poor child into deeper confusion.

Ridicule, fault-finding, uncomplimentary comparisons with other girls just won'te do. Such an attitude on the part of a parent makes for further self-depreciation. The poor dear needs boosting, must never be slapped down.

Care of the health is a factor that makes for improvement. Long hours of sleep, lots of outdoor life, nutritious food, pleasant companions may bring a change for the better.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Fiance's parents have not made welcoming call

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My son is engaged to be married, and on many occasions before the announcement of the engagement we entertained the girl at dinner and other occasions. But we have never met her parents, who live about thirty miles from us. I have always understood that it is the girl's parents who make the first step after the announcement of the engagement, inviting the young man's parents to their home. Now I am told that I am wrong about this, and that it is my place to invite the girl's parents to tea or something at our house. Which is really correct procedure? And how soon after the engagement should this be done? (2) Also please tell me in the event that the parents do not meet until the actual wedding day, who introduces them?

Helen H.

You have been informed correctly. . . that it is the young man's parents who make the first social move. This means that as soon as possible after their son has told them of his engagement, his parents (or in any event, his mother) go at once to call on the girl and her mother to tell them of their happiness about the engagement, and to welcome the girl into their family. (If a personal call is impossible, the young man's mother may telephone or write notes to the girl and her mother. . .but apparently this call would be possible and convenient for you, since the distance is not great.) This call or telephone or note should be accomplished at once. . .within twenty-four hours after the news is told them is the idea. . .not, as your question seems to indicate, after the engagement has been announced. After this formality, either family may invite the other to come to any occasion. (2) I hope that you can bring about this meeting of the families soon, very soon . . .it is important that this should be done, and you are the one to do it. However, if it isn't done before the actual wedding day, you, the hostess of the wedding, are the one to make the introductions.

Greenback shower lacks imagination, charm

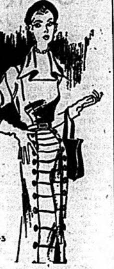
Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A group of friends are planning to have a bridal shower for a very dear girl friend of ours. It is to be at my house, for a group of about forty. We would like the gifts to be gifts of money. Would it be correct to call it a greenback shower on the invitations, or what should we call it? And what should we do for entertainment?

A. E.

If you must give a money shower I suppose the best name to call it is "Greenback Shower". But this type of shower is not considered very good form or taste, for certainly the most delightful part of a shower is first the choosing and planning of the gifts, and then, at the shower, the thrilling presentation of the gifts and the opening of them and enthusiastic oh-ing and ah-ing by guests and by the guest of honor. There's the joyous surprise element which is such good fun, and the chatting about their place and use in "their new home". Anyone can bring a dollar bill or so . . . . but it takes imagination to plan and buy a charming shower gift. Also your question "What should we do for entertainment?" is answered by the fact that when you just give money-gifts, you hand in the money or the envelopes with the money, and that's that. . . but when there is the excitement and charm of the presenting and opening of the gifts, that is the "entertainment", the just-right and merry entertainment. Also real shower gifts are lasting remembrances. . . not just unidentifiable dollar bills!

Classic Black Dress



For afternoon wear

By VERA WINSTON

THE good black dress for afternoon wear, in eclipes for many seasons, is back in grand style. Here is a new version, designed with an understanding of the more mature figure. Of black crepe, it has a graceful collar to soften the square neckline, pointed cuffs and a flanged shoulder fold. Graduated folds are set into a panel in front, the bone buttons down each side lending a nice finish. The back of the skirt is gored.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A daughter's worry over an aging father who drinks

How much responsibility should grown sons and daughters take for aging parents?

This question is one with which almost everybody has to deal at some time in their lives, if either or both of their parents live on into old age. Universal as it is, however, I doubt if it is either wise or practical to try and make too detailed plans in advance, any more than it is to attempt to forestall the future in any other direction. Particularly in the case of those growing older, the picture is likely to change suddenly at any moment.

A letter I have just received from a woman, who, I gather, is middle-aged, with a husband and family of her own, seems to show that she is anticipating her problem too much. She has on her hands, it is true, one of the specially complicated situations of this kind which arises when a parent has some unusually difficult disability or failing. Her father is a heavy, chronic drinker, and because he spends all the money he can get his hands on for liquor, refusing to put anything by for his later years, she feels that she and her four brothers and sisters will be unfairly burdened with his care when age makes it impossible for him to work any longer.

"My father is 60 now," she writes, "and looks 50. Drinking seems to keep him fit instead of tearing him down. On week-days he keeps himself sober enough so that he can do his work, but on weekends he drinks all the time. He buys food for himself and my mother, pays the rent and keeps up the insurance, but outside of that, everything goes for liquor. He earns double what any of his daughters' husbands make, but refuses to put by a penny for his future."

Because both her father and her mother did their conscientious best for their five children in every way when they were young, she feels strongly that they deserve fullest consideration from those children as they grow older. So, "What is our responsibility to our father under all these circumstances?" she asks.

"Remembering that he did his best by me, I want to do my share in taking care of him and my mother. Yet when we watch him throwing away his money, we do not feel we should have to support him when he is too old to work any more, since he does not think enough of any of us to save now when he can."

As I suggested in the beginning, I think the writer of this letter is perhaps borrowing some, at least, of tomorrow's worry. Even though his heavy drinking does not seem to be disabling her father to any noticeable extent right now, it seems very doubtful that anyone can drink heavily over as many years as she says he has been doing and live to a very old age. If the effects of his drinking catch up with him and he should be unable to take care of himself before he did, it seems to me, under the circumstances, it would be perfectly fair for his children to place him in some sort of suitable home or institution. I do not believe, when he has refused to do anything whatever about insuring his own future, even though he is well able to do so, that they are obligated to sacrifice themselves to take care of him other than to see that he receives proper attention.

The mother, of course, is all entirely different proposition. In her case, I would think her children should work out together some plan for her to live with one of them, or perhaps spend part of the year with one and part with another.

This may not seem like a great deal of help in solving an extremely difficult problem. But there are situations in which it is best to let things temporarily ride. They may solve themselves in this case in some such way as I have already suggested, before that ominous future my correspondent fears actually confronts the family.

Fashion Flashes

THE FAVORITE partnership of black and white appears in several of the leading hat collections. White velours for a deep cloche helmet that has wide, black velvet ribbon draped through the crown ending in a wide, flat bow in back where the brim is split in a triangle.

A MARKED departure from the usual fur silhouette is that of the coat that poses fullness at the front and sides. It appears in a three-quarters length of black Persian lamb with black Alaska sealskin used like velvet for the inlaid collar and for the four big buttons down either side of the jutting panel that marks the coat from the waist down.

A BIG DASH of Scotch marks the new separates. Sure to be a favorite on the campus is the waistcoat and pleated skirt twosome in worsted, the plaids bright and colorful. Tailored jacket of plaid with a gray flannel skirt is sure to be a popular combination.

THERE'S COLOR enough and to spare in many new hats. Red velvet with orange undertones makes a handsome high fezlike pillbox with a rounded eye-veil of stiff black mesh that buttons on at the crown to the large jet buttons that serve as hat trimming.

MAKE NOTE of the return of the important black dress for late afternoon wear next season. One house shows slim frocks in satin with a sleek "broadtail" surface, marked by flashes of jet embroidery. The open petal neckline or triple revers collars mark many of these dresses.

ITS A BRIGHT outlook for flashes of brilliant color. A simple black silk crepe sheath of a dinner gown becomes an attention-getter by virtue of a cluster of brigh

They entertain us at lunch at Skansen — an open-air folk-museum—and the president of the Swedish Institutes welcomes us and tells us something of their work here. The past president is one of the vice-presidents of our international organization, Associated Country Women of the World, and we are happy to meet her. They have 33,000 members in Sweden and have many active branches in Lapland at the far north.

The restaurant at Skansen (which reminds me of Greenfield Village, out of Detroit) is delightful, beamed ceilings, huge fireplaces at either end of the room, bright red geraniums blooming at every window and long boxes of plants and red geraniums placed all through the room.

My companion at table tells me something of Lapland, which lies in the Arctic Circle. The Laplanders still live mostly in skin tents and move from place to place to find food for their reindeer. I was amazed to learn that in the Southern part of their land they grow potatoes and grain, along the sea coast.

We are learning to appreciate the great diversity of membership we have in A.C.W.W. We are learning too, that in Norway and Sweden our membership is drawn largely from the middle and upper classes, wives of business and professional men, and that their main objective is the same as our own, "The building up of home and communities." Labor groups have their own organizations. These two countries are ahead of us in representation given to women in municipal offices. We learn there are a great many serving on county councils.

We are dismayed to find it is raining heavily again, but we brave the elements to learn something of Skansen. It comprises many acres and old historic buildings and early industries have been brought here for preservation —the same as at Greenfield Village. But we had to curtail our sight-seeing here, as it meant continual walking in the open. As it was we were soaked through and through. We have a good joke on one of our members from British Columbia (names are unfair) an ex-newspaper woman, and a rather sedate little person. She wore today a short jacket and a crepe dress, which we called "creeping crepe". As it got wetter, it also got shorter, until finally there was a good four inches of a paddy-green slip showing. We told her the Swedish people would wonder what new district they had acquired when they saw her outfit.

We did feel sorry for Mr. and Mrs. Southam, for we are their apartment in a new and modern apartment house. We meet members of the Canadian Legation, several of whom are formerly from Ontario. The day is not yet over for six of us who persevere in securing tickets for the Swedish Ballet, which is having its premiere showing tonight. We are told the house is sold out, but we cancellations because of the rainy night and are at last rewarded for our patience. It was delightful—a combination of artistry, grace and color, and we are satisfied to call it a day.

Customer Take Spotlight at New Conveniences Dominion Master Market

According to latest information, food shoppers at the new Dominion Master Market here in Belleville will be treated to an unusually large number of the newest developments in shopping conveniences.

This newest addition to the Dominion chain will follow the same general design of markets recently opened in other leading cities and is the outcome of long and careful study.

Color schemes, store layout, fixture design and special equipment have all been decided only after detailed analysis of the shoppers' needs.

One of the chief features from the customer standpoint is "personal service" at the meat counter. A trained salesman will be on hand to help her select from the large display always available, thus the shopper can choose the cut best suited to her needs. A full range of beef, veal, pork, lamb, poultry and fish will be carried.

Dominion Stores, knowing the importance of fruit and vegetables in well balanced diets, will show an unusually large variety of both domestic and imported kinds. Whenever possible, fresh produce will be purchased locally with resulting benefits to local growers. All fruits and vegetables will be displayed on specially designed stands that bring the merchandise within easy reach of the shopper.

Dominion Stores have long been aware of the necessity for variety in daily meals and with this in mind, this new Master Market will display more than two thousand different items. From this vast array, the shopper should find little difficulty in obtaining those foods her family prefer.

Other features that will promote fast, efficient service will be such things as electric coffee mill, electric meat chopper, electric meat saw and a battery of six check-out desks each equipped with the latest type electric cash register.

At present, fixtures are being installed and stocks moved in. It is expected the store will be opened Thursday, Sept. 28th.

News of Trenton

Council Reverses Motion, Will Purchase Fire Truck

Trenton. (Special)— Lack of fire protection for the town of Trenton is seen as one reason for a reversal of form by town council, Thursday night. Councillors have now decided that they will buy a Bickle-Seagrave fire truck at an estimated full cost of $20,593, rather than the $21,246 La France as previously reported.

One big advantage in the Bickle deal is that the company will lend a demonstration model to the town, while delivery of the new machine is delayed about 75 days. This, councillors felt, was of great advantage to the town, and provided for its safety in a better fashion than did the La France deal.

In addition, Trenton will receive a free truck from the company, one which formerly was the property of St. Catharines, Ontario. This one is a hook and ladder outfit, 27 years old. They thus matched the La France offer of an old truck from Niagara Falls. The aged fire-fighters apparently have little value as trade-ins, and hence the companies are willing to offer them as premiums.

The recommendation from the committee appointed to investigate and report on the fire truck deal to make a move on the Bickle-Seagrave offer came this week. The committee is composed of councillors Burtt and Graham and Fire Chief Harry Fillon.

Final disposition of the old machine, which broke down some time ago and precipitated the purchase of a complete new outfit has not been decided. Also undecided as yet is whether or not to issue debentures for the purchase of the machine.

The demonstration model to be sent by the company is expected to arrive in Trenton by September 26.

Trenton—(Special) — Trenton, in line with Belleville, will revert to Standard Time tonight at midnight. Town councillors decided late Thursday night to put the clock back an hour as originally scheduled.

While some of the larger municipalities have heeded a hydro request to delay the clock-changing until November, most small Ontario communities are holding to the original plan.

Which means, briefly, that the hour you lost back in the spring can be regained tonight. Set the clock back, not forward.

Judge Schroeder Will Take Over Criminal Court

Toronto, Sept. 23—(CP)—Phfft!

That was the last sputter of the bloodless battle between Chief Justice J. C. McRuer and Mr. Justice W. F. Schroeder.

The chief predicted it last week when he said mysteriously: "The matter will solve itself."

Most folks thought perhaps he meant because of the Canadian Bar Association meeting in Washington. Both he and Mr. Justice Schroeder went to Washington this week.

(They had quarrelled silently over who was going to try the criminal cases at the local assizes and who the civil cases.

(The chief, because of his seniority in the Ontario Supreme court, took over the criminal court —to which Mr. Justice Schroeder had been assigned.

(Mr. Justice Schroeder balked. For a week he just didn't show up in civil court, where 120 cases awaited trial.

(Then came the big do in Washington.)

But despite the chief's statement about the matter solving itself, people wondered. What about after the Bar Association meeting ended—as it does this weekend?

They got their answer Friday.

Mr. Justice Schroeder gets back his criminal cases Monday, Chief Justice McRuer goes to Goderich for the assizes there.

A third man presumably will get the Toronto civil court.

Peace? It's wonderful.

But, just in case, let's call this an armistice.

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

DIVIDED CHILDREN

Campbellton, N.B. — Stand on any one of the playgrounds of the three public schools of Campbellton this crisp Autumn morning. Look out to the Restigouche River, which separates New Brunswick and Quebec and, beyond, the blue and sparkling Baie des Chaleurs.

Your gaze encompasses the scene of the last bloody naval battle between French and English. Out there on the broad, quiet river in the spring of 1760 a British fleet under Commodore, John Byron, known as "Foul-weather Jack", met and destroyed the frigate Le Marchant and five merchant ships under the command of one Captain La Giraudais, sent from France for the relief of Quebec.

They say that when the tide is low the bleached skeleton of Le Marchant is still visible through the clear water of the Restigouche.

But there's a much more tangible relic of that ancient war right here on any of the school grounds of Campbellton. For here the war is still going on between the French and the English and some 200 years after the last cannon fired you may see Canadian boys and girls separated by race and religion.

In Campbellton there is a tragic segregation of the children. In each of the eight grades in these public schools there are three distinct classes. There is a class for boys and girls who are French Catholics. There is a class for those who are Irish Catholics. There is a class for the English-speaking non-Catholics.

In this northeast corner of New Brunswick Canadian children are being taught not to live together as Canadians, but apart as different breeds of Canadians.

Silent Critics

Campbellton's strange school system of religious barriers, in existence for more than four years and said to be the only one of its kind in Canada, is a very touchy subject in this pleasant town of half-French, half-English, an unhappy manifestation of New Brunswick's race problem.

I spent all of yesterday fruitlessly trying to find a Campbelltonian who would consent to be quoted on the subject. In the capital at Fredericton, I'm told there is the same conspiracy of silence. No one dares speak his mind against the growing power of the French.

Yet, curiously, many French see the danger. One Acadian businessman told me, "It's an unhappy compromise that can only bring harm. We are dividing children under the same roof, making them conscious of their differences."

A Protestant real estate man, with two children at school, said, "In my day we all went to school together. It brought us closer. Which is what we want and need. But now, with this new system. I find my kids lined up against the Catholics. It makes for the same kind of distrust and suspicion you get from any kind of segregation."

An Irish Catholic railroad worker said, "We're squeezed in the middle and we don't like it. But what can we do? The church fought a long time for the right to have Catholics taught by Catholic teachers—'God and language at our schools'—and it isn't likely to retreat from that position. Can't have our kids in the French classes because they're taught in French. Can't have them in the Protestant classes because that would mean a break with our church. So each grade has three classes."

The editor of one of Campbellton's two weekly papers said, "The system is cumbersome and expensive. More than that, it's dangerous as hell. We don't know what its long-term effect is going to be, but it can't help but bring intolerance."

Neither paper has editorialized on the subject. "Frankly", one editor told me, "We'd run the risk of folding up if we took a stand. We just have to take it and try to like it."

'Our Rights'

Essentially all three classes are taught the same curriculum as defined in Fredericton, but the Catholic groups appear at 8:30 in the morning, a half hour before the non-Catholics, for catechism instruction.

It means a lop-sided arrangement with over-crowding in one room, a half-empty class in another. One class, I was told has 16 non-Catholic students while in the adjoining room are crowded 48 French Catholic students.

A teacher (who all but made me swear an oath that I would not use his name) said that there is very little mingling of students of varying religion. "We don't discourage fraternizing," he said, "but the youngsters have begun to feel an antagonism toward each other. The only way this could possibly work would be to have different schools although, God knows, even that would be folly."

The French-Canadians who feel that this is a minor victory are still far from satisfied. They wish the curriculum changed, as one I talked to put it, "to maintain our own traditions and not to indoctrinate our children in your British traditions."

To the suggestion that some way should be worked out for intermingling, this fourth generation Canadian responded, "We have our rights and if they're taken from us this country is no better than Russia. The only way in which you can deny us that right is by a holy war."

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

ALS AWAY TONIGHT UNDER LIGHTS

onight under the lights at Exhibition Park the Hagerman Plumbers and the prides of Point Anne go to the mat in the first clash of their best-of-five series for the championship of the "A" Section of the Commercial Softball League.

The How-Hags took out the Stewarners in the odd game in five while the Pointers ousted Herbie Henn's single-yonkers in three straight tilts in the semi-finals.

So now the chips are down. Both squads have girded themselves for this important series, and insofar as the first game generally has an important bearing, both will be out there with the gleam of victory in their orbs.

We are not going out on any limb, but taking everything into consideration it should be a honey series. Point Anne was the hottest team in the semi-finals brackets, and if they maintain the form that characterized their play in ousting the Brewers, they will be a tough squad to beat.

On the other side of the fence, Cy. Barriage's huskies have been playing consistent ball, although they were beaten twice by the Stewart Warner clan. But this is the money series and the softball faithful should see some thrilling jousts before one or the other of the squads chirp "uncle". The game starts at eight o'clock sharp.

AROUND THE CORNER

Comes another herald of hockey in a bulletin from friend ack Christie, the hard-working and efficient secretary of he Ontario Minor Hockey Association.

The annual convention will be held in Convention Room 690, King Edward Hotel, Toronto, on Saturday, November 18th (Yuk, yuk, that's the night the Rangers play the Maple Leafs) and a record attendance of at least 250 delegates is xpected to register.

At a meeting last week, the OMHA executive announced the first raise in entry fees since the formation of the organization. Mounting operational costs, it felt, have made necessary a two-dollar per team boost in fees. For the season the ante will be $7 per team in the juvenile and midget classes and $5 for bantam clubs. This move however, will seek confirmation at the convention.

* * *

The executive committee will also propose to the convention that minor players be permitted to compete in an unlimited number of OHA games up to December 15th. Players who take part in OHA games after December 15th must not have played in more than three games all told.

* * *

he executive has already tightened restrictions on the series, the association's lowest population classification. h classification of teams is left to the executive, they e be bound by a rule that restricts the "D" series villages of approximately 1,000 or less popu- ey may sign players residing outside the village nted, providing they live within five miles of the post ffice (or centre of the village) for which they play. Teams will be permitted to sign players from other villages within the five mile limit providing the combined population of the villages involved does not exceed 1,000.

Sunday sport will not be encouraged by the Ontario Minor Hockey Association, and no teams will be ordered to play on the Sabbath.

* * *

It is predicted that the November convention will increase the number of signed players to 18 per team, but may restrict all players to one team, rather than permitting the "C" and "D" series teams to sign players to more than one age classification. This proposal is being forwarded to the convention as another part of the OMHA's co-operation with educational authorities, and is intended to cut down on hockey's interference with school activities.

NO FUN FOR A WEAKLING!

If you have a yen for tuna fishing, just forget about indulging in it until you have finished a course of physical jerks. Better still, make it a commando course, if you want to emerge in good physical shape after a stiff 60-minute battle with one of these salt-water piscatorial pachyderms.

* * *

George Wallbridge can vouch for that statement. He has just returned from a tuna-fishing jaunt to Wedgeport, N.S. with brother Davis, of Syracuse, Jack Mackenzie and Leonard Reid of this city.

George hooked a 233-pounder, while his brother boated a 400-pound monster. The others were unsuccessful.

According to George, you are not fooling around with a three-pound smallmouth when a fighting tuna grabs the bait. Brother, you've got a battle on your hands. He fought his fish for over an hour, and although he emerged victorious he was as limp as his quarry from sheer physical exertion.

* * *

Next to tuna fishing George loves duck-hunting. And a sideline to this sport is a hobby of making decoys. He has developed into an expert along this line through years of experience. Give George a cedar block, a few carving weapons, and he'll turn out a black or a bluebill that would fool the pair that sailed in the Ark. At the moment his production has overrun his needs, and any hunter desirous of obtaining some of these lifelike imitations should contact George immediately.

Yankees Take Half-Game Lead In American League, Thanks To an Old Alumnus, Gordon

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York Yankees once again are a half game ahead in the American League pennant battle today thanks to an old alumnus Joe Gordon.

Gordon, in one of the most dramatic games of the stretch drive smashed a home run last night to give Cleveland Indians a 4-3 victory over Detroit Tigers. The defeat dumped the Tigers out of a first place tie with the Yanks.

Gordon led off the last of the ninth with his game - winning blow after the Tigers had tied the score at 3-3 on a two-out, two-run homer by Don Kolloway in the top of the ninth.

The Yanks and the third-place Boston Red Sox were idle. They open a two-game series in Yankee Stadium today. Boston is two games back of the pace-setters.

Two crack lefthanders, Mel Parnell of the Red Sox and Eddie Lopat of the Yanks, will be the opposing pitchers at the Stadium today. They boast identical 17-8 records with Parnell riding the crest of a nine-game winning streak.

A Yankee sweep of the two games will virtually knock the Red Sox out of contention as they would then drop four games behind with only eight games to play.

While the Red Sox and Yanks go at each other, the Tigers continue their feud with the Indians with a single game today and another tomorrow.

Art Houtteman (10-19) has been nominated to pitch today for the Tigers against Cleveland's Mike Garcia (10-10).

The Indians scored all of their runs in last night's thrilling encounter after two outs. Big Luke Easter drove in their first three runs off Hal Newhouser who went the distance for Detroit.

Easter socked his 28th homer after Larry Doby walked with two down in the first inning to give Bob Feller a 2-0 working margin.

Easter Was Hitting

The Tigers counted an unearned run in the third but Easter stroked a two-out run-scoring single in the bottom of the third to restore Cleveland's advantage to two runs.

Feller breezed along in great style until two were out in the ninth. Johnny Groth then singled and Kolloway followed with his sixth homer to tie the score. Joe Ginsberg and Newhouser kept the rally alive with infield hits but Johnny Lipon grounded out to end the threat.

Gordon began the last of the ninth by socking Newhouser's second pitch over the leftfield fence to break up the game. The blow was Gordon's 19th round-tripper.

In the only National League game, Pittsburgh Pirates edged Cincinnati Reds 8-7 in 10 innings under the lights at Forbes Field. Pinch-hitter Wally Westlake broke up the game with a two-run single. Bob Usher of the reds sent the game into overtime with a three-run homer in the ninth.

The league-leading Philadelphia Phils return to action today and take on the Brooklyn Dodgers in a two-game series at Philadelphia. The Dodgers and Boston Braves are tied for second place, seven games behind the Phils. Any combination of six Philadelphia victories or six Brooklyn and Boston defeats will give the Phils their first pennant since 1915.

Baltimore Evens Series With Wings In 11-5 Victory

Baltimore, Sept. 23 — (AP)—Baltimore Orioles enjoy a slight psychological advantage over the Rochester Red Wings in the final round of the International League's Shaughnessy Cup playoffs.

Baltimore tied the best-of-seven series at a game apiece last night in Rochester by trouncing the pennant-winning Red Wings 11-5, and the series now shifts here for the next three games.

The first game will be played tonight. The teams will be idle Sunday because of a pro football game in Baltimore's municipal stadium. The fourth and fifth games will be staged Monday and Tuesday nights. The sixth and seventh games, if necessary, will be played in Rochester.

Either Irv Medlinger or Bill Kennedy will pitch for Baltimore tonight against Eddie Yuhas or rookie Jack Faszholz.

The Orioles won last night's game with an eight-run fourth inning. A two-out wind-blown pop fly that fell for a single opened the floodgates for Baltimore in the fourth. Austin Knickerbocker and Babe Barna featured the uprising with home runs. Butch Woyt also homered for the winners, while Don Bollweg socked one for Rochester.

Avon Jewellers Take Game Lead In Playoffs

Avon Jewellers trimmed Bakelite 17-9 in a Commercial League "B" Section encounter played at Alemite Field last evening. The win was the second in a row for the Jewellers and it gave them a one game lead in the best-of-five semi-final series.

Each team collected fourteen safeties but the winners bunched their hits as they scored four in the first four in the second and six in the fifth. Archie Bellis hurler for the Jewellers scattered the Bakelite hits well, allowing no more than three in any inning. Bakelite committed four errors while Avon miscued no less than eight times.

A walk, an error and singles by Connell and Miller plus triple by McTaggart gave Avon a four run lead which they never relinquished. In the second frame Avon also scored four runs when two men walked and Ford, McTaggart, and Miller came through with base hits. Avon clinched the game in the fifth inning by scoring six runs three of which were driven home by the league leading hitter "Yank" McBride who lambasted a towering homer to deep right-centre field.

Good Fielding

The two fielding highlights of the contest were provided by the Bakelite. In the first of the third Lucus the Bakelite centre fielder raced way back and snared a long drive from the bat of Connell. Arnott, the second sacker took a sure base hit away from Miller in the eighth as he leaped high and made a one hand grab of a hot liner hit by Miller of Avon.

Every member of the Jewellers claimed at least one safety. McTaggart hit a triple, double, and a single to pace the Avon squad at the plate, while Miller added three singles. Jack McBride playing with the ligaments in his right hand torn, drove home five runs with a double and a homer. Cowan also hit a homer for Avon.

Ray Burley with a triple, double and a single, Littlejohn with a double and a single, and Peever with a pair of doubles paced the Bakelite. Cook and Powers also claimed a pair of singles each.

Lineups:

Avon: Reid lf; Cowan c; Connell cf; McBride 1b; McTaggart 3b; Miller rf; Bellis p; Ethier 2b; Ford ss.

Bakelite: Littlejohn 3b; Arnott 2b; Cook lf; Cousins c; Powers 1b; Burley ss; Lawn replaced by Peever in 7th; Lucas cf; Stewart replaced by Burtch in 2nd, p.

Geohogen-Watson Team Loses To Atkins-Henning-Maxwell Trio in Main Bout Thriller

Sometimes it doesn't pay to be beautiful. Sometimes it is better, it seems to take the seamy road of life and take your chances.

That is how Whipper Billy Watson and Timothy Geohagen felt after last night's wrestling embroglio at Memorial Arena where they pitted their beauty and skill against the brawn and brutality of the fearsome twosome Fred Atkins and Leering Lee Henning, the "heavies" of this so-called wrestling drama.

Actually, as far as this observer could see, Referee Bert Maxwell was not taking any chances on getting a post-bout mauling from the Australian and his corn-raising American counterpart.

Maxwell conveniently turned his back to give either the Whip or the Irisher, the Sunday School lesson while either Atkins or Henning were applying their villainous methods of operation to the foe.

And that, kiddies, is mainly why Atkins and Henning got the nod over the Watson-Geohagen

Gossip From The Courts of The District

BY "DIG"

Well Quinte Two beat out the strongly fancied Point Anne club in the semi-final of the Corby Cup Competition. The teams were tied with five points each after the first two games and had to play a decider. Thorold Horwood's outfit were edged in the third game by three events to two. The Quinte squad have one or two players who have considerably improved during the season, and although the seasoned campaigners such as Con Moolenburgh, Alf Wilkes, Madge Cowley etc played up to their usual standard and did all that was expected of them. It is to such new members of their string as Ed Littlejohn, Elizabeth Pitney, and Bob Lucy that they must give credit for entering the final. Ed and Elizabeth have been playing together as a team all season but it is only lately that they have reached their top form and now they are a must for any mixed doubles pair in the league.

Last Sunday Quinte got four events under their belt in the first leg of the final round, against Trenton. The boys and girls from the Air Force City could only manage to take the Ladies doubles event. Maybe Fred Bayliss and his gang were suffering from the long layoff from competitive tennis as they had not played since they polished off Batawa the previous Sunday at the shoe town. Trenton and Quinte Two are scheduled to get together this weekend for the second leg of the best of three final.

On Sunday afternoon the younger generation will be in operation again when Quinte Intermediates play hosts to Point Anne Intermediates at the Quinte tennis courts. This is the replay of the game that was rained out a couple of weeks ago

Friday October 6th is the date of the Grand End of Season Dance that is being run by the Bay of Quinte Tennis League at the Club Cedars. This is the occasion when the league trophy and the Corby Cup will be presented to the winners. Tickets priced at 75c each are now available from any team captain.

Dan Cowley who was this year elected to the chairmanship of the tennis committee of the Quinte Skating and Tennis Club was home on leave last week from his activities with the RCAF's 426 squadron who are on ferrying operations between the U. S. and Japan.

A Weekly Peek At The Soccer Picture
BY ELDEE

After the defeat of Trenton Flyers last Saturday by the Camp Borden Army team it is apparent that we will have to wait another year for the chance of bringing the Ontario Intermediate Championship Trophy to this district. Flyers have been very unlucky in losing quite a few of their star players through Air Force postings. The team they had at the beginning of the season would have been a match for almost any team in Eastern Ontario but they have been so whittled down that they are now a shadow of their former selves. This is always one contingency that has to be considered by any service team. Last week they even lost the services of Rod Perriton, their secretary manager. Rod has done quite a job of work for soccer and sport in general at the station and he will definitely be missed. Sgt. Mike Kelly has taken over from Rod and appears to be quite a keen sportsman and should make a good substitute for F/Sgt. Perriton who has left for the west coast which to him is home.

The soccer is drawing to a close and it is fitting to consider the usual end of season banquet. This year the Bay of Quinte Football Association are planning a very special function. It is proposed to hold a combined banquet and dance and generally to hold a very fine evening together. The venue — the new banquet hall at the Queensway Hotel in Trenton It is expected that tickets and further information will be available by the time we go to press next week. The suggested date is Friday evening October 27 and all soccer fans are asked to reserve that date and come along and have a good time.

The situation in the local league is pretty well the same. Whilst Flyers were engaged on Ontario Intermediate Championship business Batawa took the opportunity to increase their lead at the head of the League table at the expense of 6 R. D. In the Eastern Ontario League teams have had a holiday from league play during the last two weeks owing to two of the teams being paired in the other semi-final of the Intermediate Cup. On Saturday, Ottawa Armed Services travel to Kingston to take on Vimy Signals whilst Peterborough and Kingston United oppose each other for the third week in succession at Peterborough. The previous two occasions of course were in the semi-final of the Intermediate Championships. This should be another really good match with two very fast teams who at all times try to play good football.

Ken Charlton Best Ball Carrier In Western Loop

When you consider that a football team has three downs to make 10 yards for a first down, the statistics make Ken Charlton, hard-driving veteran backfielder for Saskatchewan Roughriders, look pretty good.

He boasts the best ground-gaining average of any ball-carrier in the Western Canada Football conference — approximately nine yards for every time he has carried the ball.

The 29-year-old former Ottawa Rough Rider has lugged the ball 19 times for a net gain of 171 yards.

Tied for second-place ball carrying honors are Tom Casey, the Winnipeg whizz and league-leading scorer, and Riders' young fullback Nelson Greene. Both sport a 6.8 yard average. Casey one of the conference workhorses, has carried 52 times for a net gain of 354 yards while Greene plunged 19 times for 130 yards.

In the passing department, Edmonton's Lindy Berry owns the best percentage, completing .537 of his tosses. He has tried 149 passes, completed 80 for a total gain of 1,549 yards and had 12 intercepted.

Ed (Porky) Oliver, the good-natured round man from Seattle, Wash., trimmed the Milburn Country Club course in 10 strokes under par, a 62, to take the 36-hole lead in the $15,000 Kansas City open golf tournament Friday with a total of 134.

At that, Oliver was only one stroke ahead of little Jack Burke, Jr., of White Plains, N.Y., who had a 69 and a mid-tournament total of 135.

Joe Louis took more punishment than he dished out in a six-round workout here Friday in preparation for his title fight with Ezzard Charles at the Yankee Stadium next Wednesday night.

It was his 16th day of boxing and he worked six rounds for a total of 87. Young Harry Wills hit Joe with some solid left jabs and crossed his right to the jaw with good effect, Joe seemed to have a difficult time getting out of the way of right hand punches.

Springfield Indians of the American Hockey League have announced the signing of three amateurs who played hockey in Ontario last season.

The three players signed are George Ford of Toronto and Bronco Horvath of Port Colborne, who played for Galt Black Hawks of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A group last season, and Regina-born Eddie Busch, who played for Hamilton Tigers in the O.H.A. Senior A loop.

Race-horse trainers seeking licences next year in Ontario will have to appear before a board of examiners composed of an Ontario Racing Commission veternary and a panel of commission-appointed trainers, it was announced in Toronto Friday.

The Commission said also, that all horses racing in Ontario will be tattooed and the numbers registered with the commission.

Bert Faulkner, now in charge of the racing strip at Hamilton track, has been retained as consultant on track conditions.

He will have charge of putting all running track racing strips in the province in condition before next year's racing starts.

Toronto Alderman Ross Lipsett said Friday he will ask city council to expropriate the Woodbine race and asked city council's parks committee to make a survey of the property to determine its suitability as a public park.

The alderman's announcement followed refusal of the Ontario Jockey Club to allow the city to use part of the property for a new highway. Mr. Lipsett said the only alternate was removal of the race track, annual site of the King's plate and other top racing events in Ontario.

Believed to be the first of its kind, the All-Canada Hockey School of Professional Intsruction will be held at Moose Jaw, Sask., Oct. 2-14.

Art Somers of Winnipeg, Cecil (Tiny) Thompson of Calgary and Johnny Gottselig, all former National Hockey League players will be the instructors. The tuition fee is $75 per student.

The program calls for two-hour sessions on the ice in the morning and afternoon with motion pictures at night.

SIX SCALDED TO DEATH

Port Said, Egypt, Sept 22 — (Reuters) — Six persons, including a father, mother and their two children, were scalded to death yesterday when a jet of hot water streamed into their launch. They had just disembarked from the Greek steamer Ionia. The water apparently came from a vent in the side of the ship.

Argonauts Rated About Even Money To Down Ottawa

(By The Canadian Press)

If either of last year's Grey Cup finalsits wins a game this weekend, it will be an upset. And the winner of a clash between the only two winless clubs in senior football may gain a spot in the Grey Cup playoffs.

Other high spots of this topsy-turvey football season feature two clubs that were pre-season favorites to finish last in their respective leagues. Even if worst happens to them today, they'll be in first-place ties.

Montreal Alouettes, the best team in Canadian football last season, have a date in Hamilton, where they'll try to get up off the floor after three decisive losses in four starts. The Tiger-Cats, who have lost two straight after a pair of startling early-season victories, figure to knock the Larks down.

In the second Interprovincial Rugby Football Union fixture, Ottawa Rough Riders and Toronto Argonauts match two-game winning streaks. The league-leading Argos are rated about even money to make it four victories out of five.

Time Running Out

In the west, time is running out on Calgary Stampeders, Dominion champions of 1948 and finalists last year. Losers of six games in seven, they tackle the front running Edmonton Eskimos in a game that could make even the third playoff spot virtually unreachable in their 14-game schedule.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers entertain Saskatchewan Roughriders in the second western Interprovincial Union tilt. Currently the four western clubs are exactly reversed from their pre-season ratings with the second-place Bombers looking for a chance to catch Edmonton.

The winless clubs with the playoff ambitions are Windsor Rockets and Toronto Balmy Beach, who meet for the first time in the current Ontario Rugby Football Union season at Windsor Sunday.

Beaches Revamped

Beaches dropped their only league game to Sarnia Imperials 39-0. Rockets lost two to the Imperials, both by four touchdowns or more.

On the face of it, that makes any Beaches-Rockets contest look like a scramble for top spo

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

That partner is a nincompoop who tries to throw you for a loop with crude unmitigated brass by making bids when he should pass. But what does really burn you up is when the gainless lying pup lays down a hand that's stinkeree and calls his bid a courtesy.

Some experts once advised players to make what they deceitfully called "courtesy bids." Most players were too dumb to know they were wrong. Many are still too stubborn to admit it.

Suppose you make an opening bid of one. Suppose your partner lacks enough for an honest reply. Naturally, he should pass. But if he bids despite not having enough he calls it a courtesy bid.

Suppose I open with a bid of one club. A courtesy nut would reply one no-trump with this hand:

♠10 6 5 2
♥Q J 10
♦9 6 3
♣10 7 2

Later he would have the gall to tell me it was done as a favor to me. Ask him why he makes a courtesy response and his answer is: "To keep the bidding open." Ask him why he should keep it open and he will say: "In case we have a game in something."

It sounds lovely until you puncture the romance with facts. The pair lacks enough for a game if opener has no better than a bid of one and partner has no honest response. Count up and see.

Look what the saps get out of it. They kill partnership trust on all future hands. For what? All for the sake of a useless bid.

Thereafter, opener fears to go on. He is afraid not to. He is in doubt when to double opponents. He is in a sweat on all hands that need close figuring. The cost is too great for so little.

It is bad enough to have a partner lie to you. But when caught at it he tells you it is done out of courtesy to you. Next you may expect him to clout you over the head and say it hurts him to do it.

If this be courtesy, pass the insults.

Hollywood, Sept. 22—(AP) — Where are the stars of tomorrow? asks Dana Andrews, one of the stars of today.

The handsome actor, who rose to prominence during the war, now is one of Hollywood's established stars. He has managed to jump the gap between being a new star and one with a degree of permanence, or as much permanence as anyone can have in this perilous business.

How do I know Andrews is established? Well, his salary is probably close to $100,000 a picture. And he owns a yacht and this week is driving his first Cadillac. That's how I know.

Reflections

Dana was reflecting about the new crop of stars between scenes of "The Gaunt Woman" (that's the name of a ship, they tell me).

"I keep hearing that the industry needs new stars," he said, "but where are they? In the past year there have been hardly any new faces that look as though they might last. Eventually the industry is going to suffer, because Hollywood's success has always been based on the creation of exciting new stars."

Andrews said the lack is especially noticeable in the ranks of the feminine stars.

Old Names

"Look at some of the top names —Betty Grable, Joan Fontaine, Olivia DeHavilland, Irene Dunne, Claudette Colbert, Bette Davis," he said. "They were all in the business before I entered it, and I've been in it 11 years. Very few new stars have been developed since then."

The fault, he hinted, lies in Hollywood's selection of new talent.

"Apparently they don't pick the young people who are willing to work for what they get," he said. "I know of one example of a guy who had a good future at 20th-Fox. But all he wanted to do was leading roles. When they asked him to help out on tests, he refused. Or if he did them, he sloughed off. The guy was last reported doing bits at Monogram."

Slight Reduction In Meat Prices Seen in Montreal

Montreal, Sept. 23—(CP)—Lack of demand and heavy supply have caused a slight reduction in meat prices here during the last two weeks and prices are expected to dip lower next week, wholesale dealers said Friday. They said the downgrade appears to have been felt throughout Canada.

Whether beef prices will decline to any appreciable extent is questionable, wholesalers said, but pork, which has seen the sharpest break, should decline even more within the next few weeks.

Meat packers said the drop was due to the fact that this is the time of year when livestock is liquidated in greatest numbers.

Blood on the Stars

By Brett Halliday

The nurse went back into the bedroom and Shayne hurried to the bedroom, followed by two of the police officers. Miss Naylor was seated beside the bed with Lucy's wrist in one hand, the hypodermic ready on a tray beside her. Lucy's head was bandaged and her eyes were closed. Her face was waxen white, but her features were composed and she appeared to be breathing normally.

Shayne moved inside the room to make way for Sergeant Harvey and Wentworth, his fellow police officer, and pointed to the corrugated wooden grip of an automatic showing from beneath the bed.

"There's the pistol the doctor mentioned. It looks like a Colt .38 and is probably mine. I keep it in the top drawer of the dresser in here." He was walking to the bureau as he spoke, opened the drawer and turned back with a nod. "My gun isn't here."

Harvey was kneeling beside the bed. He slipped a pencil through the trigger-guard of the pistol and got up with it dangling by the guard. He sniffed at the muzzle and said, "It's a Colt .38. Hasn't been fired. Did you or the nurse touch it, Doc?"

"I was very careful not to touch it," said the doctor. "It was lying right there when I first came in."

Lucy moved her head slightly and moaned. Faint color was beginning to show in her cheeks. Miss Naylor said, "Her pulse is much stronger, Doctor. I think she's reacting perfectly."

Harvey turned the gun over to Wentworth and said, "Have Richardson go over it." He turned back to Shayne who was now on his knees beside the wall radiator examining the dried bloodstains on the corner nearest the door.

"We can almost reconstruct it from this," he said to Harvey. Lucy knew I kept my gun in that drawer. I showed it to her a couple of days ago. If someone frightened her and she ran in here to get it, she could have turned back to meet him in the doorway. Standing about where Doctor Price is now would bring the back of her head against the register if she were shoved violently. How about this, Doctor? Could she possibly have gotten up and onto the bed under her own steam after falling?"

"No. It would have been utterly impossible. Someone picked her up and laid her on the bed and pulled the sheet up over her."

Lucy moaned again and her arm jumped convulsively in the nurse's hand. Dr. Price leaned forward to observe her carefully, and Shayne pushed forward to look down at her. Her eyes opened and his face was the first one she saw.

"Michael," she said weakly.

"What. . .?"

"Now, Miss Naylor," the doctor said quietly, then bent closer to Lucy and said, "You've had an accident, Miss Hamilton. Don't let yourself become excited. Mr. Shayne is going to ask you a few questions and I want you to answer them as briefly as possible. You must try to be calm and not become frightened."

"I understand," Lucy whispered. Her wide brown eyes were fixed on Shayne's face, and she appeared not to notice the injection being administered by the nurse.

Shayne said softly, "Everything is all right, Lucy. Dr. Price is giving me two minutes to ask you questions. Do you remember everything clearly?"

"Yes".

"You had undressed in your room and came back here for something," he went on swiftly. "Leaving the door on the latch. Did someone come in?"

"I thought it was you. I stepped in here to. . . surprise you, just as the door opened. The telephone rang. The man called 'Shayne,' and I knew it wasn't you and I was frightened. The phone kept ringing and he looked in the kitchen and bathroom and then came. . . in here. I was hidden behind the door. Then he answered the phone. He said, 'This is Mr. Shayne,' and then I got angry and remembered your pistol.

"I got the gun while the man listened on the phone, just saying a word now and then," Lucy explained. He hung up as I tiptoed back to the door after saying, 'I'll be there right away, Mrs. Dustin'. I . . . guess. . . he was more . . frightened than I was when he saw me standing there . . . with your pistol. He jumped at me before I could. . ."

Her voice trailed off and she closed her eyes. The color was ebbing out of her face again.

Shayne said urgently, "We know about what happened, Lucy. You fell and struck your head. Did you know the man?"

"No." She roused herself with visible effort. Shayne and Sergeant Harvey bent close to hear her murmured words:

"Heavy . . . set. Grey suit and Panama hat. . . mustache. About fifty years. . . old. I tried . . . to shoot. . . but he . . I . . couldn't . . ." Her lips stopped moving.

"Pulse still strong," Miss Naylor reported crisply.

"How long will that stuff keep her out?" Shayne asked, wiping sweat from his face.

"Six or eight hours if she isn't disturbed. And she must not be disturbed. If she is allowed to waken normally tomorrow morning we have nothing to fear. I'll have Miss Naylor remain with her tonight."

"And I'll get Sergeant Harvey to leave a man here on guard," said Shayne as they went into the living room and closed the bedroom door.

"What does it mean, Mike?" Harvey asked, then to his fingerprint man, "Get anything Richardson? From what we just learned the doornobs and telephone are your best bets."

"Nothing doing on any of them. The guy who drank out of that extra glass, Mike. . .?"

"Tim Rourke."

"I thought that'd be Tim."

"Try the bedroom," Harvey directed, "and keep it quiet. Now then. Mike, who was it and what did he want?"

Shayne had turned away. He said over his shoulder, "You heard exactly as much as I did."

"Well, I'll be going along," Dr. Price said. "Miss Naylor has full instructions and will call me if there's any change."

Shayne turned about and asked, "Have a nightcap with us, Doctor?"

"Not tonight, thanks." He started out and Shayne hurried to open the door and say earnestly, "You don't know how much I appreciate this. If ever I can. . ."

"If ever I require your particular brand of services, Mr. Shayne I won't hesitate to call on you. Good night."

Shayne was worrying his earlobe and there was a seeking look in his gray eyes when he re-entered the room. "Know the Sunlux telephone number by any chance?" he asked Harvey.

Harvy said he didn't Shayne looked it up in the directory and called the number and asked for the Mark Dustin suite. After half a minute, the operator at the hotel said, "Sorry. They do not answer."

"Connect me with Harry Jessup, the house detective," Shayne said. His face was furrowed with worry and his eyes low-lidded as he waited an interval of about two minutes before he spoke again.

"Harry? Mike Shayne. I'm worried about the Mark Dustins. That's right. He got conked in a jewel heist. They don't answer their phone, but they're supposed to be in. Maybe they're asleep, but Mrs. Dustin has been trying to get in touch with me and I don't like it a bit. Check for me, and have her call me at my apartment at once if everything's all right. . . and you call me fast if it isn't." He gave his telephone number, hung up, and stalked across the room to pour himself a drink. He shoved the bottle toward the sergeant. "Pour yourself a drink in this glass," indicating the one Tim Rourke had used.

Sergeant Harvey helped himself to the rye. He waited until Shayne was comfortably seated, then said, "What's this about Mark Dustin at the Sunlux, Mike?"

"I'll give you everything I've got, which is mighty little. We know someone walked in here tonight and answered my phone, impersonating me. He promised Mrs. Dustin he'd be over immediately and hung up. That was about an hour ago.

"Dustin was banged up pretty badly, and went to a hospital to get patched up. He and his wife returned to the hotel about midnight. They don't answer their telephone, and I'm pretty sure Dustin is in no condition to go out. Maybe they doped him up at the hospital and he's sleeping so soundly to hear the phone, but Mrs. Dustin should be there. Judging from her actions when I saw them, I don't think she'd go out and leave him alone."

"You working on the stickup for them?"

"Not exactly." Shayne warmed his glass between his palms. "Dustin did mention something about wanting to see me tomorrow. . . after Painter had shot off his mouth about me staying out of his deal. He gave me the impression he might hire me to recover the bracelet. I don't know why his wife would call me tonight." He shook his red head angrily.

"Who was the man your secretary described?"

Shayne kept on shaking his head and protested. "How would I know? You heard Lucy. Heavy set Gray suit and Panama hat. Mustache. About fifty years old. At least ten thousand people in Miami answer that description."

"Not very many of that number know you well enough to walk into your apartment at midnight when they find the door unlocked."

"Lots of people know me. Lots more know where I hang out."

"Nice friends you've got," said Harvey drily. "What man who answers that description and knows your apartment number would feel free to walk in, answer your telephone and then impersonate you and make a date with a dame who has just lost a fortune in jewelry?"

"If it happened to be someone who knows me well, he might start out thinking it was funny. You know. . . midnight and a woman asking for me. . ."

"Then tries to kill your secretary, and did actually walk out leaving her to die. That won't do, Mike. You know who it was."

Shayne said, "Maybe I do."

"Give".

"I've got to figure this Dustin angle. There's a wad of reward money to be picked up from that if a man plays his cards right. Maybe this guy was somebody looking for an angle to cut himself in."

"Look now, Mike are you going to cover up for a murderer in hopes of getting a cut on some lousy reward money?"

Shayne quirked a bushy red brow at the homicide sergeant and shrugged. "The way I read that stuff in the bedroom it was more an accident than attempted murder. I doubt whether Mr. X meant for her to crack her head on the radiator."

"Hold on, Mike. It became attempted murder as soon as he saw how badly she was hurt and walked off and left her like that. Dr. Price himself said a few minutes more delay might have been fatal."

"The guy might not have realized how badly she was hurt," said Shayne.

"Nuts," exploded Harvey. "He took the pains to pick her up and put her on the bed. She must have bled a lot, and he'd have known she was unconscious. First time I ever knew you to stick up for a murderer."

Shayne's eyes were bleak. He leaned back and crossed his long legs and lit a cigarette. He kept his gaze on the telephone and didn't reply.

Harvey sighed and finished his drink as Richardson came in from the bedroom. "Nothing in there," he reported.

"You boys report back to headquarters. I'll be along later."

"How about sending a flatfoot up to keep Miss Naylor company and see that Mr. X doesn't pay a return visit?" Shayne asked.

"What's the matter with you?" demanded Harvey. "Afraid you can't handle him alone?"

"I've got a hunch I won't be in much the rest of the night. If you don't want to assign a man here, I'll call Will Gentry at home and get him to send somebody."

Harvey turned to Richardson and said, "When you get down to headquarters tell Jerico to send one of the reserve squad over." He waited until his two subordinates had gone out "You got a late date?" he asked Shayne casually.

"I'm hoping Mrs. Dustin still wants to see me."

"Good looker?"

Shayne said, "U-m-m," as though he hadn't really heard the question.

SARTORIAL PETER PANS

London, Sept. 23 — (Reuters)— Britain's leading male fashions oracle yesterday classified the United States as a country of "sartorial Peter Pans — they've never grown up as far as clothes are concerned." John Taylor, editor of the trade paper Tailor and Cutter, let loose his broadside in an interview. "At present American clothes resemble the fantastic fashions of equatorial regions," Taylor said.

Leaders Seeking Method to Amend The Constitution

Big Three of Conference Express Views of Delegates

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Quebec, Sept. 25—(CP)—The 11 governments of Canada plunged swiftly today into the complex and ticklish task of setting this country's constitutional house in order.

Varying expressions of opinion emerged as Prime Minister St. Laurent and the 10 provincial premiers met to seek a method of bringing to Canada the power to amend the Canadian constitution.

The 70 delegates heard these views expressed by the federal government and Ontario and Quebec, the big three of the meeting:

1. Premier Duplessis of Quebec called for a formal declaration by the British parliament that this country has a right to a constitutional setup of its own.

2. Prime Minister St. Laurent agreed with the suggestion that the Canadian governments first must tell Westminister to whom it is to abdicate the constitution-amending power.

3. A proposal by Premier Frost of Ontario that the conference concern itself solely with the mechanics of amending the constitution and that it leave problems of interpretation to a later day.

Frost Makes Suggestion

Mr. Frost, placing the first concrete proposal before his fellow premiers and the federal authority, suggested the conference turn over to a sub-committee of attorneys-general the task of working out a method of amending the constitution.

He appealed to the conference not to allow itself to become bogged down in the legal mire of interpretation of constitutional authority, nor to attempt immediately to define the shadowy lines dividing federal and provincial jurisdiction in the constitution.

Those problems, he suggested, could be dealt with later on, as they periodically arose in the day-by-day relationships between the federal and provincial governments. Then, if the problems could not be resolved, they could be referred to the courts for a final decision.

Mr. Duplessis felt the conference should ask Westminster for a declaration of Canada's right to its own constitution.

Still Patchwork

The Quebec government leader said he thought the work of the conference so far, of classifying constitutional powers as accorded by the British North America Act, while important, still remains a "patchwork" effort.

Premier Duplessis who spoke first in French and then in English said he thought a fresh step

Pall of Smoke Due to Fires In N. Alberta

(By The Canadian Press)

The wierd, reddish smoke cloud thinned out over southwestern and central Ontario today and seemed headed east.

The thick pall of smoke, born in northern Alberta where forest fires are raging, today had reached the weather station at Killaloe, near Pembroke in eastern Ontario.

There was still a fair concentration over Toronto shortly before noon but at western Ontario points the sun was shinning through. The smoke had not reached as far east as Ottawa.

Meteorologists promised the haze would not obstruct the view of tonight's total eclipse of the moon as long as there was no normal overcast.

The Ontario Hydro Commission reported power consumption had increased for the second consecutive day. The sun-eclipsing cloud had caused hydro consumers to burn lights almost all day long.

Hydro Chairman Robert H. Saunders said the commission was "very thankful" that standard time went into effect in many Ontario communities today, thereby staggering peak loads. Otherwise, the drain on power sources at peak periods would have been "tremendous".

Attlee Replies To U.S. Sympathy Over Bombing

London, Sept. 25—(AP)—Prime Minister Attlee expressed his thanks today for an official American message of sympathy after the accident bombing of British troops in Korea by U.S. planes.

In a letter to U.S. Minister Julius C. Holmes, Attlee said:

"I have been myself on active service and I know that mistakes occur. They are tragic for those concerned, but it is part, I fear, of the inevitable consequence of such operations which we must face."

Holmes, sent Attlee a letter on Saturday expressing "the deep sense of sorrow" of the United State over the incident.

TAKES COMMAND THURSDAY

Ottawa, Sept. 25. (CP)—Naval headquarters announced today that Lt.-Cmdr. Raymond Phillips, 28, of Ottawa, has been appointed commanding officer of H.M.C.S. Antigonish, a frigate used for training and based at Esquimalt, B.C. He takes command Sept. 28.

He succeeds Lt.-Cmdr. William S. T. McCully, 31, of Kingston and Vancouver, who has been placed in charge of the torpedo anti-submarine school at H.M.C.S. Stadacona at Halifax.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Sept. 25—(CP)—Synopsis: Ontario spent another cool night with frost being reported as far south as the Georgian Bay, Haliburton and eastern Lake Ontario regions. However, steadily rising temperatures are in view for most of the province today and Tuesday.

Winds aloft continue to sweep smoke from the Alberta's forest fires across northern Manitoba, thence southeastward over Ontario and into the eastern States, a journey of more than 2,000 miles. Reports from aircraft indicate that the smoke is located in layers at various altitudes. This condition will continue to cause weird discolorations of the sky over southern Ontario today.

ALL 16 ABOARD U.S. B-50 BOMBER SURVIVE CRASH

Helicopter Will Bring Men Out to Goose Bay

Halifax, Sept. 25—(CP)—Paratroopers have been dropped in the area 100 miles southwest of Goose Bay, Labrador, where 16 United States airmen are awaiting rescue, the Fort Pepperell air base near St. John's, Nfld., reported today.

A B-50 bomber crashed Thursday after taking off from Goose Bay for Tucson, Ariz., on a training flight. A helicopter, meanwhile, is to be used to move the airmen to a nearby lake, where a Canso amphibian will fly them out.

Search for the missing aircraft, carried out by scores of planes of the U.S. and Canadian air force, ended yesterday when an R.C.A.F. Lancaster out of Greenwood, N.S., located the 16 about 95 miles southwest of Goose Bay. The only word received by search and rescue headquarters here said all 16 men were alive.

Piloted by FO. J. M. Wallace, of Halifax, the Lanc was 30 minutes out of Goose Bay when a smoke signal attracted it to the area where the survivors' huddled around a crudely - constructed shelter.

No sign of the bomber was found and details of how the crew members escaped were not available at Goose Bay. No medical supplies were requested.

The giant B-50, on a routine training flight from Goose Bay to Tucson, Ariz. disappeared after leaving the lonely northern base. The search extended from Labrador to the deserts of the southwestern U.S.

The helicopter is expected to operate a shuttle service to deliver the survivors to a large lake nearby, where a Canso amphibian will take them aboard and fly them to Goose Bay.

Crew members aboard the Lancaster which sighted the survivors included J. W. Tetreau, radio officer, Transcona, Man.; LAC. J. E. Corman, engineer, St. Catharines, Ont., and LAC J. V. Hemp, radar technician, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

Douglas Maynard, 23, Madoc, Killed, Companions Injured As Truck Hits Train at Tweed

Douglas Maynard, 23, of Madoc was instantly killed and two companions were seriously injured early Sunday morning, when the empty lumber truck in which they were riding crashed into the side of a Canadian Pacific Railway freight locomotive at Tweed.

Seriously injured in Belleville General Hospital are Kenneth Johnston, 22, and Wilfred Murphy, 23, both of Madoc, who were riding in the cab with Maynard, the heavy truck crashed into the steam chest and piston assembly on the side of the locomotive and the truck engine and cab was completely wrecked.

Dr. G. S. Cronk, stated that although Murphy and Johnston had suffered multiple cuts and lacerations it was not believed there were any fractures. They were reported seriously, but not critically injured.

The accident happened inside the Tweed village limits, the northbound truck crashing into the east-bound freight driven by Engineer Hector Bannon of Smiths Falls. Bannon said the truck did not seem to slow down as it approached the crossing and hit the engine at a fast rate of speed. Apparently Maynard, who was driving failed to see the approaching train.

Truck Spun Around

The force of the impact spun the truck around with Maynard and Johnston being thrown out of the wrecked cab. They were picked up 20 to 25 feet down the track. Murphy was trapped in the blazing cab and was hauled to safety by Brakeman E. Palmer of Smiths Falls who was riding on the caboose.

Engineer Bannon said he was slowing the freight for a stop at Tweed and was not going over 15 miles per hour when the truck crashed into his engine. It was his first accident in nearly 25 years as a railroader.

Maynard, an employee of the T. A. Wilson Lumber Company at Madoc whose truck he was driving, was described by friends as a very careful driver. All three young men were close friends, Johnston having returned to Madoc for the weekend from Niagara Falls where he has been working.

Maynard was a member of the Madoc hockey team and was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Maynard of Madoc.

The accident was investigated by Provincial Constable Jack Hatch of Madoc assisted by Chief of Police George Spratt of Tweed.

U.S. Army Begins to Draw on Paratroopers for All-Out Blow To Crush N. Korean Reds

By ELTON C. FAY

Washington, Sept. 25 (AP) — The United States army is beginning to draw on the core of the airborne force in massing strength for the all-out blow to annihilate the north Korean communists.

American paratroopers showed up yesterday at Kimpo airfield, on the Seoul battlefront, and a few hours later were in action.

On the basis of news reports, which said 150 plane loads of from 16 to 17 men each arrived at Kimpo, an airborne regiment, slightly under full strength, appeared to have been sent in initially.

There is no reason why the paratroopers, used now as regular foot soldiers, may not show up in the role for which they are trained—stabs behind the enemy line to establish airheads.

Actually, the Second World War airborne troops did about as much fighting in a ground-force infantry role as they did by parachute or glider drops.

Early reports from Kimpo accounted for about 2,400 men in the airwing outfit.

The regular organizational strength of a U.S. airborne regiment is 3,376 men.

In modern war, airborne forces usually start major operations in the late phases. Used strictly as airborne troops, they are of value not only in creating new "beachheads" to be held until the advancing ground front joins them, but in raider-type operations. They cut communications lines, blow up bridges along which might seek to retreat, prevent reinforcements from reaching him and generally help the progressive disorganization that develops as a counter-offensive begins to roll.

Overcomes Hungarian Red Tape Joins Husband After Year and Half

Niagara Falls, Ont., Sept. 25.—(CP)—A young Hungarian bride of 17 months joined her husband here Saturday after a year and a half of battling the red tape that bound her to her communist-governed homeland.

She is Ilona Bigus, wife of John Bigus, of Niagara Falls, Ont., and is here today because of the persistance of Canadian and British consular officials in Europe equalled the stubborness of Hungarian emmigration officials.

Bigus, a laboratory technician, left here in the Fall of 1948 to visit relatives in Hungary. He met Ilona there and married her.

When they attempted to come to Canada, the Hungarians explained that Ilona had forsaken her Hungarian citizenship by marriage to a Canadian and was considered a Canadian by the Hungrian.

She was told she would have to produce a Canadian passport.

The Canadian consul in Budapest explained that Canada does not accept citizens that way but gave Ilona an affadavit. However, the Hungarians would not accept this and demanded a passport. After months of haggling, the British consul at Budapest finalally persuaded the Hungarian authorities to accept the affidavit and Mrs. Bigus immediately boarded a plane for Canada, where her husband had returned a few months ago.

MOSHER WANTS FEDERAL LABOR LAWS BROADENED

Critical of Some Conciliation Boards

Winnipeg, Sept. 25 — (CP) — Broadening of the field of federal labor laws and improvement in conciliation board procedure in industrial disputes were called for today by President A. R. Mosher of the Canadian Congress of Labor.

In his opening address to the C.C.L.'s annual convention, Mr. Mosher struck out at some unnamed conciliation boards for the tone of their reports.

((The C.C.L. head also is president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, largest union engaged in the recent rail strike. He has been sharply critical of the majority findings of two boards that sat on the rail dispute.)

Disregard Accuracy

"Reports issued by certain conciliation boards in recent months in industrial disputes which are of vital importance to the public have shown an almost reckless disregard for factual accuracy, and have had consequences which have defeated the very purpose for which conciliation boards are established.

"Some recent boards reports have actually resulted in a worsening of labor-management relations. In some cases, decisions are made on considerations of expediency rather than of sound principles."

Mr. Mosher said the answer might lie partly in developing panels or trained persons, representing the views of labor, management and the general public, to serve on boards.

Dealing with extension of federal labor laws, he said "labor legislation should be on a national rather than on a provincial basis."

"There is," he said, "a marked disinglincation by the responsible authorities to attempt to introduce federal legislation or to take the necessary steps to obtain power to do so."

Lack of nlformity

The result was "senseless lack of uniformity" in various provinces, which bewildered workers and unions.

(Federal industrial relations legislation now covers a number of interprovincial industries such as railways, communications, aviation and shipping.)

A "constant state of public emergency" now existed and a national labor code was of the utmost importance, he said.

Must be 'No Uncertainty' in Fight Against Communism Pope Tells Priests

(By FRANK BRUTTO)

Vatican City, Sept. 25. —The Pope today told Roman Catholic priests throughout the world there must be no "uncertainty" in the fight against communism.

The Pontiff's order was included in a lengthy "exhortation" to Catholic clergy made public today.

The exhortation, dated Sept. 23, said:

"There are some (priests), who before the iniquity of communism which aims at tearing the faith from the very ones to whom it promises material well being, show themselves fearful and uncertain. But this apostolic See, in recent documents, has clearly indicated the way to be followed, from which no one must stray if he does not wish to be wanting in his duty."

The Pope, in his directions to priests in connection with social questions of the day, also denounced the "damaging consequences" on capitalism, a system, he said, before which other priests also have shown themselves to be "not less fearful and uncertain."

"The church," the Pope said, "in fact has indicated not only the abuses of capital and the rights of property which such a system promotes and defends, but has also taught that capital and property must be instruments of production for the advantage of all society and means of supporting and defending the liberty and dignity of the human person."

After considering the purpose and dignity of the priesthood instituted by Jesus Christ, the Pope outlined the virtues which, in imitation of Christ, ought to be reflected in the priest— humility and obedience, perfect chastity and mortification of life, detachment from material things, a taste of heavenly things, cultivated by a spirit of prayer.

Americans Striking Red-Held Capital From Four Sides

Drive Into Poun, Rolling 55 Miles in Three Days

Tokyo, Sept. 25—(CP)—American troops bit deep into Seoul today from four directions. United States officers held hopes the Korean capital would fall to allied forces within hours.

But there were few signs that the stubborn north Korean defence was cracking up.

An American flag flew from a hut on the highest point in Seoul's Tongmaksang district, planted there by a marine company Sunday night.

Marines from this position could pour motar fire into Seoul's army barracks and other red strongpoints.

Marines in the Tongmaksang area searched one of Seoul's several prisons looking for American prisoners; south Korean underground agents said the Americans had been moved out of the city several days ago.

Troops of the 7th division—an American-south Korean outfit—were thrown into the climatic struggle for the city Monday.

The division's 32nd regiment swept across the Seoul-Suwon highway and crossed the Han River southeast of the city under cover of dawn mists.

It was the second Han crossing in two days and the third since last midweek.

Marines stormed across the river Sunday near Yongdungpo, southwest suburb of Seoul.

They linked up solidly in the west section of the city with another regiment of marines who had crossed the Han Wednesday northwest of Seoul.

One marine column was driving into Seoul from the north where red opposition was stiffest.

Reinforcements Arrive

Reinforcements swelled the mass of allied troops in the Korean second-front beachhead.

Twenty-four hundred airborne troops—sped from the U.S. to Japan by ship—have been landed at Kimpo field northwest of Seoul. Within a few hours they were in action.

A fresh south Korean division was landed at the Inchon beachhead port and moved up to fight.

As the war entered its fourth month, events rolled swiftly for the allied offensive that kicked off Sept. 15 on the old and new fronts.

Allied forces struck mightily out of the old southeast beachhead for big new gains.

The U.S. 1st cavalry rolled 55 miles in three days—from Tabu to Pun, 18 miles northeast of Taejon.

Restore Battleline

American and south Korean forces fought into Chinju, Hyopchon, Kumchon, Hamchang, Ulsong, Andong, Yongdok. These gains virtually restored the battleline that existed one month after the war broke out with red invason across parallel 38 June 25.

The two fronts were only 60 miles apart—from Poun to Osan—30 miles south of Seoul. Patrols of the U.S. 7th division stabbed into Osan Sunday.

The north Koreans fought desperately to hold open an escape route to the north. The battle centred around Kumchon.

Other crumbling red divisions were in danger of being sealed in the south when the two allied beachheads converge.

The crossing of the Han by U.S. 7th division troops was made under the guns of South Mountain, 700-foot fortified height within Seoul's south limits.

Police Search Lake for Missing Montreal Youth

Provincial police from the Kingston detachment office are searching Sydenham Lake, at Sydenham, northeast of Kingston, for the body of Sandy Creasor, aged 19, of Montreal, who is believed to have drowned in the lake on Sunday.

Creasor was visiting in the Sydenham district aver the weekend and went sailing in a small 11-foot sailing canoe Sunday morning. At three-thirty Sunday afternoon the overturned canoe was found on the east shore of the lake, on the opposite side of the shore from which the youth had started. There was a strong west wind blowing on Sunday and it is believed the overturned canoe drifted across the lake.

Creasor lived at 4724 Victoria Ave., Montreal.

Ten to 40 Per Cent Of Crops Still In the Fields

Toronto, Sept. 25. (CP)—A week of rainy weather has seriously hampered threshing and sowing operations throughout Ontario, it was reported today in the weekly crop report of the Department of Agriculture.

Ten to 40 per cent of crops is still in the fields, some of it badly weathered. The rain has held up fall wheat seeding silo-filling and most other farm operations. Fruit in some areas is rotting and falling from the trees. Some potato growers are killing the tops of their crops to prevent the spread of blight and hasten maturity.

Fire Damages Dundas St. Home, Loss is $1,000

Fire, believed to have started from the chimney, this morning caused approximately $1,000 damage at the home of Mr. Sam Kirkey, 103 Dundas Street, West. The blaze gutted one part of the attic and damaged the south side of the roof but damage to the living quarters was only from water.

The blaze was discovered by one of the household during the late morning and Mr. Kirkey ran across the road to call the fire department. Two pumpers were used by firemen to bring the blaze under control. The roughcast cottage is owned by Mrs. W. D. Ponton, Trent Road.

Household contents were not damaged as volunteers quickly carried the effects out of the house and thus saved them a wetting.

Sunday firemen had an eight-hour stretch of fighting fire at the city dump with department members eventually giving up without the blaze in the dump being completely extinguished.

Also on Sunday firemen were called to 213 George Street for a chimney blaze, while on Saturday they were called to an Earl Street address where the safety switch on an electric tea kettle failed to function. The result? The kettle boiled dry and the stand on which the kettle was resting became scorched.

Sidney School Area Attendance Reported Higher

Final attendance figures received by the Board show a school population of 601 pupils in the eighteen schools of the Sidney Area. This represents an increase of 20 over the June enrolment. Eighteen of these pupils who ordinarily would be in Grade Seven or Eight at Avondale and Belcrest Schools are at present being accommodated in two of the Belleville Schools. During the summer plans had been made to open a second classroom at or near Avondale but no suitable location could be found at the time.

In spite of being relieved of Grades Seven and Eight the attendance at Belcrest and Avondale at school opening was too large. This necessitated some other arrangement. Plans are under way to use the ground floor of the Hall house across the sideroad from Avondale School as a temporary classroom for Grades One, Two and Three. This place just recently became vacant and it is expected to have the room ready to operate by October first. This extra room will permit the Avondale pupils being sent to Belleville to attend their own school. Mrs. Gladys Carswell and Miss Margaret Maitland will be teachers in charge of the two rooms. Nine Bayside pupils are being transferred to Quinteview.

The Board was fortunate in being able to hire fully qualified and well-recommended teachers to replace those who have gone elsewhere. The area teachers are as follows: Avondale: Mrs. G. Carswell and Miss M. Maitland; Bayside, Miss Jean Roushorn, Cooper; Quinteview: Mrs. Mary Campbell, Trenton; Belcrest: Mrs. Marie Dolan, Belleville; Hogle's: Miss Sheila McEwen, Belleville; Harder's: Mrs. Lillian Cornwall, Parham; Glen Miller: Earl Everson, Johnstown, Miss Lillian Counningham, Wellington; Centenary: Mrs. Thelia Spafford; Meadowdale: Miss Katherine Benton; Wallbridge: Mrs. Iva Rikley, Foxboro; Turner's: Mrs. Nama Tummon, Foxboro; Riverside: Mrs. Reta Pyear, Belleville; River Valley: Mrs. Alice Coombes, Frankford; Marsh Hill: Mrs. Isobel Good, Stirling; Glen Ross: Mrs. Joan Bush, Hoard's Sta.; Mapleview: Miss Nina Hudgins, Selby; Eggleton's: Miss Gertrude Gunter, Coe Hill.

Teachers' Meeting

The organization meeting of the Sidney teachers was held in Turner's School. There was 100 per cent attendance of teachers and members of the Area Board. Mrs. John Good, last year's president, presided. Supervising Principal Jas. A. Warren introduced the new teachers and gave out supplies of transfer slips, attendance report forms and Safety pamphlets. Mr. R. H. Macklem, I.P.S., gave the results of tests given to Grade Eight pupils in June and made several announcements regarding the teaching of various subjects. In the business session Mrs. Spafford was elected president for the year while Miss Nina Hudgins was made secretary. The teachers then previewed the September films: "Australia Today", "Finger Painting", and "Elizabethan England". The supervising principal arranged the schedule for bringing the projector to the schools in order to instruct some of the new teachers with its operation. Following this refreshments were served. The next teachers meeting will be held a Mapleview School.

Miss Canada IV Will Try For Record on Satur.

Harold Wilson will send his "Miss Canada IV" streaking over a measured course on Picton Bay next Saturday morning in quest of the world's speedboat record, according to information received from the Prince Edward Yacht Club today.

The attempt will be made at dawn on Saturday with officials of the American Power Boat Association in attendance.

Wilson will be the guest at an informal luncheon of the Picton Chamber of Commerce at Rickarton Castle, on Friday noon.

Frost Damages Garden Crops In Quinte District

Blackened vines and shrivelled plants marked the first definite visit of Jack Frost to the city and district today.

Damage to small gardens was reported from various parts of the city as the mercury dipped to 32 degrees, according to the official thermameter at the Filtration Plant. In other parts of the city, householders reported the temperature as being lower than the official reading.

In house and apartment, the "heat was on." Householders scurried to thermostat, or coal cellar as winter gave out with its first warning.

Factory, office and shop workers shivered on their day downtown and in many cases toiled until late morning before the welcome warmth prevaded their places of employment.

However, the cool "spell" may be a brief one, if you can depend on the weatherman. That august gentleman says that tomorrow while a bit cloudy will be warmer.

Newburgh Cheese Factory Burns, Loss $130,000

Newburgh, Sept. 25—(CP) — The Newburgh Cheese Factory, seven miles north of Napanee, which for the last three years has produced more cheese than any other factory in Ontario, today is a smouldering heap of rubble.

Fire, first noticed about 8:30 p.m. last night, swept quickly through the stone and artificial brick structure and was not brought under control until 10:30 p.m., by volunteer firemen from here and Napanee.

Damage to the building is estimated at $100,000 and to the contents, equipment, supplies, cheese and powdered milk, $30,000. The building, owned by Mac Remington, was partially covered by insurance.

The fire is thought to have started in the boiler room, an addition built only last year. The flames and smoke were noticed by Hubert Simpkins, a village storekeeper, as he came out of church.

He immediately notified his brother, Vernon Simpkins, chief of the Newburg fire department. Everyone in the village of some 500 persons who could help turned out to try to save the factory which employs 10 men.

The factory, part of which dates back to 1887 when it was first established, was purchased in 1944 by Mr. Remington, a cheesemaker for 26 years, who went to Newburgh from Adolphustown. The structure housed two storage rooms, one of which was cold storage, the cheese plant, upstairs, and butter and powdered milk processing plant downstairs. Its peak of production was 70 cheese a day.

175 Children Will be Guests Of Shrine Club at Circus

Circus Day is always something special for youngsters and grown-ups alike but it is something extra thrilling for crippled children and others worthy of the treat.

October 5th will be a red-letter day for a large number of these kiddies and likewise not a few members of the Belleville Shrine Club.

For on that day buses laden with these kiddies less fortunate than their counterparts will take off for Toronto where they will be the guests of the Shrine Club at the famous Morton's Shrine Circus in Maple Leaf Gardens.

From Bancroft, Napanee, Prince Edward County and this city, will come these children. They will be under the supervision of doctors and nurses and members of the Shrine Club.

It is estimated that some 175 children will enjoy the thrills, entertainment and fun that only the circus can provide.

Seventy-five of this number will be wards of the Childrens Aid Society under the direct supervision of Superintendent William Lockyer. From Prince Edward will come a quota of the children under the guidance of Shrine members from that county headed by Shriner Fred Ward. The Prince Edward contingent will join the Belleville convoy at Trenton.

From Bancroft, Napanee and some parts of northern Prince Edward County, the children will come by Shriner automobile. In charge of overall transportation will be Shriner Fred Rawson, Belleville.

The special Shrine Circus Committee is headed by Shrine president Dr. Russell Scott, who will be assisted by members of the club.

Members of the club are responding generously to a financial appeal for the project. The cavalcade of children to Toronto and the circus is an annual event in Shrine activities.

'Twenty-First' Holds Reunion In Ottawa

The thirty-second annual reunion of the famous Twenty-First Battalion was held on Saturday, September twenty-third, at the Convention Hall, Exhibition Grounds, Ottawa, with upward of two hundred Twenty First veterans present. At the association meeting held during the afternoon the Toronto club extended an invitation to hold the thirty-third reunion at Toronto—so Toronto it is for 1951.

Members of the old battalion gathered from centres from all over Ontario, Quebec and several from the United States. Lt. Col. H. E. Pense D.S.O., M.C., of Kingston, the last O.C. of the battalion, Lt. Col. the Rev. Canon W. E. Kidd M.C., now of Deseronto, who was the original Padre and Lt. Col. Frank Ludlow were the senior officers present. The banquet was presided over by C.S.M. Jimmy Ward, M.M. of Ottawa. Comrade Henry Harvey was responsible for the wonderful show put on.

In all it was one of the best reunions ever held and all the old soldiers returned home with the comfortable feeling that the journey was well worthwhile. The ranks are thinning rapidly and it should be that every old Twenty-Firster should endeavour to be on hand at Toronto next year. Belleville was represented but by one lone member.

On Sunday morning ex-members of the famous unit paraded to Christ Church Cathedral where they took part in the annual memorial service.

Canon Kidd, Padre of the unit preached the sermon.

Lorne Goodfellow Seriously Hurt Horse Falls on Him

Roslin—Lorne Goodfellow met with a serious accident on Saturday evening. He had been riding horseback and he slipped from the horse's back and the horse fell on him.

The horse had been taught to stand on his hind feet when the reins were pulled taut, and this had been done, but minus a saddle Lorne was unable to hold on and he slipped off, but he still held the reins and the horse put all four feet in the air falling on him.

He was taken to the Belleville hospital on Monday where X-ray revealed several bones in the pelvis area broken, also some ribs cracked.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Sept. 25 (CP) —Industrial stocks rolled further into new high price ground as the session progressed on the Toronto stock exchange today.

Papers again paced the climb. Steels, constructions, refining oils textiles and foods also showed wide majorities of gains. Most advances were held up to fractions although a few leaders showed gains ranging up to more than a point. Canada cement showed the widest advance, up 4 1-2 at a new high at 48.

The remainder of the market settled into a narrow and irregular price path. Leading junior and senior and gold producers declined quietly.

Base metals steadied with gains and losses about balanced. A few market leaders pushed into plus territory. Noranda was a standout and Consolidated Smelters also brightened.

Western oils sagged slowly but found some mild support in midsession that reduced losses. Declines ranged up to 20 cents and were almost double gains. Volume for the first three hours was 917,000 shares.

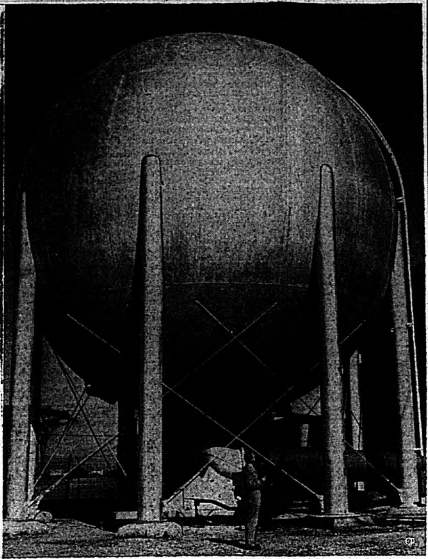
SUPERSONIC RESEARCH



Dwarfed by this gleaming steel sphere, higher than a three-storey building, is Dr. Gordon N. Patterson, director of the University of Toronto's Institute of Aerophysics which will be officially opened Sept. 26. Designed by Dr. Patterson, one of the continent's leading authorities on supersonic research, the sphere is one of the key pieces of equipment at the school. By pumping air from the sphere, shown in this University of Toronto photo, 99 per cent vacuum is obtained. Allowing the air to rush back into it, scientists obtain speeds up to seven times the speed of sound. — (CP Photo.)

Attlee Says 'No' To Labor Demand For General Election

London, Sept. 25—(AP)—Prime Miniter Attlee has replied with a firm "no" to demands raised in some sections of the Labor party for another general election this year.

A source close to 10 Downing Street said nothing short of a parliamentary defeat for Attlee would bring elections in Britain before 1951.

This informant said the final decision rests with the Prime Minister and Attlee prefers to hang on with his effective majority of seven in the House of Commons, particularly in view of the unsettled international situation.

A group of left-wing Labor supporters have been reported advocating an early election with the hope of improving Labor's majority. The Conservative opposition press has freely predicted an election this year.

LEADERS SEEKING

should be taken and that it should be a recognition of the fact that Canada "now is of age and wishes to act accordingly."

The Quebec Premier made his statement after Justice Minister Garson submitted to the conference a report of a special conference committee attempting to classify constitutional powers for amendment purposes under a set of six headings.

"It seems to me that we are proceeding more or less on shreds and patches and I don't think that goes well with the situation of today," he said.

"We are not accomplishing the work we should. Let us get from Westminster a declaration that the provinces have the right to their own constitution. Why not have it said right away that we have the right to prepare a Canadian constitution?"

Must Recognize Right

"Why go to London and ask them to accept amendments?" he said. "Let us get London to recognize our right to an essentially Canadian constitution."

When he spoke in French, Premier Duplessis suggested that when the new constitution is drawn up it should be drafted in English and French, the country's two official languages.

He thought it might be considered a "treaty" in that it would represent a meeting of "two great races and two great civilizations."

Mr. Duplessis said that in the work of preparing a Canadian constitution Quebec wishes to "co-operate loyally in friendly fashion."

The Quebec government leader addressed representatives of the federal government and the provinces gathered for the second phase of 1950 constitutional discussions in Quebec City, historic heart of old Canada.

AUTUMN

Autumn having set in, those who have been complaining of the weather may ease their minds for the time has come when cool or even cold weather is natural and to be expected soon or later.

Harvests this year in spite of the generally cooler weather which has marked the growing season have been good. Wheat is one of the greatest crops on record.

Whatever the peculiarity of weather conditions in some seasons, Canadians have the satisfaction of realizing that they never have real shortages and nature is bountiful. This remains one of the appeals of this country that it gives assurance not only to our own people but to other peoples who have come to depend in no small measure on the plenty and bounty of our farms and wide acres.

Now the time has arrived for the gathering-in of the harvests. It is a time of satisfaction to the husbandmen to know that as a result of their labors Canada's garners are full. This is one of the blessings of a young and fertile country.

Now that autumn has come, Canadians will enjoy in it one of the finest seasons anywhere on the globe. Few would exchange the charm of October and November for the attractions of any other land.

PROOF OF U.N. SPIRIT

Did the North Korean invaders of South Korea ever have any reason to look for anything but what has been happening in these days? If they did they misjudged the United Nations and they trusted in false dreams and hopes.

The great movements which are now set in progress by the forces of the United Nations have a pattern of success to which the peoples of these free powers can look back in the years 1944 and 1945 when the sweep of United Nations power dealt deadly blows at the Central Powers on the West European front and in the Far East against Japan.

The United Nations have shown in a practical way that they mean to prevent or put down any attempt at aggression such as that which North Korea exhibited when she flouted the peace and invaded her southern neighbor. What has been exhibited by the formation of forces and by sending them to uphold the principles of the U.N. under the flag of that organization is the outcome of the experience of two Great Wars. Decision and clear outlook are marks of the stand of these powers on principles which they believe will preserve and guarantee the maintenance of world peace and the prevention of aggression.

The blows which have been dealt at the Korean reds give promise of the retribution ahead for the crime against a neighbor nation and suggest the coming defeat of the plans of communism to deprive South Korea of its freedom.

The United Nations have shown that they can act and deal mighty blows.

INDIA HAS CHOSEN

With Pandit Nehru's overwhelming victory at the annual meeting of the All India Congress Party Committee in Nasik, India has taken a fateful decision. It is one for which the West will certainly be thankful. The support of Nehru represented a choice of direction, even granting that many of his supporters were reluctant and that his position has been somewhat weakened recently. In effect, the decision made at Nasik was that India will continue along the Gandhi-Nehru line toward an orthodox Hindu oligarchy.

There had been much anxiety in advance of the Nasik meeting because the newly elected president, Purshottamdas Tandon, is an orthodox Hindu of the old school and was known to be critical of some of the Prime Minister's key policies. The fanatical and militant Hindu Mahasabha rejoiced at Tandon's election; so did the big business interests, who fear Nehru's vague but sympathetic leanings toward social democracy and who saw in his possible defeat a virtual dictatorship for Deputy Prime Minister Patel. The nationalists would havve been happy to see Nehru's foreign policies repudiated. All those hopes and expectations fortunately have gone up in smoke. Tandon, for all his personal feelings, is a true follower of Gandhi and a true patriot. Far from opposing Pandit Nehru, he enthusiastically supported him.

It is well that India remains stable in these days, for they are indeed critical. Floods and droughts, and the tremendous Assam earthquake, have brought about a disastrous food and housing situation. The Kashmir dispute has reached another climacteric with the confession of the U.N. mediator, Sir Owen Dixon, of his failure to find an agreement. It will need all of Pandia Nehru's statesmanship and wisdom to help India through the grave months ahead. No one could have replaced him, and the Congress party leaders — who are the real rulers of India — showed wisdom in endorsing him. — New York Times.

A laugh to be joyous must flow from a joyous heart, for without kindness there can be no true joy. — Carlyle.

MEETING POSTPONED

We had postponed, as is common to do,
A meeting we'd planned.
No need that was urgent or hasty we knew
For the business at hand.

Not one of us thought at the moment of what
By none can be known.
We talked of the future, but this we forgot:
Time is never our own.

At partying we laughed at a jest that he told,
Went away merry-eyed;
But that meeting postponed now we never shall hold,
For that evening he died.

At the station he was met by a large crowd of citizens. The schools were closed for the day and the children were there and along the line of march in large numbers. The officers of the 15th. Battalion were present in civilian dress, but Jack's old comrades, the Sergeants, were there in uniform. When the train pulled in there was much cheering and the Bugle Band played. A procession was formed, headed by the Bugle Band, followed by Jack McNair seated in a carriage with Col. Ponton; Chaplain, Rev. M. W. Maclean, and Major W. W. Pope. The second carriage carried Mayor J. W. Johnson, Ald. Curtis Bogart, Ald. John Doyle, Ald. Clarke and Ald. Grills; in the third carriage were seated J. Warham, Wm. Johnson, A. R. Walker, J. Taylor and J. P. Thompson. Many citizens also followed in carriages, as well as citizens on bicycles and on foot. The line of march to the Armouries was lined with people. At the Armouries speeches were made by Col. Ponton, Mayor Johnson and Chaplain Rev. M. W. Maclean, to which Jack replied in a happy manner. This evening McNair and the Sergeants of the 15th. Battalion will be guests at the Opera House which has been decorated in his honor. Here's hoping the rest of the boys will be home soon.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

DO RIGHT — BE ALERT!

Driving home from my Summer vacation, I passed a sign on the road that keeps coming back to me, time and again. Seeing it early, it kept running through my mind all the way while on the road. It was this: Do Right — Be Alert.

I couldn't help but think of this sign later when, making a sharp, blind curve, another car to my left was travelling at such excessive speed that as its driver approached he narrowly escaped hitting my car. He took that curve so fast that his car skidded far over the white line, missing me by inches. By going at such speed on a curve that driver was not alert to the fact that another car also had a right to the road.

The driver of a car who does the right thing, considering the rights of other drivers, and who never fails to observe the rules of the road, has nothing to fear. Such a driver may always do the right thing, but he must also be alert to the danger that may be created by another who does the wrong thing. Do Right. Be Alert! A very wonderful bit of advice for every driver of a car.

This motto, also, is a fine one for us all to apply in our daily life, apart from the road. By doing the right thing we stay out of trouble. By being alert, we save ourselves from many a blunder and mistake. Also we can often discover a new idea, or learn something new by being alert and watchful. Many of our most valuable inventions owe their discovery to the alert mind of some one.

Whenever we do a wrong thing we are apt to involve an innocent person. We not only have to pay the penalty but force some one else to do so — and nearly always without his or her knowledge. By being alert we avoid doing the wrong thing. It's the unthinking who do the most wrong things. Do right and you don't have to write! You won't have to explain. Your acts are the record.

Do right and you will feel right within yourself. Be alert and you will avoid many a pitfall. As individuals we are a government unto ourselves. We create our own democracy of the mind.

GLOSSARY FOR FELLOW TRAVELLERS

In recent weeks I've been intrigued by the ideological flip-flops of certain writers, actors and labor leaders who, before the Korean war, seemed to think that Paradist was a street car named Stalin. I don't know how far they're to be trusted, but since the reds began using dumdums instead of dialects a lot of them have suddenly turned coat and credo and, to hear them tell it now, were Taft Republican all the time.

Well, I suppose it's the prerogative of ladies and lefties to change their minds, but while they're at it, it might not be a bad idea for them to change their vocabularies too. And so in the interest of mutual understanding —and to clear up the language barriers which still exist between us — I've prepared a handy little pocket dictionary for fellow travellers who have lost their taste for travelling.

Cominform—Trade name for a girdle.

Marx—What you get on report cards.

Engels — Dead people with wings.

Stalin—What your motor does on a cold day.

Warmonger—A pooch trained for battle.

UN—Opening words of argument: "UN who else?"

Korea—Pertaining to dancing.

Pravda—First word of proverb, "Pravda pudding's in the eating."

Satellite—The loneliest night in the week.

OGPU—Slang denoting bad smell.

Mackenzie's Column:

Prime Minister Nehru Extends Alive Branch

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

Hope of resolving the dangerous India-Pakistan differences has received a fillip from an indirect but dramatic extension of the olive branch by Prime Minister Nehru of India.

Nehru's gesture came in a rebuke to extremist political followers at the annual conference of his All-India Congress party. These extremists had demanded retaliatory action against Hindu India's Moslem minority because of alleged mistreatment of 12,000,000 Hindus in Moslem-dominated Pakistan. Referring to such retaliation, Nehru said:

"Even if some people want it, can it be accepted in the name of Democracy? If that is called Democracy then I say to hell with such Democracy. Democratic principles are not a matter of convenience to be treated as suits and whims of anybody."

Nehru proclaimed that he refused to bow to "the wishes of the mob." He added that if the Congress wanted him as premier, it would have to follow his lead "unequivocally" otherwise he would go out and fight independently for his ideals.

Endorsement

Congress gave him an overwhelming vote of endorsement.

The significance of this development over Hindu-Moslem relations is that the age-old differences between the two religions enter strongly into the bitterness between India and Pakistan. Indeed, when the Indian subcontinent was divided to create the new states of India and Pakistan, the division was along those religious lines. The Hindu-populated areas went to India, and the Moslem zones to Pakistan.

In the old days before the division there were continual communal disturbances based on the religious hatreds. Destruction of property and bloodshed was frequent.

When Pakistan and India were created, many Hindus were left in Moslem Pakistan, and a lot of Moslems remained in Hindu territory. There have been cases of mistreatment of these minorities and these have increased the dangers of strife between the two countries.

Kashmir Problem

To these difficulties there was added the dispute over possession of the rich princely state of Kashmir. The ruling prince was a Hindu and when it became clear that Kashmir would be absorbed by either India or Pakistan, he elected to join Hindu India. But his subjects were Moslems, and they wanted to join Pakistan.

This quarrel over Kashmir has several times come close to war during the three years it has been going on. A United Nations mediator now is trying to straighten the matter out, and he has recommended partition as the best way to settle it.

Perhaps even more important is a solution of the religious strife in the two countries, for there is danger of war in that, too.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Can the word Pittsburgh be set to music? Or spaghetti? Or carburetor?

Yet on the radio last night, I heard a famous choir, with tremendous tonal effect, sing the word "righteousness."

It had on me the effect of hitting a bit of apple core in the pie, or a mouthful of sand in the spinach. Righteousness! See if you can sing it.

Yes: it was Handel the choir was singing. And it seems about time that someone of that great majority who are mere listeners should raise a timid voice of mild protest against that revered composer.

Musically educated people feel about Handel the way lettered people feel about Shakespeare or Horace. But you do not have Shakespeare shoved at you at a community sing-song; and hardly anybody ever quotes Horace on the air. Yet there is not a church choir that does not take a crack at Handel whenever an opportunity presents itself. And there are certain occasions of the year that are not complete without Handel. On those occasions, the radio fairly busts with him.

Handel would not have balked at Pittsburgh, spaghetti or carburetor if he had come across them while composing his overwhelming choral music, Pittsburgh would probably have come out Pi-hi-hitts-bu-hu-hu-hu-rgh, with fifty sopranos, forty contraltos, sixty tenors and thirty basses batting the word about like a Badminton bird for a good eight or ten seconds. All on the one word.

The musical authorities in my family circle informs me that Handel's music is sublime. At one place in The Messiah, everybody in the audience stands up. I not only stand up. I go out. I am not particularly fond of solos on the tuba. But I would rather hear a solo on the tuba than anything by Mr. Handel. All he wants to do is beat the ears off me.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

GOD MAKES THE FUTURE

History tells us that when Charles I of England was beheaded quite a few people throughout the kingdom died of heart failure. The end of the world had come when a commoner could rise up and strike off the head of his sovereign.

But of course the end of the world had not come. In the end Cromwell's forces were destined to defeat, the son of the beheaded monarch was brought back and placed on the throne, and the royal house of England was made more secure than it had ever been.

Many things happen every day which may well cause us to feel that the world is coming to an end. And yet God holds the events of life in the hollow of His hand, everything will come out all right in the end. The end may be a long way off. The end may not be what we now believe would be the best. But if it is not what we anticipate, we can be sure that God will make it better than we had dared to hope.

We can leave the future in His hands. This does not mean that we are to lie back and let events take their course. Into God's final decision on events will go all the things that you and I have either done or failed to do. Our conduct will condition the future, but it will not make the future. Neither will any circumstance make the future. God alone can do this.

SALT AND BODY WEIGHT

Are you old enough to recall reading in the history books of yesteryear the difficulties the early settlers of this country underwent in their search for salt? It seemed that many places were desirable in which to "settle" but lacked salt which often occasioned dangerous journeys to salt licks.

The book I recall reading held that a lack of salt caused scurvy. While this was a mistaken opinion, the conviction that a person needed salt in a more or less pure form in order to function efficiently was very widespread and appears to be this day.

Now that there is an unlimited supply and distribution of salt, the question arises as to the importance of salt in the general functioning of the body. The salt I speak of here, is, of course, the chemical known as sodium chloride which is the same in the body as in the salt cellar.

About 60 per cent of the total body weight consists of water. The retention or elimination of this water is controlled largely by the salt content of the blood and other body tissues. Briefly stated, an excess of salt "holds" water in the tisuses. A deficit of salt results in the elimination of excessive amounts of water.

A person using excessive amounts of salt in the diet has a tendency to accumulate un-needed water in the tissues. When an insufficient amount of salt is present in the body, water is rapidly eliminated through the usual channels.

This fact is utilized in the treatment of circulatory disorders such as those caused by disease of the heart, liver or kidneys. Edema (local swelling) of the feet, ankles and legs, and dropsy (accumulation of water within the abdomen) may often completely disappear following a radical reduction of salt intake. As the salt "level" of the body declines, the kidneys pour out sufficient water to adjust the remaining water to the volume of salt retained in the body.

The water first eliminated in this manner is the water "lying around" the body in the form of edema or dropsy. When this has been eliminated, if the salt deficit is continued, the water contained in the circulatory channels of the various tissues of the body, goes next and may continue, if uncontrolled, to the point of dehydration.

The loss of water under these circumstances results in an appreciable reduction of body weight. What often is not understood is that weight reduction following steam baths and the like is a reduction in the amount of water contained in the body and not a loss of fat. Any environment or activity which results in the production of profuse sweating causes a reduction in weight due entirely to water loss and not to any reduction in the weight or volume of fat. The weight thus lost in immediately re-established by drinking more water.

Most of the salt entering the body is obtained from salt used in cooking or seasoning. If an over-weight, water-logged person is deprived of this source of salt and subsists for a while upon just what salt naturally occurs in the food he eats, the excess water immediately commences to leave the body and this process continues until an equilibrium is reached, at which point elimination of water drops back to the normal rate. In the treatment of circulatory disorders, this is called the "drying out" period.

The adjustment of salt intake in a dietary reduction program, is properly the province of a physician. I certainly do not advocate an abrupt withdrawal of salt from the diet of any amateur self-experimenter.

Abroad With Me

By Dorothy E. Futcher

En Route to Copenhagen, Denmark.

We are on our way to Copenhagen and are glad to be nearing our destination for it isn't easy to keep presentable and trim, living out of a suitcase all these days. The is the first time a Canadian delegation of farm women has visited these countries on a goodwill tour and without exception every member of our party is delighted with the spontaneous welcome accorded us and the genuine interest and pleasure taken in our visit.

We love Norway and Sweden—we admire the clean, strong racial characteristics of their people and their almost fierce national pride in the things their country has to offer. We know that our "Hello," a greeting, is to them a word to command attention, similar to our word "hi" and that "hi" to them is just an ordinary friendly greeting. We are intrigued by the cheese-knife common to these countries — marvelling at its simplicity and the expert way it slices a shaving of cheese for the famed smorkesbord. We learn it was invented by a Norwegian carpenter, who when using his plane one day decided to use this principle in a knife to cut cheese. He invented this simple little gadget and became a millionaire because of his idea.

Can you imagine this happening in the heart of one of our big cities of half a million? — a householder calmly using a buzz saw on the sidewalk, cutting up 3-foot wood into foot lengths, for his fireplace and every pedestrian taking to the road, without a word, to get by? I saw this in a side street near our hotel, in the centre of Stockholm about 7 o'clock this evening. This is the sort of thing that makes these old cities different and lovable. No one minded, no one seemed upset—traffic just flowed on around him.

I've avoided trying to describe the beauty and the atmosphere of the public buildings of the capital cities we've visited. I just couldn't do it adequately, for they have a dignity and an appeal that is impossible to put on paper. They have a grandeur with their high vaulted arches, marble floors and staircases, statutory balconies, galleries, carvings, paintings and color that you must see to appreciate. They are 800 and 900 years old, city and country have grown and developed around them, but they stand still, the centre of a nation's life and in the centre of a nation's culture and reverence.

I told you yesterday about the large farm we visited out of Stockholm. I saw a crop growing in one of the fields, but couldn't understand the explanation given. For my own satisfaction I persevered, and can now tell you about it. It was planted in rows as we plant field beans, and the plants were small, just nicely through the ground, about two inches high. I realized the crop was late and would never mature this year and would be carried through the winter. During the war the Danes had to eke out their feed supplies and started growing mustard which provides an acceptable oil cake residue after the pungent oil is expressed. This is sown in the fall and harvested the following year and is fed cattle as we feed oil cake. Farmers in Southern Sweden adopted the idea from the Danes, whose standard in agriculture for many years has been the envy of the rest of the Western world.

An example of our fun and good times with our Swedish friends before we leave them: When we were gathering for our luncheon at Scanson, the folk museum of Stockholm, I tried to talk to one of our Swedish housewives. We were getting along famously, although she spoke very broken English, and I felt she understood my conversation. I had asked if she came from a farm, noticed her wedding ring and pointed to it and asked if she had any family? She thoughtfully considered a minute and then to my amazement said, "Oh, yes, four hundred." I meant children, she meant acres. At our laughter and attempt to explain she finally understood and everyone joined in the hilarity.

After that, every time I caught her eye we both enjoyed our little joke anew proving that friendships are made and reserve broken down more by laughing together than by talking together.

We have a wonderful ride, the landscape is continuously pleasing—well kept, profitable farms alternating with forests with trees known to us all. Here and there the terrain is rocky and rough with lakes tucked away, but as we go farther south we lose this altogether — and the land is flat. We lost the red and white cattle and see our first herd of Holsteins in a setting so much like home that we could almost believe we were there.

We didn't reach Malmo until 6.30, which is the port in Sweden directly across from Copenhagen. Here we take a ferry across the Baltic, a trip of about two hours. The boat is crowded with young people going over to Copenhagen to spend the evening. They are jolly and friendly and enjoy trying out their sketchy English on us Canadians. They tell us they go over to Copenhagen weekends for dancing, and of course, they add, spirits aren't rationed over here.

I hope when foreigners come to Canada we will be as gracious and as understanding as we have found these people to be. If they see you standing on a street corner, looking puzzled as to the proper direction, they ask you if they can be of help — you just can't feel a stranger in a strange land.

Imagine our delight when we come up on the level of the huge station to see our International banner—you all know our badge, green and white with four points representing the four corners of the earth — high on a standard and a group of Danish women standing near it to welcome us and help us to our hotels — for we are scattered all over the city —it being impossible to receive accommodation together.

Soviet Novelist Gives Advice And Calls Names

Moscow, Sept. 25—(AP)—Mikhail Sholokhov famous Soviet novelist, gave President Truman some advice about neckties today.

Writing in Pravda, he said he had noted Truman prefers bow ties and wished to remind him that among the Nazis condemned at Nuernberg there also were many lovers of bright neckties. All of them, Sholokhov said, wound up with a noose around their neck.

Sholokhov, author of "And Quiet Flows The Don," called President Truman, among other things: "the personification of human baseness," "a despised hypocrit," "a bigot," and "a pharisee."

Traffic Mishaps Account for 14 of 20 Violent Deaths

(By The Canadian Press)

Traffic accidents took the lives of 14 of the 20 persons who died violently in eastern Canada over the weekend.

A Canadian Press survey counted 13 fatalities in Ontario, six in Quebec and one in New Brunswick. The first autumn weekend of the year was free of violent deaths in Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland.

Th biggest toll taken by a single accident was the death of a father, mother and daughter in a level-crossing crash at Lachine, Que.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Briggs and their seven-year-old daughter, Margot Lynn, were killed when a Canadian National Railways train struck their automobile. Suzanne Aline Briggs, 4, escaped with severe head injuries.

Miss Sione Gagne, 20, was fatally injured when a car in which she was a passenger collided with a truck near Napierville, Que., 25 miles southeast of Montreal.

At Bathurst, N.B., Jack Branch, 29, was killed when his car plunged over an embankment, pinning him behind the wheel. A companion escaped injury.

Other Traffic Victims

Other traffic victims, all in Ontario were:

Morris Williams, 31, at Langstaff; Robert Hempel, 7, near Cornwall; Mrs. George Ellis, 31, near Antrim; Jack Adair, 19, at Strathroy; Mike Neville, 70, at Pigeon River; Douglas Maynard, 22, at Tweed; Michael Penchoff, 52, at Toronto; Morris Williams, 54, near Richmond Hill and George Maxted, 57, at Hamilton.

Two persons were believed to be drowning victims. Provincial police dragged Sydenham Lake, near Kingston, after finding the canoe in which Alexander David Creasor, 19, of Montreal had been paddling. The body of Mrs. Anne Snyder, 40, was found in the Ottawa River at Ottawa.

A fall from the top of an 11-storey building took the life of C. M. Sommer, 64, in Montreal. Fernand Michaud of St. Germain, Que., a soldier stationed at Valcartier camp, was found dead with a bullet fired from his own rifle into his head

Roger Lanthier, 28, fell under the wheels of a freight train on which he had been riding near the Quebec border east of Cochrane.

Four-month-old Pamela Davies, forced by a back injury to sleep on her stomach, was suffocated in her crib at Toronto.

CRUSHED UNDER FALLEN PONY

London. (CP) — Not many of the masses who work in Whitehall—London's government row—know that the building from which the street takes its name was burned to the ground 250 years ago.

The original White Hall, then spelled as two words, was built by Cardinal Wolsey in 1528 and later was used for trials, masques, distribution of Maundy money and for dramatic performances. In 1693, a Dutch laundry girl tried to dry some linen over a charcoal fire, and White Hall went up in flames.

Now there is no trace of what used to be one of Britain's most famous buildings. Few of the civil servants who stroll down modern Whitehall, a conventional thoroughfare linking Westminister and Trafalgar Square, realize that a turn into Horse Guard's Avenue would take them to the site of the old White Hall, often visited by Queen Elizabeth and criticized by diarist Samuel Pepys for its poor acoustics.

A Member's Miseries

Members of parliament apparently have the same worries from generation to generation. The Times went back to an 1850 issue for this complaint on the miseries of an M.P.:

"Sir—I happen to be a member representing a district containing about 5,000 electors. Hardly a day passes without the postman leaving at my door letters from these electors asking me to get them places under government.

"If I tell them I must not compromise my own independence by asking favors, they say 'What is the use of a member if he does not get us places?' If I send a civil reply in the negative from that unfortunate being, the patronage secretary to the treasury, they protest I have not done my best.

"Will you, sir, by publishing this letter, show the folly of the cry of independence under such actions?"

THREE PREACHERS ARRESTED

Val D'or, Que. Sept. 25—(CP)—Three Baptist lay preachers were arrested Saturday night as they tried to hold a street prayer meeting. They were charged with violation of a municipal by-law prohibiting street meetings without a permit.

One of the arrested men was Robert Parish of Pembroke, Ont., a 25-year-old University of Toronto engineering student. The names of the others were not known.

They were released on $50 bail and are expected to appear in police court today. A total of 23 Baptist preachers have been arrested in this northwestern Quebec mining town in the last two months and 17 are in jail serving two-months sentences.

Suspend Governor At Sorel Jail, Sequel to Escape

Quebec, Sept. 25 (CP) —Suspension of the Sorel, Que., jail governor was revealed today by a high provincial government official following reports that prisoners were able to escape at night and return in the morning.

The official said Lucien Badeau, 48-year-old governor at the Richelieu County jail, had been suspended and that the results of a full investigation into reports of "night sorties" by prisoners now was in the hands of Hon. Antoine Rivad, Quebec solicitor-general.

The official said provincial police in Montreal were ordered to take over administration of the Sorel jail.

An inquiry was launched after reports of a "jailbreak" by three men, one of them awaiting trial on a charge of murder.

The trio escaped twice, it was reported, and two of them returned each time, but Fernand Dube, 22-year-old Cap de la Madeleine laborer, decided not to go back on the second trip away from the jail. He is still being sought.

Crown prosecutor Paul Emile Alley of Sorel said Donald Watson, 24-year-old Indian who is charged with murder of his grandfather confessed to police that he, Dube and Gaston Robidoux, Sorel machinist serving five years for robbery, "walked out of jail through an unlocked door," and took part in two burglaries before returning.

Mr. Ally said it was his belief that the jail governor was "too soft" with the prisoners, whom he handled "with kid gloves."

It was understood a final decision on the matter by the Quebec solicitor general may take a week or so.

MARMORA

Fire Destroys Barn on Property Of William Burke

Marmora.—The barn on property of William Burke, to the rear of his residence on Forsythe St., was totally destroyed shortly after three o'clock on Saturday afternoon by fire of undetermined origin. The structure about 20 by 40 feet house six pigs, which were rescued.

Its contens of hay and a few bags of grain were destroyed as well as a stack of hay just outside the building. Mr. Burke was having wood sawn in his backyard at the time of the outbreak.

He immediately phoned the fire brigade on noticing smoke escaping from the building and although the fire engine was speedily on the spot, the fire had made such rapid progress on the inflammable contents that it was impossible for more to be done than the resuce of the pigs. It is understood there is some insurance on the building.

"When the Ump called '3 STRIKES' he could have meant me

"I remember how I'd looked forward to that game . . . how I'd prayed for just one afternoon's relief from miserable, sluggish, half-sick feelings. But even before I started for the park, I felt 'all in'. When the Ump called the first 'Out', he could have been looking right at me.

"But on the way home I saw Kruschen Salts displayed in a drug store window. Next morning I took my first small dose of Kruschen. Right from the first, it quickly brought me the relief I needed. Now I'm regular with Kruschen . . . enjoying my meals again . . . and every day, I'm 'right in there pitching'!"

If bad digestion, "irregularity" and that worn-out, listless feeling have '3 strikes' on you—try a little Kruschen Salts with your morning fruit juice, tea or coffee. Helps you get and keep "regular" . . . helps knock out sluggish, "liverish" feelings . . . gives you pep that wins! Ask your druggist.

New Studies on Sex Knowledge Undertaken by Duke University

Durham, N.C., Sept. 25 (AP)— A new marriage-counselling aid which may supplement the famous Kinsey studies of American sex behavior has been developed here.

Called the "sex knowledge inventory," it aims at determining what people know about sex— not what they do about it.

Developed by Dr. Gelolo McHugh, assitant professor of psychology at Duke University and chairman of the Parenthood Division of the Marriage and Family Council at Chapel Hill, it isn't available to the general public except through recognized marriage counsellors. It is intended to aid the marriage counsellor in determining the sex knowledge and attitude of people who come to him for help.

The inventory iself is a multiple-choice test containing 80 questions. With the test goes a marriage counsellor's manual designed to help him interpret answers and to guide him in therapy.

Areas covered include superstitions, misconceptions, possible causes of poor sexual adjustment, birth control, menstruation, sex act techniques, conception, pregnancy and childbirth.

For the general public the most interesting thing about the inventory will be the ultimate publication of mass results. That may tell what Americans know about sex—or, more probably, what they don't know about it.

The manuals and tests are being distributed to marriage counsellors throughout the country, and are in use at some 120 colleges and universities.

Dr. McHugh says preliminary findings "indicate a long road yet to be travelled in sex education, even among selected groups of people." An authoritative report may be made in about a year.

MADOC

Mrs. S.R. Beatty Gives Interesting Travelogue at W.I.

Madoc—Madoc W. I. held their September meeting at the home of Mrs. James Kincaid. Twenty-four members answered the roll call— some gave suggestions for the fair booth, others related some interesting visits made during the summer months. Mrs. Nicol mentioned the Kiwanis convention recently held in Toronto. Mrs. G. Hill reported on the plans for the W. I. bus trip to Watertown on September 19th. The bus trip sponsored by the Madoc W.I. was a very pleasant outing. The members visited the museum, the Memorial library, and other places of interest there, returning to Madoc late evening of the same day. 32 ladies enjoyed the outing.

It was decided to send $10 to the campaign for the Blind. The Area Convention dates were announced for November 8th. and 9th.

Mrs. Nichol gave a report of the Agricultural Convention held in Toronto in February. Mention was made of the meeting of the A.C.W.W. being held now in Amsterdam.

Interesting Travelogue

Mrs. S. R. Beatty gave an interesting travelogue of her recent holiday in Nova Scotia, emphasizing a visit to Cape Breton and especially the scenic splendor of the "Cabot Trail." With the aid of pictures Mrs. Beatty portrayed the ever-changing panorama of mountains and sea and valleys, and gave her listeners transcripts of the old world in the new.

Back in Nova Scotia proper, she took the members on an imaginary journey through the beautiful Annapolis Valley, with special mention of Cape Blomidon, Grand Pre, the Habitation, climaxing her outing with a pleasant deep-sea fishing experience at Tiverton, on Digby Neck, and thence back to St. John, N.B., by way of the Digby ferry.

Appreciation was extended to Mrs. Beatty and to the hostess of the afternoon by Mrs. K. Caskey. Refreshments and a social time followed.

Opposition Melts When Trouble Invades Home

Ed. Note. The story appearing below does not relate a local incident. Any duplication of names is merely coincidence.

"Paying somebody to just take 'phone calls? Seems like a mighty soft job. Specially, when you don't know whether anyone is likely to call. The Board must see that money isn't spent foolishly, but wisely." And Mr. McDuff pursed his lips tightly, and added: "Personally, I don't see the importance of it. But I'll bring it up at the meeting. Good-day, Miss O'Neil."

"But, surely. . .," but before Vicki could say more, the man briskly doffed his hat, bowed stiffy and continued his way down the street. Quite vexed at her encounter with the rather gruff gentleman, known by most of the townspeople as Duffy, Vicki realized he meant well. She shook her blond curly head slowly, as she walked on, a slim, tall figure, neat looking in the trim uniform of the V.O.N. swinging the well-known V.O.N. black bag. "I've been in Dalebrook just a month now," she reminded herself, "and this has been the first real problem. Surely I can make the Board understand how important it is to have a reliable centre for 'phone calls and messages. Mr. Hill, the kind old druggist has offered to do so, until better arrangements are made. But he is busy with customers and he doesn't hear any too well. There must be a change. And at once."

Inquired for Calls

Stopping at the drug store, Vicki inquired if any calls had come in.

"Yes," Mr. Hill told her and picked up a slip of paper on which he had written something, which he seemed to have difficulty in reading, and handed it over to Vicki. "I couldn't make out the name. They talked so fast. Said something about 'come and see about a burn'. Then hung up before I thought to ask the number, like you said."

"Did they say whether it had just happened or was an old burn that needed dressing?" Vicki inquired further. But Mr. Hill said he was so busy at the time he never thought to ask. So all she could do was to thank him. But she was concerned.

"It's matters like these, that mean so much in V.O.N. services," Vicki confessed to Mrs. Knowles, her landlady. "By not being able to answer calls promptly, the public naturally loses confidence, and the Board meeting is tonight. However can I convince them, that it is not a waste of money spent to pay for a 'phone sitter?"

Just then the 'phone rang. "It's for you Vicki", Mrs. Knowles called. When Vicki returned, her eyes were full of smiling mirth.

Things Work Out

"Perhaps things are working out and I won't have too much trouble now convincing the Board."

"But what's happened?"

"It was Mr. McDuff. His grandson needed a dressing changed on his arm which he had burned, and as they had been advised by the doctor to get in touch with the V.O.N. and had left a message with Mr. Hill, why hadn't I come, and with all possible speed!"

"Did you explain what had happened to the message?"

"Did I ever, and something tells me, I've a strong supporter behind me when we meet tonight."

THERAPY FOR ESKIMOS

Churchill, Man. (CP)—J. Houston of Grand'mere, Que., a member of the Canadian Handicrafts Guild, left here for Chesterfield, N.W.T., 375 miles north of this Hudson Bay port. He will teach handicrafts to Eskimos recovering from an outbreak of poliomyelitis.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking ?

Pizza (pronounced peetsah) is the Italian name for the open cheese pies that have become popular all over the country. The base of the pie is a yeast dough rolled out to fit a round or rectangular shallow baking pan. On the dough are tomatoes, spices and cheese. Sometimes anchovies or sausages are added.

Like melted cheese sandwiches, pizzas are not a complete meal in themselves, even though they are sometimes served in big 12 or 15 inch dishes. People like the tang of crushed dried red peppers and the aroma of oregano (wild marjoram) sprinkled on pizzas.

In America there are many time-saving versions of pizza. Instead of the yeast dough, split, toasted English muffins are sometimes used. Biscuit mix and hot yeast roll mix are also time savers.

The authentic dough however, is not difficult to make.

Pizza With Anchovies

Crumble 1 cake yeast in 1-4 cup lukewarm water. Set aside. Bring 1 cup water to a boil. Remove from flame. Add 2 tablespoons shortening and 1 teaspoon salt. Cool to lukewarm. Sift 4 cups all-purpose flour. Gradually add half the flour to the water-shortening mixture, beating until smooth.

Add the softened yeast. Beat well. Gradually add the rest of the flour using only as much as is necessary to make a stiff dough that does not stick to the fingers. Knead 5 minutes.

Place dough in a greased bowl. Cover and set over a container of warm water until dough doubles in bulk. Punch down. Roll dough and fit into 2 or 3 round or rectangular shallow pans. Cover pans and place over containers of warm water (or on a warm shelf 85 degrees) until dough has doubled in bulk.

In a saucepan put 1-4 cup cooking oil or olive oil, 1-2 cup finely chopped onion and 1 teaspoon chopped garlic. Simmer 5 minutes. Add 2 eight-ounce cans of tomato sauce, 1-2 teaspoon chopped oregano and 1 teaspoon chopped basil. Simmer 10 minutes.

Press each pizza in 6 or 8 places with the back of a spoon spoon to make indentations. Sprinkle tomato mixture over dough. Sprinkle 12 chopped anchovies and 1-2 teaspoon chopped dried red peppers over tomatoes. Sprinkle 1 cup grated Parmesan or Romano cheese over tomato mixture. Bake in a hot oven 400 degrees 20-25 minutes or until dough is brown around edges and cheese is browned.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Don't be a doormat

It's perfectly true that love finds its greatest fulfillment in doing thoughtful and unselfish things for the loved one. But does that mean that any women should turn herself into a doormat for a man, or that a man should become the abject slave of the woman he loves?

Unfortunately, many people, and particularly women, seem to believe exactly that. Or, if they've never thought about it enough to realize that they believe it, they instinctively act that way anyhow. Their idea, conscious or unconscious, is that the way to win and hold a man is to anticipate his slightest wish; cater to his every whim; jump when he whistles and, in general, wait on him hand and foot, day and night.

And they couldn't be more wrong.

For more often than not, the girl who uses that technique in hunting a husband, or the wife who practises it in trying to keep one, defeats her own purpose in the end. Sadder still, she rarely has the "hindsight" to perceive what brought about her defeat.

"I did everything in the world for him," she cries, "and he didn't appreciate it! He took it all, then left me flat!"

Like the baffled and heartbroken girl who pours out this story of her over-earnest effort to make a man feel he couldn't live without her:

"For nearly a year I went with a fellow and we planned to be married. Then, out of a clear sky and without a word, he just stopped coming around.

"I couldn't understand what could have happened to change hime, because I always tried so hard to please him.

"I was always home when I expected him to call; never kept him waiting when he came for me to go out on a date. Any time he was going to be at the house for dinner, I spent hours preparing the dishes I knew he liked best. If he wanted to go out, on our evenings together, I jumped for my hat. If he felt like staying home, we stayed home. I even did little personal chores for him, like manicuring his nails and shampooing his hair.

"And now, without any warning, he drops me!

"I've cried every night, I can't eat or sleep. Word got to him about how badly I felt, and he came to see me, held me in his arms and told me he loved me.

"After that everything was all right for awhile, and we went on as before. Then he told me he wasn't coming around any more, but still didn't give me any reason.

"How could he do a thing like that when I always did so much for him,—more than I've ever done for any other fellow?"

And far more, of course, than she should ever have done for this one. That, almost certainly, was just where she made her big mistake. By trying to forestall his every wish, by putting his pleasure and his comfort ahead of everything else, by pampering and petting him within an inch of his life, she was actually making a doormat of herself for him to walk over. And no man really likes a doormat.

Oh, he'll use it, of course! He'll use it just so long as it suits his convenience. Then he gets tired of having it around and kicks it out of the way.

When this happened to the Miss Doormat of the letter, what did she do?

What she should have done, of course, if she'd been smart about trying to lure him back, was never to let on that she was devastated. If she had gone daily about her business, no matter what it cost her; accepted dates with other men and made it her business to have good times, or at least to appear to be having them; it might have made her wandering boy stop and consider. "Was she more fun than I thought?" he might have wondered. "Perhaps I missed something. If other men find her such an entertaining companion, maybe it's my fauld she wasn't that way with me. Guess Id better go back and try again."

But she didn't do anything about creating such an impression. Oh, no! What she did was to work herself into a fine frenzy, crying and carrying on and making it perfectly plain to everybody within miles of her that she loved the role of doormat and couldn't be happy if it was taken from her.

When, as she says, word got to the young man about the way she was acting, as she of course intended, he came back all right. He came back partly, no doubt, because he felt a little conscience-stricken about his unceremonious departure, and partly because it flattered his vanity to have any feminine creature in such a state over him.

He came back but he didn't stay. When "things went od as before," they didn't sit any better with him than they did the first time. He could use a doormat, but he couldn't learn to love one.

Naturally, no sensible girl is going to go to the other extreme, either. She won't sit around and demand to be endlessly waited on and pampered and indulged. A man gets tired of that, too. But she'll let him also be a giver in his turn, each one sharing in the joy of selfless service to the one beloved.

For the successful romance is successful, and the happy marriage is happy, when the feminine half of the team learns to steer a middle course, neither giving more than is wise, nor asking more than is her due.

BEAUTY

Lightweights must woo curves.

Fashions in clothes, faces and figures are ever undergoing changes, and that's just dandy for the members of the frail sex—stimulating the mind, the spirits and the circulation. Of late we have been hearing that curves are due for a popular revival. They will not be formed by cushions of fat; the effect will be that of curved slenderness, the result of sound musculature, youthfulness of figure.

You don't have to stand among the ancients-and-honorables to remember the boyish shape; it appeared along with the shingle. Women wore frocks that were cut on the lines of a pillow case. It was the era of frenzied reducing, when one was supposed to be as flat as an ironing board. Not long ago there was a hectic effort on the part of dress designers to accent hips. Now bust lines are exaggerated. So it goes.

No matter what the mode, the emaciated girl feels out of the picture. She hates her sharp elbows and her collar bones. Fatted calves are nothing to glory in, but skinny shanks are not either. The skinnies should take heart. If a medical check-up shows that health is normal, they can cultivate pleasing lines.

As a rule, they are highly energized, with the result that they are "self-exhausters". They seldom eat properly and they tear around so fast a fat cell can't light on them. The first step is to cut down on unnecessary activities and to get plenty of sleep. It is during sleep that nature makes repairs, recharges the energy motors, lets the nervous system relax. Eight hours of sleep are required by the average individual. Nine should be had during the teen-age period.

When a physician makes a check-up of the lightweight, the first question has to do with her eating habits. Usually they are anything but correct. She has a yen for sour foods, a dislike for sweet ones, is often a finicky eater, which means that certain necessary food elements are lacking in her diet. That is why weight and proportions are not normal.

The doctor will insist that she add more fats, sweets and starches to the daily intake. These foods not only build adipose tissue, but they create vitality when taken in proper amounts and combined with meat, eggs, vegetables and fruits. If she will drink a quart of rich milk a day it will help build pleasing lines, a fuller chest, more robust arms and legs.

She needs exercise in the open air, but not violent exercise like tennis. A brisk walk every day will create appetite, make her sleep and increase the activities of the blood streams.

Keep Your Hair Looking Neat

The ideal coiffure is one which looks neat, stylish but not too "set," says Screen Star Joan Fotaine. This year the new Fall styles will be a shade longer than last year.

By HELEN FOLLETT

WHEN a certain young man was asked "What do you notice especially about a girl when you first meet her?" he answered without hesitation: "Her hair. If it is arranged neatly I get the impression that she has an orderly mind. Does that sound silly? I cant' help it if it is. A scrambled head, looking as if it needs to be dunked in soap suds, leaves me cold. When that kind of a girl marries there will be dirty dishes in the sink, buttons off the old man's shirts!"

During the past season feminine domes have put up a good appearance, mainly because the short cut calls for little attention with brush and comb and because ringlets have almost disappeared. A few wide undulations give a natural effect.

No matter what the style, hair should be flattering along the forward line and neck. Any rag-tags or bob tails, caused by ringlets that have gone limp, will make the loveliest of them look blowsy. Always there should be a little soft fluff back of the ears; that area has no pulchritude appeal; it should be curtained. Filled in, it softens the lines of the face.

Sometimes a woman wonders how much concession one should make to current styles in hairdos, how much becomingness one should sacrifice for chic. Hair stylists have so many offerings in the way of smart arrangements, there should be no difficulty. It is possible to find becomingness and chic both.

Elaborate Effect

Simplicity is more satisfactory than more elaborate effects, such as we had when the upsweep raged and the head was covered with rolls.

The populartiy of the bang has gladdened the hearts of women. A soft fringe on the forehead imparts the little girl look. It is particularly charming on the young lady of slender figure, does not lend itself so well to the older sisters.

Soon now we'll be hearing talk about longer tresses. It comes every year when the leaves fall.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Should she go to wedding and reception?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am 45, divorced and going steady with a very attractive widower ten years older than I. He has four children, three married, and now his youngest son is to be married soon. The wedding is to be a large, formal church wedding, and immediately following I understand there is to be a breakfast for only the members of the immediate families. I do not think I will be invited to this breakfast, and I am feeling terribly slighted. My problem now is: Should I go to the wedding or the reception in the evening if I am invited?

E. S.

In this so-special and so-personal circumstance I advise you to consult with your friend, father of the groom, about what would be best taste for you. Certainly you have no right to "feel terribly slighted" by not being invited to the wedding breakfast, since only the members of the two families are invited, and you are not yet a "member of the family."

A plan too fancy, out-dated

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please tell me if my formal day-time attire. wedding arrangement is suitable. The wedding party to consist of: best man, six ushers, matron of honor, four bridesmaids, ring bearer, two shepherdesses (each seven years old), and a flower girl.

C. T.

Please, please, don't have any plan so fancy and out-dated as shepherdesses! If you have already told these two seven-year-old girls that you want them in your bridal party, don't disappoint them, but plan to have them as flower girls, even if this would mean having three flower girls.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Wedding questions

1. I am to have a formal wedding. My mother and the groom's mother are both to wear floor-length gowns. Should the groom's father wear a business suit or formal morning attire?

2. We are to have: best man, three ushers maid of honor, one bridesmaid, two junior bridesmaids, and a flower girl. Please give order of the processional.

M. T. P.

1. The groom's mother is the woman guest of honor at your wedding, and so she is correct to wear the same type of dress as your mother, the hostess of the wedding, is to wear. The groom's father is the man guest of honor at your wedding, and so it is correct for him to wear the same type of attire as your father and the other men of the wedding party are to wear. Formal day-time attire, if they are to wear

2. First, two ushers, walking together; followed by one usher, the tallest. Next, the two junior bridesmaids, dressed alike and walking together; followed by the one bridesmaid. Next, the maid of honor, alone. Next, the flower girl, alone. Last, you and your father.

Doctor's name on formal cards

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I would like to have some formal cards engraved for my husband, who quite recently received his "M.D." degree. Which is the better form. . . "George Paul Brown, M.D." or "Dr. George Paul Brown"?

Wife

"Dr. George Paul Brown" is the better form for these cards.

Textile Union, Claimed Red-Led, Wins Certification

Montreal, Sept. 25 — (CP) — Rival textile unions last night fired broadsides at each other charging "collusion" with management after the United Textile Workers (A. F. L. - T. L. C.) had won a vote of confidence from 2,700 employees of the Dominion Textile Company here.

But with the U. T. W. and its bitter opponent in the certification election, the Textile Workers Union of America (C. I. O.- C. C. L.), agreed that approximately 1,500 workers voted for the U. T. W. and 1,000 for the T. W. U. A.

The C. I. O. union has charged that its A. F. L. rival is communist-dominated in Canada

"Another example of industry and communism in collusion," said Sam Baron, Canadian director of the T. W. U. A., last night in a press statement commenting on the vote.

"The company was fighting alongside the C. I. O. against us," replied R. Kent Rowley, Mr. Baron's opposite number in the U. T. W.

"Nonsense," said a Dominion Textile spokesman to the collusion charge. "It is an old union battle cry."

The struggle for the right to represent Dominion Textile Company employees exploded several months ago when Azelus Beaucage, business agent of the U. T. W.'s Local 102, quit the union and took a large number of members over to the C.I.O. organization. . .

Mr. Beaucage alleged that Mr Rowley and several other U.T.W leaders were members of the Labor - Progressive (communist) party and that he himself had been forced to join the L. P. P. because of communist influence in the union.

Mr. Rowley denied the charges.

Fishing Trip Yields 43,000 Sweep Tickets

Buffalo, N.Y., Sept. 25—(AP) —The Federal Bureau of Investigation has reported a successful fishing expedition. The catch was about 43,000 sweepstakes tickets in an alleged $2,000,000 international lottery ring.

Harry G. Maynor, agent in charge of the Buffalo F.B.I. office, said:

"A couple of fellows fishing down near the Peace Bridge (over the Niagara River between Buffalo and Fort Erie, Ont.) noticed an army duffle bag floating in the water last night.

"They opened it out of curiosity and pulled out a handful of these tickets."

The fishermen notified an immigration inspector, who summoned the F.B.I.

Maynor said F.B.I. agents recovered the bag and subsequent investigation disclosed the tickets were part of a shipment consigned to Sam Salone, 42, who was arrested in Rochester, Sept. 13. Their face value for $53,750.

Salone is awaiting a hearing Nov. 8 on a charge of conspiring to violate a federal statute prohibiting interstate transportation of lottery tickets.

He and Serafino Camilo, 54, also of Rochester, were accused by the F.B.I. of having contracted an exclusive agents for Canadian sales of the tickets.

A dozen men were arrested throughout the United States in connection with the alleged lottery ring after the R.C.M.P. reported picking up a taxi driver carrying some of the tickets across the Canadian-American border.

Moscow Propaganda Line Belittles Inchon Landing

Washington, Sept. 25. (AP)—Moscow has opened a new propaganda attack apparently aimed at belittling the significance of the Inchon landing by United Nations forces in Korea.

The Russians are taking the line that:

1. The drive on Seoul was necessary to "save face" after failure to break out of the South Korea bridgehead, and—

2. The operation proves the "weakness" rather than the strength of United States "Imperialism".

American officials reported this line is being broadcast by Moscow radio to listeners both in the Soviet Union and Europe.

Government monitors scanned recordings of the broadcasts for possible clues to Soviet-bloc intentions as the U.N. forces approach the 38th Parallel, dividing line between North and South Korea. Thus far Moscow and the satellite capitals have been silent on that touchy point.

A commentator identified as Col. Tolchenov advanced the "weakness" claim in a review of Korean developments broadcast to Russians Thursday night. Predicting that the North Koreans will rally and defend Seoul fiercely, Tolchenov said:

"The landing of the troops of the interventionists in the area of Inchon does not testify to the strength, but to the weakness of U.S. imperialism, which has become entangled in its bloodshed adventures. The use of the new large contingents of troops for military operations shows that in their attempts to enslave the freedom-loving Korean people, the U.S. interventionists find themselves in a final impasse."

The face-saving explanation was given by another military commentator, Col. Krainov, in an Italian broadcast.

"After the U.S. troops' heavy defeats in Korea, the U.S. supreme command has decided to save its face by any possible means, Krainov said. "Operating with forces which are about 20 times larger than the people's army troops in the area, the invaders have begun to advance toward Seoul."

Town Workmen Remove Parking Meter Posts

Campbellford, Sept. 25—Town workmen have begun removing the parking meter posts from the sidewalks of the town, and the noise of the air hammers reverberated the length and breadth of the town on Thursday.

There were about 120 standards to be removed, and this job is now just about completed. All that remains to be done is to fill the holes in the sidewalk, and the episode of the parking meters, which raised much controversy and arguments during the past year, will be a closed chapter in the history of Campbellford.

The meters have not been operating since the 4th of August, at which time the one year trial period was up, and the heads of the meters were removed from the posts shortly afterwards.

The question of the meters, both pro and con, was probably one of the most talked about items in the town for some years. When they first appeared on the streets everyone voiced their own opinion as to how they would help or hinder the town. Some vowed they would not put any money into the devices, but one law abiding citizen drove up to the curb one day as the posts were being installed, parked his car, walked over to one of the hollow posts to which the heads had not yet been attached, and dropped a nickel down the hole. As the meters were not legally in operation and the town could not collect money for parking, workmen had to remove the post from the fresh cement, and retrieve the gent's coin. He even protested when the workmen offered it to him.

They made convenient hitching-posts for farmers who wished to tie a horse to the meter, and this was sometimes done. However, if the driven overstayed his meter time, the local police had trouble tucking a parking ticket under the windshield wiper in this case.

The police also never did quite figure out what to do in the case of two smaller English type cars occupying one parking space and paying only one coin for the two cars. Although they did not take up any more space than one of the larger automobiles, they were still two vehicles. Two drivers teamed up in a venture of this kind on Front Street last spring, but nothing happened.

Enter Warehouse, Boys Stage Battle With 11,000 Eggs

Nottingham, England, Sept. 25. (Reuters)—Egg-short Britons wept today when they read the exploits of three young boys in an egg warehouse—but the boys just laughed and said they enjoyed every minute of it.

What they had done, a juvenile court here was told, was break into the egg storage rooms and stage a battle, with eggs as ammunition. They worked their way through 11,000 eggs.

The two youngest boys, age 9 and 8, were fined £2 each. The oldest boy 11, who laughed throughout the court hearing, was ordered to a detention home for three weeks.
